THE TOURNAMENT POLICY BOARD

The Tournament Policy Board establishes goals and policies for the operation of the PGA TOUR. The 10-member Board is composed of the following:

Four Player Directors, elected by the PGA TOUR membership. A Player Director also serves as Vice President of the PGA of America.

Three Independent Directors, representing the public interest. One serves as Chairman of the Board.

Three PGA Directors, who are national officers of the PGA of America.

A Players Advisory Council consults with the Policy Board.

The Policy Board appoints the Commissioner as chief executive and administrative officer of the PGA TOUR. The Tournament Staff, serving under the Commissioner, conducts tournament play.

ABOUT THE COMMISSIONER

Deane R. Beman

Born: April 22, 1938

Family: Wife, Judy; five children

Entering his 14th year as Commissioner of the PGA TOUR, Deane R. Beman has overseen the most explosive period of growth in the TOUR's history, since succeeding Joseph C. Dey, Jr., on March 1, 1974.

During the Beman administration, the "business side" of the PGA TOUR has shown dramatic growth and now includes many heretofore uncharted paths, each designed to help encourage continued prosperity and to ensure the future of the game.

PGA TOUR Investments, Inc., created just five years ago, has already grown to include 14 "Stadium Golf" facilities nationally, and opened last December in Clearwater, FL, the first in a network of "Family Golf Centers." In addition to providing state-of-the-art tournament and teaching golf arenas, Tournament Players Clubs and Family Golf Centers have been instrumental in the growth of PGA TOUR assets, which have climbed from $730,000 to more than $50 million during the Beman era.

PGA TOUR Properties, the joint marketing venture of the TOUR and PGA of America, continues to make steady progress in its quest to open new opportunities in golf for commercial sponsors and the TOUR's members. The Nabisco Grand Prix of Golf on the Regular TOUR and the Vantage involvement with the Senior TOUR, an infusion of some $15 million combined, is the latest example of marketing's efforts.

PGA TOUR Productions, introduced in 1985, is the TOUR's first-ever in-house TV/audio-visual production entity, the creative possibilities of which are nearly limitless. Tournament highlight films, vignettes, commercials, specialty pieces and the acclaimed "Inside the PGA TOUR" weekly half-hour show airing on ESPN are several of Production's successful projects.

Other important innovations introduced during the Beman administration include a professional Agronomy department, the Epson Stats program, electronic scoreboards, "Official Golf Destinations" and the Diversified Products Fitness Training Center.

Competitively, the Beman era has witnessed the birth of the SENIOR PGA TCUR which started in 1980 with two events and has grown to 34 events this year. In all, almost 90 tournaments are on the combined slate with prize money having increased from $8.2 million in 1974 to close to $40 million this year.

The Player Retirement Plan, inaugurated in 1983, has already contributed $3.2 million toward the future benefit of active Plan participants, and larger contributions are expected in future years.

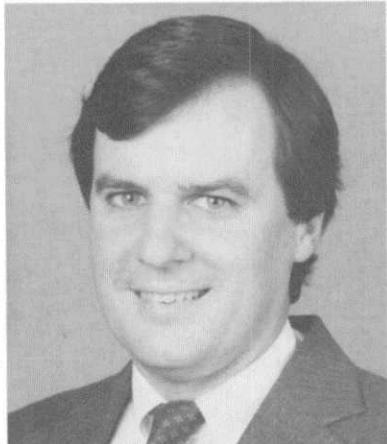

Charity, easily the TOUR's leading money winner during the Beman era, continues to benefit at a yearly record pace. Contributions by American Golf Sponsors to charitable organizations rose to another unprecedented total of $16.1 million and will again be substantially supplemented by $2 million in the Nabisco Challenge Program.

During his active years as a player, Beman established an enviable slate of accomplishments, compiling one of the great amateur records of all time. He won United States Amateur titles in 1960 and 1963 and the British Amateur championship in 1959. As an amateur, Beman was a member of four Walker Cup teams, four World Amateur Cup teams and three U.S. Americas Cup squads.

At the age of 29, in 1967, he left a prosperous insurance brokerage firm in Bethesda, MD, to join the PGA TOUR as a full-time player. During his six-year professional career, he won the 1969 Texas Open, 1970 Greater Milwaukee Open, 1972 Quad Cities Open and 1973 Shrine-Robinson Classic.

PGA TOUR ADMINISTRATORS

TIMOTHY G. SMITH

Deputy Commissioner and Chief Operating Officer

After completing assignments in the United States Justice Department and the White House, Tim Smith joined the PGA TOUR as General Counsel and Director of Business Affairs in 1981.

Tim, a 1975 graduate of the University of Virginia's law school, was appointed to the new position of Deputy Commissioner and Chief Operating Officer of PGA TOUR, Inc., a position from which he will assist TOUR Commissioner Deane Beman in overall management of the TOUR, including its various new business projects and subsidiaries.

TOURNAMENT ADMINISTRATORS

DAVID EGER

Tournament Director,
Administration

David Eger, a member of the PGA TOUR staff since January of 1982, holds the title of Tournament Director in charge of Administration.

A 1974 graduate of East Tennessee State University, Eger played on the TOUR from 1978 to 1981 before joining the administrative staff.

MIKE SHEA

Tournament Director, Operations

Mike Shea, a veteran of the PGA TOUR, moves into the position of Tournament Director in charge of Operations with the start of the 1987 season.

A native of New Orleans, LA, Shea graduated from the University of Southwestern Louisiana in 1970 and played on the TOUR from 1975-1978. He joined the TOUR staff in 1979.

Mike and his wife, Gina, have two children and reside in Ponte Vedra Beach.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE PGA TOUR

The precise start of the PGA TOUR defies documentation. We know, for example, that professionals competed against each other from the earliest days of the game in this country. We know, too, that the first United States Open, held in 1895 at Newport, R.I., attracted a field of 10 professionals and one amateur. A second professional tournament, the Western Open, was first held in 1899. It has now observed its 80th anniversary and continues to thrive on the PGA TOUR with a youthful spirit.

However, it would be stretching history beyond reason to say the PGA TOUR started with the Western Open in 1899 because there was not a "tour" at that time. Tournaments continued to spring up across the country during the first decade of this century but they lacked continuity. American-born professionals were rapidly improving and, in 1911, John McDermott became the first home-bred to win the U.S. Open.

In 1913 a commercially-backed "tour" by Englishmen Harry Vardon and Ted Ray helped to popularize the game in this country as the pair attracted "record" crowds everywhere they played. That September a 20-year-old "local boy," Francis Ouimet, defeated both of the visitors in a playoff for the United States Open Championship at Brookline, Mass., and his victory became a golf benchmark. Suddenly, golf became Page One news and a game for everyone.

The forerunner of today's PGA TOUR is traced to the early Twenties when, in the winter, tournaments were held on the West Coast, Texas, and Florida. Golfers played their way into the East and up to Pinehurst in the spring. Those years have been recalled by Johnny Farrell, one of the most active players of that decade and the next, as well as the 1928 U.S. Open champion: "Those tournaments gave the boys some activity in the off-season because most were busy at their clubs in the summer. The summer was when the golf associations would hold regional and national title events."

Resorts, hotels, and Chambers of Commerce realized the publicity value that professional golf brought to their facilities and more tournaments sprang up. Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, and Bobby Jones became folk heroes and the Tour was taking shape.

By the Thirties the Tour was growing, and with the PGA of America providing leadership, it attracted throngs despite the financially depressed years at the beginning of the decade. One statistic from those days stands out now with economic poignancy: Paul Runyan was the leading money winner of 1934 with $6,767. Late in the decade the name of Sam Snead started to appear in headlines with regularity. Then, as the Forties started, Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson, and a host of others gained fame.

After World War II, the Tour became more structured than ever before and continued to grow in popularity until it exploded as the Fifties were turning into the Sixties. (Elsewhere in this TOUR Book, our records such as leading money winner, growth of our purses, etc., reflect this growth).

About this time television began playing a dual role. Telecasts of PGA TOUR events inspired millions to try the game, and, at the same time, the TV rights fees sent purses rolling upward. The bulk of rights fees, which are distributed by the PGA TOUR to all co-sponsors, have gone back into purses, accounting for the tripling of prize money in the last decade.

It was late in 1968 when the touring professionals picked up the reins of control of the Tour. Joseph C. Dey was the first Commissioner of what was then called the Tournament Players Division. He served from early 1969 through February 28, 1974, and was succeeded by Deane R. Beman, who took office on March 1, 1974.

During the Beman administration, the value of tournament purses has escalated at an unprecedented rate; PGA TOUR assets have grown from $730,000 in 1974 to more than $41 million today, and total revenues have increased from $3.9 million to more than $44 million in the same time span.

The competitive scope of the PGA TOUR is much broader than a decade ago, due to the introduction of the Senior PGA TOUR, the sports success story of the 1980's.

In October of 1980, the PGA TOUR moved to its present National Headquarters Building in Ponte Vedra, FL, and just three weeks later, the Tournament Players Club at Sawgrass (owned and operated by the TOUR) beckoned in the era of Stadium Golf.

The Tournament Players Club concept has since been expanded to 13 other cities, and recently the PGA TOUR opened its first Family Golf Center in Clearwater, FL. This new addition to the TOUR family is expected to grow at a rate similar to that of the Tournament Players Clubs.

VI. PAST CHAMPION MEMBERS—If not otherwise eligible and if needed to fill the field, Past Champion Members, in order of the total number of co-sponsored or approved events won, excluding Team events. If two or more players are tied, the player who is higher on the PGA TOUR Career Money List shall be eligible.

VII. SPECIAL TEMPORARY—If during the course of a PGA TOUR season, a non-member of the PGA TOUR wins an amount of official money (e.g., by playing in PGA TOUR events through sponsor exemptions, Open Qualifying, etc.) equal to the amount won in the preceding year by the 152nd finisher on the official money winning list will be eligible for the remainder of the year.

VIII. TEAM CHAMPIONSHIP WINNERS—If not otherwise eligible and if needed to fill the field, winners of cosponsored team championships, in order of the total number of team championship tournaments won. If two or more players are tied based on the number of such tournaments won, the player who is higher on the official PGA TOUR career money list shall be eligible.

IX. VETERAN MEMBERS—If not otherwise eligible and if needed to fill the field, Veteran Members (players who have made a minimum of 150 cuts during their career), in order of their standing on the PGA TOUR career money list.

PGA TOUR INTRODUCES THE NABISCO GRAND PRIX OF GOLF IN 1987

Year-long consistency will be at a premium on the 1987 PGA TOUR due largely to the impact of the new $5 million Nabisco Grand Prix of Golf. The program has been designed to reward players for quality and consistency of play and, in keeping with PGA TOUR tradition, provide contributions to charity throughout North America. Year-long races for individual and team honors will culminate with the Nabisco Championships of Golf—the TOUR's richest event ever, offering a $2 million purse and a $360,000 first prize, October 29-November 1 at Oak Hills Country Club in San Antonio, TX.

The new program is in response to the popular Nabisco Challenge and Vantage Cup competitions of 1986 which have been consolidated into a stronger, more cohesive program. Nabisco Brands, Inc., has assumed all RJR/Nabisco sponsorship activities on the PGA TOUR including the electronic scoreboard systems which have enhanced on-site spectator viewing since 1981.

The following components make up the Nabisco Grand Prix of Golf.

Individual Competition

The Nabisco Grand Prix of Golf Individual Competition, formerly the Vantage Cup, awards bonus points to all PGA TOUR pros who finish 25th or better in any participating TOUR event. The season-long competition offers a $1 million Bonus Pool and a $175,000 first prize for the player with the most Bonus Pool points at season's end. Significantly, all Bonus Pool payouts will count as official money—the first time in TOUR history players will be rewarded for season long consistency on the TOUR official money list. The top 30 pros will also earn the right to compete at the season-ending Nabisco Championships.

Team Charity Competition

The Nabisco Grand Prix of Golf Team Charity Competition, formerly the Nabisco Challenge, promises an exciting finish when it also culminates at the Nabisco Championships of Golf. On December 1, 1986, each PGA TOUR tournament sponsor selected a four-man "team"—the Hawaiian Open made Payne Stewart the Draft's first pick—to represent their event at the second annual PGA TOUR Player Draft. Any points earned by each member in the Individual Competition will be credited to his team, and at season's end, $2 million will again be donated to the charities represented by the participating tournaments. First prize is $500,000. As in 1986, the PGA TOUR joins Nabisco Brands in donating $1 million to this competition. The top eight teams earn the right to send one of its members to compete in the Team Charity Playoffs at the Nabisco Championships of Golf.

Nabisco Championships of Golf

The Nabisco Championships of Golf will not only culminate the Nabisco Grand Prix, but it will serve as an exciting, dramatic conclusion to the PGA TOUR campaign. The TOUR's largest purse ever will be at stake for the top 30 players from the Individual Competition. In addition, to the $2 million 72-hole stroke play competition, the top eight teams will send one of its members for a coinciding 54-hole event with $1.5 million of the $2 million Team Charity Competition bonus pool at stake. At the conclusion of the third round, the leading player amongst the top eight teams represented will win the $500,000 first prize for his team's charity. The Nabisco Championships double points status (see below) also makes it likely the $1 million Individual Competition winner will be decided at this year-end event. Consequently, nearly $4.5 million of the $5 million Nabisco Grand Prix of Golf prize monies will probably be decided at the Nabisco Championships. Moreover, the Arnold Palmer Award, symbolic of leading the final PGA TOUR official money list, will probably be contingent on the outcome of the Nabisco Championships.

Points Distribution

The winner of each PGA TOUR event will earn 200 points for a victory. In addition, 100 extra points will be awarded for the first victory, 200 for the second, 300 for the third, and so on. The point breakdown has been modified, however, to put more emphasis on quality of play and this year double points will be awarded in the events that carry a 10-year PGA TOUR exemption (TPC, Masters, U.S. Open, PGA Championship, NEC World Series of Golf), as well as the Nabisco Championships.

Double points would be awarded for the events which carry 10 year exemptions (TPC, U.S. Open, Masters, PGA and World Series of Golf). Double points would also be awarded at the year end Nabisco Championships. The bonus points for wins would NOT be doubled—only the base points.

NABISCO SCOREBOARDS

Despite the many advances made for the spectator at PGA TOUR events over the years, one area was always sadly lagging behind. While new concepts such as "Stadium Gol" made the event more enjoyable for the fan, up-to-the-minute information about action on the course was difficult to obtain. However, that was before the advent of the Nabisco Scoreboards.

The electronic Nabisco Scoreboard systems that travel the PGA TOUR are indeed a phenomenon. Not only do they bring status reports, current scores, biographical and statistical information, special reports and messages to players and fans spread out over many acres, but they also survive a gamut of weather conditions as well as the vagaries of travel as the two systems leapfrog around the nation.

Navistar, the number one name in trucks, has provided the PGA TOUR with two diesel engine tractors to power the Nabisco trailers around the country.

The trailers will need all the pulling power that the powerful Navistar tractors can provide as each of the self-contained units contain 20 scoreboards, one "big board" for the 18th green, two Digital PDP computers, scoring terminals for each green, a 1,000-pound capacity crane, 30,000 feet of cable and the rest of the lesser hardware necessary for the system to function.

The Nabisco Scoreboard system is all just a part of Nabisco's major contribution to the PGA TOUR, the Nabisco Grand Prix of Golf. The interest of Nabisco Brands, Inc., is helping the PGA TOUR towards its goal of making professional golf the world's greatest spectator sport.

MCI LONG DISTANCE COMPETITION MODIFIED FOR 1987

Introduced in 1986, the MCI Long Distance Competition is held at each tournament site on the day of the Pro-Am with each drive (both professional and amateur) measured on a given hole.

Prizes are awarded on a weekly basis to the top three finishers, again to both pros and amateurs, and year long prizes are awarded to the top overall competitors.

A popular addition to the TOUR last year, this year's competition has been changed to better reward the players who truly are the longest drivers of the ball.

In addition, the money structure has been changed as well with some $3,000 at stake each week this year (up a $1,000 from last year) and $110,000 at season's end.

Weekly winners will receive $1,500 this year with the runnerup earning $1,000 and the third place finisher $500. Amateur competitors will receive plaques commemorating their accomplishment.

During last year's competition, cumulative yardage was kept and the winner was obviously the man with the most yardage at the end of the season. This year, however a new format has been devised. Starting in 1987, the MCI Long Distance Competition will be based on a minimum effort of 250 yards. Any drive exceeding 250 yards will earn weekly yardage totals. For example, Player A drives the ball 270 yards and Player B hits the ball 245 yards. Player A would thus earn 20 yards while Player B would earn 0 yards.

These weekly figures will be accumulated throughout the season and the player with the most yards at the end of the year will be the winner of the $50,000 first place prize.

Each professional will be able to boost his yardage total by finishing among the top three competitors in the weekly competitions. Winners of the weekly competition will earn 15 bonus yards while the runnerup will collect 10 and the third place finisher will earn five.

Thus, a player who wins a competition with a drive of 300 yards would earn 50 weekly yards (50 yards over 250) and 15 bonus yards for winning that week's battle. He would then end up with 65 yards for the week.

Once again, the MCI Long Distance Competition will last the entire PGA TOUR schedule with the finale coming at the Chrysler Team Championship in December.

MERRILL LYNCH BRINGS THE SHOOTOUT TO THE TOUR

New to the TOUR scene in 1987 is the Merrill Lynch Shootout Series, a format that starts with 10 players and at the end of nine holes leaves only one remaining.

During the course of the season, Merrill Lynch will sponsor some 15 to 20 Shootouts at various TOUR events with $10,200 at stake at each event.

In addition, at the conclusion of the season, a grand finale will be held bringing together 10 leading players to compete in the televised finals of the Merrill Lynch Shootout Series.

This made for television event will have a purse of $250,000 with $90,000 going to the winner.

On Tuesdays at selected PGA TOUR events in 1987, the Merrill Lynch Shootout Series will bring together 10 players consisting of the defending tournament champion, the six leading money winners entered in that tournament, and three sponsor selections to play for a first place prize of $3,000.

What is a shootout? The format is easy and exciting to watch. Ten players begin and all 10 play the first hole. The highest score at the end of that hole drops out. Should ties exist, a sudden-death playoff will be held immediately requiring each of the players involved to execute a pitch shot, or a chip or a long putt. The player farthest away is eliminated. One player is eliminated per hole leaving only two players on the final hole. The winner of that hole then becomes the winner of the Shootout.

The field for the final Merrill Lynch Shootout (date and place to be announced) will consist of the top five money winners or the 1987 PGA TOUR Official Money List, the top three money winners from the Merrill Lynch Shootout Series and two sponsor exemptions.

Played late on Tuesdays after everyone has had a chance at practicing, the shootout concept has proven to be very popular with the players, fans and sponsors and the addition of the Merrill Lynch Shootout Series should prove to be a big winner with everyone in 1987.

WORLD MONEY LIST

The World Money List consists of all official money won in cosponsored events on each of the four participating golf circuits (U.S. PGA TOUR, PGA European Tour, Japan PGA, Australia/New Zealand PGA Tour).

The World Money List was initially formulated as a qualification vehicle for the 1985 World Championship of Golf, contested at Kapalua Golf Club, Maui, HI, in November. It soon became evident, however, that the World Money List also provided a standard by which world-class players could be compared, regardless of whether or not they competed regularly in head-to-head competition.

Since the initial World Money List was compiled, comments from players and golf officials alike have overwhelmingly indicated that they believe the World Money List will quickly become the world standard for judging professional golfers' performances on an international basis.

In 1987, the World Money List will be compiled from the Sept. 1, 1986 through Aug. 31, 1987 in order to best accommodate the various start and finish times of the four circuits involved.

DIVERSIFIED PRODUCTS FITNESS TRAINING CENTER

In 1984, the PGA TOUR Marketing Department, in conjunction with Diversified Products, Centinela Hospital Medical Center and Dr. Frank Jobe of the National Athletic Health Institute introduced a program to assist PGA TOUR players in the areas of injury prevention, physical conditioning and rehabilitation.

Diversified Products (DP) provides a mobile Fitness Center that includes: a training room housing a whirlpool and massage table; an exercise room housing state of the art exercise equipment and a players' lounge featuring a television, stereo, wet bar and a full line of vitamins and nutritional products.

In addition, DP provides each TOUR player with a personal physical conditioning program based on that individual's current level of physical conditioning and/or that individual's desires.

Over the past two seasons, the program has proved to be one of the most beneficial additions to the TOUR in many a year. The Fitness Center, which travels to TOUR events nearly every week of the season, has attracted the interest of all the TOUR players with some 80% using the facility on a regular basis.

The facility is staffed by TOUR employees Paul Callaway, Gene Lane and Greg Johnson who are well versed in the areas of physical therapy, athletic training and injuries. In addition, a licensed physician will be available at most TOUR events to diagnose and treat player injuries.

The mobile Fitness Training Center is housed in a 45' trailer (expandable to 24' wide when parked) and provides the player with the opportunity to maintain his peak level of performance through good health at absolutely no charge to the individual player.

As in the past, the Fitness Training Center will cross the country several times over powered by a Navistar truck. Navistar, "the Official Large Truck of the PGA TOUR," has once again provided the TOUR and the DP Fitness Center with a top of the line unit.

The success of this program on the regular TOUR has spawned an offspring on the Senior PGA TOUR with Diversified Products providing the exercise equipment for the Centinela Hospital provided fitness center that made its debut late in the 1986 season.

The DP Fitness Training Center has proven to be an invaluable addition to the PGA TOUR scene with increased health and fitness awareness becoming a popular topic on the circuit.

The Fitness Center has already made it possible for many players to compete when they would have been unable to otherwise and it has helped many others to avoid injury and thus lengthen their careers. In short, the program has been a major success on TOUR.

Dr. Jobe, a noted Orthopedic Surgeon, serves as the Medical Consultant for the facility and assists in the implementation and guidance of this important program.

CENTINELA HOSPITAL MEDICAL CENTER

In 1985, the PGA TOUR named the Centinela Hospital Medical Center as the "Official Hospital of the PGA TOUR." Working in conjunction with the PGA TOUR and Diversified Products, the Centinela Hospital team is headed by the internationally recognized orthopedist, Dr. Frank Jobe.

Dr. Jobe, an expert on sports medicine and team physician for several major league teams, makes periodic visits to TOUR events for personal consultations with the players regarding their physical problems and fitness programs.

Chosen as an "Official Hospital of the 1984 Olympic Games," Centinela Hospital has long enjoyed a reputation as a leader in the medical field. This reputation is so well recognized that both the White House and the State Department have chosen the facility as its treatment center whenever the President or other major dignitaries are in the Los Angeles area.

A major aspect of Centinela Hospital's reputation is its expertise in sports medicine. Centinela staff orthopedists are the team physicians for most of the Los Angeles professional teams, as well as many teams and individual athletes in all sports throughout the United States and Canada. In addition to sports medicine, Centinela Hospital is dedicated to injury prevention, performance testing, research and education.

Housing the National Athletic Health Institute at its Inglewood, California complex, Centinela Hospital stands at the forefront of treatment and research into athletic related health problems. When the PGA TOUR sought to protect the health and enhance the fitness of its players, the obvious choice was for TOUR officials to name Centinela as the "Official Hospital of the PGA TOUR."

Once again, this season will begin with Centinela Hospital providing health examinations and physical fitness testing for TOUR players, and then will develop fitness programs for each participant.

Centinela has expanded its role even further this year with the addition of the Centinela Hospital Player Training Center on the Senior TOUR. The outgrowth of a similar program that has enjoyed much success on the regular TOUR, Centinela is now providing its expertise to the Senior circuit as well.

In addition, Centinela will continue to assist in the further development of a computer program for the monitoring of the activities associated with the Diversified Products Fitness Training Center.

Finally, Centinela Hospital will continue to conduct research and develop data to use as a foundation for the continued good health of the participating PGA TOUR and Senior TOUR members.

A combination of two leaders in their prospective fields, Centinela Hospital and Diversified Products should again prove to be a winning one for PGA TOUR professionals with increased fitness, improved performances, and injury prevention the end result.

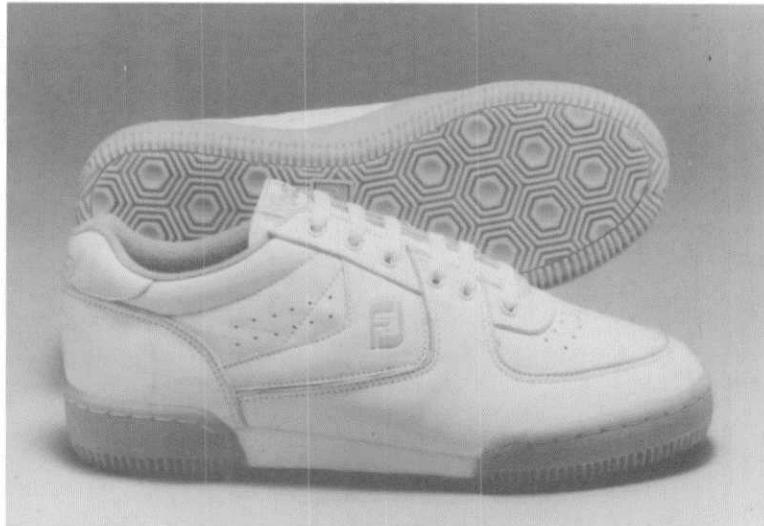

THE OFFICIAL FITNESS SHOE

Foot-Joy, the leading maker of golf shoes for both professional and amateur golfers, has had its Extra-Lights™ leather athletic shoe named the "Official Fitness Shoe of the PGA TOUR."

Foot-Joy, a familiar name to golfers for over 60 years, has emerged as a major player in the tennis, racquetball and aerobic fitness shoe market in recent years.

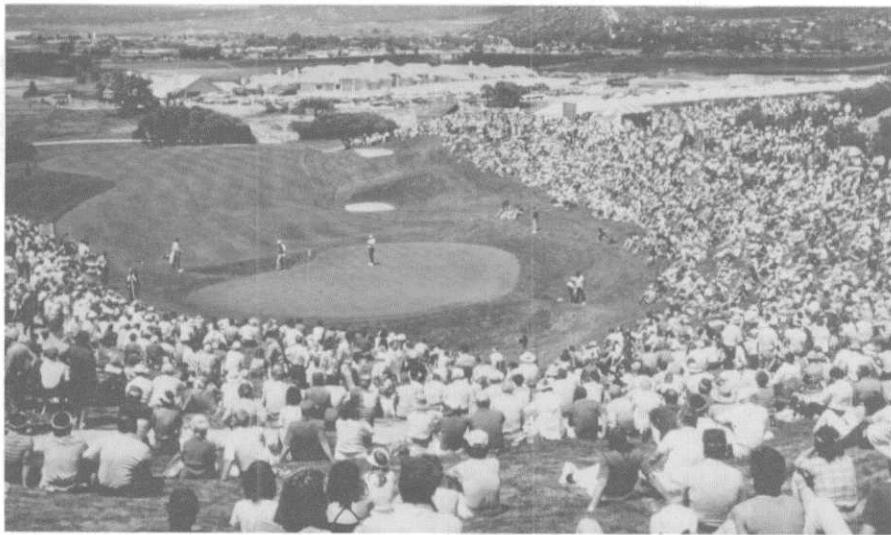

Bob Forbush, Executive Vice-President and General Manager of Foot-Joy, sees the professional golf/athletic shoe match-up as a logical one. "These are professional golfers. They don't play like the rest of us. It's very intense. On the PGA TOUR there's no question that strength, flexibility and fitness play a very major role in deciding who wins and who doesn't."

Extra-Lights, widely known for their outstanding fit, support and comfort as well as lightness, are featured as part of the Diversified Products Fitness Training Center on the PGA TOUR and the Centinela Player Training Center on the SENIOR TOUR. These mobile centers appear at tournaments on both TOURs throughout the country and are available for use by TOUR players, families and staff.

"STADIUM GOLF"...DESIGN CONCEPT OF THE FUTURE

Born in 1980 with the opening of the Tournament Players Club at Sawgrass, a bold new concept in golf course design has swept the country, as the PGA TOUR's Tournament Players Club network had grown to 14 members by late 1986, with several others in negotiation stages.

While all of the courses vary in design, and though a number of architects are being utilized, the one common thread which binds them and makes them unique from anything seen previously is the concept of "Stadium Golf," as conceived by PGA TOUR Commissioner Deane Beman and demonstrated by the design of Pete Dye, who created the TPC at Sawgrass.

The TPC at Sawgrass was designed to be the site of the annual Tournament Players Championship and as a home course for the members of the PGA TOUR. It was also intended, however, for the course to serve as a prototype for future "Stadium Golf" facilities the TOUR might develop.

The success of the original course, because of its revolutionary design and its Stadium effects, has spawned a flurry of demand across the nation for courses which embody the elements that made the TPC at Sawgrass unique.

The most prominent feature of the courses is the attention paid to making the sites a most enjoyable experience for the galleries. Large spectator mounds and amphitheaters abound, affording fans the best possible vantage points for viewing golf tournaments.

In fact, Tournament Players Clubs are developed only in places where such courses will substantially improve tournament sites. In short, they are built with the guidance and expertise of the PGA TOUR and financed by the local real estate developers, to provide fans with the best possible atmosphere in which to enjoy tournament golf, and to offer a challenging and rewarding golf experience for members. Only in cases where local tournament sponsoring organizations wholeheartedly endorse such deals are Tournament Players Clubs practical or prudent.

As we enter the 1987 season, a total of six TPC's have hosted PGA TOUR events while three others have been the site of a Senior TOUR tournament. In 1987, the TPC of Scottsdale will host the Phoenix Open and the TPC at Star Pass will be the host course for the Tucson event. Additionally, the TPC at Prestancia will be the site of the Chrysler Cup on the Senior TOUR.

Not only do the Players Clubs provide for the fans' comfort and enjoyment, the courses are also designed so as to be cost-efficient in terms of maintenance for member play.

Already under construction are two more Players Clubs, the TPC at Piper Glen in Charlotte, NC, and the TPC at Southwind located in Memphis, TN.

In keeping with the already established Players Clubs, both of these new courses are slated to host a PGA TOUR or Senior TOUR cosponsored event upon completion.

While there is ultimately no definitive number of Tournament Players Clubs planned, the PGA TOUR will always judge a potential site's merits with the concerns of the fans, the developer and the local tournament sponsors in mind.

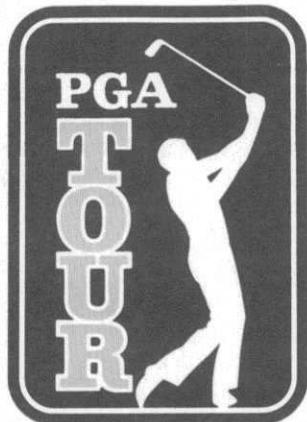

Suffice it to say, though, the concept of "Stadium Golf" and Tournament Players Clubs will have a significant impact on the golf world for years to come.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1975 Arizona State amateur.

John Adams really doesn't remember how old he was when he started to play golf. Smiling he says, "All I know is I was as young as I could be and still hold a club."

In those days, he does know he played crosshanded and putted the same. "When I was about three-years old, I finally gave up playing crosshanded, but all my life, I've putted crosshanded."

His father was a golf professional in the Midland, TX, area, but retired when John still was a youngster. His father continued to coach and assist him through the years but last October, he passed away.

John played in junior events around Texas, although he admits he never won anything. He headed for Brevard Junior College and then off to Arizona State University, while there he won the 1975 Arizona State amateur championship.

His success on the PGA TOUR was anything but immediate, but says "I finally found a course I could play, and now we're not playing it any longer."

He was referring to Pinehurst No. 2, in the fall of 1982, he tied with Jay Haas in the Hall of Fame Classic, but lost in the playoff when he bogeyed the second extra hole. However, his check for $27,000 was more than he had won in any single season. It boosted his season earnings to $54,014, and that's more than he had won through his first four years on TOUR combined.

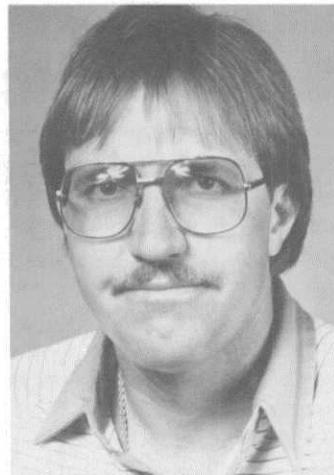

On the second extra hole, Haas made a routine par, but Adams missed the green. He chipped to within 10 feet and his par putt lipped out of the cup.

He continued to be successful through the next two seasons, earning more money each year. He was looking forward to a big 1985 but he was struck down with tendonitis in his left arm. "It was difficult to hold on to the club," he said.

He only earned $9,613 and had to go back to the Qualifying Tournament. He made it easily and went on to enjoy a more productive money year and climb back in with the leading 125 money winners. "Coming back from the injury," he said, "it was a good year."

It didn't appear as if he would make it but a ninth-place finish in the last event, the Tallahassee Open, boosted him over the hump.

"I know if I can develop more consistency," the big friendly fellow said, "the opportunities to win will be there."

BEST 1986 EPSON STAT: 49-driving accuracy (.671)

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1963 Trans-Mississippi Amateur, Northern California Open. All-time TOUR record, fewest putts one tournament, 94, 1980 Heritage Classic.

George Archer keeps telling people it's nice to be able to enjoy the scenery and play golf for a living. "I try not to let anything bother me. I'm delighted to be out here playing the game I enjoy."

You can imagine how "delighted" he was in 1984 when he was able to win again—at age 44—in the Bank of Boston Classic. It was his first victory in eight injury-riddled years. He trailed Joey Sindelar by one stroke at the start of the final round at the Pleasant Valley Country Club and then shot a six-under-par 65 to win by six strokes.

It was a splendid year, as he won $207,543. He said it was all due to the "strict exercise program" his wife devised for him. He has made the variety of exercises part of his daily routine.

When he tied for second place in the Southern Open last year, he was almost as pleased as if he had won. "I made enough money ($23,100) to be assured of finishing among the top 125 money winners and keeping my exempt status," he said. "I played well. The good finish makes my year."

George has been one of the TOUR's finest players for a number of years—when health permitted—but one has to wonder how great he could have been if he had been able to remain healthy. He grins and says, "I'd like to thank my wife publicly for putting up with me and my ailments for the 20-plus years I've been on TOUR."

Twice in the last nine years, George has had major surgery. In 1975, he underwent the knife to repair a torn tendon in his left wrist and his effectiveness in 1974, 1975 and part of 1976 was seriously affected.

He had an excellent 1977, winning $113,944, but he then encountered a back problem that required surgery in early 1979. He had two discs fused and it wasn't until July of that year that he was able to return to the front line.

Over his lengthy career, which started in 1964, George has been known for his putting stroke, so it seems appropriate that he owns the all-time TOUR record for fewest putts in a tournament. In the 1980 Sea Pines Heritage Classic, he only needed 94.

Archer began playing golf at age 12 around his native San Francisco and he compiled an exceptional amateur record before he turned pro 13 years later. In 1963 alone he won the Trans-Mississippi Amateur, the Northern California Open and the San Francisco City title, reached the semifinals of the U.S. Amateur and was low amateur for the third straight year in the Lucky International in his home town.

As a pro he has won 13 events, including three in 1968, but the year following was his most memorable when he captured the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am and his one major championship when he beat out Billy Casper, George Knudson and Tom Weiskopf in The Masters Tournament.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1980 Florida State match play championship; Gator Invitational and Metro Collegiate Conference. Medalist in Qualifying School in Fall of 1984.

Paul Azinger says his career in the game is "amazing, really."

When he tells you how he has advanced up the ladder, you tend to agree with him. His story is "amazing, really."

As a senior in high school, he couldn't break 40, he said, because "I didn't play much and didn't practice at all." He was busy working in his father's marina in Sarasota pumping gas along with scraping and painting boats.

When it was time to go to college, he decided he wanted to play more golf. His first stop was Brevard Junior College where Jim Suttie was his coach. "He introduced me to John Redman and John has taken me to the level I'm at now."

His "level now is up with the best in the game. He challenged on several occasions last season with his best stretch coming in February when he tied for third in the Shearson Lehman Brothers-Andy Williams Open—after leading late in the round—and the next week was second in the Hawaiian Open.

"I never realized it would be this good," he said, still somewhat amazed. "It just kinda happened. I got off to a great start on the West Coast and it took the pressure off for the whole year."

As Paul points out, back in 1979, "my average score was about 77. The next year, working with John, it was down to around 72. Two years later, in the Fall of 1981, I earned my TOUR card in the Qualifying School."

He only won $10,655 in 1982 and lost his playing privileges. Nevertheless, Paul thought he had a great year. "I idolized everyone out here so much and I went from hardly being able to play at all to suddenly being on the TOUR in about three years."

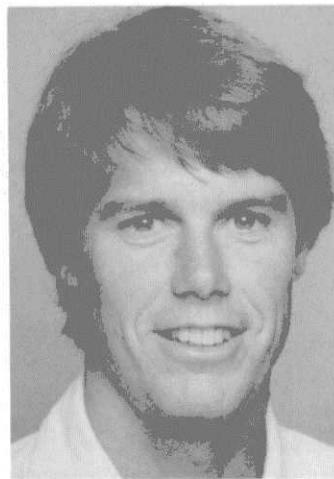

He went back to the Q-School in the Fall of 1982 and didn't make it. So, he played the mini-tours in 1983. It was what he needed for his confidence because he played very well. In the Fall of 1983, he did make it through the School.

He finished 144th on the 1984 money list and went back to the School in the Fall, hoping to improve his position. He did, indeed. He was the medalist.

He made the most of his opportunity in 1985 with his best week coming in the Spring when he tied for fifth place in the Hertz Bay Hill Classic. A second-round 65 gave him a one-stroke lead. He faltered to a 74 the third day but rebounded with a 70 on Sunday.

After his second round at Bay Hill, he admitted to the media, "playing the last couple of holes, I knew I'd have to come in here (News center) and I was scared to death. I thought about what I'd have to say and what you'd ask me."

Paul first played the game as a five-year old because "my parents played and they took me along. They're still good players around Florida." He played on his junior high school team and was progressing well when he entered high school, but by the time he was a senior, he had lost some of his interest. He needed a year-or-two away from golf to re-kindle the flames.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner of ten events on Canadian Tour. Winner of 1977, 1985 and 1986 Canadian Order of Merit. Member 1977, 1978, 1982, 1983 and 1985 Canadian World Cup teams. Winner 1983 World Cup individual title and 1985 World Cup team title with Dan Halldorson. Winner 1977 Washington State Open. Winner 1985 Canadian PGA.

It took a few years but Dave Barr has developed into a solid PGA TOUR player. It wasn't easy for the big fellow from Canada, but he learned to manage his game and he was rewarded with $100,000-plus years in 1984, 1985 and 1986.

Dave did win the Quad Cities Open in 1981 but he received considerable national attention in the 1985 United States Open championship when he battled Andy North all the way to the wire before finishing in a tie for second place with Denis Watson and Tze-Chung Chen.

A torn rib muscle slowed him down early in 1985, but once he was healthy again, he made money in 15 straight tournaments. "When I was hurt," he said, "I never lost confidence because I had such a good year in 1984. I knew I could play well when I was healthy again. And, I did."

Dave has always been successful in his native Canada, too. He has won 10 events on the Canadian Tour including the 1985 Canadian PGA and last year he won the Quebec Open for the second straight year. He also won the Canadian PGA Tour Order of Merit for a third time, 1977, 1985 and 1986.

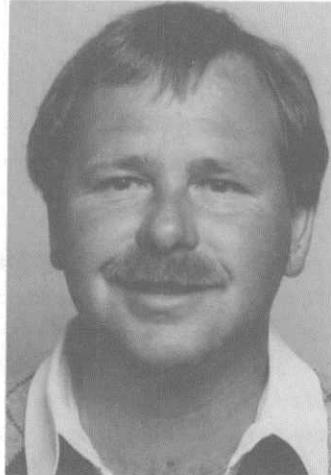

He has played on five Canadian World Cup teams and in 1983 he won the individual title and in 1985 he joined with Dan Halldorson to give Canada the team championship.

When the final round started at the 1981 Quad Cities Open, Dave was five strokes behind Victor Regalado. A closing 66 shot him into a tie at the end of regulation play with Halldorson, Woody Blackburn, Frank Conner and Regalado.

It was eight holes later (only one playoff in TOUR history has been longer), that Dave managed a par and that was all he needed to gain his elusive triumph.

It was worth $36,000 and that nearly equaled his entire career earnings to that point, and nearly doubled the amount he won in 1980.

"This is great," he said. "It's what we all play for out here. When things are not going well, you sometimes wonder if you made the right decision. Winning makes it all worth it."

It's an accepted fact that when Andy Bean gets on a roll, there are few players who can keep pace with him. Such was the case in 1984 when he won the Greater Greensboro Open and came within a whisker of winning three others. He finished third on the money list.

He was superb again last year as he won twice, finished second twice and completed the year as the No. 4 money winner, earning a career high of $491,938. He won another $200,000 for finishing third in the season-long Vantage Cup race.

"I played more consistent," he said. "My putting was much better and I'm looking for it to improve even more."

He won the Doral-Eastern Open for a third time as he defeated Hubert Green in a playoff and he also won the Byron Nelson Classic. He finished second in the Honda Classic and in the Greater Greensboro Open.

Except for his rookie season of 1976, he has been one of the game's leading money winners each season. Even in 1981, when he missed more than half of the year due to a slight fracture near the base of his left thumb, he still went over $100,000.

Even though he was able to cash some healthy checks, Andy revealed in the Fall of 1983, "for the first time since I hurt my wrist, I feel I can play the way I want to play. About midway through the year, I could feel the shots coming back. I just have to work on my putting."

In his first TOUR victory at Doral, Andy led all four days on the Blue Monster course, shooting 67-67-71-72-277. The win became a birthday present; he turned 24 on the final day, March 13.

Andy certainly had the background to become a professional golfer. As a youngster, he lived on Jekyll Island, GA, where his father was associated with a golf course. When he was 15, the family moved to Lakeland, FL, where his father bought a course.

"I've been lucky," says Bean, "because my parents never made me do much work around the course. They let me go play." And play he did.

He is one of the biggest men in the game and he has the personality and the heart to match his size. Wherever the game is played, he always is one of the more popular men in the field.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Named Senior Athlete of Year at University of Georgia, 1978. Winner of six college tournaments, including Southern Intercollegiate three years and 1976 All-America tournament. Three-time All-America. Twice winner Carolinas Junior title and Carolinas Amateur championship.

When Chip Beck first came on the PGA TOUR, those who knew him well from his college days, put out the good word. "Watch this young man. He's a winner."

One two occasions in 1983 he came close to getting the elusive first victory, as he tied for second twice. He won nearly $150,000 and it is interesting to note that he led the TOUR in eagles, making 15 of them, and was second in scoring birdies, with 394, just five fewer than leader Hal Sutton.

He followed a similar pattern in 1984 and enjoyed a great year. He had four third-place finishes in the Isuzu-Andy Williams San Diego Open, where he was one stroke out of the Gary Koch-Gary Hallberg playoff; in the Hawaiian Open; in the Memorial Tournament and also in the Walt Disney World Classic.

He had his best season ever last year collecting over $200,000. The highlight of his season was a second place finish behind Ray Floyd in the U. S. Open.

"The Open was definitely the high point of the year for me," said Beck. "I made some improvement in 1986, but I anticipate better play this year."

He considers driving the ball and chipping as two of the stronger parts of his game and when everything is right, he prefers to play with a slight draw.

Chip well remembers the day he was introduced to golf. He was only 10-years old at the time, and his mother was going to the Highland Golf Club in Fayetteville, NC, to attend a clinic that was to be given by the head professional.

"I really didn't want to go," Chip says with a laugh, "but she woke me up a 7 a.m. so that we could go together. It was being given on the course where Ray Floyd played as a boy."

Once he started to hit balls, he was hooked. He played all summer and the golf career of Chip Beck was well under way. By the end of the summer, he won the Pee Wee division at the club.

A journalism major at the University of Georgia, he enjoyed considerable success on the Bulldog golf team before setting his sights on the TOUR. As a senior, he was named the Athlete of the Year, and that's the first time a golfer had ever been honored at Georgia. He won six collegiate events, such as the Southern Intercollegiate three times and the All-America championship hosted by the University of Houston. He also won the Dixie Intercollegiate and was an All-America choice three years, twice being on the first team.

Incidentally, in 1973 he was nosed out of the North Carolina State interscholastic title by Scott Hoch. Twice he won the Carolinas Junior title and followed with two victories in the Carolinas Amateur championship.

A few days before he headed for the Southern Open in Columbus, GA, in the Fall of 1983, Ronnie Black confided: "I know I belong on the TOUR after the year I've had. I'm not satisfied, but I know I've played even better than what the money list shows."

At that point, he had quietly accumulated more than $40,000 and was assured of exempt status for 1984. The finest was yet to come.

He was at his career best on the Green Island course and, when most people were cheering Sam Torrance, the flamboyant Scot who stopped off on his way to the Ryder Cup matches, Ronnie came from three-strokes behind the last day to tie Sam at nine-under-par 271. Then, Black gained the victory with a six-foot putt for a birdie on the fourth extra hole.

It was just a warm-up for the 1984 campaign. His biggest day came on the Kingsmill course in the Anheuser-Busch Classic. He trailed Willie Wood by seven strokes entering the last round, but he shot an eight-under-par 63 to edge Wood by a stroke.

The 1985 season was a disappointing one for Black on the golf course, but it was quite a year for him overall. In addition to getting married, he also moved into a new home. It had some effect on his game.

There was significant improvement in his performances last year and the most satisfying weeks came near the end when he tied for seventh place in the Greater Milwaukee Open and the next week finished sixth in the Southwest Classic.

"I had chances to win those weeks," he said, "and that's the fun part of this game, being there at the finish."

Ronnie was nine-years old when he first picked up a golf club. His father was the basketball coach at Lovington (NM) High School so he grew up in a sports atmosphere. "Dad told me then that I couldn't go to the course until I was able to hit the ball from our front yard, across the road and over a fence on the other side. It was a shot of about 75 yards."

His older brother, James, became the head professional at Pinewood Country Club in Beaumont, TX, and as Ronnie came of age, James took him under his wing. "He recruited me for Lamar University and I worked in his shop for a while," Ronnie said. "Mostly, though, he let me play and practice."

Until he went to Lamar, he had never played on a course with bunkers or one of championship caliber, but he always dreamed of someday playing on the PGA TOUR.

He went to the Qualifying School in the Fall of 1981 and made it. His first stop was the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open in January of 1982 and he recalls, "That was the very first TOUR tournament I had ever seen in person. I was low qualifier at Randolph Park with a 66 and thought I was going to knock everyone dead. I have to admit, I had a rude awakening coming."

"I did a lot of watching the first year," he said, "and I definitely was intimidated. I had never seen talent like that and I had to be the greenest person ever to come on TOUR in recent years."

He only won $6,329 for the year, so it was back to the Qualifying School in the Fall. He finished 39th in his class and headed back out for the 1983 campaign.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Co-medalist with Bob Shearer in 1976 Q-School. Member of 1973 NCAA Championship team. All-SEC in 1973.

Woody Blackburn had problems with his driving through most of 1986 and it not only cost him a lot of confidence, it also cost him a chance of repeating the fine year he had in 1985. The problem, he discovered, was with the club itself and not with his mechanics.

He is hoping to find the secret of 1985 again when he won the Isuzu-Andy Williams-San Diego Open in a playoff over Ron Streck. Woody had rounds of 66-66-66 to hold the lead but Streck caught him Sunday afternoon and they tied at 19-under-par 269.

They matched pars through the first three extra holes but when Streck dropped his second shot in the water at the 18th hole at Torrey Pines South, Woody made his par and gained the victory.

In his first nine years on TOUR, Blackburn had only about $150,000 although he had won a TOUR event, the 1976 Walt Disney World National Team Play Championship where he combined with Bill Kratzert to beat Gay Brewer and Bobby Nichols in a playoff.

That was his only taste of glory for several years although he did lose in a five-man playoff at the 1981 Quad Cities Open to Dave Barr.

His best season prior to 1985 was the 1982 campaign in which he won $54,165. He slipped the next two years, though, and in 1984 he won only $29,074 to finish 141st on the money list.

He returned to the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1984 and finished in a tie for 31st to improve his position on TOUR for the 1985 season and he took full advantage of the opportunity.

"My purpose when I joined the TOUR was to win tournaments," Blackburn has said. "Just winning is enough to me; money is not the reason I'm playing golf."

After a solid career at the University of Florida where he had helped the Gators to the NCAA Championship in 1973, Blackburn was a co-medalist with Bob Shearer at the 1976 Qualifying Tournament. It wasn't until he visited Peter Kostis at the end of 1983 season that Blackburn started to realize his potential.

"The best thing I ever did was go to see Peter Kostis," said Blackburn. "My swing is much more consistent now."

"We mainly worked on the basics," he added. "If you do the basics well, you can play pretty good. Sometimes you can get too technical."

Blackburn used his victory and a strong effort in the NEC World Series of Golf to finish 57th on the 1985 money list with $139,257. That figure represented nearly as much as he had won on TOUR in his previous nine years.

Phil Blackmar admits his first year on the PGA TOUR was even better than he expected it would be. Therefore, by comparison, his second year was something of a disappointment, until he tied for third place in the Vantage Championship.

He won the Canon Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open in 1985 in a playoff over Dan Pohl and Jodie Mudd as he birdied the first extra hole to earn $108,000. He went on to collect a healthy $198,537 for the year.

"It wasn't really a surprise," he said of the victory, "but I hadn't planned on it either. I did know that if I got hot, I could win. It was just a question of being lucky and getting hot at the right time."

It was easy to spot the big friendly fellow in the winner's circle. At 6' 7", 240 pounds, he's the biggest man on TOUR.

Last year, he developed swing problems early and was finding it difficult to re-discover the plane that had worked for him for many years. He went to see David Leadbetter in Florida in July and, by the end of the year, felt he was on the right track again.

Phil started in the game as a youngster and he had a teacher with good credentials—his father. Phil's dad won the National Lefthanders title in 1965 and he introduced Phil to the game.

In fact, his dad caddied for him on numerous occasions during his first two years on TOUR.

Phil was a three-time All-Southwest Conference selection while at the University of Texas and he enjoyed similar success on the mini-tour circuit after being graduated in 1979.

He won four mini-tour events and he also collected the 1983 Missouri State Open championship before attending the Fall, 1984 Qualifying Tournament.

He performed splendidly at the final Qualifying Tournament at La Quinta, CA, shooting rounds of 69-72-70-66-70-72—419 to finish one shot in back of medalist Paul Azinger.

With his TOUR card firmly in hand, Blackmar headed out on TOUR with a good attitude and a plan of attack.

"I recognize my limitations, I'm not one of the pure strikers out here," he said. "However, when I get hot I'm going to try and run the table."

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner of two 1984 Tournament Players Series events, Everett (WA) Open and Victoria (BC) Open. No. 1 money winner on TPS in 1984 with $79,506. Winner, 1983 South African Open, 1980 Pennsylvania State Amateur and five collegiate events. Named second-term All American in 1981.

There were three events left on the 1984 Tournament Players Series when Charlie Bolling headed for the Everett (WA) Open late in August.

"My goal was to play well in the three tournaments and gain some confidence," he said. "I was hopeful that confidence would carry over into the TOUR's Qualifying School. I had no aspirations about winning any of the three."

Nevertheless, using a new putting grip, he went on to win in Everett and then headed across the border to the Victoria Open in British Columbia. "I wanted to play respectable," he continued, "to show people my win in Everett was not a fluke."

The result was he played exceptionally well and won again. Suddenly, he was the No. 1 money winner on the TPS circuit. The next stop was Sacramento and his goal "was to protect my money lead and earn the exemption for the TOUR in 1985."

He did that. He finished in a tie for third place, only one stroke out of the Pat McGowan-Steve Hart playoff. The final tally gave him $79,506 for the year.

He had a disappointing 1985 season, but he came back in 1986 to have easily his best year winning $88,328 to finish 96th on the money list.

Bolling made several good checks early including a career-best T9 at Houston and then played steadily the rest of the year making the cut in 23 of 34 outings. He ended the season by picking up a check in his last nine starts.

"Overall, I've gotten much more comfortable with my position on TOUR," said Bolling. "I learned how to make cuts out here and it really changes your perspective to play four days instead of two."

Charlie started to swing golf clubs at the age of 10. He smiles and recalls, "my father bought a set of clubs for my older sister. I suppose I was a little jealous and I'd take them out in the back yard and swing them. It was a thrill when I realized I could get the ball airborne."

In those days, though baseball was his sport. He lettered in baseball, soccer and ice hockey in high school, but when he was about 15-years old, he knew golf would be his sport.

When he went on to Duke University, he concentrated on golf. He played reasonably well through his first three years, but not exceptional.

The next year, he dropped out of school and went to Florida. He obtained a job in Lew Worsham's pro shop at Coral Ridge in Fort Lauderdale. "That period was important to my progress," he said, "I made some critical swing changes."

He went back to Duke to complete his studies and during his senior year, he won five events and was named to the second All-American team.

Three times he tried to make it through the PGA TOUR Qualifying School, 1981, 1982 and 1983, and didn't make it. Yet, 1984 was an important year. He won the South African Open early in the year and finished third on the Order of Merit.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Member 1977, 1979, 1983 and 1985 European Ryder Cup team. Member Scotland's 1977, 1978, 1979, 1983 World Cup team. Winner 1978 Irish Open; 1983 Dutch Open and Kenya Open; 1984 Glasgow Classic; 1985 Four Star National Pro-Celebrity (England).

Ken Brown will be the first to tell you, "My game still is not fully together but it's getting closer."

He enjoyed his best money year on the PGA TOUR in 1986 and it was the numerous good rounds that bouyed his confidence. For example, he had a closing round of 66 to tie for sixth place in the AT&T Pebble Beach Pro-Am. He finished 65-67 to tie for ninth place in the Provident Classic and he also finished 67-68 at the Byron Nelson Classic and 69-66 at the Southern Open.

He continued to enjoy success when he went home to Britain for a few brief visits on the European Tour. He lost the European Open in a playoff to Greg Norman and finished second to Ian Woosnam in the Tournament Players Championship.

His play in Europe in 1985 was most satisfying because "I wanted to play well enough to make the Ryder Cup team and I did that especially after winning the Four-Star National Pro-Celebrity tournament."

It was his fourth Ryder Cup experience but this one was the best since the European team upset the United States at the Belfry Club in England.

As a result of his shuttling, however, he didn't play as well on the PGA TOUR in 1985 as he knows he can. When he did come back in mid-September, he played well and easily clinched his position among the leading 125 money winners.

He said he plans to concentrate more on the U.S. tour. "I don't think I'm the type of player who can win two-or-three times in a year," he said, "but I feel I'm good enough to win over here."

Three years ago, when he headed for the Pensacola Open, which was the final official event of the year, he was in 151st place on the money list. He played exceptionally well, finishing in a tie for second place and earning $26,400. He leaped into 112th place.

Ken started in the game at age 12. There was a golf course nearby his home in England, and he said, "it was a natural thing to go over there and caddy and play."

When he was 15-years old, he thought he'd like to play on the professional tour, and did turn pro when he was 18. He worked in a golf shop for a year and then headed out on the British/European circuit.

He advanced rapidly. As a 20-year old in 1977, he found himself on the Ryder Cup team for the matches against the U.S. at Royal Lytham in England. He won the Irish Open in 1978 and again played in the Ryder Cup competition in 1979.

During his first six years, he only had the one victory but a lot of good finishes. "I was putting too much pressure on myself, especially the last day," he explained.

Four years ago, after winning the Dutch and Kenya Opens, he decided to give the PGA TOUR a try. In the Qualifying School in the Fall, he tied for 20th place. Three years ago, in a break from the U. S. tour, he won the Glasgow Classic.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1973 Canadian Amateur and 1974 Porter Cup, North-South Amateur, and New York State Amateur. As professional, won 1975 Scandinavian Open and 1975 Kerrygold (Ireland). 1975 Walker Cup team and 1975 World Amateur Cup team.

When George Burns suffered through a disappointing 1983 season, he put himself to work on his game. The 1984 season paid dividends on that effort, but the 1985 season made all the work seem worthwhile.

That season saw Burns pick up his first victory in five years when he tore up the field at the Bank of Boston Classic where his scores of 67-66-68-66-267 gave him a six-shot victory. Earlier in the season he lost in a playoff at the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic to Roger Maltbie. In all, it was his best year ever as he won $223,352.

"Everything just sort of came together," Burns recalled. "I'd been working hard on my game and it paid off. I drove the ball well, hit a lot of greens and putted well."

After his brilliant 1985 campaign, 1986 was a disappointment as Burns recorded only one top ten finish. The hardworking New York native, though, has shown the capacity to bounce back before and he's determined to improve in 1987.

George's first victory came in 1979 at the Walt Disney World National Team Play event and he had Ben Crenshaw for a partner. At the time, he said Ben gave him the boost he needed, and was certain it would pay off, confidence-wise.

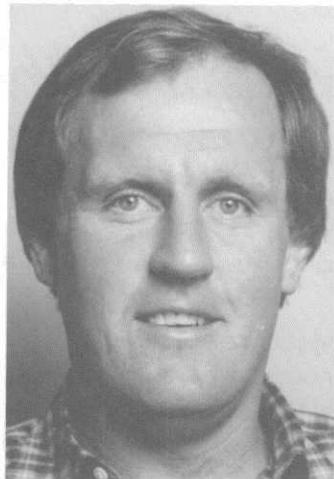

Early the next year, it did just that as he won the Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur and soared on to a $219,928 year.

Burns was too busy playing all sports in high school on Long Island to concentrate on golf. He lettered in football and basketball and entered the University of Maryland with the primary purpose of playing football, in addition to earning a degree.

He was a defensive end for the Terps, but recalls, "I realized I wasn't going to go anywhere in football." He concentrated on golf from his freshman year forward.

However, it was a full year after his graduation before he blossomed as a force in amateur golf. While working for two years in the New York City area in sales and promotion, he had a chance to play often, and in 1973 he won the Canadian Amateur. The following year Burns won the Porter Cup, North-South Amateur and the New York State Amateur.

Burns was selected to play on the Walker Cup team in 1975 and also on the U.S. side in the World Amateur team championship. "Playing for my country on those teams always will be among the biggest enjoyments I've had in sports," he says.

BEST 1986 FINISHES: 2-Hardee's Golf Classic, 3-Bank of Boston Classic

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Named All-American in 1980. Winner, 1979 Pacific Coast Amateur. Winner, South Dakota State Juniors, four times and South Dakota State Amateur five times.

The Oakwood Country Club in Coal Valley, IL, will always be a special place for Curt Byrum and it's all because the sponsors of the Hardee's Golf Classic chose to give him one of their exemptions.

It turned out to be the week in 1986 that turned his career around. He had lost his membership on the PGA TOUR the year before so he had spent the first six months of the season searching for games.

Hardee's was to be his first TOUR start of 1986 and he played exceptionally well. A 64 the first day left him one stroke behind Bob Lohr. A 70 the next for a 134 total kept him close to the lead but when he came back with another 64 the third day, he was in front of Mark Wiebe by two strokes.

The two of them fought their way through the final round and Curt still was leading by one going to the 17th hole. There, he bogeyed. Mark birdied to take the lead and he went on to win. Nevertheless, Curt held on to second place and collected $43,200.

With that amount, he again was eligible to obtain special TOUR membership and he made the most of it.

A month later, he joined with Bobby Nichols in the Showdown Classic at Jeremy Ranch in Utah—a popular Senior PGA TOUR event—and he played brilliantly as they won the title. Although the $33,750 he collected was not official money, his banker loved it and his performance proved to be a tremendous confidence booster.

In mid-September, he went to the Bank of Boston Classic and his fine play continued. He finished third, just two strokes out of the Gene Sauers-Blaine McCallister playoff and collected $30,600. He now had more than enough to finish among the top 125 money winners and be exempt for 1987.

Curt and his younger brother Tom grew up in Onida, South Dakota. "We used to have a nine-hole course with sand greens there," Curt said. "It's grown over now, but when Tom and I are home, we get out the mowers and cut down a couple of the fairways so we can practice."

Although he started to play the game at an early age with the encouragement of his mother and father, Curt played all sports.

He was exceptional as a high school athlete. He was all-state as a quarterback in football and as a guard in basketball. His senior year in 1977, he was named the South Dakota Athlete of the Year.

He was recruited by the University of New Mexico to play golf so that's where he decided to go.

He left school after three years and went to work at Marco Island, FL, so that he could meet Ken Venturi and get his help. Curt was still an amateur at the time but Ken took him under his wing and they still work together.

He went through the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1982, the first time he tried it. He played in 1983 and in 1984 without a lot of success. He had to return to the Qualifying Tournament again in the Fall of 1985, only this time he didn't make it.

He seemed to be headed for a long, lost year until the good folks at Hardee's came along.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE: Phoenix Open - 22

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1983 New Mexico State Intercollegiate tournament and was runner-up in the event three times.

Tom Byrum may be a first on the PGA TOUR. He went from riding bulls in the rodeo to playing golf at its highest level.

A little grin crosses his handsome face when he explains, "I used to spend my summers in the 4-H Club rodeos. Did it for seven years. I used to do a little of everything but I was best at riding the bulls."

After a slight pause, he added, "but that gets very old at a young age. That was when I started to play more golf."

It was a good move. This past season was his first on the TOUR, and he was impressive in compiling four top 10 finishes with his best being his runner-up role in the Southwest Classic.

"Everyday, I like to believe there's progress in my game," he said. "It was an interesting year because I started out well and then I hit a stretch of about three months when I had all sorts of problems and had a hard time making the cuts. But, the last part of the year, everything has gone very well."

"When I was in the slump, I couldn't seem to find my way out of it," he continued. "One week it was putting, another week it would be something else."

Late in June, two things happened that started him back in the right direction. After he missed the cut in Atlanta, he took two weeks off, went home to Onida, South Dakota, and practiced.

Maybe the best of all happened at the Hardee's Golf Classic. His older brother, Curt, who had lost his TOUR card at the end of 1985, received a sponsor's exemption and finished second. Curt earned $43,200. That was enough to get his playing privileges back so the Byrum brothers were a team again.

"Curt has helped me with my game more than anyone else," Tom said. "We know each other's swings and we constantly watch each other. A lot of the success I've had happened after he came back on TOUR."

After he was graduated from high school, Tom headed for New Mexico where Curt was going to the University. He took a part-time job at a country club in Albuquerque and became a walk-on for the golf team. He played for two years, one of them with Curt, and then transferred to New Mexico State where he did exceptionally well.

"That was when I decided to see how far I could go in the game," he said. After he was graduated in 1984 with a degree in Sociology, he entered the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1984. He didn't make it. "I simply wasn't ready," he said, matter-of-factly.

He played in Asia in the Spring of 1985 and the experience was invaluable. He went back to the Q-Tournament in the Fall of 1985 and made it easily, finishing third.

Although his best finish was the second place in the Southwest Classic, he felt the Western Open was the one that got away. He was in position to win it and was four-under par early in the back nine the last afternoon. Then tragedy struck. He took triple bogeys at the 14th and 17th holes and finished at one-over-par 289. Incidentally, Tom Kite won the playoff after four players tied at two-under-par 286.

I should have been more conservative the last few holes," he said. "It was an experience I won't forget and someday, it will help me."

The folks up in Onida, South Dakota — all 850 of them — are mighty proud of the Byrum boys and well they should be.

Named first-time All-SEC in 1979.

Mark Calcavecchia will tell you there is nothing quite like living a dream and then one day discover that dreams really do come true.

After his family moved from Laurel, Nebraska, to the Palm Beach area in Florida when he was 13-years old, he discovered he could play golf every day of the year. "I couldn't believe it at first," he said, "and the greatest thing was playing golf on Christmas Day afternoon."

Through all those teen years when he sometimes would play as many as 72 holes in a single day, he dreamed of playing on the FGA TOUR. He knew he could win and as a youngster he did have success. In 1976, for example, he won the Florida State Junior and Orange Bowl Junior Championships.

He enrolled at the University of Florida and played well, but after three years, he felt "it was time to move on."

He turned professional in January of 1981 and six months later, he qualified for his TOUR card. He was barely 21-years old. As he recalls, "I didn't have the mental capability to play against these guys. I was overwhelmed."

He struggled through the next four years with little success but he never stopped living the dream, the dream of someday being a winner.

It was a big shock to him at the end of 1985 when he finished 162nd on the money list to lose his card and then he failed to get through the Qualifying Tournament.

"That's when I went to work harder than ever," he said. "I'd practice, practice and practice some more."

There were a couple of weeks when he caddied for his good friend Ken Green.

He did it at the 1985 U. S. Open at Oakland Hills. Another week was at the Honda Classic a year ago.

"His attitude about things helped me a lot. He kept telling me that if I thought I could do something, then I could do it if I worked hard enough. I was determined to get my card back without going through the Qualifying School."

His move up the ladder started the week after the Honda. He entered the Open qualifier for the Doral-Eastern Open and earned one of the four-spots. His first round of 65 at Doral was good enough for the first-round lead. He went on to tie for eighth place and won $13,500 in his first start of the year.

The next time anyone noticed Mark was in the last round of the U. S. Open at Shinnecock Hills when he equaled the course record with a 65 and finished 14th to earn another $11,028.

His next start was the Canon-Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open and he tied for 12th to earn $13,300. Now, he had collected enough to qualify for special membership—winning the equivalent of 150th place on the 1985 money list.

In September, he made his move. He tied for seventh in the Bank of Boston Classic, tied for ninth in the Greater Milwaukee Open (thanks to a third-round 63) and the next week took charge in the Southwest Classic in Abilene.

He led by five strokes after three rounds but after seven holes on Sunday, he was one-stroke behind Tom Byrum. He wouldn't let this one get away, though, as he birdied three of the last five holes to win by three strokes.

His dream did, indeed, come true.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Tournament Players Championship-2

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner of over 30 amateur tournaments, such as 1967 Costa Rica Amateur and 1968 Mexico Amateur. Also winner of 1972 Moncton Open, 1972 Prince Edward Island Open, 1974 Mexico Tournament of Champions, 1977 Prince Edwards Island Open, 1981 Mazatlan Open. Member 1982, Mexico World Cup team.

It is easy to understand why the personable Antonio Cerdá chose golf as a profession. His father, Antonio Cerdá, Sr., was a superb international player from Argentina and later from Mexico.

It was obvious at an early age that Antonio would be a fine player, too. He compiled an excellent amateur record, winning more than 30 tournaments including such events as the 1967 Costa Rica and 1968 Mexico Amateur championships.

He attended LaSalle University in Mexico City and then turned professional in 1970. His success continued and he won events throughout North and Central America. One of his more impressive was the 1974 Mexico Tournament of Champions. He also proved to be a winner on the Canadian tour.

Certainly one of the highlights of his career came when he was named for the first time to play on the 1982 Mexico World Cup team.

Antonio qualified for his PGA TOUR card in the Spring of 1975 and played with only moderate success through the next few years. A right wrist injury suffered in the 1978 Andy Williams-San Diego Open cut into his effectiveness and hampered his play for more than a year.

Until last year, his most successful season was in 1982 when he became an exempt player for the first time, winning $31,980. His best finish was a tie for seventh place in the B.C. Open.

He was in danger of finishing out of the top 125 that year until the final week. He tied for 14th place in the Walt Disney World Classic to earn $6,400. He also tied for 14th place in the Houston and Tallahassee Opens.

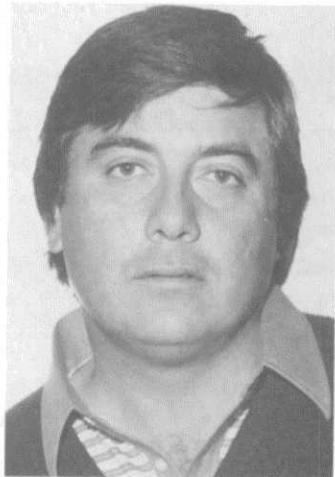

He opened with a 73 at the Disney World Classic but came back strong to shoot 66, 70 and 67 for a 12-under-par 276.

Unfortunately, he lost his Tour card after the 1983 season and was not able to return to fulltime play until last year. He was 25th in the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1985.

He went on to earn the last available exempt spot on the money list with earnings of $61,980. Middle rounds of 67-69 in the Los Angeles Open gave him his best-ever finish on Tour, a tie for sixth place. He also tied for ninth place in the Deposit Guaranty Classic in Hattiesburg, MS.

Two tournaments at the end of the year that put him over the hump were the Bank of Boston Classic and, once again, the Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic. He collected a total of more than $14,000 in those two starts.

As an example of how his play has improved, his stroke average was 73.05 in 1981. He improved it to 72.03 in 1982 and more than doubled his money winnings. Last year, he lowered it to 71.72.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Chrysler Team Championship-6

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1981 Sapporo (Japan) Open. Lost two tournaments in playoffs. 1981 Asian International Open and 1981 KBC Augusta (Japan) Open.

Tze-Chung Chen was 17-years old when he started to play golf in his native Taiwan, but eight years later, he found himself challenging the finest players in the world.

He gained a certain level of notoriety when he tied for the lead in the 1983 Kemper Open with four other players, only to lose in the playoff to Fred Couples. He gained world-wide attention at the 1985 United States Open championship at Oakland Hills, Michigan.

He equaled the competitive course record with a first-day five-under-par 65. He added a 69 for a six-under-par 134 and held a one-stroke lead after two rounds. He increased it to two strokes over Andy North after another 69 put him at seven-under-par 203.

His dream came to a shattering halt on the fifth hole of the final day when he suffered a quadruple-boogey eight (at one point he double hit the ball trying to pitch from deep rough) and then bogeyed the next three. He finished the day with a 77 and in a tie for second place with Denis Watson and Dave Barr, one-stroke behind the new champion, North.

T.C., as he generally is known, finished fifth in the Qualifying School in the Fall of 1982 and went on to have a very successful first year in 1983. In fact, the only player who did better from that particular class was Ronnie Black.

"The TOUR is very hard," he said, "and a difficult way to make money. For me, travel and transportation was the biggest problem my first year because I had to go pretty much on my own."

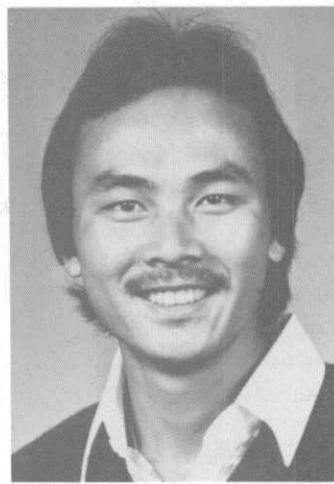

His older brother, Tze-Ming Chen, started him in the game, and he still does very well on the Asian/Japan Tours. In the fall of 1983, Tze-Ming won the Dunlop Phoenix tournament in Japan by defeating Tom Watson in a playoff. Tze-Ming qualified for the 1984 World Series of Golf, and during the week at Firestone Country Club, T.C. caddied for his brother. Two years ago, T.M. finished tied for third place in the PGA Championship at Cherry Hills.

The Chens lived near a golf course in Taipei, and T.C. said, "everyday, I would watch people play golf, and then I would caddy for my brother."

He progressed so rapidly, that in 1980, he was selected to play on Taiwan's World Amateur Cup team and competition was held in Pinehurst. "I finished second to Hal Sutton," he said proudly.

He turned professional just after that, and played on the Asian Tour for two years, "I thought it would be good for me to come over here and try for the experience," he said. Driving the ball is his strong point. "I'm not very long, but I can hit it straight," he said.

When he needs help he goes to his brother, but it is difficult since he is so far away. "It takes 15 hours from Los Angeles," he pointed out. It was easier this past season since Tze-Ming played in 13 Tour events.

1986 Rookie-of-the-year.

After four and one-half years on the mini-tours and a swing through the Asian circuit, Brian Claar finally earned his PGA TOUR card in the Fall of 1985. However, once the slender Tampa resident earned his way on TOUR he showed that he was here to stay.

He barely made it through the first round of the 1985 Qualifying Tournament and then at the final school at Grenelefe in Florida, he was in a playoff for the final few spots available. He survived the playoff and went on to become one of only 15 rookies in TOUR history to win over $100,000.

Brian hails from a non-golfing family and his introduction into the game during his childhood in Connecticut was unusual to say the least.

"No one in my family plays, but I found some old balls in a drawer and took them out to the beach and hit them around with a baseball bat," recalled Claar. "My neighbor saw me and he belonged to a country club so he took me out to play."

"I really wasn't any good at the time," Claar added. "It was the only sport I really stunk at so it caught my attention. I was so stubborn I decided I wanted to be good at it."

Upon graduation from high school, Claar migrated to Florida and the University of Tampa where his game started to come together.

"I wasn't that good when I went to college, but I was able to practice a lot because of the weather and I really improved," said Claar. "By my junior year I knew that I wanted to play on the TOUR."

He was successful on the mini-tour circuit winning seven events and his good play continued right onto the TOUR.

Low on the priority list at the beginning of the season, Claar had little to show for his first three months on TOUR, but in April he tied for ninth at the Houston Open and collected $12,500 and he was off and running.

He later added another T9 at the Provident Classic and two weeks after that he had his best finish of the year, a T6 at the Canadian Open.

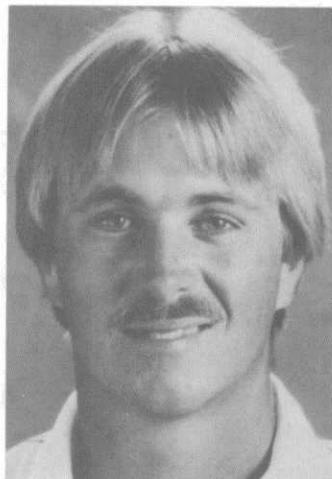

"Once I tied for ninth at the Houston Open and made a good check, I started to think about keeping my card," said Claar. "The toughest thing out here is believing you belong. I was always on the outside looking in."

He ended up his rookie year making the cut in 20 of 27 outings with four top ten finishes and collected $117,355.

His goal now is to win, sort of.

"I'd like to win, obviously," said Claar. "Not so much that—I'd like to get in contention and not choke."

Claar is a player who has paid his golfing dues and if last year was any indication, don't expect this young man to back off when he gets his chance.

Two-time winner Fred Haskins Award, presented to top collegiate player. Winner, 1978 Western Amateur and 1980 Sunnehanna Amateur. Medalist, 1981 U.S. vs. Japan Team Matches.

Few players have come on the PGA TOUR with the fanfare that greeted Bobby Clampett back in the summer of 1980. During the next two years, he proceeded to demonstrate how genuine his credentials really were.

In 1981, he finished second four times, twice losing in playoffs. His first victory came near the end of 1982 in the Southern Open. It seemed likely that his star would shine brightly for many years.

His consistency level slipped in 1983 and 1984. He said, "I probably learned more about golf and my game (in 1984) than during any previous year of my career."

The last two seasons have shown consistent improvement and the highlight of this past year was a fine T3 showing that earned him $48,000 at the Vantage Championship late in the year.

"I think I should be close to being there in 1987," said Clampett. "My progress have been slow, but I've still made a lot of progress. I feel like I'm playing better now."

Bobby joined the TOUR in August of 1980. His big check came in the Buick Open, where he won $7,250 and that, added to his previous winnings, provided more than enough to meet the minimum money guideline of $8,000 that was needed to become a member without going through the rigors of the Qualifying School.

Bobby started to play golf at age 10, using his father's old clubs. Lee Martin, who was the pro at the Carmel Valley Ranch at the time, gave him his first lessons. "I worked at the club, doing odd jobs," he recalls, "and my pay was playing privileges. Mainly, I picked up range balls."

When he was 13, Ben Doyle assumed duties at the club, and he became Bobby's tutor—and he still is.

He was successful in California Junior golf, and in 1976 and 1977, he was the state's leading point getter. In 1977, he won the California State junior title.

He moved on to Brigham Young University, where, for three years, he worked on his golfing skills and his education. "I wanted that balance," he said, "and that is why I chose BYU."

He received an associates degree in French in 1980, and speaks the language fluently.

Since he played in six tournaments in 1980, he was not eligible for rookie-of-the-year honors in 1981. However, Bobby Clampett is destined to win many other honors in golf before he leaves the tournament trail.

Lennie Clements is another of those fellows who was so determined that he would make it onto the PGA TOUR, that he worked exceptionally hard until he did. And, when he earned his TOUR card in April of 1981, he proved he belonged.

He earned the right to play in the big time the hard way. After failing to make it in the TOUR school, he made it via the Open Qualifying, finally meeting the minimum money guideline in his 10th and final chance at the Magnolia Classic. He won $3,150 there after a tie for fifth, and became a member the next week at the Tallahassee Open.

He blossomed into a force to be reckoned with in 1986 with four top ten finishes and $112,642 in earnings. It was easily his best year on TOUR.

Clements was consistent all year long making the cut in 19 of 28 outings. He started the year off strong with a T9 at the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic and picked up a check for $16,800 and he played well the rest of the year.

He had two strong finishes in 1982 on two of the toughest courses on TOUR. He tied for fourth in the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open after making five straight birdies in the last round en route to a closing 66 at the Riviera Country Club.

He tied for fifth place in the Colonial National Invitation. He was informed on the Tuesday morning of the tournament that he was in the field and he proceeded to shoot 66-69 at the Colonial Country Club to take the lead by one stroke over Jack Nicklaus and Tom Kite.

He said it was a special treat to be paired with Nicklaus for the third round, but before play began, he was asked if he knew Jack. Grinning, he replied, "I met him once at Pebble Beach, but I'm sure he doesn't remember me."

He said he has been working to lengthen his game off the tee. "I've made a couple of other positive changes in my swing, changes I had to make to stay on TOUR."

Two fellows from San Diego, Jack Harden and Ben Stewart, have been the most instrumental in molding his game. Driving, short irons and putting are the strong points, and, when things are going well, he plays the ball left to right.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Tallahassee Open-31

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner of two Tournament Players Series events in 1983, Magnolia Classic and Greater Baltimore Open. He won $100,863 in eight events to be the leading money winner. Winner 1975 Kentucky State High School Championship.

It is safe to say Russ Cochran is the finest lefthanded golfer on the PGA TOUR and probably is the best since Bob Charles of New Zealand was winning TOUR events in the 60's and early 70's.

The Tournament Players Series in 1983 gave him the break he needed for 1984 and he certainly made the most of his opportunity. He won $133,342 with a tie for second place in the B.C. Open his best.

"The Magnolia Classic (opposite the Masters Tournament) was the first of the Tournament Players Series. I wanted to go there to see how I would do, but if I didn't do well, I would have to go home and try to find a sponsor for the rest of the year. I was hoping to get a sponsor's exemption at Magnolia, and I did."

The result was a victory and a check for $27,000, setting him up for the rest of the year.

He only won $7,968 in 18 regular TOUR events, but he added another victory in the Greater Baltimore Open on the TPS circuit and won $100,863 in eight starts. He was the leading money winner and thus gained exempt status on the regular TOUR for 1984.

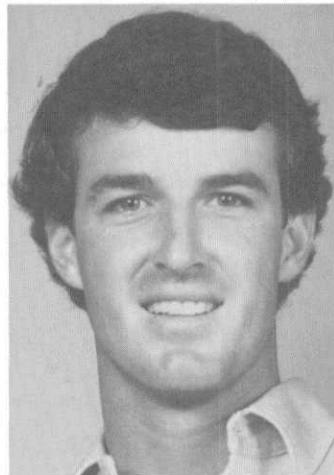

Although he has easily retained his exempt status the last two years, he said they have been disappointments. Nagging physical problems have into his effectiveness but he said at the end of last year, "I'm healthy again so I believe my game's on the upswing."

Looking ahead, he added, "I've given myself five years to develop into a leading player and I still have that goal in mind."

Russ started in golf when he was about 10-years-old. He used to go to a neighboring course with his older brother. A couple of years later, when he won a state age-group tournament, he truly was hooked. He played junior golf in the area and then through high school, winning the state scholastic title in 1975. He went to the University of Kentucky and played for three more years.

Oh, yes, he does play lefthanded. "When I was younger, I used ladies' clubs because they were the only lefthanded ones I could find. Several people told me I should switch around and try to play right-handed, but no one made a real effort to change me, so I stayed with it. I do everything left-handed, anyway."

Including accepting healthy checks on the PGA TOUR.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: 1974 to 1976, and 1981 to 1983, member Tournament Policy Board. Re-elected to Policy Board in Fall of 1983.

Jim Colbert has every reason to be proud of his record on the PGA TOUR, not only as a player but also for his efforts while serving admirably for many years as a Player Director on the Policy Board. His biggest-and-brightest smile breaks out, however, when he says, "I may be the only guy on the regular TOUR who has three grandsons."

Then he adds, "Our oldest daughter, Debbie, has two sons, Jim Colbert Fenton Dietz and Jermy Dietz; and our second oldest, Christy, has one, Kyle Yonke."

Meanwhile, his golf game continues to be strong and his swing appears to get smoother with age.

There may never be another year quite like 1983 for Jim, however. He set a goal of winning at least two tournaments and more than $200,000. He had never accomplished those marks in a single season before, but he did that year.

He won the Colonial National Invitation in a playoff against Fuzzy Zoeller and towards the end of the season, he won the Texas Open in San Antonio. His numbers added up to $223,810.

He knew that sooner or later he would win in San Antonio. It has a special place in his heart. It was there in 1966 that he won his first check as a member of the TOUR, and it was there in the 1982 Texas Open that he went over the $1 million mark in career earnings.

Jim was an all-state football player in Kansas and went to Kansas State University on a scholarship, but he switched to golf full-time when he lost his desire for combat after his freshman year.

He won the Kansas State junior golf title at age 11, so he knew at an early age he could play this game, too. He was second in the 1964 NCAA tournament and won the 1965 Kansas Amateur. That fall, he went to the TOUR's Qualifying School and made it.

The first victory was a long time coming, in the 1969 Monsanto Open in Pensacola. His most memorable victory might have been in the 1974 American Golf Classic at Firestone Country Club in Akron. He had to defeat Raymond Floyd, Gay Brewer and Forrest Fezler in the playoff.

The next few years, Jim suffered with knee and back problems, but he continued to work hard at his game, grinding out whatever he could. His perseverance finally paid off in 1979 and he has been playing well since.

When he isn't beating golf balls on the TOUR, he's at home in Las Vegas tending to his growing golf course business.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Federal Express St. Jude Classic-25.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1966 British Amateur. Member of 1970, 1974, 1976 South Africa World Cup teams. Winner of World Cup individual championship in 1974 and joined with Dale Hayes to win team title in 1974. Winner, 1975, 1981 South African Open; 1986 South African PGA championship. Winner of 13 events on South African tour. Winner of 1985 Seattle/Everett Open on TPS.

Bobby Cole is the first to admit that his career on the PGA TOUR has been "less successful than expected" but winning the South African PGA Championship last year and then finishing third in the NEC World Series of Golf has given him new enthusiasm for the game.

He won the PGA title of his homeland by five strokes with a record score of 265. It made him eligible for the World Series at Firestone Country Club in Akron, OH, and he made the most of it. He started with a 74, but finished strong with rounds of 67, 68 and 70. He was only two strokes behind the winner, Dan Pohl.

He earned $47,600 and that was more than enough to move him well into the ranks of the leading 125 money winners.

Bobby started to play golf at age 11 because of a knee injury suffered in a rugby match. "I was told to give up all sports that required a lot of running," he said. "My father played golf and I seemed to take to it right away."

He progressed rapidly through South Africa's strong junior golf program and his big week came in Carnoustie, Scotland when, at age 18, he won the 1966 British Amateur Championship.

A powerful striker of the ball, he immediately was being compared with Gary Player. "As a boy, I looked up to Gary," Bobby has said, "just as youngsters in this country look up to Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer."

He was invited to play in the 1967 Masters Tournament and was the third low amateur to Downing Gray and Deane Beman.

He entered the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1967 and he made it at age 19.

He didn't enjoy a lot of success and even though he won numerous times in South Africa, his only TOUR victory was in the 1977 Buick Open. He also was second to Lee Trevino in the 1974 New Orleans Open and to Hale Irwin in the 1975 Western Open.

He has won the South African Open twice. In 1974, he won the World Cup individual title. He also joined with Dale Hayes that year to give South Africa the World Cup team title.

He said his biggest drawback over the years has been his short game. "Mainly chipping and bunker play," he said. "My putting was adequate but never great."

He lost his TOUR card at the end of 1983 and didn't play in 1984. He made a few brief appearances in 1985 but he did play on the Tournament Players Series that season and won the Seattle/Everett Open.

As a "past champion," he was able to get into a few tournaments last year and, along with his performance in the World Series, he also tied for ninth place in the Canadian Open.

He continued to play well through the remainder of the year.

Everyone loves to see a young man rewarded for hard work, so it has been especially pleasing to see John Cook enjoy such years as he experienced in 1983 and again last season. As they say, nice things do happen to nice people.

While physical problems cut into his effectiveness in 1982 along with 1984 and 1985, he has shown that when healthy, he's one of the best.

During the Fall of 1985, he said he worked harder than ever on his golf game and it certainly paid off in 1986.

A week after Jan presented him with Jason, their third child, John played extremely well in the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic. It was his first start of the year and he tied with his good friend, Donnie Hammond. Unfortunately for John, Donnie won the playoff with a birdie on the first extra hole.

Later in the year, he tied for second in the Southern Open and also tied for third place in the Kemper Open. They all helped him to his best money year, by far.

In 1983 when he earned $216,868, he won the Canadian Open in a stirring six-hole playoff over Johnny Miller and accumulated seven top ten finishes. The one that got away, though, left a scar for awhile.

Hal Sutton was in the scoring tent behind the 18th green after his final round of the Tournament Players Championship with a five-under par 283. John was on the 18th tee, needing a par four to tie. Unfortunately, he hooked his tee shot into the water at the Players' Club, suffered a double bogey and tied for third place.

In 1982, John suffered an injury to his left wrist and elbow at the Honda-Inverrary Classic, but instead of taking the necessary time to recover, he continued to play, thus aggravating the situation.

One of his best-ever efforts on TOUR came in the 1981 Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur, when he was tied with Hale Irwin, Ben Crenshaw, Bobby Clampett and Barney Thompson. John finally won the title on the third extra hole. Due to heavy rains, it was a 54-hole tournament.

He has always known of the thrill of victory. He tasted it early when in 1974 he defeated Gary Hallberg for the World Junior crown. John's biggest title came in 1978 when he won the U.S. Amateur Championship. The next year, he lost in the final to Mark O'Meara.

At Ohio State University, he was an All-American choice three years, and in 1979, he helped the Buckeyes win the NCAA team title. In December of 1983, he was on the U.S. World Cup team with Rex Caldwell and they combined to win the team championship.

Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf convinced him he should go to Ohio State, even though his school years were spent in southern California.

John earned his player's card in the Qualifying School in the Fall of 1979. For most of his golfing career, Ken Venturi has been his primary tutor.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Tallahassee Open-31

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Led 1981 rookies in earnings ($70,939). Was All-American at Houston in 1978 and 1979. Won 1978 Washington State Open and Washington State Amateur. Was low amateur in 1978 U.S. Open. Member, 1984 USA Team vs. Japan.

There are few young players in the game with the potential for greatness that is possessed by Fred Couples. During his years on the TOUR, he continually displayed an ability to rise to the occasion, especially on the more difficult courses.

It was never more clearly demonstrated than in the 1984 Tournament Players Championship on the Tournament Players Club course where every shot must be precise.

Fred took the lead the second day with a brilliant record-tying eight-under par 64 and he stayed in front the rest of the way. He had to fight off the challenges of the game's finest players to get the victory. Seve Ballesteros and Tom Watson were chasing him after the third round and the final margin was only one stroke over Lee Trevino.

"Winning here was something I never thought would happen," he said modestly. "My biggest accomplishment was beating the course."

He nearly won again last year losing in a playoff at the Western Open to Tom Kite. All in all, though, 1986 was a year that Couples would just as soon forget.

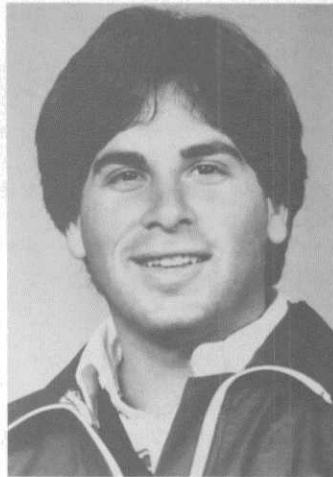

"It was a pretty slow year, just a couple of good tournaments and that's all," said Couples. "I just didn't put out 100% and from that I can't say I deserved to play any better than I did. I'm going to concentrate harder this year and I'm looking forward to the season."

Fred's first victory came the hard way in the Kemper Open on the demanding Congressional Country Club course. He had to defeat Gil Morgan, Scott Simpson, Barry Jaeckel and Tze-Chung Chen in a playoff. On the second extra hole, the 211-yard 16th, he hit a splendid five-iron shot within two feet of the hole and he made it for his victory. "I felt like crying," he said. "I've never hit a shot that amounted to so much."

He convinced a lot of people at the 1982 PGA Championship at Southern Hills in Tulsa that his future is very bright indeed. Fred shot a closing four-under par 66 to gain a tie for third place, but during the first round, he really had eyes popping. He birdied the last six holes for a championship record score of 29.

Couples was introduced to golf by his father, who works for the Seattle Parks & Recreation Department. So all sports were a natural with him. Within a few years, he was competing in junior events in the Seattle area, and then, in high school, came the big decision, one forced because the golf and baseball seasons overlapped.

At the University of Houston, Couples became a standout, earning All-American honors in 1978 and 1979. After a somewhat disappointing junior season, when Fred finished a solid eighth individually in the NCAA Championship but watched as his Cougar team missed the cut, he decided to drop out of school and tackle the TOUR a year early.

As Ben Crenshaw thought about what he had accomplished in winning the Masters Tournament in the Spring of 1984, he said slowly, "It's a sweet, sweet thing. I don't think there ever will be anything sweeter for me."

His victory at the Augusta National Golf Club was one of the more popular of the year—or any year—for there probably is not a player in the game who is more loved by his colleagues.

Ben's 67 gave him the first-round lead over Lee Trevino by one stroke, but he slipped back the next two days. He was four-strokes behind Mark Lye after two days and two-strokes behind Tom Kite after the third.

Through the final round, he shot a four-under par 68 and won by two over Tom Watson with an 11-under par 277. "Ben deserved it," Watson said later. "He's been in the hunt in a lot of major championships. This is his first, and I know what it must mean to him."

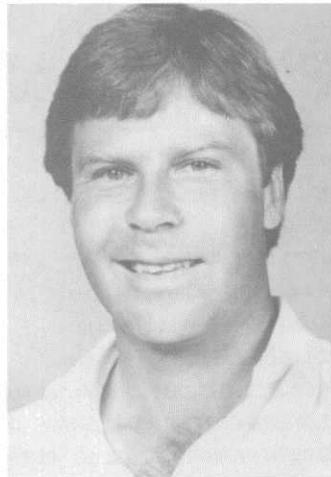

He followed the great year with a horrible season in 1985 but it wasn't diagnosed until late in the year that he was suffering from a hyperactive thyroid.

Once on the proper medication, he came back with another super year in 1986, highlighted by victories in the Buick Open and the Vantage Championship. "It feels tremendous to win," he said. "Last year (1985) was totally bleak because I didn't know what was wrong. It's nice to be competitive again."

He far exceeded his best previous money year, winning $388,169. His next most profitable year was in 1983 when he won the Byron Nelson Classic. He also was a standout performer in the Ryder Cup matches in the Fall of that year.

He joined the TOUR in the Fall of 1973 after compiling an excellent amateur record. He won the NCAA Championship three straight years for the University of Texas, although he shared it in 1974 with teammate Tom Kite.

Ben earned his TOUR card in the Fall of 1973, gaining medalist honors by an incredible 12 strokes over runner-up Gil Morgan. In his first start, the San Antonio-Texas Open, he won by two over Orville Moody. The next event was the 144-hole $500,000 World Open at Pinehurst, and he finished second to Miller Barber.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Two-time All-American. Medalist in Missouri Amateur.

Jay Delsing had a day to remember in the second round of the 1985 B. C. Open. He played a near flawless round as he matched the En Joie Golf Club tournament record with a nine-under-par 62. He equaled the mark established by Fuzzy Zoeller in the 1982 tournament.

"I finally had the hole get in the way most of the day," the lanky former UCLA standout said. "I had almost the identical puts yesterday in the first round when I shot a 73, but they didn't go in. It's a crazy game."

It was Delsing's first year on the PGA TOUR and he made the most of it. He went on to tie for seventh place in the B. C. Open and he also had a tie for ninth place in the Hawaiian Open, his second start of the year. Those two events served as the springboard to a 125th place finish on the money list with $46,480.

Last year, he thought he was heading for a big season, especially after his tie for fourth place in the Los Angeles Open. A month later, he suffered a nerve problem in his back and shoulder. In his next 11 starts, he was able to cash checks only three times.

A tie for ninth place in the Canadian Open started him in the right direction again and his play became more consistent toward the end of the year.

"The main thing," he said, "is that I'm starting to feel more comfortable out here and I'm looking for some positive things to happen."

He was born into a sports atmosphere. His father, Jim Delsing, played for many years as an outfielder in the major leagues with such teams as the Yankees, White Sox, Tigers, St. Louis Browns and Kansas City A's.

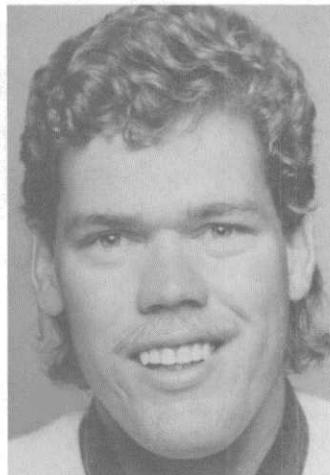

"I love baseball probably more than golf," Jay said, "but I took up golf when I was about 14 because I wanted something I could do by myself."

During his days at St. Louis University High School in St. Louis, the 6' 5" Delsing was an outstanding basketball player, but UCLA recruited him for his golf and not basketball. With the Bruins, he was a teammate of Corey Pavin and Steve Pate.

After earning his degree in economics, he played the mini-tours for a year to gain more experience. Then he tried the TOUR's Qualifying School in 1984. He finished 24th and was on his way.

He displayed considerable talent as 1985 progressed, but it took the 62 at the B. C. to put his name in the headlines. "I once shot 61 when I was in high school," he said, "but this is my best in competition."

Incidentally, Jay never had the pleasure of watching his dad in the major leagues. He was the fourth of five children and Jim had put his spikes away by the time Jay was old enough to know what was going on. "I did see him play in an old-timers game, though, and that was special."

1986 SUMMARY: Tournaments entered—27; in money—15; top ten finishes—2; stroke average—72.03.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Southwest Classic—11.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1977 Texas State Juniors and 1979 American Junior Golf Association championship. Member of Oklahoma State NCAA championship team in 1983. Runner-up in 1982 NCAA individual championship. All-America, 1982, 1983, 1984.

When Andy Dillard was getting his first strong tastes of competition around his home area of Tyler, TX, it was Ben Crenshaw who served as his role model.

"Ben was the big dog around Texas in golf when I was growing up," he said, "and by the time I was in the seventh grade, I knew I wanted to play the TOUR someday, just like Ben and Tom Kite."

His day came in the Fall of 1984 when he was successful in his second attempt at the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament.

Andy made the most of his opportunity. He missed the cut in his debut, the AT&T Pebble Beach Pro-Amateur. The next week he tied for 50th place in the Shearson Lehman Bros.-Andy Williams Open and then he collected his first big check with a tie for fifth in the Hawaiian Open. He earned $18,250.

His biggest payday of the year came as a surprise to many. He made the final 12-man field in The International, finished ninth and pocketed $34,000.

"That was the one I needed," he said, "to make sure I would keep my card. I can't explain it, but it was a week when I made a lot of birdies and I kept making them," he added.

He believes his biggest strength is his putting, "but I drive it pretty straight, too, so that helps to set up the birdie opportunities." Normally, he plays the right-to-left shot.

Where did his game improve the most during 1986? No question in his mind. It was his course management.

Andy started to play the game when he was about eight-years old. He entered his first competition when he was 10. "You were supposed to be at least 12-years old," he recalls, "and I told them I was 12. I finished third in my first tournament and the next year they let me back in even though they knew I wasn't 12."

By the time he reached the seventh grade, he knew the TOUR was where he wanted to be someday. He read everything he could about the game and the TOUR.

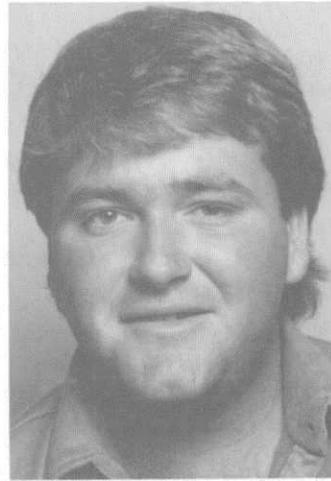

He won the 1977 Texas State Junior Championship and eventually earned a scholarship to Oklahoma State University. When he was a freshman, Bob Tway was a senior and Willie Wood a sophomore.

He was the runner-up to Billy Ray Brown of Houston in the 1982 NCAA Championships. The next year, he was on the team with Wood and Scott Verplank that won the NCAA team championship. Mike Holder, the OSU golf coach, still is his only teacher.

He missed in the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1984 "by four shots in the final," so, he played the Asian tour and the Tournament Players Series in 1985.

Looking back over his first year, he was asked, "What surprised you the most about the TOUR?"

He never hesitated with his response. "How nice all the players are. Everyone has time to say hello and ask how you are doing."

If you are looking for a good example of what perseverance can do for you, you need look no further than to Mike Donald.

He has had to work hard in order to move up the ladder on the PGA TOUR—harder than most people—but in 1984, he was able to enjoy some of the game's rewards.

For the first time in his career, he earned well over $100,000. "It was a good step upward," he said. "The only thing better would be to win a tournament. I've become more patient with myself and my game. I'm not forcing things to happen."

He has been working with Gardner Dickinson since 1980, refining the swing.

He enjoyed reasonable success in 1985 but moved back over the $100,000 mark last year. Nevertheless, he said he was not pleased with his play a year ago except for two weeks in the summer. He tied for third in the Canadian Open and tied for ninth in the Canon-Sammy Davis Jr. Greater Hartford Open. He won more than $50,000 in those two efforts.

When Mike was in the ninth grade, he gave up baseball to concentrate on golf. It was a good move. He went on to Broward Community College and won the National Junior College championship. It earned him a Chris Schenkel scholarship to Georgia Southern College.

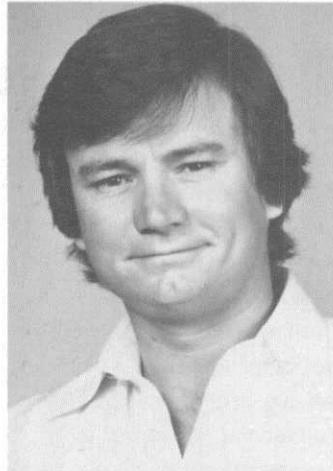

In his first tournament at Georgia Southern, he finished fifth, not bad at all when you consider the players who were 1-2 respectively were Jay Haas of Wake Forest and Chip Beck of Georgia. His parade didn't last long though, because "I had a conflict with the coach and they took my scholarship away."

So Mike headed for home. "I didn't have any money, so I delivered flowers and umpired baseball games for a year." Georgia Southern brought in a new coach the next year and Mike was back in school. Before he returned though, Mike was impressive again as he went to the finals of the 1978 North and South Amateur before losing to Gary Hallberg.

His first attempt at the TOUR Qualifying School was in the Spring of 1979 but he didn't make it. Determined as always, he went back in the Fall of that year and passed with flying colors.

Mike started in the game at age 12. "My parents bought me a set of clubs because they didn't know what else to buy me. I loved to play baseball and I had everything I needed for that sport. They just wanted to get me something different and, even though they didn't play golf, they thought it would be a good sport for me."

In December of 1984 he joined with Vicki Alvarez of the LPGA to win the JC Penney Mixed Team Classic.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1973 mini-Kemper Open, 1976 Little Bing Crosby (both second Tour); 1965 Sacramento City Amateur, 1966 California State Amateur, 1968 West Coast Athletic Conference; 1981 Morocco Grand Prix. Medalist, Spring 1969 Qualifying School. Led TOUR in sand save statistic in 1980.

Bob Eastwood found it difficult to sum up his performances in 1984. So, he simply said, "Incredible. I knew I was capable of winning. It was just a matter of time for me to get everything together." "Time" turned out to be in his 13th year as an active player, and he not only broke through with his first victory, but he won his second as well.

"A lot of players have told me I have a good swing," he said. "I wasn't a superstar when I came out on TOUR. I'm still learning."

He won again in 1985 but his victory in the Byron Nelson Classic came in a rather unexpected fashion. He trailed Payne Stewart by two strokes as Payne played the last hole but he double bogeyed it to drop back into a tie with Eastwood. On the first extra hole, Bob only needed a bogey to win.

Last year was a major disappointment, due mainly to a rotator cuff problem. "The DP Fitness van became my second home," he said. "I had a lot of neck and shoulder problems for most of the year."

His first victory was in the 1984 USF&G Classic in New Orleans and then he won the Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic. He also tied for third in the World Series of Golf that year and said it was a "most satisfying" effort.

He was four years old when he started to play golf. His father was in the golf business in Stockton, CA., and helped to build the Dry Creek Ranch golf club in the 1960s. It was a family affair.

His skills surfaced early, as he won city amateur titles in Stockton and Sacramento. He won the 1966 California State Amateur and while at San Jose State, he won the West Coast Athletic Conference title.

Bob headed for the TOUR Qualifying school in the Spring of 1969 and he not only made it through, but he was the medalist. His life on the TOUR had to wait awhile, though. In October of that year, he went into the Army and was not discharged until October of 1971. So, he really didn't join the TOUR full-time until 1972.

Several people have helped him along the way, such as Bob Warner in junior golf, Tom LoPresti during his college and early days on TOUR; but in recent years, Butch Baird has been his guiding hand on the practice tee.

Over the past two years, Danny Edwards has put aside his interest in auto racing and the end result has been two very good seasons on the PGA TOUR.

The winner of the 1985 Pensacola Open, Edwards returned last year to win $126,139 and had by his estimation, "a real good year."

After enjoying good years in 1982 and 1983—winning a tournament plus more than $100,000 each season—he had a disappointing year in 1984. "It wasn't much fun," he said. "I put a lot of work into my game and didn't get the results."

The last two years, however, have paid dividends despite the fact that Edwards has devoted a lot of time to his growing executive golf outing business.

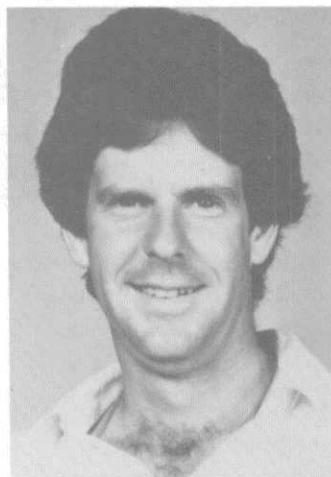

It was after a mediocre year in 1981 that Danny developed a "more relaxed" attitude to the game, and the results were almost immediate, winning the Greater Greensboro Open in 1982. The next year, he won the Miller High Life-QCO in a playoff over Morris Hatalsky.

After a splendid amateur career, Danny joined the TOUR for the start of 1975. His first victory came in the 1977 Greater Greensboro Open by four strokes over George Burns and Larry Nelson. In 1980, he joined with brother David and they won the Walt Disney World National Team Play title.

Danny was 14 when he started to play golf and he knew at an early age that golf would be his game. He went on to Oklahoma State University and won the 1972 and 1973 Big Eight championships. In 1973, he was named to Uncle Sam's Walker Cup team.

He turned professional in 1973 and played on the world circuit for a year. He went to the TOUR's Qualifying School in the Fall of that year and made it.

During his years on TCUR, brother David has been his biggest booster and helper. "David knows my game better than anyone," Danny says. "We don't work together as much as we used to, but when one of us does have a problem, we talk it over."

It was a strange but rather pleasant experience in 1984 for David Edwards, one he had never encountered in his golf career. "I surpassed so many of the goals I had set for myself by the end of May, that I didn't know what to do."

What he did, was take most of the rest of the year off. After the Memorial Tournament the last weekend in May, he only played in three official PGA TOUR events the rest of the year. "It was by far my best year," he said. "After I had the good year in 1983, I wanted to build on it and keep improving. I did what I wanted to do in 1984 and more."

David's biggest week of 1984 came in the Los Angeles Open on the famed Riviera Country Club course. He shot a magnificent final-round seven-under par 64 to win by three over Jack Renner.

"Riviera always has been one of my favorite courses, and because of that, the Los Angeles Open always has been my No. 1 choice. So, to win there was something very special to me."

The victory put him in the Masters Tournament for the first time and the experience was all he expected it to be—and more. A final-round 67 boosted him into a tie for third place.

"I had some very good final rounds," he pointed out, such as the 65 at the Byron Nelson to give him a second-place finish; and a 66 in the Tournament Players Championship. "They were the key to my successes," he said.

While 1985 proved to be a bit of a letdown, David returned last year to win over $100,000 with four top ten finishes.

He tied for 4th at the Houston Open and then concluded the season by reaching the quarter-finals of the Seiko-Tucson Match Play Championship.

David enjoys telling people how he got started in the game. "I was about 12-years old," he said, "and I played because my brother Danny (who is five years older) played. That's all there was to it. All I did when I was growing up was tag along. I did whatever he did. He was the one who talked me into getting a set of clubs."

In the fall of 1980, they carried their brother relationship to the ultimate, winning the Walt Disney World National Team Championship.

David has enjoyed his share of success during his career, but he said it hasn't been easy. "At every level, from juniors, through high school, then college and now on the TOUR, I have had to start at the bottom and work my way up. I haven't been any instant success."

He always found that success, though. He won the Oklahoma State Junior title in 1973, and won the National Collegiate championship for Oklahoma State in 1978, and twice was named to the collegiate All-America team.

Fred Haskins, Golf Magazine and NCAA Coaches as collegiate player of year. Member 1983 U.S. Walker Cup team. Winner 1986 Provident Classic.

When Brad Faxon was enjoying a very successful season during his final year at Furman University, he started to think about the game of golf as a career. "It wasn't until then," he said, "that I realized I was good enough to play on the TOUR."

There wasn't any doubt in the minds of those who followed him through his young career that he was good enough. Brad has enjoyed success at all levels of the game.

Three times he won the Rhode Island State Junior championship. Twice he won the Rhode Island State Amateur and on two other occasions, in 1980 and 1981, he won the New England Amateur titles.

He won 11 times during his collegiate days, and in 1983, won three of the finest awards given to college golfers, the Fred Haskins, Golf Magazine and the NCAA Coaches awards as the Player-of-the-Year. He also was named to the U.S. Walker Cup team that year.

During those later years, he had a taste of TOUR competition. He played in three U.S. Opens, and in 1983 at Oakmont, was the low amateur.

At one time, Brad's grandfather owned a golf course on Cape Cod, and that's where his father, a scratch golfer, learned to play. "I was about five-or-six years old when Dad started me," Brad said, "and I played in my first tournament when I was 13."

It was with that sort of background that Brad launched his PGA TOUR career in the Fall of 1983. He entered the Qualifying School and had little trouble making the grade.

Even though Brad was able to earn exempt status after his play in 1984 and 1985, he wasn't satisfied with his performances.

"I struggled a lot in 1985 and early in 1986," he said. "I missed the cut in nine of my first 10 tournaments last year."

Gradually, his game started to come together and it was solid the week of the Provident Classic in Chattanooga (opposite U.S. Open). He shot 67-62-69-63—261 for the victory. Even though it wasn't an official victory, the $54,000 was official money.

"The golf swing is not natural to me," he said, "but you have no idea what winning did to my confidence."

David Leadbetter of Grenelefe, FL, has been his primary teacher for the last couple of years and the results of their work together have been gratifying.

"When I was in college," he said, "I had an erratic swing. I could have a bad round and still win. That's not possible out here."

In the Summer of 1984, he visited with Dr. Bob Rotella, the noted sports psychologist. "I had heard of Dr. Rotella when I was in college," Brad said, "and I've always been interested in sports psychology. He has helped me with the mental aspects of the game."

Brad said his natural shot "probably is a draw," but has the ability to play the ball both ways.

BEST 1986 EPSON STAT: 3-Putting (1.76)

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Two-time All-American. Member 1983 Walker Cup team. Winner, 1979 Washington State Junior and PGA National Junior championships; 1982 Western Amateur. Low Amateur in 1984 Masters Tournament and U.S. Open.

When the week at the 1986 B. C. Open started, Rick Fehr had one goal in mind. He wanted to play well enough to assure his position among the leading 125 money winners for the year and thus be exempt for 1987.

He certainly did that and then some. He went all the way to win his first PGA TOUR event and he did it by two strokes over Larry Mize.

"I had won about $48,000 going into the B. C.," he said, "and I knew that wouldn't be enough to make the top 125. Winning a tournament wasn't even in the picture at that time. I just wanted a few good finishes."

With his victory, he not only added $72,000 to his account but the victory carried exemptions through the 1988 season.

He started to play the game at age 11 with his father in Seattle and a year later, he was in his first junior competition. Ron Hagen was the pro at Sand Point Country Club and he molded Rick's swing from the start.

He won the Greater Seattle Junior Championship three times. In 1979, he won the Washington State Junior title at age 16 and he also captured the PGA National Junior Championship at Calloway Gardens, GA, the same year.

He went on to Brigham Young University and won seven events before he was graduated in 1984. Twice he was named first-team All-American.

He played in the Masters Tournament in 1983 and 1984 along with the U. S. Open in 1984 and finished as the low amateur in both the 1984 Masters and Open.

"I just kept progressing and improving," he said. "All the time, my goal was to make it onto the PGA TOUR."

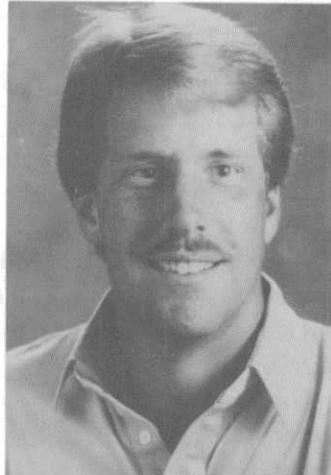

He tried in the Fall of 1984 but didn't make it. He played wherever he could early in 1985 and he gained his first national attention as a pro at the U. S. Open at Oakland Hills. He had rounds of 69 and 67 the first two days and had to face the national media. Even though he finished with 73, 74 for a three-over-par 283, he still tied for ninth place and earned $12,440.

He went on to earn $40,101 for the year and finished 133rd on the money list. It then was on to the Qualifying Tournament again and he made it easily.

"The biggest improvement in my game in the last few years," he said, "has been my putting. I always was a good putter but I'm more consistent now. It was exceptional all week at the B. C.

He was leading by three strokes over Mize going into the final round and he admits there was pressure but adds, "It wasn't so much the pressure to win; just the pressure to perform well."

These days, he continues with the development of his swing under the watchful eye of Mike Adams of Bloomington, IL, the founder of the Golf Dynamics school.

1986 SUMMARY: Tournaments entered—32; in money—16; top ten finishes—2; stroke average—71.84.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: PGA Championship - 33

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Medalist 1977 Fall Q-School. Member of Houston's NCAA championship team in 1977. All-American, 1977. Winner 1981 Southern California Open. Winner, 1984 Jerry Ford Invitational.

During his years on the PGA TOUR, Ed Fiori has demonstrated an ability to win. His first victory came in the 1979 Southern Open when he defeated Tom Weiskopf in a playoff. Two years later, he won the Western Open by four strokes. He started the week with a 74 but fought back with rounds of 67, 69 and 67 on the demanding Butler National course.

He was at his finest in the 1982 Bob Hope Classic. He played brilliantly with rounds of 70, 65, 66, 69 and 67 to tie with Tom Kite and then won it in a playoff.

He can't explain what happened in 1984 when he was never a challenger—especially since he enjoyed his best money year in 1983. The only bright spot was a victory and $20,000 in the Jerry Ford Invitational in Vail, CO, a non-Tour event.

He returned to the leader boards early in 1985 with four top 10 finishes in five West Coast starts, the best being a tie for third in the Hawaiian Open.

Last year, he struggled early with his driving and his putting, but pulled his game together in time to easily retain his position among the leading 125 money winners.

The stocky Fiori started in the game at age seven. "We lived next to a couse in Downey, CA and I used to sneak through the strands of barbed wire to play. About twice a week, they would catch me and my pal and chase us off. A neighbor had given me a few clubs to use."

After high school, Ed started to work at odd jobs around southern California, mainly in construction work. He also found enough time to play considerable golf, "wherever I could find a game."

One of those golf excursions took him to a tournament in Guadalajara, Mexico. He birdied the last four holes to get into a playoff with Craig Stadler and Jack Renner. Stadler won the playoff, but a University of Houston alumnus was there and was impressed. He recommended him to the Cougars.

"I had been out of high school for four years, so I went to Wharton Junior College for a semester, sat out a semester and then transferred to Houston."

His second year, the Cougars won the NCAA team title, and Ed was named to the All-American team. "Until then, I had not thought much about joining the PGA TOUR, but that was all the guys on the team talked about... getting on the TOUR."

He dropped out of Houston in the Spring of 1977, played in a few mini-tour events and then headed for the Q-School.

Raymond Floyd surely will be remembered as one of the most remarkable players in the history of the PGA TOUR. Just when people begin to wonder if his clubs are starting to cool, he responds by playing brilliantly.

Toward the end of the 1970s, there were indications that maybe, just maybe, he was nearing the end of his career. Instead, he came back with years that made him the envy of the TOUR. He won well over $350,000 in 1981 and 1982 and a total of six tournaments.

Last year he continued to amaze as he came from behind on Sunday at Shinnecock Hills with a dazzling 66 to become the oldest U.S. Open champion in history. He later captured the Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic title while earning well over $300,000 for the fourth time in his brilliant career.

"The U.S. Open has always been one of my goals," said Floyd. "I don't think my career would have been complete without the Open."

His victory in the 1982 PGA Championship at Southern Hills in Tulsa was also extremely impressive. He started with a seven-under par 63 and led all the way. He said of the 63, "without a doubt, it was the best round of golf I've ever played, anywhere in my life."

His second and third round totals of 132 and 200 respectively established PGA Championship records and he was heading for a 72-hole mark until he double bogeyed the last hole for a 272, missing the record by one. "I wasn't concerned about the record at all," he said, "I just wanted the victory."

Floyd grew up in Ft. Bragg, N.C., the son of an Army man who now is co-owner of the Cypress Lakes Golf Club in Fayetteville. Although he was exposed to golf at an early age, Ray chose to pursue baseball until he won the National Jaycees golf title in 1960. He turned pro the following year, joined the TOUR in 1963 and won the St. Petersburg Open as a rookie. At age 20 years and six months, he was the fourth youngest ever to win on TOUR.

Dan Forsman is one of those fellows who becomes more impressive — and successful — each year.

"It's a little like college," he said, "I've been through four years and I've graduated. Now, it's time to work on my Masters degree by becoming more consistent and closer to the top each week. I know you have to be patient, but I feel good about how things have worked out."

Two years ago, Dan gained his first victory in rather impressive fashion. He was six-strokes behind Bob Tway after two rounds of the Lite Quad Cities Open. He shot a superb seven-under-par 63 the third day to take the lead and then a closing 67 gave him the victory by one over Tway.

Last year, he struck it rich again in the rain-shortened Hertz Bay Hill Classic. Rounds of 68 and 67 gave him a two-stroke lead after two rounds and then he held off the strong challenges of Ray Floyd and Mike Hulbert in the third (and last) round to win by a stroke. He earned $90,000.

Dan started to play golf at age 13, being introduced to the game by his father, an avid golfer. Although he was born in Wisconsin, the family moved to the San Francisco area "When I was about two."

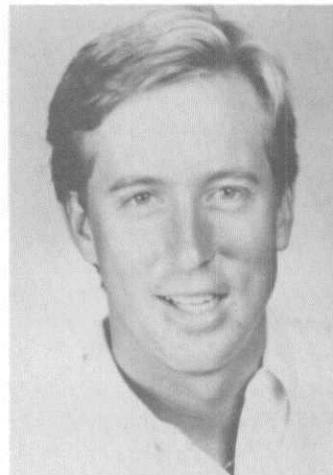

He played his golf at the Los Altos Country Club and started to play in the Northern California junior program, competing against the likes of Bobby Campett and Joey Rassett.

After high school, where he also played basketball and some football, he headed for Arizona State University. "I wanted to keep playing golf," he said, "and I knew they had a good program there with such players as Tom Purtzer and Howard Twitty on the TOUR."

One of their matches was against an Alumni team, and Joe Porter, who played the TOUR for many years, said to him, "You can play out there. Just be patient with your game, work on it and it'll come."

Dan qualified for the 1982 U.S. Open at Pebble Beach and it was the first time he had ever competed against the TOUR pros. He was fortunate one day to have a practice round with Seve Ballesteros. At the time, Dan was working as an apprentice at the Camelback Country Club.

After enjoying some success in sectional PGA events, he felt it was time to try the TOUR. He went to the School in the Fall of 1982 and made it.

When David Frost joined the PGA TOUR for the start of the 1985 campaign, he wasn't that well known on this side of the pond. It didn't take him long, though, to establish himself as one of the better young players in the game.

In fact, there were only three players who were in their first-full year in 1985 who earned more money than this handsome South African. He came close to getting his first victory in the Houston Open. He was only one-stroke away from the lead after three rounds and even though he shot a closing 69, he still finished one behind Raymond Floyd. It was worth $44,000.

He was even better in 1986. His first playoff experience came in the Western Open. He tied with Fred Couples after three rounds, but they both dropped back into a tie with Tom Kite and Nick Price after 72 holes. Kite won the playoff with a birdie on the first extra hole.

David started in the game at age 14. "I would caddy for my Dad," he said. He played in his first South African Amateur when he was 18. At age 20, he won the Western Province match play title in Cape Town as an amateur and in 1980, he still was an amateur when he lost in the final of the South African match play. He also played in the British Amateur that year. Three times he was selected to play on the South African National amateur team.

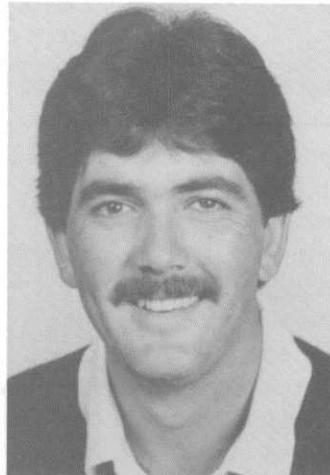

The trend was being established as he steadily refined his game. He turned professional in 1981. The following year, he ventured to the United States and "I tried to play on the mini-tour, but I didn't do much."

He went back home and, in the 1982-83 season, he finished second in the South African Order of Merit. Then he was off to the European tour and he continued to play well. In 1984, he won the Cannes Open in France as he made a 20-footer to save par at the 17th hole and another 20-footer for a birdie to win at the 18th.

He said he had planned to play for four years in Europe but was successful enough in his first two that he headed for the PGA TOUR Qualifying School in the Fall of 1984. He made it rather easily. He's convinced that a big factor in his early success on TOUR was due to the experience he gained on the European and South African tours.

It was especially satisfying, however, to return home and win the 1986 South African Open Championship.

In recent years, he has been working under the eye of David Leadbetter in Florida, joining such others as Denis Watson and Nick Price in his camp. He also points out that "I've always looked up to Gary Player as a man and a player."

Winner of 1982 Indiana State Amateur. Honorable mention All-American at Tennessee AJGA Jr. All-American in 1979.

When Jim Gallagher Jr., set out on the 1985 Tournament Players Series (TPS) trail, he had one goal in mind—to be the leading money winner and re-gain his exempt status on the PGA TOUR.

After winning the rain-shortened Magnolia Classic in a playoff to start the TPS season, he was well on his way towards achieving that goal. In his next TPS start he was eighth at the Tallahassee Open and then, in his third outing of the year, he rolled home a 25-foot birdie putt on the final hole to win the Charley Pride Golf Fiesta, and he was home free.

He eventually wound up winning $70,857 on the TPS circuit.

A former star at the University of Tennessee, Gallagher comes from a golfing family and there was little doubt that Jim Jr., would be a golfer.

"My dad has been a club professional for 26 years and he started me at age two," remembered Gallagher. "He didn't always have time to teach me, though, so I learned with my Mom."

His father is the professional at Meshingomesia CC in Marion, IN, and that's where Jim played most of his early golf.

I used to sneak out on the course, but my Dad would always catch me," laughed Gallagher. "I wasn't old enough to be out there and he caught me every single time."

Like most youngsters, Gallagher played all sports. However, he was cut from his high school basketball team when he was a sophomore and he decided to cast his lot with golf.

"Getting cut was the best thing that ever happened to me," he said.

After attending Tennessee, Gallagher qualified for the PGA TOUR in the Fall of 1983 on his first try. His first year, though, was a bit of a disappointment to him as he finished 148th on the money list earning $22,249.

"I didn't play a whole lot early in the year, but I finished in the Top 150," said Gallagher of 1984. "It was a good first year, but I was disappointed that I had to go back and play in the Fall (1984) Q-School."

"Losing my card was good for me because it got me hungry again," he said. "I went out on the TPS with a goal and accomplished what I wanted."

With a year's exemption in his hip pocket, he enjoyed reasonable success last year but he said he learned an important lesson.

"I had a few good weeks (such as tie for fourth in the Los Angeles Open), but there were a couple of times when I played in too many tournaments in a row, such as nine or 10. I need to manage my schedule a little better."

Jim has earned his status as one of the Tour's fine young players and he is expected to be around for a long time.

The golfing career of Buddy Gardner has taken some strange twists during the last decade. There have been some very high points and a few low ones along with some middle-of-the-road ones such as last year.

Buddy had put together two excellent years in 1984 and 1985, averaging approximately $120,000 and then his putter started to play tricks on him last season. It wasn't a poor year, by any means, but not what he expected.

The tie for fourth place in the Greater Milwaukee Open, where he was in position to win until the closing holes, and a tie for seventh in the Kemper Open provided a couple of excellent paydays.

Whatever success this personable fellow attains, it's well received by his peers. They know he had to overcome numerous obstacles to reach this plateau.

Buddy first qualified for the TOUR in the Fall of 1977, but in his first full year of 1978, he won only $5,637 and lost his card. He went back to the Q-School the Fall of that year and earned it back. Starting in 1979, he failed to qualify for the first four events, and then hit paydirt. He tied for second behind Bruce Lietzke in the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open. It set up a very good year, winning $71,468. He also tied for second in the Anheuser-Busch Classic in the fall.

"I wasn't ready the next year," he admits. "I didn't use the time to my advantage."

To make matters worse, at the Walt Disney World Team Championship, he was in a pick-up football game. Running for a pass, he tripped over a lawn chair and tore all the ligaments in his left wrist. He tried to play with it, but eventually had to have the wrist put in a cast for two months.

He reached a low of $6,214 in 1982, finishing 192nd on the money list. It was back to the Qualifying School.

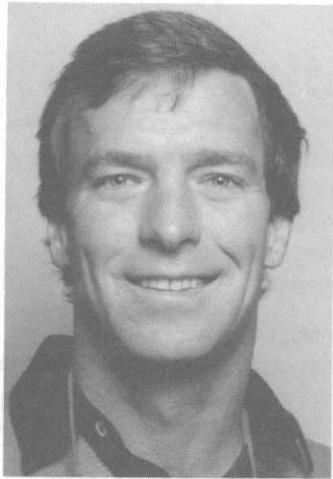

In the regional qualifier at Dallas, he made an adjustment in his alignment after the first round because of the high winds. "All I did was move the ball back six-seven inches in my stance and tried to hit three-quarter shots. By the time I hit the third ball, I knew it was right, and I played well all the way through the school."

A big change in his life occurred on May 28 in 1983 when he married Susan, a nurse from Birmingham, AL. "It certainly changed my lifestyle," he said.

Buddy started in the game at age five. "We lived about 100 yards from the first tee of the Bonnie Crest Country Club in Montgomery (AL). Everyone in the family played golf, so it was natural for me to play, too."

At one time, Buddy recalls, the juniors competition in that area was pretty tough, "with the likes of Bill Rogers, Mike Reid, Mac McLendon and myself competing against each other."

He won the Alabama State high school golf championship as a senior and went to Auburn University on a scholarship. His most important amateur title was the 1976 Dixie Amateur, and he edged Ron Streck in that one.

As long as golf is played, Al Geiberger will be remembered for the afternoon at the Colonial Country Club during the 1977 Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic when he became the first player ever to break 60 in a PGA TOUR event. He had a 13-under-par 59. It came on June 10, during the second round and was a master blend of 11 birdies and one eagle. He used only 23 putts in the 30-29 effort, culminating in an eight footer for a birdie on the final hole.

He went on to win the tournament, although he had to hold off late challenges by Gary Player and Jerry McGee to do it.

Al represents the Beaver Creek Resort course in Vail, CO, and in the Fall of 1985 the resort hosted a Mr. 59 tournament. Several LPGA players were invited and if anyone had been able to shoot 59 or lower, the reward would have been $1 million. Laughing, Al said, "Fortunately, no one came close and the best I could do was 69."

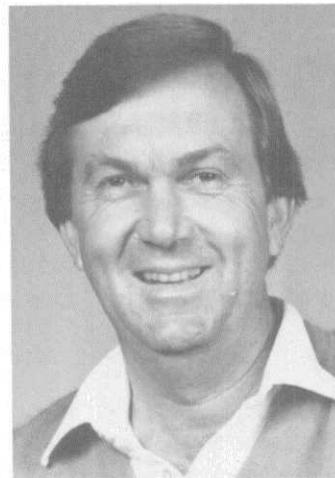

Over the years, he has done well on the toughest tracks, such as Firestone Country Club in winning the 1965 American Golf Classic and the 1966 PGA Championship; 1975 Tournament Players Championship and the 1979 Colonial National Invitation, both at the Colonial Country Club in Fort Worth; and the 1976 Western Open at the Butler National.

If there were such a category as "most comebacks from surgery" in the all-time PGA TOUR records, Al Geiberger would be leading it by such a wide margin that no one would ever catch him.

Yet, this lanky fellow keeps smiling and telling everyone that what has happened is history, and it's just great to be able to play on the TOUR again. One wonders how brilliant a record he would have had if he had been healthy for the past decade.

First, it was a nervous stomach disorder that nearly ended his career late in the 1960's and early 1970's. He battled back from that to win the 1974 Sahara Invitational, ending a victory drought of more than eight years.

Just when his long irons were whistling with incredible accuracy, he was struck down again early in 1978 when he needed intestinal surgery, and then late in 1979 with knee surgery. Seemingly healthy again, he suffered a severe attack while in Vail, CO, for the Jerry Ford Invitational in July of 1980 and emergency surgery had to be performed for the removal of his colon. In all, he underwent three separate operations in approximately two months for an ileostomy.

There appear to be many bright days ahead for Bob Gilder now that he has gone back to his old swing pattern and rediscovered a new enthusiasm for the game.

"Maybe I played too much in 1982 and 1983," he said. "They were really good years but I was worn out mentally and physically. The next couple of years, I didn't care that much about playing."

Last year, his game started to come around again as he began to move the ball left to right with consistency. "I wasn't able to do that for awhile," he said. "I was moving laterally instead of taking a good full turn."

It was difficult to imagine a player with Gilder's talents having to struggle to finish among the top 125 money winners but he did in 1984 and 1985.

Players dream of having years such as he enjoyed in 1982 when he won three times and earned $308,648. He was sixth on the money list and his exceptional play earned him a position on the 1983 Ryder Cup team.

Each time he won in 1982, he put on a marvelous display of scoring. His winning total of 14-under-par 266 in the Byron Nelson Classic was the lowest ever shot in the 16 years the tournament was played at Preston Trail.

His 19-under-par 261 in the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic set a tournament standard and his week was highlighted by a double eagle two on the 509-yard 18th hole the third day. He only needed a driver and three wood. Finally, he won the Bank of Boston Classic.

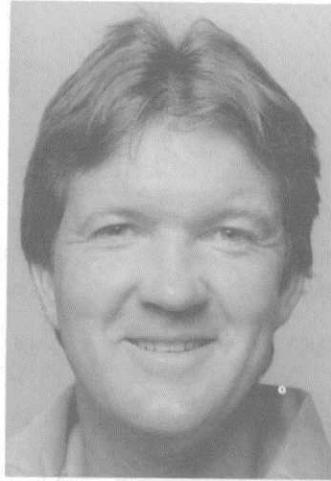

After the first five weeks of 1983, he was heading for another splendid year. He won the Phoenix Open in a playoff over Rex Caldwell, Johnny Miller and Mark O'Meara.

Bob starred for the Arizona State University golf team—winning the 1973 Western Athletic Conference title—and was a teammate of Howard Twitty and Tom Purtzer. After he was graduated in 1973, he tried for his TOUR card three times without success. Meanwhile, in 1974, he won the New Zealand Open in a playoff over Jack Newton and Bob Charles.

In the Fall of 1975, he did earn his playing privileges.

In his first start of 1976, he missed the cut in the Tucson Open. The next week at the Phoenix Country Club, he overtook Roger Maltbie the final afternoon to win by two strokes.

He became only the fourth first-year player to win more than $100,000, and would have been the "rookie-of-the-year" if Jerry Pate had not won the U.S. and Canadian Opens and $153,102.

When Bill Glasson won the PGA TOUR's Driving Distance title in 1984 and then lost his player's card, a lot of people probably thought that this was just another long hitter who couldn't play the game.

Well, in 1985 Bill Glasson proved those people wrong.

After earning only $17,845 in his rookie season of 1984 to finish 162nd on the money list, Glasson returned to the Fall, 1984 Qualifying Tournament in hopes of regaining his playing privileges.

At the conclusion of six grueling days of play, Glasson and five other players were forced to enter into a sudden death playoff for the final four available spots. He made it and returned to the PGA TOUR in 1985 with a renewed confidence.

"It's kind of scary when you first come out here being around all the superstars of the game," recalls Glasson. "Of course, I'm still a little intimidated by them, but I felt a lot more comfortable this past season."

"It takes awhile to get familiar with the courses and the people," he added.

Once Glasson got more comfortable out on TOUR, though, there was no stopping him.

After missing the cut in his first outing of the year, he promptly turned in the first top ten effort of his young career at the Isuzu-Andy Williams San Diego Open, grabbing eighth place and with it a check for $11,200.

Two stops later he took home another big check, this one for $18,250 after his T5 at the Hertz Bay Hill Classic and in his next stop, he collected another $18,050 at the Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational.

Feeling instilled with confidence, and with his card all but assured for 1986, Glasson travelled to the long and difficult Congressional Country Club for the Kemper Open.

After three rounds, Glasson stood at four-under par 212, six shots back of Larry Mize.

However, Glasson caught fire on Sunday while Mize struggled and when Glasson reached the par-four 18th hole, he needed a 50-foot putt to claim the lead. His long putt ran true and dropped in the hole for a stunning birdie that held up as the final groups finished behind him.

His long putt was one of the most exciting moments on the PGA TOUR in 1985 and the victory was worth $90,000 to the blonde youngster from Oral Roberts.

Pained by bad knees that have faced surgery three times, the victory had a second benefit beyond the money. It allowed Bill to pick his spots the rest of the season and to rest his knees whenever necessary, something he'll continue to do this year.

While 1986 did not produce another win, Glasson saw improvement in his game and he's encouraged about the upcoming season.

"I improved in all of my statistical categories except one," said Glasson. "I struggled a bit with my putting, but I think its coming around."

This is one long hitter who indeed can play the game.

Ernie Gonzalez likes the idea of being a little different. He plays the game left handed.

"There were three of us last year," he said, "with Russ Cochran and Doug Johnson. It was like we were in our own little world. I enjoyed it when people would come up to me and say, 'Hey, Ernie, I play lefthanded, too. Go get 'em.'"

He did just that at the rain-shortened Pensacola Open last October. He shot two marvelous rounds of 65 and 63 for a 14-under par score of 128 and the weatherman took care of the rest. Heavy rain at Perdido Bay Golf Club made it impossible to play more than two rounds and Ernie ended up with the official victory and a check for $40,500.

Two weeks later, he won $48,000 when he tied for third place in the $1-million Vantage Championship.

He became the first lefthander to win a regular PGA TOUR event since Bob Charles of New Zealand won the 1974 Greater Greensboro Open.

"I putted extremely well for those two days," Ernie said. "I only had 49 putts and I also had three chip-ins. That's a part of my game I practice a lot, so it wasn't just luck. When I practice, it's not just for today or tomorrow, it's for a long way down the road."

Ernie was in the morning segment on Thursday when he shot a six-under-par 65. Rain made it impossible to finish play that day, so the first round was completed on Friday.

He was in the afternoon segment on Saturday when the second round was played and he was nine-under-par for the round until he bogeyed the last hole in heavy rain.

The schedule called for 36 holes on Sunday. Ernie, in the last group, hit his first tee shot but "by the time we reached the green, everything was under water. The weather didn't ease up and on Monday morning, the tournament was declared official and Ernie had his victory."

"It was a great relief, he said. "I was ready to play, but when they called it, I just said, 'That's fine with me. I couldn't have been happier.'

Ernie doesn't remember how old he was when he started to swing a golf club. "My dad said that when I was old enough to walk I was old enough to swing a club or try to catch a ball. He was very athletic. He plays golf righthanded and he really can play. He was a Navy man for 30 years but he's retired now."

It wasn't until Ernie was in high school that he decided golf would be his game. He enjoyed early success. Only a few players have ever won the San Diego County Amateur Match Play championship in back-to-back years, and Ernie joined such distinguished company as Billy Casper and Gene Littler when he did it in 1981 and 1982. He also won the 1983 San Diego County Open as an amateur.

He only had moderate success during his first year on TOUR in 1985 but said a year can make a big difference. "It's so much easier the second time around because you know where to stay, where to eat and you're familiar with the facilities at each club."

It also helped when he was married in the Fall of 1985. "When Judy's not out, I keep thinking I'd rather be home with the family. Her being with me has made a big difference, too."

Winner, 1985 Queensland Open. Member Australia's winning 1986 Dunhill Cup team.

There have been many highlights in the spectacular career of David Graham, too many to mention, but everyone knows his victories in the 1979 PGA Championship and the 1981 United States Open Championship would be enough to last many a man a lifetime.

David, the proud man that he is, will treasure those moments forever, but he also is particularly pleased to be ranked as the all-time money winner among the talented Australians who have played the TOUR. He slipped past Bruce Crampton in 1983.

He won well over $100,000 in six straight seasons, with the high mark being reached in 1983. He collected the tidy sum of $244,924. One of the highlights of that year was a victory in the Houston Coca-Cola Open when he came from five strokes behind the last afternoon.

David has established a remarkable record for a fellow who started in the game with a pick-up set of left-handed clubs.

At the Merion Golf Club in the 1981 U.S. Open Championship, he trailed George Burns by three strokes after three rounds. He then played what many have called one of the finest finishing rounds in the history of the tournament. He shot a three-under-par 67 for a total of seven-under 273, one stroke better than Burns and Bill Rogers.

As Rogers said at the awards ceremony, "David Graham hit 18 greens in regulation and in the last round of the U.S. Open, that is unbelievable."

Not many of his eight victories have been easy. His first was in the 1972 Cleveland Open and he had to defeat his close friend, Bruce Devlin, in a playoff.

When he won the PGA Championship in 1979, he was cruising and then he double bogeyed the 18th hole to let Ben Crenshaw tie him. He won it with a birdie on the third extra hole.

In the Memorial Tournament in 1980, Tom Watson was headed for an apparent victory, but David won it with a 30-foot birdie putt at the 18th.

David was only 14-years old when he found the left-handed clubs in his garage in Windsor, Australia. He played with them for two years before making the switch to righthanded. As a 16-year old, he worked in a golf shop in Melbourne and, after a three-year apprenticeship, took a head job at a nine-hole course in Tasmania.

Late in the 1960's, he embarked on the tournament circuit, first through Australia and the Far East. It was a road that has taken him to the very top.

Toward the end of 1984, when Hubert Green was asked to summarize his performance during the year, he grinned and answered, "Just say it was a little bit better."

As a matter of fact, it became considerably better before the season was over as he ended a three-year winless stretch and captured the Southern Open. His strong play continued into 1985 and the highlight of the campaign had to be his stirring victory over Lee Trevino in the PGA Championship at Cherry Hills.

He was two strokes behind Trevino after two rounds, but moved three strokes in front of Lee after the third round. Hubert was able to hold his game together on the treacherous greens and win by two over Trevino for the 19th victory of a very fine career.

He nearly made it 20 last Spring, but Andy Bean caught him on the closing holes in the Doral-Eastern Open and then won with a birdie on the fourth extra hole.

The last three years have been especially satisfying because he had to come back from a disappointing 1983. At the end of that year, he underwent microscopic surgery on his shoulder.

Hubert had stretch of about seven years through the 1970s when he was devastating and certainly one of the outstanding players in the world. During one three-week period in 1976, he won three straight tournaments—Doral-Eastern Open, Greater Jacksonville Open and the Sea Pines Heritage Classic.

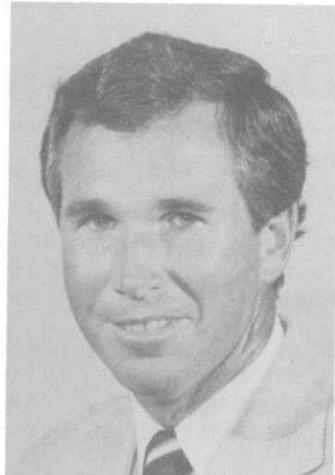

The next year, he won the United States Open in a gutsy performance at Southern Hills in Tulsa. While his swing may have appeared a little unorthodox, it was highly effective.

Hubert started to swing a club at age five, but as he was going through the teen years, he played all sports. "My father was a believer in sports," he says. "He wanted me to play them all, but as I became older, I eliminated one after the other as I realized I wasn't good enough or big enough to play them."

As a result, he began to concentrate more on golf and during his high school days spent considerable time during the summer months playing in the many special invitationals held throughout his native Alabama. The next step was Florida State University.

He turned professional in 1970 and worked for a summer as an assistant pro at Merion Golf Club in Ardmore, PA. He qualified for his TOUR card in the fall of that year.

Success came quickly. In the Houston Champions International, he tied Don January and then birdied the first extra hole for the victory. He was named the "Rookie-of-the year."

The Ken Green story is one of perseverance and in 1985 his dedication and trust in himself paid off handsomely.

After struggling for three years on TOUR and having to regain his playing privileges twice, Green broke through in a big way in 1985 making the top 125 for the second time in his career. He also picked up his first PGA TOUR victory at the Buick Open and he did it in record style.

When Ken travelled to the Warwick Hills CC last August, he had already posted his best money winning year ever and looked like a cinch bet to retain his player's card. By the end of the week there was no question that Green would be around for the next few years at least after he fired rounds of 69-65-67-67—268, 20-under par as he breezed to a four-shot win and set a new tournament record in winning the $81,000 first place check.

"I've been waiting for this for a long, long time," said Green in the interview after the round. "No matter what happens in the future, I can say I won on the PGA TOUR and that's not an easy thing to do."

He showed that it was no fluke, though, when he came back last year to win the inaugural International tournament on his way to picking up a career high $317,835. He also reached the semi-finals of the Seiko-Tucson Match Play Championship before settling for third place.

Ken started playing golf at age 12 when his family moved to Honduras where his father was the principal at the American School.

"The only choices we had in Honduras were to play soccer or golf," Green recalled. "I didn't want to kick the ball, so I just went to golf."

Three years later the family moved back to Connecticut where Ken continued his interest in golf by playing and caddying whenever possible. He also snuck out on a few golf courses during those days.

"I got kicked off the course about 800 times," Green laughed. "I didn't figure they would throw a kid in jail, so I just kept trying."

After playing a little high school golf, Green headed south for Palm Beach JC where his game started to blossom. He then headed for the PGA TOUR's Qualifying Tournament, but failed to earn his card on his first two tries. He finally succeeded in the Fall of 1981, but lost his card when he won only $11,899 in 1982 and returned to the Q-School.

He regained his playing privileges and broke through into the top 125 in 1983 by winning $40,263, but he slumped in 1984 to only $20,160 and again had to re-qualify at the Q-Tournament. He did so and went on to make 1985 a season to remember and the fulfillment of a childhood dream.

"I've thought of nothing else but playing on the TOUR since I was 15 years old," said Green. "Even though I wasn't any good, I still had the dream."

It's a dream no longer for Ken Green.

Jay Haas has been one of the more highly-regarded players on the PGA TOUR for several years and one of the most popular among his colleagues.

Jay quietly goes about his business, wins a few tournaments, challenges numerous times and collects a healthy amount of money. Even when he is in a stretch of sub-par golf—for him—he finds something positive and cheerful to say.

It was a typical Jay Haas year in 1986 as he posted seven top ten finishes while winning $189,204.

He had one hot stretch in the spring where he recorded four straight top ten finishes including a T7 at the TPC and a T6 at the Masters.

Jay's biggest seasons were in 1981 and 1982. He won twice each year, and it was his performance late in 1982 and early 1983 that earned him a position on the U. S. Ryder Cup team.

With former Masters champion Bob Goalby as his uncle, it was a foregone conclusion that Jay would become a professional golfer. Bob started him early, and has helped him through every stage of his career.

"I was about five years old when I started to swing a golf club," Jay recalls. With a wide grin, he went on, "Bob had a club that was broken in half, so it actually was about my size. He put a grip on it, and that was the start. It wasn't long after that he put several more clubs together."

Jay was seven when he played his first tournament—and won his first trophy. It was the National Pee Wee Championship in Orlando, Fla. "We played five holes each day and I scored 26-26-52 to finish third," he said.

Under the tutelage of Goalby, Jay went on to win the Illinois state high school championship in 1972 and then headed for Wake Forest. His junior year was the big one. "I had one stretch when I played some of the best golf of my life," he said. It started with him winning three of his Walker Cup matches, then advancing to the fifth round of the British Amateur; the third week he was low amateur in the U.S. Open at Medinah; and finally, he won the NCAA championship at Ohio State University.

He earned his TOUR card in the Qualifying School in the Fall of 1976.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Only four-time first-team All-America choice in history. Winner 1979 NCAA Championship; 1978, 1979 North-and-South Open; 1977 Illinois Open; 1978, 1979 Illinois Amateur; 1981 Lillie Open (France); 1982 Chunichi Crowns Invitational (Japan).

Since the first day he joined the PGA TOUR in 1980, Gary Hallberg has been one of its more popular citizens. The personable young man from Wake Forest University has been successful, too, although he'll tell you he isn't completely satisfied with his results.

Physical problems cut into his effectiveness early in the 1986 season but, once again, he made San Diego his favorite stop.

Gary's first TOUR victory was in the 1983 Isuzu-Andy Williams-San Diego Open. He nearly won it again in 1984 but Gary Koch shot a splendid final-round 65 at the Torrey Pines Golf Club to tie him and then won the playoff with a birdie on the second extra hole.

Two years ago, Gary tied for 12th in San Diego and last year he made it his best finish of the year, a tie for sixth place.

His victory in 1983 came as a mild surprise. He trailed Tom Kite by four strokes entering the last round and proceeded to shoot a six-under-par 66 to edge Kite by one. He had an eight-foot birdie putt at the final hole and he made it. "My heart was pumping like it's never pumped before," he said.

Gary was an impressive winner all through his amateur career and instant stardom was expected once he joined the PGA TOUR. He did very well through his first few months out of the chute. He was the first player ever to earn his TOUR card by winning the minimum $8,000 needed at the time to obtain playing privileges without going through the Qualifying School. In 11 tournaments, he won $64,244. He finished the year with six top 10 finishes.

Gary started in the game at age nine when his father brought home a set of old clubs. He thought it would be a fine idea for his son to play golf instead of baseball.

"Dad figured he could drop me off at the course on his way to work and pick me up on his way home," Gary said. "If I played baseball, it would only take two-or-three hours."

Once he started to play, he loved the game and worked diligently at it. So much so, in fact, that his Dad finally had to tell him to ease up and not be so serious. He eventually earned a scholarship to Wake Forest, and he went on to become the first four-time, first-team All-America choice. He was the NCAA champion in 1979 and won a total of 14 college tournaments.

During his early teen years, he also played hockey, and it wasn't until he went to Wake Forest that he started to think about being a professional golfer.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Member Canada World Cup Team, 1978, 1979, 1980, 1982 and 1985. Winner 1980 World Cup Team title with Jim Nelford. Winner, 1969 Manitoba Juniors; 1971 Manitoba PGA; 1977, 1978, 1983 and 1984 Manitoba Open; 1977 Saskatchewan Open, 1980 Quebec Open. 1981 and 1982 Canadian Playing Professional of year. 1982 Colorado Open. Leader, 1983 Canadian PGA Order of Merit. Winner of 1985 World Cup team title (with Dave Barr). 1986 Winner, Deposit Guaranty Golf Classic.

Dan Halldorson is another of the fine players to come out of Canada and, after some physical problems in 1983 and in early 1984, he appears to be on the winning track again.

He developed eczema on his hands in the Fall of 1982. He said he tried to come back too soon in 1983, but he kept playing. Instead, his hands became worse and he developed bad habits in his golf swing.

The last two seasons have shown a glimpse of his previous form including an unofficial victory last year at the Deposit Guaranty Classic where he fired rounds of 64-67-66-66-263 to claim a two shot win over Paul Azinger. Still, he was disappointed with his overall performance.

"I didn't play very well all year, I just had a good six or seven week stretch," said Halldorson. "I had a bad swing going and instead of playing with what I had, I tried to change it on the golf course and it didn't work out."

It was in 1980 that he enjoyed perhaps his biggest year. He won the Pensacola Open and then joined with Jim Nelford to give Canada the World Cup team title.

Dan first qualified for the TOUR in the Fall of 1974, but he only won $619 in 1975 and lost his card. He spent the next three years playing all across Canada. "I knew my game wasn't good enough for the TOUR," he said.

He won a few times and piled up a number of second-place finishes, but decided in 1978 that he wasn't going anywhere in the game while playing in his homeland. He wanted another shot at the U.S. TOUR.

He made it through the Qualifying School, and early in 1979, he tasted success. After two rounds of the Hawaiian Open, he was tied for the lead with Fuzzy Zoeller and George Burns, but finally tied for seventh.

Even though he finished 116th on the 1979 money list, he believed the top 60 in 1980 was a realistic goal. After he finished second to Jim Colbert in the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open, winning $32,400, he knew it was.

He already was assured of exempt status for 1981 with a position among the top 60 money winners when he headed for Pensacola. After two rounds of 68-67 at Perdido Bay, he was tied with Gary Hallberg and Tom Kite at nine-under 135. A 70 the third day left him three in back of Bob Mann, but his final-round 70 was all he needed to regain the lead.

The Halldorson family lived across the street from a golf course in Winnipeg, so he started in the game at an early age. He even built a practice range in his back yard.

In his home province, he has won the Manitoba Juniors, the Manitoba PGA and four times the Manitoba Open. In 1981 and 1982, he was honored as the Canadian Playing Professional of the Year.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1982 Florida State Open. Medalist in 1982 PGA TOUR Qualifying School, winning by 14 strokes. Set then course record of 65 at Tournament Players Club in Q-School. Winner 1979 Sun Belt Conference title.

When Ben Crenshaw won medalist honors by 12 strokes in the Fall Qualifying School of 1973, his performance was labeled "incredible." Indeed it was.

Well, in the Fall of 1982, Donnie Hammond did him two better. He was the medalist by an astounding 14 strokes with a six-day, 13-under par score of 419. He had opening rounds of 66 and 68, followed with a 71, and then stunned everyone with a record seven-under par 65 on the tough Tournament Players Club course in Ponte Vedra, FL.

One of the keys, he said, came the first day. He started at No. 10 at the TPC and "When I walked to the 18th green (his ninth hole), I looked up and there was my Dad in the stands. I was three under at the time and I stayed pumped up all week."

His father has had a tremendous amount of influence on Donnie.

His home was in Frederick, MD, and the old Baltimore Colts of the NFL had their pre-season training camp not too far away at Westminster College. "I would go with Dad to watch them, and then he'd play a nine-hole course there. I only had four-or-five irons, but I seemed to pick it up quickly. When he saw that, he bought me a set. I was 13 at the time."

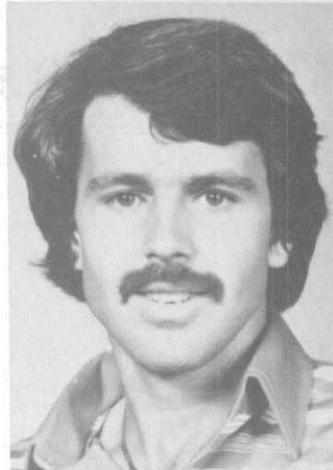

Donnie played at Frederick High School and then went to Jacksonville University. In three years, he won five college events, including the Sun Belt Conference title in 1979 by six strokes. He played on the Space Coast tour for three years.

Since joining the TOUR, Donnie has increased his earnings every year and last year he broke through into the winner's bracket for the first time with a sudden death win over John Cook in the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic.

"That win gave me a lot of momentum and it also changed my schedule around a bit," said Hammond. "I'm planning on playing only 23 or 24 times this year because I want to concentrate harder. I think it's better to try hard in the events you do play than to play a lot. I also plan to play more overseas because it helps break up the year a little."

He credits the win with being more relaxed with the lead saying, "I feel more comfortable now on the leaderboard."

When he is playing well, driving is a strong point because he is able to keep the ball in play.

Morris Hatalsky knows the meaning of hard work, patience and faith. He will tell you, "to be successful, you have to be willing to pay the price to get better."

In July of 1983, he won the Greater Milwaukee Open in a playoff over George Cadle. The next week, he lost a playoff to Danny Edwards in the Miller High Life QCO and then tied for eighth in the Anheuser-Busch Classic. He went on to his first $100,000-plus year.

The first time he reaped the rewards of his dedication was in the Fall of 1982 when he won the Hall of Fame Classic on the famed No. 2 course at Pinehurst, winning by two strokes over Jerry Pate and D.A. Weibring.

Last year he saved some of his finest performance for late in the season. A 65 the third day led to a tie for fifth place in the Hardee's Golf Classic in July. In late September, he was in contention most of the way before finishing tied for ninth in the Greater Milwaukee Open.

The next week, he opened with a 66 in the Southwest Classic and despite the windy conditions, he managed to tie for third place.

Although he played well for much of the year, he said his putting was a little suspect at times, costing him a few stronger finishes.

A few years ago, he started to spend considerable time working on the mechanics of his swing. As a result, his ability to score improved.

"It was something I had to do," he explains. "I've not only learned a lot about the golf swing but about myself as well. I know the work will pay off for many years."

Morris started in golf at age 10 after his brother gave him a set of clubs. "I fell in love with the game right away," he said. Living in San Diego, it wasn't long until he was competing on the junior level and winning. At age 17, for example, he won the Mexico National Junior title, and in 1969, was the San Diego high school golfer of the year.

After two years at Arizona State University, he transferred to the United States International University and continued to play well. While a freshman at Arizona State, he was a teammate of Howard Twitty, Tom Purtzer and Bob Gilder.

Mark Hayes started to play golf at age six under the watchful eye of his father, a high school physical education teacher and golf coach.

Since that time, Mark has gone about his way, dedicating himself to succeeding in the game, and he has been successful. His biggest victory came in the 1977 Tournament Players Championship at Sawgrass, and with it, a 10-year exemption on the TOUR.

A few years ago, Mark started to make a major swing change, primarily getting a bigger turn and using his upper body more. He also has been working with Dr. Bob Rotella, the sports psychologist. "I've always been a positive person," Mark said, "but he has taught me how to relax more. It's difficult, though, when you're not playing well."

Two years ago, he tied for third place in the Texas Open and the check for $20,000 boosted him over the $1-million mark in earnings.

Last year turned out to be his best financially since 1981 and it was highlighted by a victory in the Tallahassee Open.

At the age of 13, the family returned to Stillwater, where Mark was born and there he came under the tutelage of Labron Harris, Sr., the Oklahoma State University coach and a close friend of Mark's dad.

"One of the reasons I was so dedicated to the game," Mark says, "was that I was small for my age and I couldn't do anything else well. I practiced every day. I never thought about doing anything else for a living but playing golf."

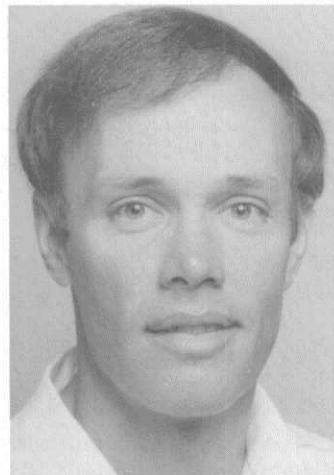

One highlight of his blossoming career came in the annual Texas vs. Oklahoma Junior matches, and he defeated Tom Kite in the final.

During his years at Stillwater High and Oklahoma State, he was a teammate of Doug Tewell, and it was Mark who eventually convinced Doug that he should play the TOUR for a living.

After leaving college, he went into the Army for two years and spent most of his time at Fort Jackson, SC, working in the golf shop. There at the same time was Joe Inman.

He arrived on the TOUR in the Fall of 1973 and broke through with two victories in 1976. He led the Byron Nelson Classic from wire-to-wire and closed the year with a victory in the Pensacola Open.

His closest brush with victory in the last few years was in the 1981 Greater Greensboro Open. He was leading Larry Nelson by two, approaching the final green, but Nelson made a near impossible bunker shot for a birdie. Mark, stunned by the turn of events, made bogey from the back fringe. Larry won it all with a birdie on the second extra hole of their playoff.

When you look at the PGA TOUR record of Lon Hinkle, it appears as if it was compiled by two different players. In his first five years, he won a grand total of $40,876. In the next year alone, he easily surpassed that figure. Since then, he has been one of the leading players in the game.

He hit a high mark in 1979, winning $247,693 and finishing third on the money list. His earnings dipped in 1982 when he suffered with a shoulder injury. But, he rebounded in 1983 with another $100,000-plus year and generally has played well ever since. Recently, he became affiliated with the Eagle Bend Country Club in Big Fork, Montana. "We're going to spend the summers up there," he said, "and it's given me a new lease on my golfing life."

Chatting about his early days on TOUR, he says, "my goals were too low. My main goal was to survive. When things would go bad over here, I'd bail out and go overseas to find an easier game."

On one of those trips, he met Edith, a Swiss beauty, and she gave him a new purpose to life.

While his first victory was in the 1978 New Orleans Open, he had his biggest year in 1979, winning the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am in a playoff over Mark Hayes and Andy Bean. He also won the World Series of Golf, outlasting Larry Nelson to the wire.

Lon's father is a Professor in Literature at San Diego State University, and Lon started in the game of golf at age 13, shortly after the family moved from Granville, Ohio, to San Diego. He'd play golf every day.

There are seven Hinkle children and in the early days, it wasn't unusual for all of them to be competing in junior golf tournaments around southern California.

Lon received a mental boost in 1980 when he finished third to Jack Nicklaus in the United States Open and PGA Championships. Although Jack won both by comfortable margins, Lon learned in those two experiences that he could win the significant championships.

His biggest enjoyment in 1981 came in the National Long Drive contest. He won with a belt of 338 yards, six inches and became the first TOUR player ever to win it.

Scott Hoch who lead the TOUR in scoring last year with a 70.08 average is known for his ability to put low numbers on the scoreboard but it seems as if he saves his best for the hot summer months.

Last year, for example, in a period covering seven tournaments beginning in mid-June, he had five top 10 finishes. He was second in the Provident Classic and then tied for third in the Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Classic and the Canon-Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open.

"That basically was my whole year," he said. "I putted very well during that stretch and that was the difference."

It was the same in 1984 when he went over the $200,000 mark for the first time. He started the year by reaching the semi-finals of the Seiko-Tucson Match Play before being edged by Tom Watson, 2 and 1. He captured third place in a 2 and 1 decision over Lanny Wadkins.

He saved his best for a two-month period in the summer when he won the Lite Quad Cities Open for the second time, finished third at the Kemper and Buick Opens, was fourth in the Western Open and sixth in the Anheuser-Busch Classic.

Scott qualified for the PGA TOUR in the Fall of 1979 but before he had a chance to tee it up in his first start, the 1980 Phoenix Open, he jarred his back and had to withdraw. The pain became so severe he could not even swing a club. It wasn't until the Atlanta Classic in June—the 23rd tournament of the year—that he was able to play 72 holes. He went 15 weeks without even trying to enter.

A few weeks later, in the Quad Cities Open, he shot a course-record 63 the first day and never was headed. He went on to set a tournament record 14-under-par 266 and edged two of his former Wake Forest teammates, Curtis Strange who was second, and Gary Hallberg, who finished third.

The back continued to bother him the rest of the year. In fact, there still are times when he can not go full bore.

He was raised in an athletic family and started to play golf at age eight. His father, Art, preceded him at Wake Forest, earning All-American honors in baseball and then played professionally until injuries shortened a promising career. Scott's brother, Buddy, is a professional bowler.

At Wake Forest, he was a teammate of Strange, Jay Haas, Bob Byman and David Thore when the Demons won the 1975 NCAA team title.

Mike Hulbert will tell you his rookie season of 1985 may not have been too impressive on paper, "but I probably had more fun on the TOUR than anyone who won only $18,000. It was a great experience for me."

You can imagine how much fun he had last year as he collected more than a quarter-million dollars and won the Federal Express St. Jude Classic in Memphis along the way.

What made the week even more exciting for Mike was the fact that he had to outduel his closest friend, Joey Sindelar, all the way to the finish. "I still can't believe it," Mike was saying long after the final putt had dropped. "I don't know when it will hit me."

The Hulbert-Sindelar relationship goes all the way back to their days as kids in Horseheads, NY. "Joey's family lived by the golf course," Mike recalls. "When I first started to go over there, I met Joey and we became friends right away. We'd play every day and we'd play as many holes as we could."

"We didn't have any formal instructions. I picked up tidbits from my dad and Joey's dad and we helped each other as much as we could."

There was no doubt in Mike's mind that Joey was the better player. As they grew older, Joey headed for Ohio State University. Mike, meanwhile, started scouting around for a smaller school with a good program and he finally settled on East Tennessee State.

He went there on his own but he soon impressed the coaches enough to obtain a scholarship. His senior year, he was named third team All-American. After he was graduated, he tried the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament four times without success.

Finally he made it in the Fall of 1984 and said, "It was the highlight of my life."

His best finish as a rookie was a tie for 18th place in the Anheuser-Busch Classic. Statistically, it wasn't very impressive, but Mike knew he had made a lot of progress.

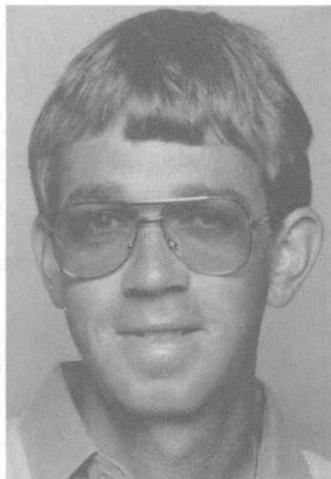

It started to show early in 1986. In his third start, the Shearson Lehman Brothers Andy Williams Open, he tied for third place. He pointed out, "I missed a putt of four feet on the last hole that would have put me in the (Bob Tway-Bernhard Langer) Playoff." He won $23,400.

Five weeks later at the Hertz-Bay Hill Classic, he birdied five of the first six holes and three of the last four to shoot a 64. He tied with Ray Floyd for second place, just one stroke behind Dan Forsman.

His steady play continued but his next strong finish didn't come until the PGA Championship at Inverness. A 69-68 start helped him to tie for seventh place. "That was a big one," Mike said, "because it qualified me for the (1987) Masters."

Two weeks later, he earned his victory at the Colonial country Club in Memphis with a 68-69 finish for an eight-under-par 280. It was worth $109,064.

How much fun did Mike have on TOUR last year? Hell tell you it was far more than any of us can imagine.

The great players always seem to find a way to win, to keep a good round going, to keep a streak alive. Even during those moments when the situation appears near impossible, they have the skills to execute.

Hale Irwin has been known as one of the brilliant shotmakers in the game, and when you mix in the competitive heart he possesses, you have a man who knows no boundaries.

As an example of his consistency, he went from early 1975 through the 1978 schedule—covering 86 tournaments—without missing a 36-hole cut. That's the third best streak in TOUR history.

He went the distance in all 20 starts in 1983, and one resulted in a most satisfying victory in the Memorial Tournament. He said of it, "I've always wanted to win the Memorial Tournament. My desire has been very high ever since the first year."

In 1985, he won the Memorial again by outdueling Lanny Wadkins down the stretch but last year proved to be a disappointment. He opened the season by winning the Bahamas Classic, an official event, so he had great expectations.

It turned out to be his most frustrating year on tour. "I can't point to any one thing," he said, "except to say the outside activities took their toll."

In 1981, after going for nearly 20 months without a victory, he won twice in impressive style, the Hawaiian Open and the Buick Open and both came after spending a week vacationing with his family at the resort he represents, Kapalua on Maui in Hawaii.

In 1984, he gained a victory in a rather unusual fashion. In the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, he needed a birdie on the testy 18th at Pebble Beach to tie Jim Nelford, who already had finished his round. Hale's tee shot went far to the left, hit a rock on the Carmel Bay beach and ricocheted back onto the fairway. He made his birdie. On the second extra hole of the playoff, he hit a poor three wood into a bunker, but then struck one of the great two irons of his career to nine feet and he made it for the victory.

His first victory was in the 1971 Heritage Classic, but two of the highest points of his career came in triumphs in the 1974 U. S. Open at Winged Foot and the 1979 Open at Inverness.

Many years ago, someone coined the phrase, "Nice things happen to nice people." Whoever said it first, must have had Peter Jacobsen in mind.

Peter is one of the most personable and popular men in the game, and he certainly had a lot of nice things happen to him in 1984. For starters, he won twice, at the Colonial NIT and the Sammy Davis, Jr.-Greater Hartford Open.

His victory at the Colonial came in a playoff over Payne Stewart and came just the week after Peter's father had undergone a rather serious operation. When he dropped a birdie putt on the first extra hole, Peter said, "Well, this one's for you, Dad."

He followed with another strong year in 1985, going well over the $200,000 mark. He went over the century figure for the fifth straight year in 1986, although he had physical problems early in the year and it wasn't until the latter half of the season that he started to play the way you expect Peter Jacobsen to play.

The highlight of the year was his third-place finish in the PGA Championship at the Inverness Club.

His first victory was in the 1980 Buick-Goodwrench Open. The next year, he nearly won it again, only to lose in a playoff to Hale Irwin. Two years ago, he finished third in the PGA Championship at Riviera Country Club and the effort was especially satisfying. "It showed me I do have the ability to be a factor in major championships."

Most important, Peter remains his happy, personable self, a delight to sponsors and galleries at every stop he makes on the TOUR.

Peter started in the game at age 12. His father taught him the fundamentals, and his older brother, David, also helped considerably. "They are about the only teachers I've ever had," he says.

He went to the University of Oregon and won the PAC-8 Conference championship in 1974. He was named to the collegiate All-America team three years. In 1976, he won the Oregon Open and the Northern California Open.

Along with his playing skills, Peter also is in demand for clinics and exhibitions.

Barry Jaeckel would like to believe he gets closer each year to being the type of consistent player he feels he can be. "I'm looking for more consistency," he said, "more of the middle line. I still have too many ups-and-downs."

Two years ago, he saw a vast improvement. "It was the most consistent year I've ever had and I have to give credit to Lee Trevino for some advice he gave me on course management. He talked about things you can do on a course and the things you can't do. It made a huge difference."

Last year, he was off to a fine start and had back-to-back sixth-place finishes in the Los Angeles Open and the Honda Classic. "I was going very well until just after the U. S. Open," he said, "and for some unknown reason, my ability to score left me."

He definitely had an "up" week in the 1983 Kemper Open at the Congressional CC when he tied with four others, but he lost in the playoff which eventually was won by Fred Couples.

Barry isn't the type to look back and think about what might have been, but even though he has had a fine career, he can be excused if he occasionally recalls the duel he had with Raymond Floyd in the Spring of 1981.

In the Tournament Players Championship at Sawgrass, Barry held a one-stroke lead after two rounds and three strokes after three, but Floyd and Curtis Strange came on strong the last afternoon to force a tie. Then, Raymond defeated Barry and Curtis on the first extra hole.

"I don't feel I lost it," the classy Jaeckel said. "A great player beat me and a great player tied me, I'll go away smiling." That's vintage Jaeckel, and he did go away smiling.

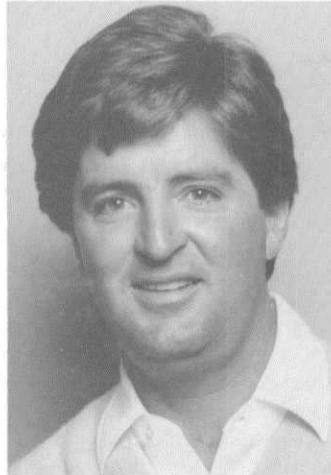

His first victory came in the 1978 Tallahassee Open when he defeated Bruce Lietzke in a playoff.

The handsome Californian started in the game in rather unusual fashion. "I visited a friend's house when I was a kid. I don't remember how old I was, but he had this golf club. It felt good to swing and I thought I'd like to try the game."

He went on to make his high school golf team, and played most of his golf at the famed Riviera Country Club, where his parents were members. His first important title was the 1968 Southern California Amateur and he was runner-up in the 1971 Pacific Coast Amateur.

After turning professional in 1971, he played the mini-tours and overseas, winning the 1972 French Open.

He is the son of Richard Jaeckel, a character actor who has had roles in dozens of movies and many television series.

It may be a long time before anyone has a year quite like the one Tom Kite enjoyed in 1981, but he keeps getting close to a repeat.

You remember how brilliantly consistent he was in 1981, winning the inaugural PGA TOUR Arnold Palmer Award as the leading money winner; capturing the Vardon Trophy for his 69.80 stroke average; and compiling an incredible 21 top 10 finishes in 26 starts. He was eighth or better in his last 10 starts and later was honored by the Golf Writers of America as the Player-of-the-Year.

Just as in 1981, Tom claimed only one victory in 1982, as he defeated Jack Nicklaus and Denis Watson in the Bay Hill Classic, but he also lost another, the Bob Hope Desert Classic, in a playoff to Ed Fiori. He did win his second straight Vardon Trophy with a 70.21 average; and only missed the cut once in 25 starts. When he missed it in the Canadian Open, it ended a string of 53 successful tournaments.

A victory at Pebble Beach in 1983 came courtesy of a course record 62 and he returned in 1984 to win twice. In addition, wife Christy presented him with twin sons.

Last year, while not his usual consistent self, Kite did win the Western Open title in a playoff extending his streak of consecutive years with at least one victory to a TOUR high six.

"It was a fair year, but not a Tom Kite consistent year," said the Texan. "It was a little inconsistent for me, but I'm working hard to get that back this year."

Kite's life in golf began at age 6, when his father put a club in his hand for the first time and urged him to take a swipe. At 11 he won his first tournament, an age-group event at the Country Club of Austin, Tex. He began to take the game seriously three years later.

Before his 21st birthday in 1970, Tom was medalist in the Western Amateur, runnerup to Laney Wadkins in the U.S. Amateur, second in the Southern Amateur and was named to the four-man U. S. team in the World Amateur Team Championship.

The following year he was chosen on the U. S. Walker Cup team and, in 1972, he shared the NCAA title with his University of Texas teammate, Ben Crenshaw.

A few months after Kenny Knox started to play golf at age nine, he knew this was the game for him. "I never thought about anything else," he says. "My family is in the construction business, but when I was in high school, they wouldn't let me touch a hammer."

It was his dedication that led to his success in high school golf, and then at Florida State University and finally all the way to becoming a winner on the PGA TOUR. He won the 1986 Honda Classic the hard way, by refusing to buckle under the pressure and turning back the challenges of such players as Andy Bean, John Mahaffey, Clarence Rose and Jodie Mudd, to name a few.

This is another one of those heart-warming success stories. He started to play when his parents joined the Columbus (GA) Country Club. A year later, he was participating in junior tournaments in the area.

"My mother would drop my brother Mike and myself off at the club at 7:30 in the morning," he recalls, "and she would come back to pick us up at dark. We would play and practice all day, every day when we could."

Charlie Harper, the pro at Columbus CC, gave Kenny the basics, but he says, "I'm more of a self-taught player." He learned by watching and experimenting.

As a sophomore in high school, the team won the Georgia State championship and Kenny finished third in individual play. The next year, the family moved to Tallahassee, FL. When he was graduated, he moved on to Florida State and attained more success.

In those days, his only thought was to play on the PGA TOUR. He turned professional soon after graduation and made his bid in the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1978. He didn't make it. Six more times he tried before finally getting his card in the Fall of 1981.

Since he won only $6,919 in 1982, he lost his playing privileges. He went back to the qualifier again in the Fall of 1982, but missed. He did succeed in the Fall of 1983, but he had to return in the Fall of 1984 after finishing 168th on the money list.

He did tie for eighth place in the 1985 Pensacola Open and boosted his winnings to $26,963 for the year and was ranked 146th. Hoping to improve his position, he returned to the qualifier, but missed. Now, he had to rely on his position on the 1985 money list to gain entry into 1986 tournaments. At 146th place, he would be well down the list.

He did not play at all on the West Coast. It didn't appear as if he would get into the Honda Classic either, so he shelled out $100 entry fee and took his chances in the Open qualifier. He shot a 67 and gained the fourth-and-last position.

He surprised a few people by taking the first-day lead on the TPC at Eagle Trace course with a 6-under-par 66. The next day, he birdied the final two holes for a 71 and a 137 total. He led by one over Bean and two over Tom Weiskopf.

The third day, the wind blew extremely hard. On a day when the average score for the field was more than 79 strokes, Kenny shot an 80. It wasn't surprising that his one-over-par 217 was only two strokes out of the lead being shared by Bean and Rose.

The last afternoon, he was amazingly calm under the pressure. While others fired and fell back, Kenny made the critical shots when he had to make them. His 70 for a one-under-par 287 was one better than Bean, Mahaffey, Rose and Mudd. He continued to play very well the rest of the year to establish his position as one of the better players in the game.

It was a difficult road to the top, but Kenny Knox made it.

First-team All-American, 1972, 1973, 1974. Member 1973 NCAA Championship team at Florida. Winner of 10 collegiate events. Member 1973 and 1975 Walker Cup team, 1974 U.S. World Amateur Cup team.

After seven years of so-so success on the PGA TOUR, Gary Koch has emerged as one of the truly fine players in the game. His is an example of perseverance and many others would like to follow in his footsteps.

In the Fall of 1982, he was playing for what he called, "my golfing life." He needed a good showing at one of the final events of the year to finish among the leading 125 money winners and earn exempt status for 1983. He gained it at the LaJet Classic, finishing fifth and collecting $14,000.

He went on from there to have an excellent campaign in 1983, winning the Doral-Eastern Open. His victory was highlighted by a hole-in-one on the 225th yard fourth hole.

In 1984, he did even better. He won twice and both times he came from six strokes behind the last day to catch the leaders and then win in playoffs. He defeated Gary Hallberg in the Isuzu-Andy Williams San Diego Open and George Burns in the Bay Hill Classic. In both instances, he did it with a birdie on the second extra hole.

While 1985 was not up to his expectations, he easily went over the $100,000 mark, just as he did again last year. He considered 1986 "one of the most consistent" years he has ever had.

Most pleasing was his splendid performances in the year's more significant championships, especially the Masters along with the U.S. and British Opens. In fact, his tie for sixth place in the British was the best American performance.

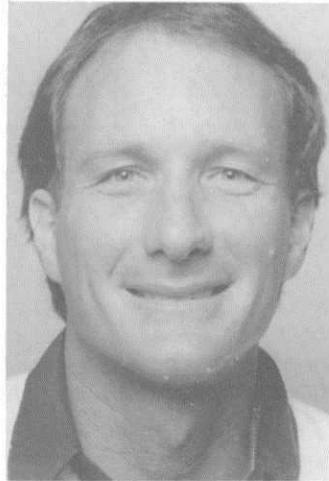

In recent years, he has been working closely with Peter Kostis.

Gary was a brilliant amateur player. He won such titles as the 1970 U.S. Junior, three Florida State juniors and won the 1969 Florida State Open as a 16-year-old. He won 10 tournaments at the University of Florida and was a runner-up twice in the NCAA Championship.

Twice, he played for Uncle Sam in Walker Cup competition and once on a World Amateur Cup team.

When he came out on the TOUR for the start of 1976, he won early in the Tallahassee Open by a stroke over John Mahaffey. The next year, he won the Florida Citrus Open by two strokes. He played well until part way through 1978 when he tore ligaments in his left thumb. "I continued to play with it, and made it worse," he said.

At the end of 1979, he had to have an operation and "it took quite a while for me to get back on track. I feel I'm there, now."

Member of 1981, 1983 and 1985 European Ryder Cup team. Leader in European Order of Merit, 1981 and 1984; Five-time member of German World Cup team. Member, 1985 European Nissan Cup team.

Bernhard Langer moved from out of the shadows and into the sunshine as one of the world's outstanding players in 1985, especially after his back-to-back victories in the Masters Tournament and the Sea Pines Heritage Classic.

Bernhard was six-strokes off the pace at the halfway mark at the Augusta National Golf Club, and he was at his brilliant best during the final two rounds. He shot a pair of 68s to overtake a struggling Curtis Strange and won by two strokes over Strange, Raymond Floyd and Seve Ballesteros.

The next week, Langer took the lead after the third round on the Harbour Town links and then was tied by Bobby Wadkins, but the German star won it all on the first extra hole with a par.

Bernhard already was considered one of the better players on the European Tour when he headed for the United States and the 1981 World Series of Golf at the Firestone Country Club.

It was his first exposure to life on the PGA TOUR and he wanted to make a good impression. He did that—and more. "At one point early in the back nine the last day," he recalls vividly, "I was tied for the lead. It was a good feeling because I knew then that I could play over here. Until you do it, you never can be certain." He went on to finish in a tie for sixth place.

In the Spring of 1984, he played in eight PGA TOUR events, made the cut in all eight and had three top 10 finishes. He earned $82,465, easily enough to qualify for his TOUR card.

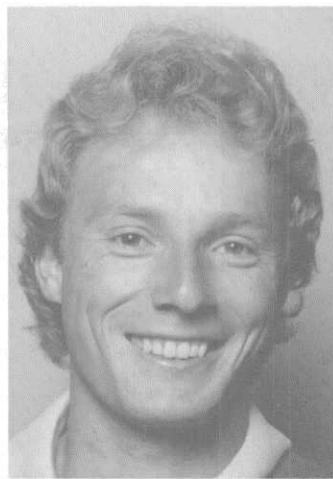

Bernhard started in the game as a caddy at age nine at the Augsburg Country Club in his hometown of Anhausen, West Germany. After a few weeks, he decided he wanted to play. With a laugh, he said, "They made me play up-and-down the practice range until I reached a certain standard and then they let me on the course."

For the next seven years, he would play, practice and caddy whenever he could. In 1972, when he was finished with his formal schooling at age 15, he headed for Munich and went to work as an assistant professional at the Munich Golf and Country Club. Heinz Fenring was the head pro, and he became Bernhard's first and only teacher.

After a few months, Fenring asked him "What's your target? Do you want to be a teacher or player?" Bernhard told him he didn't know how good a player he was, but he would rather be a player. By the same token, he wanted to learn more about the golf profession.

When he completed the apprentice program at age 18, he set out on the European tour and in 1979 won his first event, the World Under-25 Championship in France. The next year, he won three times. He was on his way to stardom.

One of his most satisfying victories came in the 1981 German Open because he became the first native-born German to win it. He also won it in 1982, 1985 and again last year.

Wayne Levi has a good reason to be proud of his record. He averaged a victory a year through his first eight full years on the TOUR and played in the MONY Tournament of Champions on eight straight occasions.

The string was broken last year mainly, he said, because of his putting. "I hit the ball well enough. I didn't have the consistency on the greens."

The eighth victory on his string came in the 1985 Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Classic when he defeated young Steve Pate in a playoff. He reached a milestone in 1984 when he went over the $1-million mark in earnings. "That was a great accomplishment for me," he said.

He has been able to reach these goals without devoting 100 percent of his efforts to the game. His family is very important and he spends as much time as possible with them.

As an example, prior to his victory in the 1983 Buick Open, he skipped five of the preceding six events, saying, "I wanted to be home to see Lauren crawl (their second-born) and I want to be there to see her walk. There will be many more tournaments, but you get to see that only once."

His "annual" victory in 1984 came in the B.C. Open and it was especially satisfying because his home is not too far to the north of Endicott, NY.

On a historical note, when he won the 1982 Hawaiian Open, he did so using Wilson's Optic Orange ball. He thus became the first player to win a TOUR event while using a colored golf ball.

Wayne started to play golf at age 13, mainly because his pals were playing the game. He fell in love with it almost immediately. During his days at Herkimer High School in upper New York State, he never lost a match, and won the 1970 New York State Interscholastic title. During his two years at Oswego State College, he lost only once.

In the summer of 1972, he headed for Florida so that he could devote 12 months of the year to his game. After two years of mini-tour action, he tried for his TOUR card, but didn't make it on his first two attempts. Meanwhile, he played wherever he could find a game throughout Florida and, during the summer months, on the New England circuit. He won numerous events, and his first was the 1973 New Hampshire Open.

He is proud of the fact, and rightly so, that he played well enough on the mini-tours in 1974 and 1975 to be able to sponsor himself. In June of 1977, he made it through the Qualifying School.

When Bruce Lietzke's game is right—and it usually is—he is one of the finest players in the game. It has been said, and rightly so, that he is capable of winning anywhere at any time under any condition.

So, it wasn't a surprise when he came from four strokes behind during the last round of the Honda Classic in 1984 to tie Andy Bean and then win the tournament on the first extra hole.

While he hasn't won since then, Lietzke was his usual consistent self last year. He made the cut in 20 of 22 outings with five top ten finishes.

"I'm disappointed that I didn't win, but I was very consistent," said Lietzke. "I didn't have any outstanding weeks, but I was better than I was in 1985."

He is playing more of a limited schedule now, explaining, "I play where I really want to play and the result is I've played more quality golf. I want to be anxious to play when I get to a tournament site."

During the week of the 1982 Canadian Open, even though he was playing well, he kept insisting that he didn't expect to win. He held a two-stroke lead going into the final round at Glen Abbey, and told everyone he felt he had a good chance to win, but didn't expect to win. He did, of course, by two strokes over Hal Sutton.

It is hard to believe, but there was a time when Bruce put his golf clubs in the closet and wasn't certain if he wanted to continue with the game. It was in the Spring of 1973, shortly after he left the University of Houston.

"I had played so much through high school and college that I was tired of it," he said. At that time, he said he was through with the game. "Oh, I suppose, in the back of my mind, I knew I would get back to it."

Six months later, he did, and he turned professional in 1974. He missed by one stroke in his first attempt at qualifying for the PGA TOUR, but he made it in the Spring of 1975.

He played well on TOUR almost from the start, although his first victory did not come until the 1977 Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open when he defeated Gene Little on the fourth extra hole. A couple of weeks later he won again in the Hawaiian Open.

Bruce started to play golf at age five when brother Duane, then an assistant professional in Wichita, Kan., gave him a cut-down set of clubs. While at Beaumont Forest Park High School in Texas, he won the Texas State Scholastic title as a sophomore and helped his team to one championship and three seconds in his four years. While at the University of Houston—where he roomed with Bill Rogers—he won the 1971 Texas State Amateur.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Named All-Mid-American Conference three years; honorable mention All-American, 1983.

Robert Lohr surprised a few people during his rookie year when his name popped up on the leader board at the Houston Open but he let people know by his performance at The Woodlands that he is here to stay for a long time.

He tied for second place on the new Tournament Players Club course and two weeks later, he tied for eighth place in the Byron Nelson Classic.

"The good finishes happened early enough in the year," he said, "to let me enjoy the rest of the year. It took what-ever pressure there might have been off of me and let me play my game. It also helped me get into a couple of tournaments because of my position on the money list."

Last year, he said, was almost a repeat performance of 1985, although he believes his ball-striking ability has improved. "I'm striving to play within myself and gain more consistency," he said.

After he came out of the Qualifying School last Fall, he didn't set any specific goals, "except to finish among the 125 money winners." I've never been a goal-oriented person," he explained. "Sometimes you can reach a goal and where do you go from there? I just want to continue to improve and learn what I can."

Two years ago, he played on the Tournament Players Series and says he learned a valuable lesson. "I realized more than ever that you have to play the course itself and not the other players. When I came out on the regular TOUR, it was easy to look at a leader board and think, 'How can I ever beat these guys.'

"If you play your own game and put a good score on the board, it doesn't make any difference what the other people do. It sounds simple enough, but it is something you have to learn and adjust to it."

Robert started to play the game at a relatively-young age, but he also was an outstanding baseball pitcher as a youngster. He continued to pitch through high school, but when he went to Miami University in Ohio, he had to make a decision, since both sports were played in the Spring. It wasn't an easy decision, but he decided to stay with golf.

Now that he is on the TOUR, he said there are special advantages. "Everything is for free," he said with a grin. He explained, "I'm not talking about material things. I used to pay $10-or-so to watch Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson hit balls on the practice range. Now, I can watch all the great players for as long as I want for nothing. I can see the way they act, the way they swing and the way they manage their games."

Is there pressure on the TOUR? He says there is some but adds, "Pressure is when you're on the mound, the bases are loaded, it's the bottom of the ninth and you have a 3-and-0 count on the batter."

Wherever the "pressure" is found, he's managed to handle it well.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Southern Open-3.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Three-time All-American. Member 1985 Walker Cup team. Winner of eight collegiate events. Winner of 1981 Georgia State Juniors; 1984 North & South Amateur; 1984 ACC Championship.

Davis Love III said, "I started to play golf as soon as I could walk. As long as I can remember that's all I've wanted to do. When I was nine-or-10 years old, there wasn't any doubt in my mind. I wanted to be a pro."

It was a natural happening. When Davis was just a tot, his father was playing on the TOUR. For many years, Davis Love Jr. has been regarded as one of the premier teachers/technicians in the game.

"Whenever I would be doing something with Dad," Davis said of his early days, "it would be playing golf."

"I grew up around tournaments. We went to great places and I had the chance to meet a lot of the great players and a lot of wonderful people."

"It was because of all of those things that I decided I wanted to be a part of it. I found out at an early age that golf is like no other sport."

"I didn't have a lot of success in junior golf," he said, "but when I went to the University of North Carolina, I was ready for it. Dad worked with me a lot and we built a swing that would last."

Since he had spent all of his life in the golfing environment, he knew it wouldn't be an easy road to travel. He knew it would take hours of hard work to stay one stroke ahead of the next guy.

"What I didn't realize," he said, "was how much fun it would be. I've met so many nice people, made good friends and done things I never would have been able to do if it wasn't for the TOUR."

It was a good first year for the three-time All-American and former Walker Cup player. He was in position to win on a couple of occasions and it was disappointing not to get the victory, but looking at the season as a whole, it was a good one.

He established himself early as one of the longest hitters in the game and went on to finish first in the EPSON driving distance stats, averaging 285.7 yards.

In the Canadian Open, he was tied with Greg Norman and Mac O'Grady, just one stroke behind the leader, Bob Murphy, after three rounds, but a closing 74 dropped him into a tie for third place.

In the Buick Open, he was in the lead by three strokes after two rounds (65-67—132). A third-round 70 dropped him into a tie for the lead with Ben Crenshaw, Tom Purtzer and Steve Pate. Crenshaw came on to win as Davis shot a one-under-par 71 and tied for fifth place.

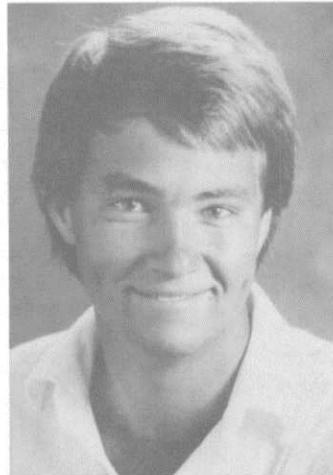

As he looked back, however, he said the one thing "that made my year happened at the Tournament Players Championship."

"I was paired with Ben Crenshaw the last day. I had a really good round (67) while playing in front of a lot of people with one of the stars in the game."

"That day, something told me I belonged. I'm not certain I would have had the year I've had without that experience."

"Ben was so pleasant all day," he continued. "He tried to help me the best he could in the situation. He inspired me to play better."

And, thus, a bright young star was born.

As long as Mark Lye is playing golf, there never will be another afternoon such as the hot-and-humid one at the Pleasant Valley Country Club in Sutton MA, in September of 1983.

After seven years of battling on the TOUR, he finally won his first tournament, coming from eight strokes behind the last day with a brilliant eight-under-par 64 to win by one shot over John Mahaffey, Jim Thorpe, and Sammy Rachels. He finished birdie, par, birdie, birdie.

An emotional sort, Mark said, "I was beginning to believe winning was out of my reach. It isn't that you're not good enough, it's just that some people can't rise to it."

He came back with another very good year in 1984, with his performance in the Masters Tournament standing out. He led by two strokes after two rounds and was the center of national media attention. He finally finished tied for sixth.

He had the finest round of his career in the third round of the 1984 Walt Disney World Classic. He shot a course record 11-under par 61 at the Lake Buena Vista Country Club.

He has been working on a few new swing thoughts the last couple of years but his progress was slowed slightly last year due to back and rib problems. He has always been one of the game's more active players but he was forced to cut back on a few tournaments last year because of the injuries.

Although he now resides in Ft. Myers, FL, he grew up on the fairways of the Silverado Country Club in Napa, CA and it was there in the 1979 Kaiser International that he nearly won his first tournament. With the cheers of his hometown friends ringing in his ears, he was tied with Lon Hinkle for the third-round lead, but finally had to settle for something less as several others came on strong at the wire.

As soon as Mark started to play the game, he knew he would be a golfer for the rest of his life. He received his first set of clubs as a nine-year-old, and he played every day, all day.

He played all over California, and in 1970, he was the No. 1 junior on the state's point system. As a 12-and-13-year old, he was winning tournaments.

He headed for San Jose State after being graduated from high school, and it was difficult at first, because he still had not started to sprout. As a freshman, he was five-feet-nine, 125 pounds. By the end of the next year, he was close to his present size of six-feet-two, 175 pounds.

After being graduated from San Jose State, he set his sights on the TOUR, but first headed for Europe for more experience. He tried the Qualifying School in the Fall of 1975 and missed and again in the Spring of 1976 and missed. He was off to Europe, and then Australia after that, and blossomed a winner. In fact, he won the 1976 Australian Order of Merit. In the Fall of 1976, he was back in the Qualifying School, and he made it.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1985 British Open. Winner of 16 international events such as 1978 Nigerian Open; 1979 Scandinavian Open, European Open; 1981 French Open; 1983 Madrid Open; 1984 Italian Open, Lancome Trophy, Kapalua International, Casio World (Japan). Member 1979, 1981, 1983, 1985 European Ryder Cup team, Member 1985, 1986, European Nissan Cup team (individual winner in 1985). Member 1977 British Walker Cup team.

Sandy Lyle never will experience another week quite like the one at the Open Championship on the Royal St. George's course in England in the Summer of 1985.

He became the first "home" winner of the Championship since Tony Jacklin won at Royal Lytham in 1969, and only the second since Max Faulkner won it in 1951.

He was three strokes off the lead after three rounds. He commented, "Things just hadn't clicked for me. My swing wasn't quite right and the putts weren't dropping."

"Then, bingo, suddenly I had achieved my life's ambition. The birdie putts I holed at the 14th and 15th holes were the key."

He won by a stroke over Payne Stewart.

Following the victory, Sandy was looking forward to more great successes. He did have a splendid week on the PGA TOUR in April of 1986 when he won the Greater Greensboro Open by two strokes over Andy Bean.

"I was very happy with the win at Greensboro," he said, "but the rest of the year, not only in the States but in Europe, was below average. The Open championship took a lot out of me, more than I anticipated."

At the Forest Oaks Country Club in Greensboro, Sandy took the lead the second day when he equaled the course record with a 64. He stayed in front the rest of the way.

"Winning over here was very rewarding," he said, "and it relieved me of one of my mental problems - winning on the American Tour. I've won everywhere else."

Sandy was born in Scotland but has made his home in England for many years. It was logical for him to be attracted to the game at an early age. His father, Alex, was a golf professional for many years, although he is retired now.

Since the first day he picked up a club, however, his father has been his mentor and advisor.

At the age of 10, Sandy broke 80 for the first time. He progressed rapidly and in 1977 played against the United States as a member of the British Walker Cup team. He turned professional later that year and was the medalist in the European Tour qualifying tournament.

His first pro victory came a year later in the 1978 Nigerian Open and he posted a brilliant 61 along the way.

Since then, he has won numerous tournaments, such as the 1979 European Open, the 1981 French Open, the 1983 Madrid Open and then enjoyed a big year in 1984 when he won the Italian Open, Lancome Trophy, Kapalua International and the Casio World (Japan) titles.

They set the stage for his inspiring effort in the British Open the following year.

He has been a member of the last four European Ryder Cup teams and is expected to compete again against the U.S. at Muirfield Village, Ohio, in late September. He also has played on two European Nissan Cup teams.

Andrew Magee was more than satisfied with his first year on TOUR, but he was not as pleased with his second when he felt he lacked some of the consistency of the year before.

"When I started on TOUR, I had to learn how to play every day. I never did that as an amateur," he pointed out. "I knew the travelling would be a grind, but you have to be able to adjust to it."

I worked hard on my game when I first came out because I thought it was the thing to do. I know you have to practice but you have to learn how and when to practice and coordinate it with the rest of your schedule."

Last year, his "cut" ratio was about the same but his scoring average went up slightly to keep him from having the better finishes he was seeking.

There were several highlights during his rookie year of 1985.

"The first one was being paired with Jack Nicklaus during the third round of the Doral-Eastern Open. I'll never forget it." Andrew tied for 10th place and it was his first healthy check of the year.

The second one was two weeks later in the Hertz-Bay Hill Classic. After rounds of 73, 69 and 68, he was only two strokes out of the lead which was being shared by Fuzzy Zoeller and Curtis Strange. He was paired with them the last afternoon, but Andrew didn't fare as well as he had hoped. "The experience of being there with them was great," he said.

The next one was in the Byron Nelson Classic when he shot a first-round seven-under par 64. It also was the day Mac O'Grady set a course record at Las Colinas with a 63. It was especially satisfying because he spent many of his growing up years in the Dallas area.

Finally, he played some of his finest golf of the year at the Canon-Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open. He had a 65 the third day en route to a tie for sixth place and he earned his biggest check of the year—$19,425. "It was the check that put me over the hump for my exemption," he said.

Andrew started to play at about age 11 after being urged to do so by his older brother. So, it was a special week for the Magee boys at the Bank of Boston Classic. "He's a Captain in the Army now," Andrew said, "and he caddied for me that week."

He progressed gradually until he reached the University of Oklahoma. He had a good Spring as a sophomore and then his game took the quantum leap. He became a three-time All-America choice.

"I started to think about the TOUR because I had a few older friends who were going to the Qualifying Schools and making it, fellows such as Willie Wood and Mark Brooks."

He received a shot of confidence on the European tour in the summer of 1984 as he finished fifth in the Dutch Open and seventh in the Irish Open.

Andrew prefers to play the ball from left to right. And, when he needs help, he goes to see David Yates, his coach at Oklahoma. "He's been a very important person to me," he said.

When John Mahaffey's game is right, there are few who can strike the ball with the same authority. Such has been the case for most of the last three years when he has enjoyed the most profitable campaigns of his splendid career.

He won the Bob Hope Classic in 1984 in a playoff over Jim Simons. He won the Texas Open in 1985 in a playoff over Jodie Mudd. "I've been playing more consistently," he says, "but I should have won a couple that I didn't get."

He was referring to the Anheuser-Busch Classic when Mark Wiebe birdied the first extra hole to beat him. Then, in the Shootout at Jeremy Ranch, a Senior/Junior team event on the Senior TOUR, John and Gene Little lost in a playoff to Miller Barber and Ben Crenshaw.

Last year, he grabbed one of the big ones when he came on strong the last afternoon to overtake Larry Mize and win the Tournament Players Championship by a stroke over Mize.

The $162,000 check helped him to his best financial year ever but he added, "My game still isn't quite where I want it to be but it's getting closer."

Part of his success is related to a swing change he made in 1983. "I made some positive changes to help my longevity on TOUR. I added some distance without jeopardizing a lot of accuracy. It gave me a more positive outlook."

John joined the PGA TOUR in the Fall of 1971 after a fine amateur career. He won the 1970 NCAA championship for the University of Houston.

His first victory was in the 1973 Sahara Invitational in Las Vegas. Physical problems hit him for the first time at the 1976 PGA Championship at Congressional. He suffered a hyperextended tendon in his left elbow. It gradually became worse toward the end of the year, and it practically was impossible for him to compete early in 1977.

He was completely healthy again by mid-1978, and enjoyed a six-month stretch when he played as well as everyone knew he could. He won the PGA Championship at Oakmont in a playoff over Tom Watson and Jerry Pate, and the next week he won the American Optical Classic in Sutton, Mass.

He was named to the World Cup team that played in Hawaii, and he won medalist honors. When the new year dawned, he won the Bob Hope Desert Classic.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic - 10

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1972 and 1973 Northern California Amateur, 1974 California State Open. 1980 Magnolia Classic. Member of the PGA TOUR Policy Board.

If there was an award for hard work, Roger Maltbie would be one of the leading contenders.

The personable Californian was one of the brightest young stars in the game in 1976, but three years later, he was almost a forgotten man and he fell to 155th on the money list. With hard work and dedication, he pulled himself back into the front line in 1981, and came close to winning twice.

He challenged again the next three years without breaking through, but in 1985 Maltbie returned to the top of the golf world with victories at the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic and the NEC World Series of Golf.

He was back on his game last year as he narrowly missed winning twice. He lost in a playoff at Hartford to Mac O'Grady and he was edged by Fuzzy Zoeller at Hilton Head.

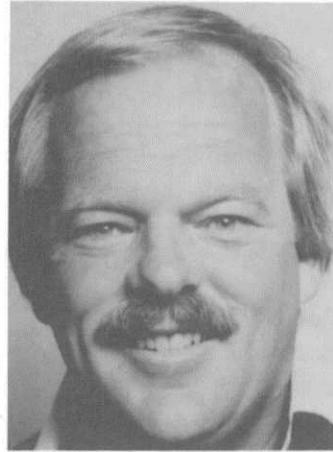

"It was a year of nearly—I nearly won at Hilton Head and Hartford," said Maltbie. "If I'd won those two, it would have been a heck of a year. I was disappointed that I didn't win when I had the chance, but I'm not too upset."

Roger was as amazed as anyone by his startling performances midway through his rookie year of 1975. He won back-to-back tournaments, the Ed McMahon-Quad Cities Open and the Pleasant Valley Classic. After the latter, he left his winner's check of $40,000 in a restaurant near the tournament site. The sponsor issued a new one, and at last report, the original still hangs on the wall behind the bar.

The next year, he won the Memorial Tournament at Muirfield Village, defeating Hale Irwin on the fourth extra hole of their playoff.

Roger was teammate of Forrest Fezler at James Lick High School in San Jose, Calif. As a sophomore, Roger beat Forrest, who was then a senior, for the county scholastic title. Maltbie went on to win the Northern California Amateur in 1972 and 1973, and the California State Open in 1974.

In his first attempt at qualifying for the TOUR, he missed in the Fall of 1973, but the next year, he made it.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: NEC World Series of Golf-35.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Set record score of 32-under-par 256 during 1985 Regional Qualifying Tournament on par 72 Palmaire course in Sarasota, FL. He had final round of 60. Winner of more than 25 mini-tour events.

Even before he had his first lesson in the ABC's, Dick Mast was learning how to swing a golf club. "I don't know how old I was when I first started to play," he said, "but I probably was about four years old."

His father, Ken Mast, built the public course in Bluffton, OH, and was the head professional there for years. "I wanted to be just like him," Dick adds, "and I know that all I ever wanted to be was a pro."

Just like his dad, Dick became a fine player but the skills needed to be a PGA TOUR player seemed to be just a whisper away. He was a dominant player on the mini-tours but, until last year, success on the TOUR was just a dream.

"I probably tried the Qualifying School a dozen times," he said. He was successful on four occasions but until 1986 he never was able to make the best of it.

"In the early years, I qualified a lot on Mondays but couldn't get past the cut on Friday," he said. "It took a lot of maturing. I lost a lot of confidence and the psychological damage was great because of failing."

He lost his playing privileges for the third time at the end of the 1979 season and, for the most part, spent the next five years playing wherever he could find a game. He did so with tremendous success, winning more than two dozen events.

"I learned how to win," he said, "and after all of that, I now have a different perspective of life. Even though I still love the game as much as ever, I can get over the bad times easier."

Now, I want to play, instead of having to play. I used to go out each week thinking I had to win and it put extra pressure on me. Now, I've learned to say, 'I'll win this week, the Lord willing.' There's a big difference."

With his new outlook came regained confidence. He gained National attention in the regional qualifying tournament in the Fall of 1985 at Palmaire in Sarasota, FL. His final round of 12-under par 60 gave him a spectacular 32-under par score of 256.

His year started slowly with a tie for 82nd in his first start, the Phoenix Open. He missed the cut in his next seven starts and then came his big breakthrough, in the USF&G Classic in New Orleans. He shot an eight-under-par 64 in the second round and went on to tie for seventh place, earning $14,550. "The last two days, I was so pumped up," he said, "that I had a hard time handling it but it was a great learning experience. Finally, I knew I could score on the TOUR."

The Mast family moved to St. Petersburg, FL, when Dick was a sophomore in high school and he played against the likes of Gary Koch and Andy Bean.

He went on to St. Petersburg Junior College but his heart was in the game. He went to work as an assistant to his dad in the summers at Lost Creek Country Club in Lima, OH in the early 1970's. His first success in the Tour's Qualifying School was in the Fall of 1973.

BEST 1986 FINISHES: 2-Bank of Boston Classic (playoff).

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Shearson Lehman Brothers Andy Williams Open-12.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Three-time All-American. Winner, 1986 Texas State Open. Runner-up 1981 Canadian Amateur.

His good friend, Gene Sauers, won the playoff in the Bank of Boston Classic last September, but as far as Blaine McCallister was concerned, his runner-up finish was just about as satisfying as a victory.

He earned a $48,600 that Sunday afternoon and it easily pushed his earnings for the year up with the leading 125 money winners to give him exempt status for the first time in 1987.

"The good thing is," he said, "I know I learned from this. I thought I held together pretty well the last day or so."

Blaine had a couple of great opportunities to win it at the Pleasant Valley Country Club.

He missed a five footer for a birdie at the 18th hole for the victory. On the first extra hole, he missed a birdie from eight feet after Sauers had chipped in to save his par. He missed a two footer for birdie on the second extra hole and then Sauers won it with a birdie on the third.

"On the first hole," he said, "I was thinking all I had to do was make an easy two-putt par to win. The heat was on Gene because he had a tough chip (after coming out short from a bunker) but he made it for his par. It was a great shot."

Blaine started to play golf at age 14 in Fort Stockton, TX, with a couple of friends. "I thought it was neat how far you could hit the ball," he recalls.

He went on to win the 1977 Texas State High School championship. Ken Wright, who was the pro at the Fort Stockton Golf Club, helped him through those early years.

He received a scholarship to the University of Houston and became a four-year letterman. He roomed with Fred Couples one year and with CBS sportscaster Jim Nance the other three.

He qualified to play on the TOUR in 1982 and 1983 but had little success. He missed in his attempts to regain his playing status in 1984 and 1985.

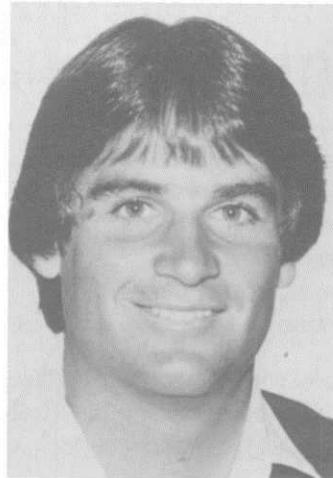

Charlie Epps, the head pro at the Houston Country Club, helped to turn his game around. Putting was one of Blaine's weaknesses because "I seemed to see too much break when I putted righthanded."

"I do everything lefthanded except play golf," Blaine recalls. "Charlie suggested I try putting lefthanded."

It took awhile to get used to the feel but gradually more putts started to drop. "I can see the line a lot better," he said, "Now I believe I'm more of an all-around player."

With his new stroke, he has added more consistency to his game and is not throwing away shots as he said he did in the earlier years on TOUR.

"Now I think about moving ahead and not just trying to hold my own," he added.

Mark McCumber wasn't certain what to expect when he headed for the Doral-Eastern Open in February of 1985. His left hand still was hurting and he had missed the cut in his only two West Coast appearances because of it.

"Gene Lane and Paul Callaway in the DP (Fit for Life) fitness van helped me considerably," he said and, as a result, he went on to have his best tournament of the year. He fought off the challenges of Jack Nicklaus, Tom Kite and Roger Maltbie to win for a second time on Doral's Blue Monster Course.

"It was a great thrill," he said, "to play with-and-against Jack the last day and win. He's an exceptional man."

He also won at Doral in 1979, but he believes a turning point in his career came in mid-1982 when he went to see Bert Yancey to talk about "the pre-shot routine and its importance." Mark had struggled after the early victory, but knew his third-and-fourth round scores "really had been poor, which meant I was doing something different from the first two days."

The next year, in 1983, he was one of the game's finest. He won the Western Open, the Pensacola Open and earned $258,294 for the year. That represented an increase of $236,610 in a year. Early in 1984, he had back-to-back fourth place finishes in the Los Angeles Open and Honda Classic. Two of his most enjoyable experiences came in finishing eighth in the British Open and making a hole-in-one during the U.S. Open.

Last year, it was the Open at Shinnecock Hills that provided another highlight. He was in contention nearly all the way and actually was a leader mid-way through the final round. Ray Floyd came on to win but Mark did tie for eighth place.

After being graduated from high school, Mark studied for the ministry for two years at Brooklyn Bethel College. Golf was his game, though, and he proceeded to do two years of extension work from the University of Florida in horticulture.

He turned professional in 1974 but didn't go through the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament until the Spring of 1978.

Along with his playing schedule, he also is deeply involved in the golf course design business with his brothers. A part of Mark McCumber and Associates, they have worked on more than 40 courses in the last seven years.

One of his latest projects is Summer Beach on Amelia Island, FL. He represents the development as the touring professional and it is expected to open for play later this year.

Pat McGowan recalls with a laugh how he received his introduction to the game. "I was about eight-and-a-half years old," he said, "and I used to play tennis four or five hours a day with my two older brothers at the Colusa (CA) Golf and Country Club. We were crazy about tennis."

"Then one day the pro at the club, Warren MacCarty, had a putting contest for all the kids and we did reasonably well. The next day, one of my brothers, Mike, and I asked for jobs picking up golf balls at the range. We did that for the next eight years. The tennis racquets went into the closet to stay as soon as we started to work."

He won several junior titles and went to Brigham Young University where he played on teams with the likes of Mike Reid, Jim Nefford, John Fought and Mike Brannan. He continued to win through college with one of his big victories being the 1977 Pacific Coast Intercollegiate.

He made it onto the TOUR after his first attempt at qualifying in the Fall of 1977 and had an excellent rookie year, winning $47,091. That was his best money year until he went over the $100,000 mark in 1983 and last year, he once again reached a new high.

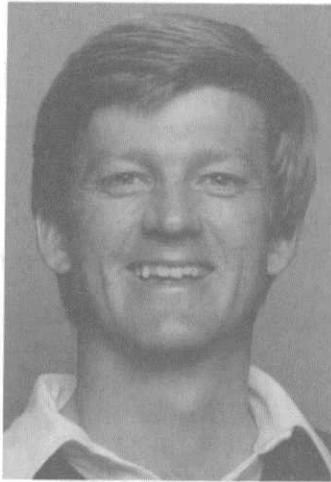

He earned the biggest check of his career in the 1986 USF&G Classic in New Orleans. He shot four rounds in the 60s to finish second to Calvin Peete and collect $54,000.

One of the great thrills of his career came in the 1984 Sacramento Classic in the Tournament Players Series. He won by defeating Steve Hart in a playoff, but there were many, many of his close friends in the gallery from his hometown of Colusa.

His first strong showing on the TOUR came in the 1978 Canadian Open when he finished second to Bruce Lietzke. In the Quad Cities Open in 1982, he was tied with Calvin Peete and Jeff Mitchell after three rounds and eventually tied for second. He had a final-round 67, but Payne Stewart won it with a closing 63. It was especially pleasing since his father had flown in from Sacramento the night before to see the final round.

Karl Tucker, the head golf coach at BYU, had a big influence on his game, but in recent times, Peggy Kirk Bell, his mother-in-law who is one of the leading instructors in the game, has helped him at their Pine Needles course in Pinehurst.

While in high school, Pat was named all-conference in both football and basketball for three years, and in 1973, was Valedictorian of his class.

Throughout his career, when Johnny Miller has been playing well, he has been awesome. He always has been able to make the game appear so easy, driving the ball long-and-straight; rifling his irons dead on the flagsticks and holing putts from all corners of the greens.

Miller's arrival as a star always has been tied to his final-round 63 and victory in the 1973 U.S. Open at Oakmont, but it was in 1974 that he won eight times and set what was then a record of $353,021. He won the first three events of the year.

The next year, Johnny's clubs were blazing again. He won the Phoenix Open to start the year with a 24-under-par score, and the next week won the Tucson Open with a 25-under score. In each tournament, he had a round of 61.

No one has touched back-to-back efforts like that since.

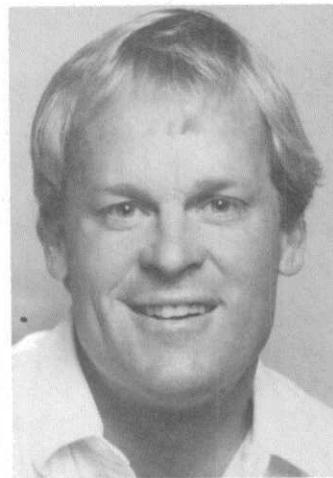

Johnny trimmed his schedule to 15 events in 1984; to 17 in 1985 and 15 last year though he did not win, he had some strong performances. He had five top 10 finishes in 1984 with a third in the Bob Hope Classic and a tie for fourth in the U.S. Open his best. In 1985, he also had five in the top 10 with a tie for fourth place in the Canadian Open his best effort.

A few nagging injuries plagued him throughout most of 1986 but he was in peak form at the Memorial Tournament when he tied for third place.

He came close to having a banner year in 1983. He did win the Honda-Inverrary Classic but he lost two others in playoffs—the Phoenix Open to Bob Gilder and the Canadian Open to John Cook. In mid-December, he joined with Jack Nicklaus and they won the Chrysler Team Invitational. It was especially significant since Johnny is the tournament's official host.

In 1966, Johnny first gained national notoriety when he signed up to caddy in the U.S. Open at the Olympic Club in his native San Francisco. However, he eventually qualified to play in the tournament, and went on to an eighth-place finish.

He started in the game at age five, and one of his first titles was the U.S. Juniors in 1964. He went to Brigham Young University and was graduated in 1969. Later that year, he qualified for the TOUR.

When Larry Mize won the 1983 Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic at the Colonial Country Club, he did so in rather spectacular fashion. He was dueling with Fuzzy Zoeller, John Mahaffey, Chip Beck, Sammy Rachels and others down the stretch but he won it on the final green with a birdie putt of 25 feet.

The last two years, it seems as if others have been doing the same thing to him. In the 1984 Kemper Open, for example, Larry led going into the final afternoon but Bill Glasson caught him and then won the tournament by making a putt of 55 feet for a birdie on the last hole.

A year ago in the Kemper, he led going into the last round but Greg Norman came on strong to tie him and then won the playoff on the sixth extra hole. A poor last round also cost him the Tournament Players Championship and permitted John Mahaffey to beat him by one stroke.

He was a runner-up again towards the end of the year in the B.C. Open as Rick Fehr won for the first time.

Larry has improved his money winnings dramatically every year he has been on the TOUR, and he showed what he's made of at the end of his rookie year.

Just when it appeared as if Larry had no chance to make the exempt list for 1983, he fooled everyone. He had won $14,787 with two tournaments remaining on the 1982 schedule, so his chances were slim, indeed, of making the top 125 money winners.

However, he proceeded to tie for ninth in the Pensacola Open and then tie for 11th in the Walt Disney World Classic to win $14,000 and finish the year in 124th place with $28,787. In the Pensacola Open, he started with rounds of 66 and 68 to put himself in position for a strong finish, and at Disney World, he finished with 69-67. One shot more, and he would not have made the top 125.

Since the first time he picked up a club at the age of nine, Larry Mize has been totally in love with the game. He only had a few lessons in the formative years, as his father, a scratch handicapper, pointed him in the right direction.

He went to Georgia Tech, where he was No. 1 for three years and captain of the team for two. Along the way he also won an Atlanta Amateur championship.

He attempted to obtain his TOUR card in the Spring of 1981 but missed by a stroke, but he was successful in the Fall of 1981.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Hardee's Classic-39

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: 1967 Oklahoma collegiate champion. 1968 collegiate All-American. Winner 1978 Pacific Masters. 1979 and 1983 Ryder Cup. Named to NAIA Hall of Fame, 1982. Co-winner, 1983 Jerry Ford Invitational.

Gil Morgan was looking forward to his return to the TOUR in the Spring after undergoing successful surgery for a torn rotator cuff early last September. Dr. Frank Jobe of the Centinela Hospital Medical Center performed the operation.

Gil was bothered by the shoulder through most of 1985 and 1986. He did post a few strong finishes last year such as a tie for third in the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic and a tie for seventh in the Panasonic-Las Vegas Invitational.

Through the years, Gil has been one of the more personable players in the game. He is quiet by nature but he always has been able to create excitement on the course with his exceptional play.

In 1983, for example, he won the first two tournaments of the year - the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open in a playoff over Lanny Wadkins and then the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open.

In 1984, he opened the season in the Seiko-Tucson Match Play and reached the final before bowing to Tom Watson, 2 and 1.

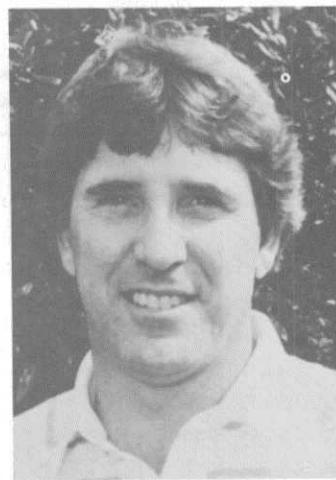

His biggest victory was in the 1978 World Series of Golf when he defeated Hubert Green in a playoff and finished the year as the No. 2 money winner behind Tom Watson. With his powerful, fluid swing action, he always has been able to play the more difficult courses well.

Gil started to play the game at age 15. When he was a junior at East Central State in Oklahoma, he decided to pursue it as a career, along with his goal of some day obtaining a degree in optometry. He won the Oklahoma collegiate championship in 1967, but waited until he earned his doctorate in optometry before turning professional in 1972.

His best national amateur performances came in the Western Amateur and Porter Cup, finishing second in 1972. He entered the Qualifying School in the Fall of 1972, but did not make it. After a stint on the mini-tour, he returned in 1973 and passed his test.

Although he did not gain a lot of national amateur attention, Danny Edwards said that the players around Oklahoma knew all about him. "Oh, yeah, we knew all about the fellow named Morgan who lived in Wewoka."

He progressed steadily up the ladder on the TOUR until he won the 1977 B.C. Open by five strokes over Lee Elder. The next year, he won the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open and then the World Series of Golf. He pocketed $267,459 for the year.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Three-time All-American at Georgia Southern. Winner 1980 and 1981 U.S. Public Links championships; 1981 Sunnehanna Amateur; plus eight collegiate events. Member 1981 U. S. Walker Cup team. Low Amateur in 1982 Masters Tournament (tie 20).

Those who have followed Jodie Mudd throughout his career knew he had the game to be successful. He was only 22-years old when he joined the TOUR in the Spring of 1982 and it took him a couple of years to become comfortable with life on the road.

His game started to fall into place in the latter half of 1984 and in 1985, he blossomed out as a genuine contender. He finished second three times and on two of those occasions, he lost in playoffs.

Phil Blackmar emerged as the victor in the Canon-Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open as he birdied the first extra hole to leave Jodie and Dan Pohl in a tie for second place. Jodie appeared to have the Texas Open in San Antonio in his hip pocket, but John Mahaffey birdied three of the last four holes to tie him and then Mahaffey won the playoff on the second extra hole.

Last year, he was very close to winning again. He tied for second in the Honda Classic, just one stroke behind Kenny Knox; and he was second alone in the Anheuser-Busch Classic, two in back of Fuzzy Zoeller. he also finished third in the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic.

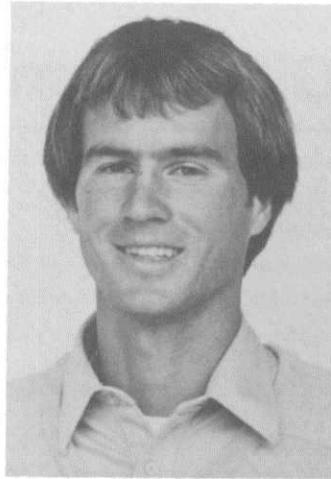

He said he is more at ease with himself, having realized that "golf is not a do-or-die situation. You have to learn how to take advantage of the good shots and save strokes and wash the bad ones out of your mind. I've learned a lot about myself and how to handle the good and the bad."

Jodie became an official member of the PGA TOUR in April of 1982, the week after the Masters Tournament. As an amateur, he tied for 20th at Augusta that year. His first pro start was the Tallahassee Open and he tied for 30th, winning $675. The next week, he played in the USF&G Classic and tied for fifth place, pocketing $10,537.

That was sufficient for him to meet the minimum money guideline that was in effect at that time, and he was a TOUR regular the next week in the Houston Open.

Jodie came from a golfing family, and in the early days, he caddied for his father. He continued to play golf in high school but also excelled in basketball. "I gave up basketball in my senior year, though," he said, "so I could concentrate on golf."

After playing in a couple of events in Florida, he accepted a scholarship to Georgia Southern College. There, his game blossomed. Twice he won the United States Public Links Championships, in 1980 and 1981. He won the prestigious Sunnehanna Amateur in 1981 and was a member of the U.S. Walker Cup team the same year. He won eight collegiate events and was the runner-up on another seven occasions.

Winner, 1967 Florida Open. 1968 Rookie of the Year. Winner, 1979 Jerry Ford Invitational. Color analyst on CBS golf telecasts.

There certainly is every reason to believe that life on the PGA TOUR can begin anew at age 43. Just ask Bob Murphy.

One of the more popular players ever to be a member of the TOUR, Bob found a new secret to success in the 1986 Canadian Open as he won by three strokes over Greg Norman. It was the fifth victory of his career but also his first since the 1975 Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Classic.

"You certainly think you might never win again," he said on the victory stand, "and you wonder why. After I took the lead on Saturday, I felt my chances were fantastic but I didn't want to say anything in case I'd have to bite my tongue. I've been in that position a few times."

He collected $108,000 at Glen Abbey near Toronto and that single check was for more than he had won in an entire season since his $127,471 in 1975.

Two years ago, he finished second to Corey Pavin in the Colonial National Invitation, but through much of the last decade until the Canadian victory, he has had to fight hand and back problems.

Frequently, Bob will serve as a color analyst for CBS telecasts and his work is well received.

Bob's career started in a rather unusual fashion. He went to the University of Florida on a baseball scholarship as a pitcher, but he injured a shoulder in a pick-up football game as a freshman.

He took up golf as a physical education course and it was love at first sight. He said he would even skip class to practice.

Before he was graduated with a degree in physical education, he won the 1965 United States Amateur championship, the 1966 NCAA title for the Gators, two Florida Amateur titles, the 1967 Florida Open, and played on U.S. World Amateur Cup and Walker Cup teams.

He turned professional and went to the PGA TOUR School in 1967, and passed easily. In his rookie year of 1968, he set a goal of winning $40,000. He won $105,595, a record for a first-year player at that time, and two tournaments, the Philadelphia and Thunderbird Classics, back-to-back. Just prior to his first victory, he was second in the Westchester Classic.

On Sept. 8, 1985, Jim Nelford suffered a serious arm-injury in a water-skiing accident near Phoenix. His career was threatened as his right arm suffered nine different breaks and he needed a plate and 13 screws to put it back together.

By the end of the 1986 season, though, Jim Nelford was back on TOUR and exhibited signs that he may be back to stay. His recovery was nothing short of miraculous, but there is still much work to be done.

"I don't know how much use of the hand I'll get back," said Nelford, referring to the nerve damage he suffered. "But, there's been no real setbacks—it's gradually gotten better and better. Golf has been the best therapy for it."

"There's no place for negative thinking," added Nelford, "I believe that you follow the path in life that your mind sees first."

Jim may never come as close to a victory as he did in the 1984 Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur, only to have it pulled from his grasp in the most unusual finish of the year.

Jim shot a final round four-under par 68 at Pebble Beach and was in the clubhouse at 10-under par 278. Hale Irwin was nine-under par with two holes to play. Hale parred the 17th and then on the 18th tee, he pulled his drive far to the left. The ball appeared headed for Carmel Bay but it hit among the rocks and somehow bounced back onto the fairway.

Irwin then reached the green in regulation, placing his approach only five feet from the cup on the par five hole, and he made it for the birdie and the tie.

On the second extra hole, Irwin hit a poor drive into a bunker, and then hit a career two iron shot nine feet from the hole. He made it for the birdie and the victory.

It was a definite plus for golf and the PGA TOUR when Jim decided that his future in sports was not in hockey. However, some of the things he learned on the ice rinks of his native Canada have been useful in golf.

"I played hockey from the time I was six until I was 17," he said. "It was mostly club-hockey."

Normally a righthander, he started to play the game at age nine as a lefthander because he had to borrow his father's clubs—and they were lefties. "My Dad switched me over to righthanded at an early age," he said, but he continued to putt lefthanded, and still does today. "It was more comfortable for me to putt that way, and that's probably because my best shot in hockey was from the left side."

He was a fine amateur, winning the Canadian Amateur in 1975 and 1976 and the Western Amateur in 1977. He won the 1976 Pan American and Pacific Coast Intercollegiate events. He was All-Western Athletic Conference for three years, and twice was named second-team All-American.

In the Fall of 1977, he turned professional and headed for the TOUR's Qualifying School. He made it.

Three times he has represented Canada in World Cup competition, and in 1980 he joined with Dan Halldorson to win the team title.

Larry Nelson spent a lot of time away from his golf game in 1986 and as a consequence, he didn't have the kind of year that he's capable of producing.

"This past year was a busy year for me outside of golf," said Nelson. "I expect to be more golf oriented this year and hope for better things from my game."

When he is on, he's among the best in the game. Witness 1983. Off to a slow start, he arrived at the U.S. Open unnoticed and he stayed that way after his opening efforts of 75-73-148 left him seven shots off the pace.

He issued a challenge to himself at that point and he responded brilliantly. His six-under par 65 in the third round lifted him to within one stroke of the co-leaders, Tom Watson and Seve Ballesteros.

During the rain-interrupted last round, it was a battle between Larry and his good friend Watson. Play had to be halted late in the afternoon with Nelson on the 16th tee and Watson on the 15th green.

When it resumed the next morning, Larry hit a four wood to the back level of the green on the 226-yard hole, some 62 feet from the cup. He was hoping he wouldn't three putt. Instead, he made it for a near impossible birdie two and went on to a one-stroke victory over Watson. His 10-under par 132 for the last two rounds set a U.S. Open record.

It was his second major championship, since he won the 1981 PGA title before thousands of his hometown followers at the Atlanta Athletic Club. His margin was four strokes over Fuzzy Zoeller.

Larry started on TOUR in 1974, but his first victory didn't come until six years later in the Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Classic. Later that same year, he defeated Ben Crenshaw for the Western Open title.

There are not many stories on the PGA TOUR more unusual than Nelson's. Only four years after he started to play golf, and after playing only one 72-hole tournament, he had his Approved Tournament Players card. "I really wasn't ready," he said later, but he got ready in a hurry, as witness his steady climb up the money rankings since then.

Larry lettered in baseball and basketball in high school and attended Southern Tech for a year before he was drafted and spent two years in the military. After his discharge in 1968, he tried school again and also worked as an illustrator at the Lockheed plant near his home.

He went to a driving range one day in 1969, liked hitting balls so much that he went to work in pro Bert Seagraves' shop at the Pine Tree Club in Kennesaw, Ga. He turned pro six months after that. He tried the mini-tours briefly and, in 1973, finished bogey-bogey in the Florida State Open to lose by a shot. That was his lone 72-hole event before earning his TOUR card that Fall.

Winner, 1982 Card Walker Award for outstanding contributions to junior golf. Winner 1983 Chrysler Team Invitational (with Johnny Miller).

As long as the game of golf is played, there never will be another Jack William Nicklaus. He represents all that is great in the game and in the world of sports.

He has won six Masters Tournaments, five PGA Championships, four U.S. Opens, three Tournament Players Championships and British Opens and two U.S. Amateur Championships.

His greatest effort may have been in the 1986 Masters when he played the last 10 holes in seven-under par for a 35-30-65, a 9-under-par 279 and a one-stroke victory.

On the PGA TOUR, since starting in January of 1962, he has won 71 times, but he also has had an astonishing 58 second-place finishes.

He readily admits one of his greatest satisfactions came in the Fall of 1983 when he captained the United States Ryder Cup team to a thrilling one-point victory over the European team. He'll be Captain again in the Fall when the matches are contested at his Muirfield Village (Ohio) club.

1986 VANTAGE CUP: (2,1675)-7

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Kemper Open-17

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner of 41 tournaments around the world, such as 1986 British Open; 1979 and 1983 Hong Kong Open, 1980 French Open, 1980 Australian Open, 1980 Scandinavian Open, 1980, 1983, 1986 Suntory World Match Play, 1981, 1983 and 1984 Australian Masters, 1981 and 1982 Dunlop Masters, 1983 Kapalua International, 1983, 1986 Queensland Open, 1983, 1986 New South Wales Open, 1983 Cannes (France) Invitational (Won seven events in 1983); 1984 Victoria Open in Australia. Member, 1985, 1986 Australian Nissan Cup team, Leader, 1982 European Tour Order of Merit. 1986 Arnold Palmer Award recipient for leading money winner.

Greg Norman has always set high standards for himself but even he admits that 1986 was something special. He blossomed into one of the dominant players in the game.

He won twice on the PGA TOUR as he captured the Panasonic-Las Vegas Invitational and the Kemper Open. He also was second four times and collected 10 top 10 finishes in 19 U.S. starts. It is interesting to note that he had one top 10 in his first seven starts and then had nine in his final 12 outings.

Overseas, he was incredible once again. He won the British Open, European Open and the Suntory World Match Play. He then went home to Australia and won three in a row.

In all four of the more significant championships, he was in the lead going into the final round. He led by one stroke going into the last day of the Masters Tournament and finished tied for second. He led by one after three days at the U.S. Open and finally tied for 12th place. He led by four at the PGA Championship and finished second. He led by one after three days of the British Open.

All of the performances in the States led to his being the No. 1 money winner with a record $653,296. He was $516 ahead of Bob Tway.

His first official year on the Tour was 1984 and he won twice, in the Kemper Open and the Canadian Open. In a six week stretch in mid-summer, he won those two events, lost the U.S. Open and Western Opens in playoffs and tied for 10th place in Atlanta.

The handsome Australian never played the game until he was 16, and then one day, he caddied for his mother, a three handicapper. When she finished the round, he borrowed her clubs and played a few holes on his own.

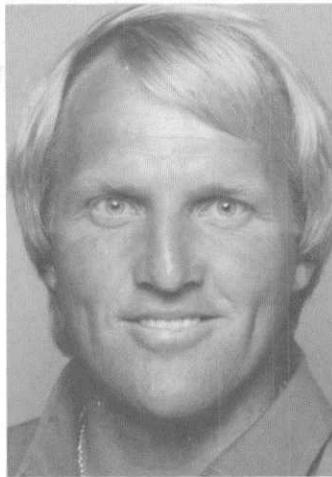

In two years, this son of a mining engineer went from a 27 handicapper to scratch. His secret to success came from two books his mother gave him, both written by Jack Nicklaus—"Golf My Way," and "55 Ways to Play Golf."

Greg will tell you, "I didn't try to copy Jack, just pick up the basics."

His first appearance in the United States was in the 1977 Memorial Tournament.

In the 1981 Masters Tournament, he finished fourth, but he gained considerable attention with his "shark-hunting" stories, and thus became known as the "Great White Shark." He says he actually never went hunting for sharks, only shot at a few when "I became irritated because they were eating my fish. And, I only did that a few times."

In 1983, Greg entered nine PGA TOUR events and made the cut in all nine, collecting $71,411. He easily surpassed the minimum money guideline for membership. In his first 1983 start, he tied with Mike Nicolette in the Bay Hill Classic, coming from six strokes behind the last day, but lost the playoff on the first extra hole.

Andy North has enjoyed some wonderful days on the PGA TOUR and he always thought there never would be another week like the one he enjoyed in 1978 when he won the United States Open Championship at Cherry Hills in Denver.

But, there was another. It came in the Summer of 1985 at Oakland Hills in Birmingham, MI, when he won the Open Championship again, this time in a tense duel with several players who had opportunities to win. At the end, it was Andy at one-under par 279 and one stroke better than Tze-Chung Chen of Taiwan, Dave Barr of Canada and Denis Watson of South Africa.

At Cherry Hills, he led by two strokes after 36 holes and by one after the third round, but midway through the second nine on the final day, he appeared to be coasting home. He led by four strokes with five holes to play.

There were some anxious moments before he was through, though. When he hit his tee shot on the 18th hole, he needed a bogey to win—and that's what he scored. After being bunkered in three, he blasted to four feet. It wasn't an easy putt, but he made it to gain the victory.

It was a struggle for Andy in 1983 and 1984, due mainly to a painful right elbow. It was thought to be tendonitis, but closer examination revealed a bone spur. He underwent an operation and had it removed in the Fall of 1983. As it turned out, it was "about the size of a piece of gravel."

It takes time to get the proper swing place back, but towards the end of 1984, there were good signs. "I was encouraged," he said, "because I started to play decent again. I accomplished a lot."

An unusual ailment helped lead North to golf when he was in the seventh grade in Madison, WI. A bone in his knee had stopped growing and was disintegrating. While on crutches for 18 months he was told to give up his pursuit of basketball and football but that he could play golf—if he rode in a cart.

Since Andy's father was a low-handicap golfer, the game was no stranger to the family and he progressed quickly. He also returned to basketball and was chosen all-state as a high school senior, but by then golf was his dominant sport.

North won the Wisconsin high school championship in 1966 and 1967, the State Amateur in 1969 and placed second in the Wisconsin Open in 1968 and 1969. After entering the University of Florida he was chosen All-American for three years and won the 1971 Western Amateur.

BEST 1986 EPSON STAT: 5 par breakers (.210), 8-driving distance (2773).

It was a year to remember for Mac O'Grady. After four years of trying, he won his first tournament on the PGA TOUR and he did it in rather impressive fashion.

He shot a brilliant final round of nine-under-par 62 to tie Roger Maltbie in the Canon-Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open and then won the playoff with a birdie on the first extra hole.

The week prior to his performance on the TPC of Connecticut course, he tied for sixth place in the Canadian Open. The week after Hartford he tied for fourth place in the Anheuser-Busch Classic.

Mac believes he set a TOUR record even before he became a member of the family. "I went through the Qualifying School 17 times before I made it," he said. "The first time was in October of 1971."

After he finally succeeded in the Fall of 1982, he has made the most of his opportunities. In 1985, he broke through and established himself as a truly fine player. He finished third three times; one of them being at the Panasonic-Las Vegas Invitational and it was worth $64,000. That one week, he won more than he had in either of his first two years.

A high note was hit during the Byron Nelson Classic when he set a course record of eight-under par 64 the first day at Las Colinas. He finished tied for third place.

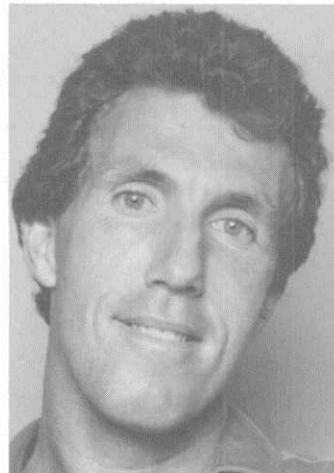

He once said, "I've played so many places around the world during the last 10 years or so, being on the PGA TOUR is like celebrating Christmas every day."

The Mac O'Grady story is an intriguing one. Actually, his real name is Phil McGlenn, but in 1978, for a variety of reasons, he changed it to Phillip McClelland O'Grady. McClelland is for Bob McClelland, a fellow who has been like a father to him for years; and O'Grady was his mother's maiden name.

Mac was one of seven children and they lived in Minneapolis, MN, until moving to Los Angeles in 1960. He started to caddy when he was 12, both at Riviera and Bel-Air Country Clubs. Later, several of the men for whom he caddied, would serve as his sponsors.

As a youth, he was filled with frustrations, and in an attempt to wash them away, he did everything from ride a bike for great distances, practice yoga and even worked hard on being able to play the game right-and-left handed. Of course, he plays right-handed now, but still putts left-handed.

He said he loves marathoning, and misses those long, peaceful runs on the beach of Malibu.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Canon-Sammy Davis Jr. Greater Hartford Open - 18

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1979 United States Amateur, California State Amateur, Mexican Amateur All-American at Long Beach State. 1981 Rookie-of-the Year Member 1984 USA Team vs. Japan. 1985 Ryder Cup and Nissan Cup teams. Winner, 1985 Kapalua International, Fuji Sankei Classic (Japan). 1986 Australian Masters.

As long as Mark O'Meara plays the game, he probably will never experience another year quite like 1984. He won his first TOUR title, the Greater Milwaukee Open, but victories—such as the back-to-back triumphs in the 1985 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am and the Hawaiian Open—are expected of this talented young man.

What made 1984 so unusual was the rest of the story. He finished second five times, third three times and had a total of 15 top ten finishes—high on the TOUR. He earned $465,873 and finished second to Tom Watson in the race for the Arnold Palmer Award as the year's leading money winner. He only trailed Watson by $10,387.

Every time he was asked to explain his sudden rise to the top, he always pointed the finger at Hank Haney, the man from Houston who turned his game around.

"I've always played on natural instincts," Mark has said, "but I knew I needed something better. Hank has me swinging more on a plane. I was always too upright and that led to inconsistency. Now, I understand the swing much better."

Even though he has not won on TOUR since the 1985 Crosby and Hawaii events, he has been a winner. He won the 1985 Kapalua International in a playoff over Corey Pavin and then went to Japan to win the Fuji Sankei Classic. Early last year, he added the Australian Masters to his growing list.

Prior to getting his first TOUR victory in Milwaukee, he had lost twice in playoffs, to Dave Eichelberger in the 1981 Tallahassee Open and to Bob Gilder in the 1983 Phoenix Open.

He did earn berths on two distinguished U.S. teams, the Ryder Cup and the Nissan Cup, both in 1985.

He started to play the game at age 13 after his family moved to Mission Viejo, CA. A golf course was next to their home and, at the time, Mark didn't know many of the kids in the neighborhood. So, he would slip onto the course and play.

He wanted to make the golf team as a freshman at Mission Viejo High School, and he did. His junior year, the team won the state championship.

He wanted to play well enough to earn a college scholarship, and he did that, too, going to Long Beach State University. His next goal was to be classified as an All-American, and he made the third team as a freshman and second team as a senior.

He broke onto the national scene in a big way in 1979, winning the United States Amateur at Canterbury in Cleveland, defeating John Cook in the finals. He won the California State Amateur, defeating Lenie Clements in the final and also won the Mexican Amateur, defeating Gary Hallberg the last day.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1975 Illinois State High School championship; 1979 Harvey Penick Invitational; 1980 Illinois State Open.

David Ogrin came close to getting his first victory on the TOUR in the 1985 St. Jude Memphis Classic but Hal Sutton had other ideas.

"I felt I finally played to my potential," David said. "I played an entire tournament my way and found out it was good enough. Except for Hal's great putt, I might have been the winner."

Sutton came on strong the last afternoon with a seven-under-par 65 at the Colonial Country Club to tie Ogrin at nine-under-par 279. On the first extra hole, Sutton rolled in a long birdie putt from the back fringe to win it.

If you ask David when he was introduced to the game, he'll smile and tell you, "Legend has it I was born with a club in my hands. When I was two-years old, my dad had one of his clubs break, so he sawed off the shaft, put a grip on it and I started to swing away."

"By the time I was five, I was breaking 60. I still have some scorecards from when I was five; and I was in my first competition at seven."

There was a time when David was considering baseball as a career. "I had dreams of being a switch-hitting catcher" he says with a laugh, "but my love of golf was too much."

In 1975, David won the Illinois State Interscholastic title. Then he went to Texas A&M on a scholarship. "Bob Ellis is the coach at A&M and he originally was from Illinois. He kept in touch and wanted me to go there, so I did."

He won three collegiate events, including the 1979 Harvey Penick Invitational in Austin. Hal Sutton was the runner-up.

"I wanted to go as far as I could in the game," he said, "and I made it through the TOUR's Qualifying School on my fourth attempt." That was in the Fall of 1982 at the Tournament Players Club.

"It isn't often one dreams a dream" he said, "and then when he reaches the dream, realizes it is even better than the dream. The TOUR is all I dreamed it would be, and more."

Summing up his first year, he commented, "For years, I had to watch the great players from afar. I tried to emulate them. Now, I have the chance to actually ask them things and watch them up close. I don't want unsolicited suggestions, but I appreciate being able to ask them."

He said the highlight of 1983 was the United States Open. After shooting 75 and 69, he was only three strokes off the lead. He finished tied for 13th, his best of the year.

Arnold Palmer has been honored by many people from many nations during his distinguished career as an athlete and businessman but one of his most cherished moments came late in 1980 when it was announced by Commissioner Deane R. Beman that, starting in 1981, the leading money winner on the PGA TOUR would receive the Arnold Palmer Award.

Tom Kite was the first recipient.

Since Arnold was the TOUR's leading money winner for so many years, the first player to reach the $1 million mark in winnings and, generally, done so much to popularize the game, Commissioner Beman said it would be appropriate to give the 1980 inaugural award to Arnold himself.

Palmer won the U.S. Amateur championship in 1954 and joined the TOUR the next year.

Jerry Pate has a flair for the dramatic and it never was more evident than during the closing stages of the 1982 Tournament Players Championship, which was being held for the first time on the demanding Tournament Players Club at Sawgrass course.

He was battling Brad Bryant, Bruce Lietzke and Scott Simpson for the lead and the coveted victory. Just when it appeared a playoff was imminent, Pate birdied the treacherous little 17th hole with a 15-foot putt; and then birdied the 440-yard 18th by lofting a five iron brilliantly to within two feet for another birdie. On one of the more difficult courses on TOUR, he played the final seven holes in four-under par.

Then, as he stood on the final green at the awards ceremony, he coaxed TOUR Commissioner Deane R. Berman and course architect Pete Dye to the edge of the bulkhead and pushed them both in the lake. Finally, he dove in himself.

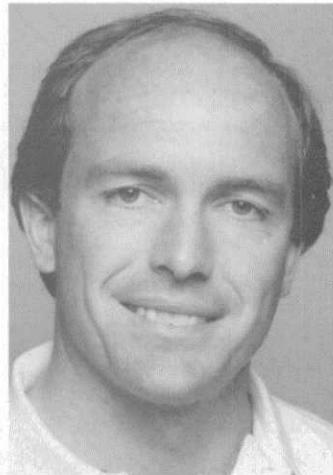

It was his second such act of showmanship. He did it the first time after winning the 1981 Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic, diving into the large lake to the left of the 18th green.

A severe neck muscle injury in mid-1982 threatened to end his once brilliant career. He underwent many tests but it wasn't until the Spring of 1985 that Dr. Jim Andrews of Columbus, GA, discovered a torn cartilage in his left shoulder. It would get caught between the joints and cause considerable pain, but Dr. Andrews explained that cartilages don't show on most tests.

An operation was performed on June 17 to remove "about one-half of the cartilage." He played in five West Coast events to start 1986 with little success. On March 4, he had another operation on the same shoulder to repair damage to the rotator cuff and played little the rest of the year.

Pate literally burst into world-wide attention as a PGA TOUR rookie in 1976. His last swing in the U.S. Open, a five-iron from the rough at Atlanta Athletic Club, left him a two-foot birdie putt for a two-shot victory, and his closing 63 in the Canadian Open was good for a four-stroke victory over Jack Nicklaus. His total of $153,102 in official earnings was the most ever won by a rookie until Hal Sutton bettered it in 1982.

Conrad Rehling, who developed Bob Murphy while coaching at the University of Florida in the early 1960s, "discovered" Pate while coaching at a small college near Pensacola. Pate was still in high school when he came under Rehling's wing. When Rehling moved to the University of Alabama, Pate followed.

Steve Pate said the PGA TOUR was a "lot easier" the second time around and a look at his record makes you believe it's true.

He nearly doubled his money winnings from his rookie year of 1985 and he received his biggest boost with a tie for third place in the Panasonic-Las Vegas Invitational. He won $66,700.

It was during the 1985 Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Classic, however, that it appeared as if he might win his first tournament but Wayne Levi had other ideas.

As they were heading down the home stretch, the young man from UCLA birdied the 15th hole to move in front. Levi tied him with a birdie at the 17th hole and they both birdied the par 5 18th hole at the Atlanta Country Club. Levi made a 15-footer and Steve dropped a 12-footer on top of it.

After they parred the first extra hole, Levi claimed the victory with a birdie on the second. Steve was short of the green in two and chipped six-feet beyond the hole. Levi had a 12-footer and he made it.

"Yes, I'm a little disappointed," Steve said, "but Wayne had to birdie three of the last four holes we played to beat me. I was having fun and it was a blast being on television."

His effort was worth $54,000 and it came at the perfect time for him. Steve finished seventh in the Qualifying School in the Fall of 1984 and had high expectations when the year started. However, prior to Atlanta, he had entered 13 tournaments and missed the cut in seven.

"I was discouraged," he said. "I thought I could play, yet I had won only about $5,000 up to that point. I kept trying to do the same thing and, for some reason, everything came together in Atlanta. It took all the pressure off of me because I knew I would be back the next year."

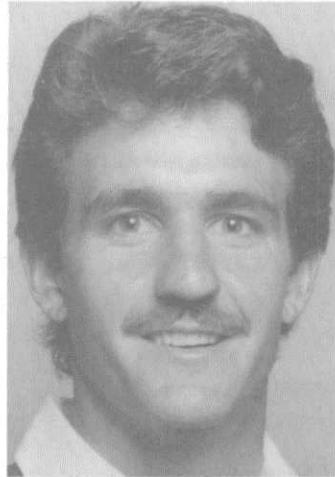

Steve started to play golf at the age of nine, mainly because his parents played and they encouraged him. In his first competition, at age 11, he recalls shooting a 107. He progressed well enough to make his high school team in Santa Barbara as a freshman. In his senior year, he won the California Interscholastic Federation title.

He moved on to UCLA and it was a good decision. He came under the wing of noted teacher and professional Eddie Merrins, the head pro at Bel-Air Country Club who also coaches the Bruins. He still works with Eddie.

Jim Petralia of the Annandale Country Club in Pasadena also has been a big help. "He was in Santa Barbara for awhile and I started to work for him when I was 16," Steve said.

He's always believed putting to be one of the strongest parts of his game. Grinning, he said, "Early in the year, I reached the point where I couldn't make it from a foot but starting at Atlanta, I went for about three months when I didn't think I could miss."

Oh, yes, he does get asked frequently if he is related to Jerry Pate. The answer is no.

Winner of 11 college tournaments, including 1982 PAC-10. Member 1981 Walker Cup team. Winner 1983 South African PGA, German Open and Calberson Classic (France). 1985 Nissan Cup team.

Each year, Corey Pavin takes one more step toward stardom. Already, he is regarded as one of the truly fine young players of the game and there appears to be no end to what he is capable of accomplishing.

He won in his rookie year of 1984 and he won again in 1985. Last year he stepped up the production and won twice, in the Hawaiian Open and the Greater Milwaukee Open. A last-day 66 made the Hawaii victory possible and he closed in Milwaukee with rounds of 67-67.

He makes it clear that the man who has made the difference is Bruce Hamilton, the professional at Las Posas Country Club in Camarillo, CA. They have worked together for 12 years, since 1975.

In his first year of 1984, the young man from UCLA not only won the Houston Coca-Cola Open, he also earned far more than any other first-year player in the history of the TOUR. He collected $260,536 as he had five top 10 finishes and missed the cut on only three occasions.

In 1985, he had more top 10 finishes than any other player with 13 of them and his earnings of $367,506 put him in sixth place. His victory was an impressive one in the prestigious Colonial National Invitation. He opened with a 66, added a 64 and then finished with a pair of 68s to win by four strokes. His 266 established a tournament record.

Before joining the TOUR, Corey gathered considerable experience playing around the world and, so, it didn't take long for his skills to surface here.

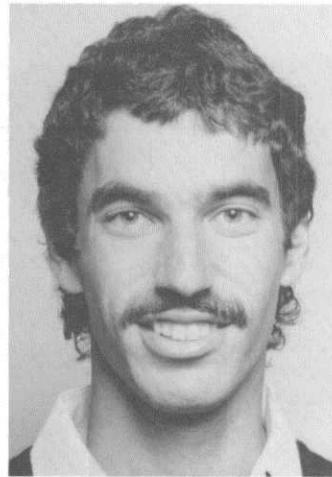

He missed the cut in the 1984 Bob Hope Classic, his first official start, but the next week in Phoenix, he fought Tom Purtzer to the wire before Purtzer finally won it with a birdie at the final hole. He earned $43,200, which was more than enough to solidify his position among the top 125 money winners for the year.

It was three months later at The Woodlands in the Houston Coca-Cola Open when he shot three straight 68s to edge Buddy Gardner by one stroke and gain the victory.

Corey started in the game at age eight and it wasn't long before he was receiving his first taste of competition. It was in 1977 that he won his first two important titles. As a 17-year old, he captured the Junior World crown and also became the youngest ever to win the Los Angeles City Men's Amateur.

He was very successful during his years at UCLA, winning 11 tournaments including the PAC-10 championship in 1982. He also received the Fred Haskins award as the outstanding collegiate player that year.

When Corey failed to get his TOUR card in his first attempt, he took his golf game overseas in 1983. He was successful, to say the least. He won the South African Open, the German Open and the Calberson Classic in France. He finished his European swing with more than $75,000 in earnings. He went back to the Q School in the Fall of 1983 and made it

The Calvin Peete story continued in 1986 as he added two more titles to his growing list of accomplishments highlighted by his romp at the MONY Tournament of Champions.

"I look at 1986 as a very satisfying year although I didn't reach my goal of being the Player of the Year," said Peete. "But that was only due to the great play of Twy and Norman. Otherwise, I was very satisfied."

He has won 12 times in the last eight years but his greatest accomplishment came in March of 1985 when he won the prestigious Tournament Players Championship. It assured him of exempt status for the next 10 years.

Four of his victories came in a brilliant 1982 campaign and he has been a leader in such statistical categories as driving accuracy and greens in regulation almost from the beginning of the program. He has played on the last two Ryder Cup teams as well.

He won the Golf Writers' Ben Hogan award in 1983. It goes annually to the individual who had to overcome a physical handicap or illness to play the game. As a youngster, Calvin suffered a broken left elbow and even today, he cannot extend the arm. So much for golf's straight-left arm principle.

In 1984, when Calvin won the Texas Open in San Antonio, he had two rounds of 67 and two rounds of 66. It assured him of his first Vardon Trophy for low stroke average—70.56.

He said, "Winning the Vardon would be like winning a tournament to me, so today, I feel as if I've won twice."

Born in Detroit, Mich., Calvin spent most of his life on a Florida farm with his 18 brothers and sisters—through two marriages by his father. He was forced to drop out of school at an early age.

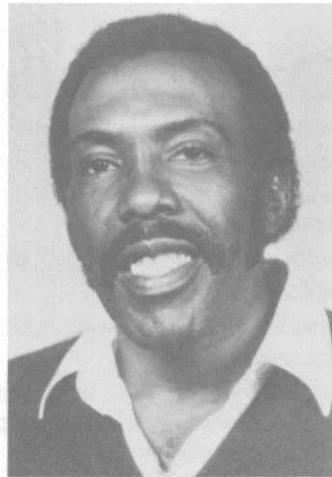

While still a teenager, Peete got into the business of selling goods to migrant farm workers. The field hands had little chance of getting into the city stores, so Peete would pack clothes, rings, watches, jewelry and anything else he could squeeze into his station wagon and take off. Wherever the migrant workers went, Peete was not far behind. From Florida it was a series of selling stops along dusty roads as far north as Rochester, N.Y.

Peete had friends in Rochester, and each year his buddies would invite him to play golf.

"I always turned them down," Peete said, "I thought the game was silly. Who wants to chase a little ball around under the hot sun?"

Finally, in 1966, when he was 23 years old, Calvin tried the game with his friends and he was hooked. He recalls, "Just about that same time I saw a tournament on television and learned that Jack Nicklaus was making around $200,000 a year chasing that ball. I figured I could be happy with one-third that amount, so I decided to give it a try."

Peete improved rapidly and he began to play in amateur tournaments wherever he could. Eventually he entered the PGA TOUR's Qualifying School. Like so many others, Peete failed on his first try. And the second. But he made it the third time, in the Spring of 1975.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Named 1984 Collegiate Player-of-Year. Three-time All-America, 1982, 1983, 1984. Winner: 1983 Big Ten Championship, 1982 Northeast Amateur, 1982 and 1983 Minnesota State Amateur, 1984 Minnesota State Open, 1978, 1979 and 1980 Minnesota State high school championships. Runner-up 1984 U.S. Amateur. Set Ohio State record with 14 victories (previous record was held by Jack Nicklaus).

There was a time when Chris Perry had to make a very big decision. As a strong-armed righthander, he compiled a 9-0 pitching record as an ninth grader with a 0.91 earned run average and he also carried a healthy .325 batting average.

But, he also loved to play golf.

"My Dad never said I had to follow him," Chris remembers, "but he did say things are so specialized in sports today that I would have to make a decision. I couldn't do everything."

His dad, Jim Perry, knew something about such things. He was an outstanding pitcher for many years in the major leagues, starring for Cleveland, Minnesota, Detroit and finally with Oakland.

"By the time I was 13-or-14-years old," Chris adds, "I knew I wanted to play professional golf. In Minnesota (his dad pitched for the Twins for 10 years), you play golf and baseball for six months and skate for six months." And skate he did. High school ice hockey is a big, big sport there and Chris was captain of his team his senior year. "I played hockey for eight-or-nine years as a defenseman," he said.

When it was time to move on to college, he selected Ohio State University "because of its great tradition. Being from the north, I didn't want to go south and play golf 12 months of the year. As soon as I saw Ohio State, I fell in love with everything about it."

The feeling was mutual. Chris went on to win 14 collegiate events, shattering the "victory" record of Jack Nicklaus. He was a first-team All-America choice for three years.

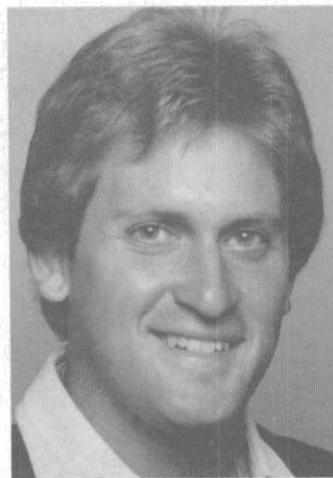

After he was graduated in 1984, he made his first attempt at the TOUR's Qualifying School in the Fall and he made it easily, finishing in a tie for 13th place.

His first year was a successful one. He only had one top 10 finish and that was a tie for 10th place in the Bank of Boston Classic, but he did make the cut in 22 of the 30 events he entered. He made more cuts than any other first-year player and he is proud of that fact.

Last year was a frustrating one for him. His putting let him down early and then he lost some of his confidence on the greens. "It was those putts from 12 feet and in," he said. "They kept me from a few rounds in the 60s that I needed."

He prefers to play the ball from right to left, "but I like to work it both ways. My iron game improved a lot during the year."

Oh, yes, his dad played a major role in his development as a young player. "We'd go to spring training with him and play the courses in Florida. He's still a good player and carries about a 4 handicap now, but I sure wouldn't give him two strokes a side."

Mark Pfeil continues to have his weeks when he can play with the best of them, such as his top 10 finished last year in the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am and the Western Open.

Just as important, however, is the fact that he has left his "mark" all around the TOUR as one of the more personable people in the game.

He has always been a welcomed addition to any tournament or special outing. His biggest year financially was in 1984 when he collected $101,878 and his three best finishes came in three important events—a tie for third in the Canadian Open, tie for fourth in the Colonial National Invitational and a tie for sixth in the Panasonic-Las Vegas Invitational.

His only TOUR victory was in the 1980 Tallahassee Open. In 1983, he earned $85,477 on the regular TOUR, plus $36,000 for his victory in the Anderson-Pacific Classic in Sacramento, CA, on the Tournament Players Series.

He nearly won again in the 1983 Texas Open but Jim Colbert was too strong for everyone that week. Mark had back-to-back 63s for the middle two rounds and the 126 total represented the lowest 36 holes on TOUR that year. He finished in second place.

While 1985 was not as good financially as some of the others, he did pocket an extra $20,000 for winning the Jerry Ford Invitational in Vail, CO, a special non-TOUR attraction.

Pfeil comes from good golfing stock. Both of his parents are fine players and it was with them, at the Palos Verdes Country Club, that he first started to play the game at age 10. Over the years, Bud Oakley at the Palos Verdes Club has been his primary teacher.

Mark played little competitive golf as a junior, but at Palos Verdes High he made rapid progress and, in his junior year, won the California Interscholastic Federation title. After two years at El Camino Junior College, he moved on to Southern Cal where he achieved All-America honors twice. He captained the Trojans in 1974 and won such titles as the Pacific Coast Amateur twice and the Southern California Amateur.

He turned professional in 1974 and graduated from the Fall, 1975, Qualifying School. After earning less than $500, he returned to the Q-School in Fall, 1976 and regained his card. He has been a pleasant addition to the TOUR scene ever since.

Dan Pohl waited a long time for last year to happen. He had been successful through his first seven full years on the PGA TOUR, but he had not been able to win.

Last year, he won twice — in the Colonial National Invitation and the NEC World Series of Golf. He also finished second to Greg Norman in the Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational. In those three events, he won $358,200.

"Dan Pohl did what he had to do to succeed," he said. "Early in the year I told myself to relax and keep everything in perspective. Before when I'd get in contention, I'd try to force things."

Over the years, he has played well in important events. He was third in the 1981 PGA Championship. He lost the 1982 Masters Tournament in a playoff to Craig Stadler. And, he tied for third in the 1982 U.S. Open. He came close in the 1985 Canon-Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open but lost in a playoff to Phil Blackmar.

As for his length off the tee, Dan was the TOUR leader the first two years such statistics were kept. In his best year, he averaged 280.1 in 1981.

His zest for power made him an outstanding baseball hitter for Mt. Pleasant High in Michigan, although he was a pitcher. When he first started to play golf, he continued to swing viciously, but soon realized it also was important to keep the ball on the course, somewhere.

Although he started in the game at age five, baseball and basketball were his first loves. He was so competitive, though, that he wanted to play everything. He played four years of high school golf, and had improved enough by his senior year that "Steve Robbins, my high school coach, wrote to several colleges. Arizona responded, so that was where I went."

Even today, he credits Robbins and Arizona coach John Gibson with helping him the most.

He earned his TOUR card on his second attempt, in June of 1978, but the following 12 months profited him only $1,047. He went back to the school in June of 1979 and regained his playing privileges.

With new vigor, he attempted to qualify for the Canadian Open and Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic, but could gain only alternate status. He didn't get in either one.

The next week, he qualified for the Western Open, and suddenly, he was in the spotlight. With three holes to play on Sunday afternoon at the Butler National Golf Club, Dan Pohl was in the lead.

"I had played solid all day," he said, "but you can't believe how pumped up I was. I thought I was putting good swings on it, but the ball started to act like it was shot out of a cannon. I hit every approach shot over the green on the last three, and bogeyed each one of them."

He tied for third, only one stroke out of the Larry Nelson-Ben Crenshaw playoff, won by Nelson. Nevertheless, he won $17,400, and he was here to stay.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Co-winner 1983 Jerry Ford Invitational. Winner, 1985 Vardon Trophy.

As the 1985 season moved into the final few tournaments, Don Pooley was waging a close race with such people as Raymond Floyd, Lanny Wadkins and Calvin Peete for the coveted Vardon Trophy. It is awarded annually to the PGA member who has the lowest stroke average.

When asked what it would mean to him, the mild-mannered Pooley said, "To them, it would be just another feather in their cap. For me, it would be the ONLY feather."

Well, he did earn his feather. He played 97 rounds and compiled a splendid average of 70.36. He had 40 rounds in the 60s and only seven scores of more than 74. He has been known as a player who rarely shoots a real low number, but just as rarely shoots a high one. Early in 1983, he went 22 straight rounds without being over par and challenged for the Vardon Trophy.

While his stroke average went up a fraction last season, he enjoyed his biggest year financially as he collected well over $200,000. The highlight was the runner-up finish to Hal Sutton in the Memorial Tournament.

The Don Pooley story is an interesting one. It shows what a person can do who is willing to work at his profession and, as he says, also have a faithful God.

After suffering through a miserable year in 1979, winning only $6,932 due mainly to muscle spasms in his back and tendonitis in his left hand, he rebounded with a $157,973 year in 1980. The improvement of $151,041 was the biggest jump on TOUR that year.

The next two years were good ones for Don, even if not as profitable as in 1980, but he was rolling again in 1983, collecting nearly $146,000. His best opportunity for victory came in the Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Classic, where he tied for second after Calvin Peete shot a last-round 63 to win it.

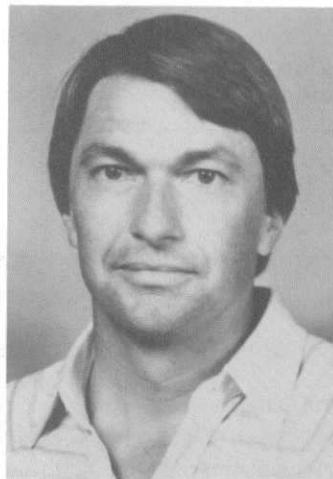

A swing change in recent years has added to his length off the tee. "The change helped with my release and I draw the ball now instead of fading it."

His first victory came at the B.C. Open in 1980. He was tied with Lee Trevino at 10-under par 203 after three, and his closing 68 gave him a one-stroke margin over Peter Jacobsen, and Trevino slipped into a tie for third.

Don says he has been playing golf for as long as he can remember. He received his first set of clubs on his seventh birthday.

He improved at each level of competition, and was the No. 1 man on his Riverside High School team and then played No. 1 on the University of Arizona team.

He played the mini-tours for a while after college, and it wasn't until his third attempt at the Qualifying School in the Fall of 1975, that he obtained his card.

Nick Price was extremely impressed with everything he saw when he arrived at the Firestone Country Club for the 1983 World Series of Golf. He qualified as the leader on the South African Order of Merit. "I've watched the World Series on television back home and I always thought this would be a great place to play," he said.

As his first round started, he parred the first and second holes, but bogeyed the third and fourth, missing the greens in each case. "At that point, I was just trying to hold the round together. I told myself to be patient and work on each shot."

What happened from that point on was, he not only held the round together, but he nearly put his entire golf career together.

Nick birdied the sixth hole that day, and then birdied five of the first seven holes on the second nine for a 36-30—66. He was in the lead by one stroke over Jack Nicklaus and Bobby Clampett. And, that's where he stayed the rest of the week, winning by four strokes over Nicklaus with a 10-under par 270.

The victory was worth $100,000, but more important, it gave him a 10-year exemption for all PGA TOUR co-sponsored events. Since he qualified for the World Series by virtue of his play on the South African Tour earlier in the year, his $100,000 did not count in official earnings. Thus, his record only shows $49,435 won in 1983.

Even though Nick did not win last year, he put together a solid, impressive season. There were a couple of highlights. He tied with Tom Kite, David Frost and Fred Couples in the Western Open but Kite won the playoff.

He was brilliant in the third round of the Masters Tournament as he shot a course-record 63 to move to within one of the lead but he finally finished fifth.

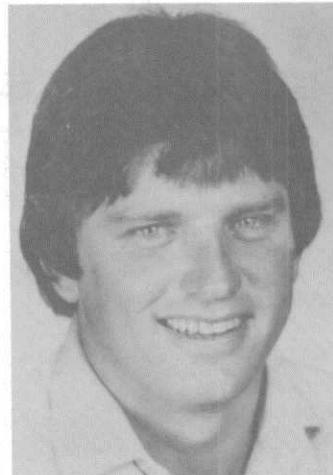

Nick started in the game as an eight-year old caddy for his brother in Rhodesia (now Zimbabwe). He progressed rapidly as a player, and by the time he was 17, he had an invitation to compete in the Junior World tournament at Torrey Pines in LaJolla, CA. "Everyone said I should go," he recalls, "so my mother and brother paid my way. They figured that if I didn't do well, I would get competitive golf out of my system."

He fooled them. He not only played well, but he won. "From that point on, they were behind me 100 percent," Nick said.

He played on the South Africa and the European Tour as an amateur in 1975, and then went into the Rhodesian Air Force for the next two years. He was out in time to play on the South African Tour as a professional in the Fall of 1977. The next year, he was second in the Dutch Open.

In 1980, he said his game "took off." He won the Swiss Open and the South African Masters and finished second in four other South African events.

His greatest disappointment came at Royal Troon in Scotland in the 1982 British Open. He led by three strokes with six holes to play but dropped four shots on his way to the clubhouse, letting Tom Watson slip in with the victory.

Tom Purtzer will tell you that no matter what else he accomplishes in the game, it isn't likely to give the satisfaction he experienced when he won the 1984 Phoenix Open.

He has spent most of his life in the Phoenix area and through the final round at the Phoenix Country Club, there wasn't any doubt about who most of the thousands in the gallery wanted to win.

He won in rather spectacular fashion, too. On the par 5 18th hole, he put his second shot into a bunker on the right, but he played a brilliant explosion shot. The ball stopped about two feet from the cup. He made the putt for a birdie and a one-stroke victory over Corey Pavin.

It gave Tom a six-under-par 65 for the sunny afternoon and a total of 16-under-par 268.

It paved the way for his sixth straight $100,000-plus year, although he says 1984 basically was a rebuilding year. "I had developed some bad habits," he said, "such as sliding over the ball instead of turning. I spend most of the year working on it."

Last year turned out to be one of his better ones. His earnings reached a new high, thanks to ten top 10 finishes. "I didn't have too many dry spells," he said. "Nothing really spectacular but it was a good consistent year."

One of the longest drivers on TOUR, he has averaged well over 270 yards through each of the last six seasons. Over the years, some of his finest performances have been on the more difficult courses.

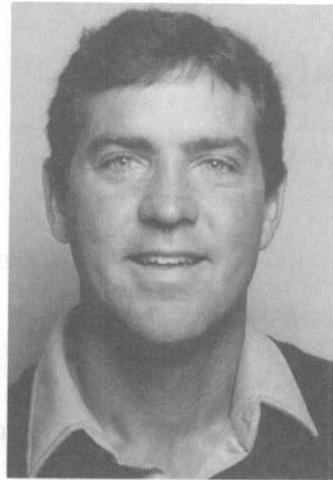

His first victory was at Riviera, for example, in the 1977 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open.

Tom got an early start in golf because his father, Horace, enjoyed the game.

"Dad was a good golfer," Purtzer said, in recalling his own background in the game. "I guess he was a two or a three handicapper when I was very young. He wanted both of his sons to play the game and Paul and I were given cut-down clubs. We started hitting the ball when we were eight or nine."

"Meanwhile, I liked baseball and football and played both. When I got to high school I gave up baseball. I played high school football and then concentrated on golf."

Purtzer continued to play golf for Arizona State and became one of the better collegiate players. He also won both the Arizona State amateur title and the Southwest Open in 1972.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: 1976 Western Athletic Conference champion. Winner, 1976 Pacific Coast Amateur. Collegiate All-America 1974, 1975. Low Amateur, 1976 U.S. Open. 1980 Member, U.S. World Cup Team. Teamed with Bob Goalby to win 1983 Shootout at Jeremy Ranch in Park City, UT (Senior PGA TOUR event). Winner, 1983, 1985 Utah Open.

Mike Reid enjoyed a rare treat in August of 1983 when he teamed with Bob Goalby for the Shootout at Jeremy Ranch in Park City, UT. This was a Senior PGA TOUR event, and the elder statesmen of the links were to choose a player from the regular TOUR.

Well, Mike and Bob teamed perfectly and they won by a stroke over the Billy Casper-Jim Nelford combination. While Mike collected $99,135 in official money on the regular TOUR, he added another $25,000 from the Shootout.

It was a privilege, you see, because this soft-spoken young man has been considered one of the finest players in the game without an official victory. Like Calvin Peete. Mike's key to success is keeping the ball in play and hitting a lot of greens.

He believes he can play well on any type of course, and he tries to model his game after the likes of Billy Casper and Gene Littler. "Week after week," he said, "when they were playing well, they always finished up high."

Two of the best weeks of his TOUR career came in September of 1985. He finished second in the B.C. Open, just one stroke in back of Joey Sindelar. He skipped the next two tournaments and then came back to tie Hal Sutton in the Southwest Golf Classic, only to see Sutton win it with a 30-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole. Nevertheless, he won $75,600 in those two events.

Mike's father was a Colonel in the Air Force when he retired, but during his growing-up days, Mike was in many different cities. At an early age, he realized golf was a game he could play alone, and it was a game that gave him something in common with others no matter where they lived.

His older brother, Bill, is head professional at the Tournament Players Club of Scottsdale, AZ, and has been Mike's biggest teacher. He also credits the John Geerstens, Senior and Junior, with assisting him.

Mike went to Brigham Young University, and was a teammate of Mike Brannan, Jim Nelford, John Fought and Pat McGowan. The first time he attempted to get his TOUR card, he made it, in the Fall of 1976. He progressed up the ladder the next three years, and his closest bout with victory was in the 1978 Pensacola Open. He lost in a playoff to Mac McLendon.

In December of 1979, he took a major step. He was married, and ever since, he has said that Randolyn has played an important role in his success. Since then two daughters and a son have been added to the close-knit family.

Jack Renner has enjoyed success all through his golf career. One of the reasons is because he always has set lofty goals and then worked tirelessly to meet them.

In 1981, he was having what he considered his most consistent year on TOUR as he headed for the Pleasant Valley-Jimmy Fund Classic. "I told my Dad that unless I won, though, people would think I was having a mediocre year."

A few days later, he had his victory, the second of his nine-year career as he edged Scott Simpson by two strokes.

In the 1983 Hawaiian Open, he thought he had won for the third time on TOUR. He was one-stroke ahead of Isao Aoki of Japan as he sat in the scoring tent, checking his card. Aoki was in the left rough on the par five 18th hole, some 128 yards from the flagstick.

Then Jack heard the tremendous roar. "At first, I thought he must have hit it close and if he made the putt for a birdie, we would have a playoff." Instead, Aoki HOLED the pitching wedge shot for an eagle and the victory.

Jack had his reward in the Hawaiian Open the next year. He birdied four of the last seven holes—including the 18th—at the Waialae Country Club to tie Wayne Levi, and then won the title in a playoff. The next week, he was second in the Los Angeles Open and went on to his best money year, earning $260,153.

He started on TOUR as a 20-year old and his first victory came in the 1977 Manufacturers Hanover-Westchester Classic. His performances slipped slightly in 1980 after suffering mononucleosis early in the year. It was several months before he regained his full strength.

Jack is easily identified. Rail thin, he always wears a white cap, similar to the type Ben Hogan wore for years. However, Jack says he has always worn that style because it is lightweight, comfortable, and during his years of growing up around Palm Springs, "I needed something to protect my head from the sun."

As a youngster, he was the king of the junior tournaments in the San Diego area. He won such titles as the 1972 World Junior and the 1973 United States Junior. His short game always has been excellent, and he believes he refined it by playing so many par three courses as a youth.

During his school days, he chose not to play varsity golf because he felt he could progress more rapidly by working on his own game, rather than spending the time travelling to matches.

The Renners are an avid golf family. Sister Jane has been a part of the LPGA Tour and younger brother Jim is a professional. When one of them needs help, they seek out a member of the family.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1978 Southeastern Conference. Leading money winner Space Coast mini-tour, 1980. Winner, 1985 JC Penney Mixed Team Classic (with sister Laurie).

Larry Rinker started to play the game at the age of six when his brother, Laine, began taking him to junior golf clinics. Larry played in his first Florida State Junior tournament at the age of 12 and continued to play through high school and at the University of Florida.

While playing for the Gators, he won the 1978 Southeastern Conference championship and, upon graduation, was presented the Doug Belden Award for athletic/academic excellence.

While playing on the mini-tours, he won 10 tournaments including six in 1980 and was voted the "player-of-the-year" by Florida Golf Week magazine.

Larry's first national exposure came at Pebble Beach in the 1982 United States Open Championship. He was paired with the final twosome of the third round and, after 40 holes, was tied for the lead. He went on to card two of the last four holes and eventually tied for 15th place.

Larry came into his own in 1984 after finishing second in the USF&G Classic in New Orleans. He finished 60th on the money list as he earned $116,494.

He enjoyed a tremendous year in 1985. During the first three months, he had won more money than he had in any other single season. He earned big checks when he tied for second place in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am and was third by himself in the Tournament Players Championship.

In 1985, Larry led the TOUR in eagles with 14. He also joined with his sister, Laurie Rinker, to win the JC Penney Mixed Team Championship.

Larry was a little disappointed with his performance last year, but he said, "It was a re-building year for me, providing the opportunity to pursue interests outside of golf."

He continued to develop his career as an entertainer, singing and playing the guitar, at PGA TOUR events such as the Tournament Players Championship. He also performs in his hometown of Winter Park, FL, where he has been attracting large audiences.

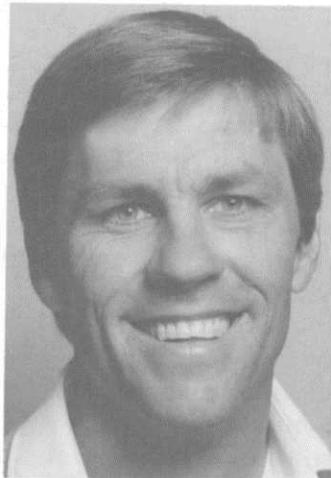

He said he planned to focus more attention on golf during 1987. Earlier, he stated, "I've learned what it takes to play well out here and each year I get a little more confidence in what I'm doing."

The Rinkers have quite a golfing family. His brother Lee played on the TOUR in 1984. His sister, Laura, was a winner on the LPGA Tour in 1984 and, Kelli, who is the wife of Larry's brother, Laine, also has played on the Ladies' Tour.

"We work with each other," he said. "We've all worked with Bob Toski and we all have a good knowledge of the game. We trade ideas and pull for each other."

Winner 1981 New South Wales Open, Australia, and 1981 Australian Open.

Through most of his golfing career, enthusiasm for the game has been one of the strong points for Bill Rogers. Not so, the last couple of years, he says, "but I'm going to have to get the old desire back if I want to start playing really well again."

He had it for a couple of weeks in 1983, and he tied for third in the Bay Hill Classic and went on to win the USF&G Classic in New Orleans the next. "I had a very positive attitude about everything those weeks," the popular Rogers said. "It was never the same after that."

While the 1986 season was a bit of a disappointment to Rogers he looks forward to the new year. "I'm looking forward to playing a full schedule and having a good year in 1987" said Rogers. "It's time to get back to work again."

Even in his fondest dreams, it would have been difficult for Bill to picture himself having a year such as 1981 and being named PGA Player-of-the-Year.

Winner of the World Series of Golf, the Heritage Classic and the Texas Open on TOUR, plus the British Open, Japan's Suntory Open and New South Wales Open in Australia; Rogers was dazzling once he got his act together starting with the Tournament Players Championship.

The year had a strange beginning. He was seventh in the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open and fourth in the Bob Hope Desert Classic. Then his game nearly fell apart. He missed cuts in five of his next six starts. He only tied for 51st in the TPC, but it was there, at Sawgrass, that he could see his game taking shape again. Indeed it did, because he won the Heritage Classic the next week.

Always an aggressive player, he never could figure out why he didn't win more. Through his first six years, his only triumph was in the 1978 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Bill started to play the game at age nine in Montgomery, AL, and was playing competitively by the time he was 13 and the family was living in Texarkana, Texas. Although his father and brother started him, it was Jerry Robinson, professional at Northridge Country Club in Texarkana, who taught him the fine points of the game.

While attending the University of Houston, he was a roommate of Bruce Lietzke and the latter nicknamed him the "Panther." As Bill recalls, "I was the jumpy type. I never wanted to miss anything."

Bill's father was a lieutenant colonel in the Air Force and from age three to six, he lived in Germany; from age six through eight, he lived in Morocco, North Africa. "Dad retired as a colonel and he still is a good player. He played in a lot of major Air Force tournaments when he was in the service."

Clarence Rose has been making steady progress since he joined the PGA TOUR in the Spring of 1981 and believes his higher level of patience has led to better course management.

The result is he has improved his money winnings each year. He made a big jump in 1985, going over the $100,000 mark for the first time and last year he made another significant jump in his earnings.

He enjoyed the first big week of his career at the 1985 Southern Open when he started with a 64 and added three more rounds in the 60s to finish in second place, just two strokes behind his good friend, Tim Simpson.

Last year, he had the two finest weeks of his TOUR life when he posted 66-68 for the last two rounds of the Los Angeles Open to finish as the runner-up to Doug Tewell; and the next week he tied for second place in the Honda Classic just one stroke behind Kenny Knox.

"My level keeps going up and up," he said. "I've been getting in contention more often and if I can keep knocking on the door, everything will be fine."

He has shown an ability to play the more difficult courses well. On the tough Glen Abbey course in the Canadian Open three years ago, he had a tie for fifth place which was his best finish until the Southern Open.

Regarding course management, he said, "I do try to go for birdies and I make a lot of them, but I'm also trying to cut back on my mistakes." He has had well over 300 birdies in each of the last four years. He's also one of the longer drivers on TOUR.

Clarence's father was a "very good golfer," and he started him at about age 12. "I played baseball all the time, but once I started into golf, that ended my days in baseball," he said.

He won his first junior tournament at age 14, the North Carolina State Jaycees. He went on to win the North Carolina State Amateur, too.

He gained All-American status while at Clemson and in June of 1981, he entered the PGA TOUR School. He qualified easily, gaining a tie for fourth at Walt Disney World. "My last year at Clemson," he said, "I started to think about the possibility of being on the TOUR. I knew that's what I wanted, so I left school and spent about eight months just getting ready for it."

Until he started on TOUR, he played from right to left, but he changed his game over and now favors the fade.

He constantly checks his weekly statistics, and through those numbers, he believes he is better able to diagnose his strengths and weaknesses.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Hawaiian Open-28

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner of three mini-tour events.

Dave Rummells is probably on the PGA TOUR today because he grew up in the small Iowa town of West Branch.

How did that help?

"My hometown was too small to really sponsor any sports," recalled Rummells. "About the only thing to do in town was play golf since we had a nine-hole course."

His father introduced him to the game at age five, but it was really his childhood friends that helped teach him the game.

"We had about three or four guys who played together and we sort of taught one another how to play," said Rummells.

A golf scholarship sent him to the University of Iowa and after he graduated in 1981, he turned professional and headed south to Florida.

He failed in three attempts to gain his PGA TOUR card, but he played the mini-tours and continued to practice every day outside his mobile home.

"I bought a mobile home in Iowa and had a friend tow it down to Orlando," said Rummells. "I've got a big open field next to it where I can hit balls, that's why I moved there."

A good showing at the 1985 Qualifying Tournament earned Rummells his PGA TOUR card and he struck paydirt quickly finishing in a T9 at the Hawaiian Open and cashed a check for over $1,000.

A few weeks later he finished a strong T10 at the TPC and picked up another $21,600 and he was on his way. During the course of his week at the difficult TPC, Rummells equalled Tom Watson's course record when he recorded six straight birdies during his second round when he fired a seven-under par 65.

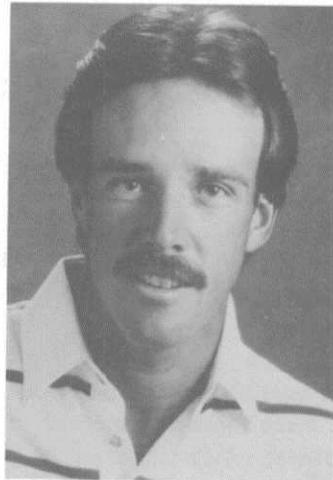

He also collected a big paycheck at Las Vegas, but he suffered an injury during that event and was forced to take six weeks off after he completed the tournament.

"Las Vegas was the turning point in my year," said Rummells. "I was near the lead all week and it was great to see my name on the leaderboard. I also won enough that I felt like I was safe for next year. On the other hand, I got hurt there and had to take a lot of time off and I didn't really play very well after that."

He ended up winning a very respectful $83,227 to finish 103rd on the money list and the slender Iowa native is looking for better things this year.

"I'm a little more used to the travel and the courses now, so I expect 1987 to be a little easier for me," said Rummells. "My goal is to win over $100,000 and be in the Top 75."

Dave Rummells has certainly come a long way from that nine-hole course in West Branch, Iowa.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Won Georgia State Open twice, once as an amateur. Winner of Trans America Athletic Conference title.

Gene Sauers had to compete on the PGA TOUR the hard way in 1985—as a member of the 126-150 money list group. Still the youngster from Savannah, GA, was able to parlay his opportunities to play into a fully exempt status for the '86 season.

He took advantage of his new found opportunities by having a standout 1986 season that included a playoff triumph in the Bank of Boston Classic.

While the victory may have elevated him in the eyes of many, the soft-spoken Sauers took it all in stride.

"I'm not going to change any," said Sauers. "I'm going to go out this year and play like I don't have an exemption. I want to win again."

When Gene joined the PGA TOUR in the Fall of 1983, he was the youngest man on the circuit and he struggled early in 1984 as he often did not get to play during the early part of the schedule.

Once the two-time Georgia State Open champion got his chance to play consistently towards the end of the season, he made the most of his chances.

His steady play down the stretch was highlighted by a T5 at Pensacola in the final event of the season. However, his $36,537 left him about $1,200 short of making the top 125 money winners and put him in a position of being well down on the priority rankings for 1985.

Was he discouraged? Not really.

"It was frustrating not to make it in 1984, but it was my first year and I thought I did well," said Sauers. "I was a little disappointed, but I figured I was the youngest guy out here and I was doing pretty well. I knew I had played well at the end of the year."

The 1985 season started out in similar fashion as the former Georgia Southern star didn't get to play often in the early going. In mid-season, though, Sauers got his chance to play regularly and capitalized with a strong three-week stretch that saw him finish in a T16 at Quad Cities, a T4 at Buick and a T11 at the B. C. Open. His check for $18,000 at Buick was the largest of his career and propelled him into the top 125 money winners, a position he would not relinquish.

Gene started in the game at age nine when he would tag along with his father and brother out to the golf course on the weekends.

"They'd bring along an extra club and I'd hit it around," Sauers recalls. "My brother was a good golfer (played collegiately at Columbus College) and I'd go out to practice with him and beat balls around."

Still one of the youngest players on TOUR, this soft spoken young man from Georgia looks like he has a very promising future indeed.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1981 Phillipine Open, Thailand Open, Singapore Open, Brazilian Open, Winner of total of seven events overseas.

Tom Sieckmann certainly knew what was at stake when he faced an eight-foot birdie putt on the final hole of the 1986 Tallahassee Open. It was his last official event of the year and he knew his position on the 1987 exempt list was resting on his putting stroke.

"I knew that if I made it, I had a chance to be in a playoff and then everything would take care of itself," he said. "I wasn't nervous on the first putt."

He missed and only had a relatively-easy putt for his par and a round of 66 for the day. "When I got over the ball, the thought occurred to me, 'Oh, boy, what if I miss this one?'"

He didn't and his total of 13-under-par 275 eventually left him in a tie for third place, two-strokes behind the winner, Mark Hayes.

More important, he earned $10,400 and moved into the 125th position on the final money list. He had his exemption for 1986.

"You play to win out here," he said, "but my goal that week was to keep my player's card. At the beginning of the week, I thought I would have to finish fourth alone or better to make it."

Tom Sieckmann has come a long way to earn his position among the elite players of the game. He is one of the few players even to come out of the State of Nebraska to play on the Tour.

He was a basketball player as a youngster, but as the years moved along, he knew golf would be his game. He went to the University of Nebraska, but soon transferred to Oklahoma State University. It was a good move.

Mike Holder, the Cowboys' golf coach, said, "Bob Tway and Willie Wood were our best players in those days but Tom was with them and they formed one of the best teams I've ever had."

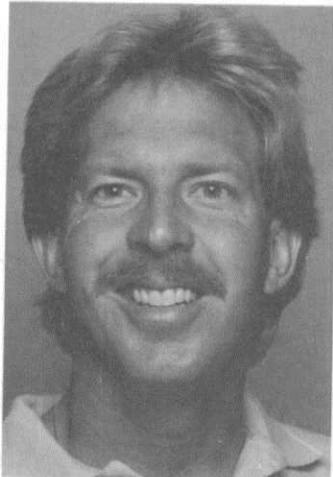

While at Oklahoma State, he was known for two things — his willingness to work extremely hard on his game and his good nature. Things haven't changed. He's still the same way.

He had his problems trying to get on the PGA TOUR, but whenever he went elsewhere to look for a game, he found success. He won several times overseas and 1981 was the banner year when he won four times - the Phillipine Open, Thailand Open, Singapore Open and the Brazilian Open.

He finally made it onto the TOUR in a rather impressive fashion. He tied for second in the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1984. He earned $30,052 for his first year in 1985 with a tie for 12th place in the Byron Nelson CClassic his best. Unfortunately, he finished 143rd on the money list.

He went back to the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1985 in an effort to improve his position on the priority list. He did that as he earned medalist honors.

It set the stage for 1986 and his final putt on the final day. Incidentally, his biggest check of the year came in the USF&G Classic when he finished 67-67 to tie for third place and earn $24,000.

If there ever was an award given for perseverance, surely Tony Sills would be a prime candidate.

He attempted to qualify for the PGA TOUR six times before he made it at the Tournament Players Club in the Fall of 1982. Twice, he remembers vividly, he missed in the finals by two shots. "That just told me I wasn't ready," he says.

"All through those years," he continued, "I was living on a dream. Playing on the TOUR was something I knew I was going to do. Now, I know dreams do come true."

He has improved dramatically each year and certainly made 1986 his most profitable as he went well over the $200,000 mark. Consistency was the key and at the end of the year, he went through 15 tournaments without missing the cut.

"A lot of it had to do with a strength-training program," he said. "It made me a better golfer. I worked on every muscle and not just those used in the golf swing."

He played exceptionally well early in the year with a tie for second place in the Phoenix Open and the next week he tied for third place in the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am.

Despite his successes, he makes it clear, "My goal is to win and then win again. I'm not out here just to make checks. I'm here to win."

His first exposure to the game was as a five-year old. "My father started to play for health reasons. The doctor encouraged him because of the exercise he needed, so I started to follow him around."

During those years when he was attempting to get on the TOUR, he said, "I had a lot of different jobs. I stayed at home with my parents to keep expenses down, but I did everything from delivering pizzas to grinding clubs in Jerry Barber's golf factory."

"I even worked for a beer distributor, but my best job was at the Los Angeles Country Club. I worked part time on the driving range, so that I could have a half day to practice. During those years, I lived on practically nothing money-wise. I was determined to see this thing through."

He has had to overcome serious physical problems even to play the game, so serious, in fact, that many others would have turned and gone in another direction.

When he is playing well, he prefers a slight draw. "I'm not long off the tee," he said, "but I've always been pretty accurate. My putting needs to improve and it has improved."

There are two sides to the Jim Simons story. While he has enjoyed fine success on the PGA TOUR, winning three times through the 1985 campaign, a new career continues to blossom.

He also is a second vice-president and financial consultant with Shearson/Lehman/American Express and since 1980, has been spending more and more time in the brokerage business. He has specialized in managed money, using the best people in a particular product area. The majority of his time now is spent studying equity fund managers and computerized managed commodity programs.

He slipped to 132nd on the money list in 1986, but was granted a medical exemption for 1987 due to his shoulder ailment.

His two most productive years on the TOUR came in 1981 and 1982 when he earned more than $100,000 each year and one of his more important victories came in 1982 when he overtook Craig Stadler the last day of the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am and won by two strokes.

It was there he revealed he is "legally blind" with proper corrective lenses. At the Crosby, he wore two contacts over the left eye—a soft lens against the eye and a hard lens over the soft one—to correct vision and astigmatism.

Jim's initial victory was in the 1977 First NBC-New Orleans Open and then he won the 1978 Memorial Tournament in a rather suspenseful style. Five times in the last seven holes, he saved par with one-putts; and, at the final hole, he made a 21-footer for par to win by one.

He has lost three tournaments in playoffs and one was in 1984 to John Mahaffey in the Bob Hope Classic. A shoulder injury at the Los Angeles Open put him on the sidelines for nearly four months.

Jim Simons will be the first to say that his early years on the PGA TOUR were not up to expectations. He probably won't mention, however, that he was hampered with physical ailments. He had tendonitis in his left wrist, but more painful was his left shoulder which was diagnosed as a "looseness in the joint—a minor dislocation."

Jim's father started him in golf at Butler, Pa., Country Club at the age of nine. He started competition at the age of 13 and his progress was rapid. He first enrolled at the University of Houston but, after a year, transferred to Wake Forest. He was on the 1971 Walker Cup team and remained overseas for the 1971 British Amateur, reaching the final round where he lost to Steve Melnyk.

Winner of California and San Diego junior titles. Winner 1979, 1981 Hawaii State Open. Winner 1984 Chunichi Crowns (Japan), Dunlop Phoenix (Japan).

Scott Simpson is one of those players who quietly goes about his business and lets his golf game do the talking. And, when his game starts talking everyone notices.

Such was the case at the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic in June of 1984. Scott stayed close to the lead through the first three rounds and then played one of the great rounds of his career. He shot a six-under par 65 in the heat and humidity and won by five strokes.

It was his only victory of the year, but he played very well for most of the season. "I started a little slow," he said, "and then decided to work on the mental part of the game. At that point, everything started to come together. I was more relaxed on the course."

He felt the breakthrough came in Japan in late April of 1984 when he won the Chunichi Crowns title. He came back to the U.S. and proceeded to have his finest year by far.

He said his first victory on the TOUR came as something of a surprise. It was on the tough Butler National course in the 1980 Western Open. He took the lead after the second day and never was headed, as he posted four rounds of par or better.

"My game was improving," he recalls, "and I knew if I continued to improve, I eventually would win. All of a sudden, I made the big move and won. Yes, I was surprised."

This past year saw Simpson go over the $200,000 mark for the second time in his career. The highlight, though, was late in the year when his wife, Cheryl, presented him with a son, Sean. Two weeks later he had his best finish of the year losing to Jim Thorpe in the finals of the Seiko-Tucson Match Play Championship.

Scott had an excellent amateur record, winning the National Collegiate titles in 1976 and 1977 for the University of Southern California. "It was after I won it the first time that I thought I would make a career in golf, and someday turn professional. I felt if I could win over a field such as that, then maybe I had a chance."

He also won two PAC-8 titles for the Trojans and was a member of Uncle Sam's Walker Cup team in 1977. He seemed to be a sure thing.

Yet, he met the disappointment that so many young players have had to face, twice failing to make it through the TOUR's tough Qualifying School. He finally made it the third time, in the Fall of 1978.

Scott started in the game as a caddy at age nine for his father, a scratch handicapper in the San Diego area in those days. He was 10 when he entered his first tournament and in the 10-and-under division, Jack Renner was the victor, but Scott tied his brother for fifth. He knew then that he liked the competition.

There may never be another week on the PGA TOUR for Tim Simpson to compare with the one he experienced during the 1985 Southern Open. It was the week when he took the final step and won his first tournament after eight years of trying.

Tim has always had the talent to succeed—and he has been successful—but if there was any one thing that kept him from the winner's circle, it probably was his putting. For several years, his mental approach was found lacking on occasions, too.

A keen student of psychology, he has been working with Dr. Bob Rotella, the sports psychologist. In fact, they have become close friends.

It was Rotella who told him, "from my observations and from what I've heard from others, the one missing link in your game now is your putting." He stressed the need for Tim to relax more. "You get over the ball," he said, "and you grind on every one. You're too intense."

Tim grins when he tells the story. "And you know," he adds, "Bob was right."

Certainly Tim has all the shots. He is regarded by his peers as one of the better ball strikers on TOUR. He plays with the aggressiveness of a Lanny Wadkins and the tenacity of a Hale Irwin. Just as important, he has never been afraid of hard work. He'll spend as much time on the practice tee as anyone.

During the week of the Southern Open at the Green Island Country Club, the hard work and dedication paid off. His shotmaking was superb. In fact, after he shot 12-under-par 64-64—128 the first two days, he said, "In the 22 years I've been playing golf, I've never hit the ball better. I haven't missed a shot in two days."

He held the Southern Open lead through the third and fourth rounds, holding off the challenge of Clarence Rose. When it was over, he said, "I've never been in a tournament and in a position to win, as I was today, and had the inner-peace through the last round that I had here. It's something I can't explain."

He nearly won the Southern again last year. He tied for second place with a splendid 66 the final afternoon. His most impressive performance of the year came in the Tournament Players Championship. A third-round 66 helped him to a solo third place.

Tim's father, Jack, started him in the game as a seven-year old and he went on to win junior championships of Atlanta and Georgia. "I owe a lot to my father," he said. "He worked hard so I could afford to play and he has always stood behind me. He has been the guiding force in my life."

Another who helped to mold his game is Art Kraft Jr., the pro at the Ansley Country Club in Atlanta. "I've been working with Art since I was 15-years old," Tim said.

Tim went on to the University of Georgia and earned all-Southeastern Conference and All-America honors. He won the Southern Amateur in 1976. In the Spring of 1977, he earned his player's card.

Those who know Tim also know there are two other people who helped to turn his career around, his wife, Kathy, and son, Christopher. "There isn't any way I can tell you what they have meant to me. They gave me a purpose to my life," he said proudly. Last September 26, Katie joined the family.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Deposit Guaranty Classic - 9

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1972 New York State Junior, 1980 New York State Amateur and 1981 New York State Open championships. Member 1979 NCAA Championship team for Ohio State. Winner of 10 collegiate titles, including 1981 Big Ten championship by 12 strokes. Three-time All-American and named 1981 Ohio State Athlete-of-the-Year.

After capturing two tournaments in 1985, Joey Sindelar returned last year to have another sensational year. While he failed to win any tournaments, he went over the $300,000 mark for the first time while winning the Epson stats title in birdies for the second straight year and also grabbed the eagles title.

"I played a lot better golf this year than last year," said Sindelar. "I was more consistent and I feel like I improved a lot."

When he talks of his golf game and his goals, he always says, "we." He'll tell you, "We talked it over and decided . . ." The other party in the "we" is his father, the man who first put a club in Joey's hands when he was six years old.

"My Dad always stressed that if anything is worth doing, it's worth doing right. He's always been behind everything I've done. When I was playing basketball in high school, and wanted some extra practice, he would make certain we could get in the gym at night."

Through high school, Joey also knew that if he was going to go to college, it would have to be on a scholarship, so he worked extra hard on his golf game. There were offers, but he decided on Ohio State because "I had met a few of their players when I would go to amateur tournaments, and they were really nice to me. And, I wanted to go somewhere close to home where they played major college football and basketball and had other good programs."

"The fact that Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Ed Sneed had played for Ohio State helped to influence me, too," he added with a smile.

He was devastating for the Buckeyes. He won 10 collegiate events and in 1981, he won the Big Ten championship by 12 strokes. He was named Ohio State's Athlete-of-the-Year in 1981.

Along the way, he managed to sweep the New York State titles — Junior, Amateur and Open championships.

The PGA TOUR was his goal, though, and he made it through the Qualifying School in the Fall of 1983, finishing in a tie for third.

He was successful right from the start of 1984 winning nearly $18,000 on the West Coast swing. His first start in Florida was the Honda Classic and he finished fifth, collecting another $20,000.

He went on to win over $100,000 in his rookie campaign, but he rocketed to stardom last year when he won twice and picked up $282,762 to finish 12th on the money list.

His first win came at the Greater Greensboro Open when he holed an eight-foot par-saving putt on the 72nd hole to win by one and then later in the year he won again at the B. C. Open edging Mike Reid for the title in front of his hometown fans.

When Jeff Sluman was introduced to the game of golf at an early age, he had no goals or aspirations to be a professional golfer. In fact, he didn't decide to become professional until much later in his life.

Started in the game by his family at age four, Sluman didn't even think about turning pro until after his senior year at Florida State University. After a solid collegiate career that saw him win the Metro Conference title, Sluman opted for a career in golf.

"I didn't really decide to turn pro until I graduated from Florida State," remembered Sluman. "I had played well at FSU and had qualified for the U.S. Open as an amateur, so I decided to give it a try. I didn't want to be 35 and wonder what if, so I turned pro."

Sluman turned professional in 1980 and in the Fall of 1982 he earned his PGA TOUR card. However, he won only $13,643 in 1983 and finished 171st on the money list and lost his playing privileges.

After sitting out the 1984 season, Sluman returned to the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1984 and posted rounds of 74-74-69-70-74-72—433 to finish 23rd and regain his player's card.

The start of the 1985 season was a slow one for the Rochester, NY, native, but at the Greater Greensboro Open, his fortunes changed. He led the field through 36-holes and eventually finished in a tie for fifth picking up the largest check of his career, $13,560.

Approximately one month later, Sluman demolished the Killearn G&CC course to win the Tallahassee Open on the Tournament Players Series with a score of 19-under par 269. During that tournament he fired three rounds of 65 and beat Gary Player and former FSU teammate Kenny Knox by one stroke.

Sluman went on in 1985 to have several other strong finishes including a T5 at the Southwest Golf Classic and a T7 at the Kemper Open and easily kept his playing card by winning $100,523 and finishing 78th on the 1985 Official Money List.

In 1986, Sluman again topped the $100,000 mark while picking up six top ten finishes. A frequent name on the leaderboard, Sluman is gradually becoming one of the game's best young players.

"I feel a little more comfortable after having had two successful years," said Sluman. "I'm still learning how to play out here. I think I play a little too much sometimes and this year I plan to stick to a planned schedule."

It would seem that the young man from New York has found a home on the PGA TOUR for many years to come.

J.C. Snead has been known for years as one of the better shot-makers on the TOUR and, as a result, he has enjoyed considerable success. More-and-more these days his name also is being mentioned as one of the better "teachers" in the game. You hear more players who say they went to J. C. for help and he gives of his time willingly.

Those who know J. C. well, know him as a fellow with a great sense of humor and a heart as big as all-outdoors. However, with a touch of brusqueness and a sly smile, hell deny it all.

He had good reason to smile a lot last year when he came back to enjoy his most profitable season in a decade. "I started to hit the ball better," he said, "and, for a stretch, I putted a lot better."

His two biggest weeks came in the summer when he tied for second place in the Buick Open to earn $44,000 and three weeks later tied for third place in The International to collect $63,000.

Certainly one of the game's more colorful people, J. C. has a reputation of occasionally shying away from interviews, but those who follow the game closely know that once they take a few minutes to chat with him, they will be rewarded with one of the better stories of the day.

He has a wonderful sense of humor. Several years ago, he decided he wanted to go by his full name, Jesse Carlyle. After a few weeks of not playing well, he informed everyone he was going back to using J. C. because 'Jesse Carlyle hasn't been playing worth a damn.'

One of his strongest loves is hunting, and he will spend hours in search of game, especially around his home area of Hot Springs, Va. J. C. and his wife Sue also have a home at Sawgrass in Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla.

Jesse Carlyle, although constantly mentioned as the nephew of the legendary Sam Snead, stands on his own performance record. He was a superb athlete in other sports while growing up in Hot Springs, and at one time, sought a career in baseball. He was in the Washington Senators' farm system before turning to golf as a career in 1964.

He worked for head pro Charlie Beverage at the Century Country Club in Westchester County, N.Y. while twice failing to pass the PGA TOUR Qualifying Test. It was a total of four years before he earned his card in 1968. Following three so-so years, J. C. burst into prominence in 1971 by winning twice in a three-week period, at Tucson and Doral, immediately before and after the PGA Championship at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla.

Winner, 1982 PGA TOUR Arnold Palmer Award as leading money winner. 1983 and 1985 Ryder Cup team. Winner, 1985 European Masters. Winner, 1986 Jerry Ford Invitational.

Whatever Craig Stadler accomplishes during the rest of his career, his followers will fondly remember 1982. It was the year he broke away from the field and went from being a good player to a superstar.

He won four times, starting the year by capturing the first event, the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open. He won two of the year's more significant events, the Masters Tournament in a playoff over Dan Pohl and the World Series of Golf in a playoff over Raymond Floyd. His other victory was in the Kemper Open by an impressive seven strokes.

He won the Arnold Palmer Award as the leading money winner, as he earned $446,462. Until 1985, only Tom Watson and Mark O'Meara had won more in a single season. He said there were two keys to his improved play. First of all, he drove the ball better than ever, sacrificing some distance for accuracy and, secondly, he putted much better.

He was impressive in winning the 1984 Byron Nelson Classic with a seven-under-par 64 in the third round as the key. He didn't win in 1985 or 1986, but he pointed out, "Late last year, I started to get back to fading the ball the way I used to do it. I'm getting more confidence in my swing."

It paid off for him the final day of the Southwest Classic as he shot a tournament record 63 and moved into a tie for third place.

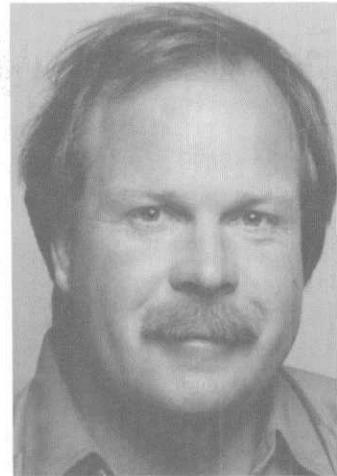

In 1985, he led the Bob Hope Classic through the third and fourth rounds but Lanny Wadkins tied him the last afternoon with a 65 and then Lanny won the playoff with a birdie on the fifth extra hole. He also finished second in the Hawaiian Open. It's interesting to note that he was 47-under par in the Hope and Hawaiian tournaments, yet finished second twice.

Although he joined the TOUR in the Spring of 1976, he didn't get his first victory until the Bob Hope Desert Classic in January of 1980. Later in the year, he added the Greater Greensboro Open title to his laurels.

Before turning professional in 1975, Craig compiled an excellent amateur record, highlighted by his victory in the 1973 U. S. Amateur Championship at the Inverness Club in Toledo. "I just made everything that week," he said.

He had given some thought to leaving the University of Southern California after that triumph, but changed his mind. He went on to be an All-America choice for the Trojans in 1974 and 1975 and was named to the 1975 Walker Cup team.

Craig first played the game at age five with the assistance of his father and really became interested at age eight or nine.

It was an amusing incident at the time. When Payne Stewart started to walk into the News Center at the 1983 Walt Disney World Classic, the security guard stopped him, informing him caddies were not permitted inside unless invited.

As usual, Payne was wearing his plus-fours and cap, which also happens to be the traditional garb of the Disney caddies. By Sunday night, the security people knew all about Payne Stewart. He was the victor by two strokes over Nick Faldo and Mark McCumber. It was the second victory of his career—the first being the 1982 Quad Cities Open.

In his pastel plus-fours, socks and cap, Payne certainly has become the most colorful dresser on TOUR. It has reached the point where people now ask him what he is going to wear each day.

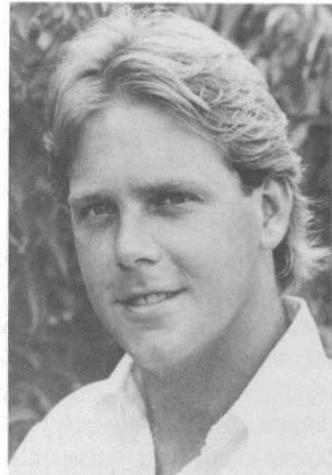

He enjoyed his best year by far in 1986 and even though he didn't win, he seemed to be knocking on the door every week. He lost a playoff to Dan Pohl in the Colonial National Invitation and had a total of 16 top 10 finishes.

He won $535,389 and set a TOUR record for the "most money won in a single season without a victory." Incidentally, he also lost the 1984 Colonial NIT in a playoff to Corey Pavin and the 1985 Byron Nelson Classic in a playoff to Bob Eastwood.

Payne always knew he wanted to be a professional golfer. His father introduced him to the game at age four. Bill Stewart was an accomplished player and proud of his son's performances. They were very close, but in 1985, he died of cancer.

Payne's golfing career progressed in an orderly fashion through junior programs, high school and finally to a golf scholarship at Southern Methodist University. While there, Payne won several collegiate events, including the 1979 co-championship of the Southwest Conference. Quite simply, he was on a roll when he finished school, and he felt confident he was ready to conquer the PGA TOUR.

As so many others before him, Payne failed at the Qualifying School in the Fall of 1979. A two-year stint in Asia (1980-81) proved to be just what the doctor ordered. With victories in the 1981 Indian and Indonesian Opens under his belt, plus his marriage to an Australian girl he met while in Malaysia, Payne returned to the U. S. to attend the 1981 Spring Q School. This time he was successful, and it was off to the "main event."

For many years, Dave Stockton has been one of golf's finest good-will ambassadors. He is in constant demand for clinics and exhibitions because of his knowledge of the game and his smooth rapport with the golfing public.

It isn't unusual for him to do 50-to-60 corporate outings a year.

During the late 1960s and through the 1970s, he also was one of the finest players in the world and the fact that he won two PGA Championships will attest to that. For nearly two decades, he has been regarded as one of the premier putters and short-game players in the game.

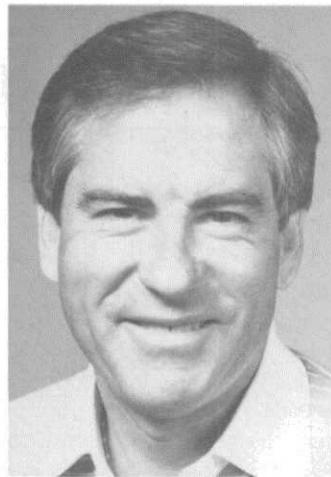

Dave is a descendant of a Declaration of Independence signer from New Jersey. He started to play golf seriously at age 17, following an injury to his back in a surfing accident. Dave, just as his father Gail, did, went to the University of Southern California and became captain of the golf team.

He turned professional after leaving school, but struggled for three years before winning the prestigious Colonial National Invitation in 1967. He was invited to the NIT as a Past Champions' choice.

While he has won a total of 11 times, his greatest triumphs have been in two PGAs. The first was in 1970 at Southern Hills n Tulsa, as he outdueled Arnold Palmer down the stretch. He won another in 1976 at the Congressional Country Club, holing a par-saving 13-footer on the final hole to edge Ray Floyd and Don January.

His most productive year was 1974 as he won three times. A brilliant 235-yard three wood shot on the difficult 18th hole at Riviera Country Club set up his one-stroke margin over Sam Snead and John Mahaffey at the Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open. He also won the Quad Cities Open and the Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open. After the latter, he received a phone call from then-President Gerald Ford. He was just leaving the press tent when the call came.

The last few years, he is receiving more enjoyment than ever watching his two sons, David and Ronald, competing in junior events.

Close followers of the game have been waiting for Curtis Strange to have a year such as he produced in 1985. He won three times and set a record for the most money won in a year when he totaled $542,321. Tom Watson held the old mark at $530,808, set in 1980.

Going all the way back to his collegiate days, Curtis has been known as one of the more talented-and-determined players in the game. It has always been his burning desire to save every possible shot that has made him one of the more successful people in the business.

While the 1986 season didn't equal his brilliant play of the year before, Strange still managed to capture the Houston Open title for the second time en route to earning well over $200,000 for the seventh straight season.

"It wasn't one of my better years—I just didn't play as consistently," said Strange. "I'm anxious to play as well in 1987 as I did in 1985. I'm certainly going to work at it."

In 1982, Curtis set a TOUR record for the most money won in a calendar year without a victory. He earned $263,378. Curtis had 12 top 10 finishes that year and in one stretch late in the season, he finished fourth or better five straight weeks.

Curtis has been a winner in the game for most of his life, starting back in his days as a junior golfer in Virginia. He started to play at age seven, "and by the time I was eight, I was playing every day." His father was a golf professional and owned the White Sands Country Club in Virginia Beach, Va.

His father passed away when Curtis was 14, and then, as Curtis explained, "Chandler Harper, the Hall of Famer, became my teacher."

His first taste of success came when he won the Virginia State Junior at age 15 and he won his first important title in 1973, the Southeastern Amateur. However, he said his biggest thrill came when he won the 1975 Eastern Amateur. "My father won the very first Eastern in 1957, so that had special meaning to me."

Curtis carried such titles as the Western Amateur and the National Collegiate with him when he first attempted to earn his PGA TOUR card in the Fall of 1976, but he missed. He came back in the Spring of 1977 and made it.

The holder of the all-time PGA TOUR record for the lowest two consecutive rounds ever shot is neither Nicklaus nor Hogan nor Snead nor Palmer nor Trevino. It's Ron Streck, and he did it in winning his first title, the 1978 San Antonio-Texas Open.

He was close to losing his card at the end of his second year on TOUR until he shot 63-62 for a 125. There have been six times in the TOUR's glorious past when 126s have been posted, twice by Sam Snead.

Ron has had two other 62's during his TOUR career, and one came in the third round of the 1981 Michelob-Houston Open at The Woodlands. It gave him a three-day total of 15-under par 198 and a two-stroke lead over Hale Irwin and Jerry Pate.

Then the rains came to stay, through Sunday and even Monday, so the tournament was made official after the 54 holes and Ron had the victory. He went on to complete a productive year, winning $114,895, by far his finest.

He was in a position to win for a third time at the 1985 Isuzu-Andy Williams-San Diego Open. He shot a 19-under par 269 at the Torrey Pines Club to tie Woody Blackburn, but he lost the playoff when he bogeyed the fourth extra hole.

Ron had a knee problem through much of last year and, in mid-summer, he underwent corrective surgery. He was off the TOUR for nearly three months. Due to the problem, he was granted a special medical extension to his exemption.

It also was a difficult year physically for him in 1983. In December of 1982, he cracked two ribs skiing in Colorado, and missed the first month of the schedule. Then, just before the Masters Tournament, he suffered a torn cartilage in his knee in a pick-up basketball game and was off another month.

Ron has been involved in golf almost since he was old enough to walk. "My Dad was a member of a country club at home and he started me out when I was four years old," he recalls.

"I liked the game and continued playing right through high school, but I've never had a golf lesson in my life.... I guess you could say I taught myself."

Next came a golf scholarship at the University of Tulsa, and by the end of his freshman year, Ron knew he'd like to give the TOUR a try when he finished school.

It also is interesting to note that he was a two-time all-state high school basketball player, and far more colleges wanted him for that sport than for golf.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1984 Shootout at Jeremy Ranch on Senior PGA TOUR with Don January.

Mike Sullivan is one of those fellows with considerable potential and when he has been physically ready to go, he has played some marvelous golf. He has had some problems with his back and that doesn't help his big, powerful swing.

His only TOUR victory came in the 1980 Southern Open at Columbus, GA. A second-round 63 gave him the lead he never relinquished and he won by five strokes. The next week, he nearly did it again, finally finishing in a tie for second at the Pensacola Open.

In 1981, he almost made it two Southern titles in a row, as a last-day 64 placed him in a tie with J. C. Snead but Snead won it in a playoff on the second extra hole. He won nearly a quarter-of-a-million dollars in those two years.

Another victory came his way in 1984 when he teamed with Don January to win the Shootout at Jeremy Ranch in Utah on the Senior PGA TOUR. "I went to the University of Florida with Don's son Tim, and that's when I first met him."

He'd like to forget about 1985. His back simply would not let him perform up to his standards and he finished the year in 127th place.

Last year, the sun started to shine again on the big, friendly fellow. He easily went over the $100,000 mark in earnings and at one stretch, he made 12 straight cuts.

He tied for fifth place in the Doral-Eastern Open and tied for sixth in the Colonial National Invitation. He also points with pride to his course-record 63 at the TPC at the Woodlands during the Houston Open.

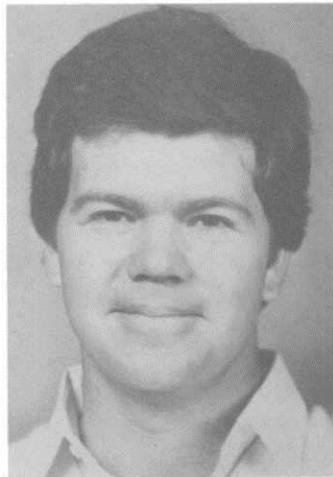

His biggest year was 1980 and he started like a superstar. He tied for second in the Bob Hope Desert Classic and finished third the next week in the Phoenix Open, earning $44,600 for those two splendid efforts. He had won, in those two outings, more than he had won in any full season prior to that. Three weeks later, Mike suffered severe back muscle spasms and was off the TOUR for five weeks.

Mike played a lot of golf with his father when he was a youngster. "He was a scratch amateur, and taught me everything in those days."

Living in Ocala, Fla., his father took him to see the Florida Citrus Open in Orlando, and the old Greater Jacksonville Open. He went to the University of Florida briefly—and had Andy Bean for a roommate—but he wanted to play golf, and not go to school.

He missed twice in attempting to qualify for the TOUR, but made it in the Fall of 1976.

His first brush was a victory came in the 1978 Buick Open when he tied with Jack Newton of Australia but lost the playoff.

Golf Writers Player-of-Year, 1985 Ryder Cup team.

Hal Sutton keeps finding ways to get better in the game of golf, but true to the mark as a great player, he says he isn't as good as he knows he can be and expects to be.

Hal was able to win twice in 1985 and both were in playoffs, over David Ogrin in the St. Jude Memphis Classic and over Mike Reid in the Southwest Classic.

Last year he won two more impressively. He started in the Phoenix Open with rounds of 64-64 and eventually won by two. In the Memorial Tournament, he was in command all the way as he won by four shots with a 66-68 finish.

Even though Hal enjoyed a good year in 1984, he learned how fine the line is between winning and challenging. He didn't win but he did have 11 top 10 finishes. "I couldn't make the one putt at the right time," he said.

He also had a tough act to follow, considering the great success he enjoyed as a rookie in 1982 and then the follow-up the next year. The handsome young man from Louisiana won two of the more prestigious tournaments in the game—the Tournament Players Championship and the PGA Championship. He was the No. 1 money winner for most of the year, and finally edged Fuzzy Zoeller for the honor with $426,668.

As a rookie in 1982, he had eight top 10 finishes en route to a $237,434 campaign, and his first victory as a professional came in the season's final event, the Walt Disney World Classic. He turned back the challenge of Bill Britton in that one, with a birdie on the fourth extra hole.

Although his father did not play the game, Hal said he always was the "moving force behind me." A friend of his father's sent him a set of clubs when he was 11, and that was the start. "I played some team sports, but it was discouraging because I never seemed to be on a good team. I decided I wanted to win or lose on my own ability and that's why I chose golf."

As a 12-and 13-year old, he would take his father's cart and "sometimes play 72 holes a day." He said he only had mediocre success until his junior year at Centenary College, although he did win the Louisiana State Junior title in 1974.

Hal won the 1980 U.S. Amateur at the Country Club of North Carolina and was named Golf Magazine College Player of the Year, also in 1980. At the time, there was talk that he might forever remain an amateur.

"I went to work for my Dad and would go as long as a month without playing at all," he said. "When I did try to play, I didn't have any feel. I had put so much into the game to that point, I felt it was senseless to give it all up. I could always go back into business, but in later years, I couldn't go back to the game at the level I wanted. So I decided to turn professional and go on TOUR."

There were many memorable accomplishments on the PGA TOUR in 1986 and Doug Tewell's performance in the Los Angeles Open has to rank with the best of them.

Playing the great Riviera Country Club course, Doug shot rounds of 66 and 63 the last two days and won by seven strokes over Clarence Rose. He took the lead the third day when he birdied the first six holes and then set sail for the victory.

"I made a total commitment to play golf last year," he said. "I got rid of some outside activities that took time from my game."

He went on to have the finest year of his career by far, winning well over $300,000. He also tied for second in the Buick Open and tied for third in the USF&G Classic.

Doug said he "will remember forever" his first round in the 1985 PGA Championship at Cherry Hills Country Club. He shot a course record 64 and went on to a respectable tie for 12th place.

Unfortunately, he occasionally is bothered by a bad back. He said it's a "herniated disc."

His biggest year was in 1980 when he won twice, in the Sea Pines Heritage Classic in a playoff over Jerry Pate; and in the IVB-Philadelphia Classic. In the latter event, he was 10-strokes behind after two rounds but closed brilliantly with 65-67 to win by one over Tom Kite.

Doug started to play golf at about age 12 and his first teacher was Labron Harris, Sr. at the Lakeside club in Stillwater, Okla. The Tewell family had a membership there.

After being graduated from Oklahoma State University, he worked as an assistant professional for two years and then moved on as head pro at the Pinetop Country Club in Pinetop, Ariz. During the off seasons, he worked at Camelback in Phoenix. In June, 1975, with his Class A PGA membership in hand, he joined the TOUR.

Late in the 1985 season, Leonard Thompson made a drastic swing change and it paid off almost immediately.

He finished in a tie for second place in the Bank of Boston Classic and then, in the final official event of the year, he shot a closing round of 64 in the Pensacola Open to move into 122nd place on the money list and preserve his exempt status for 1986.

The changes served him well last year, too, as they helped him to a tie for third in the Greater Greensboro Open and a tie for fifth in the Western Open.

"The highlight may have been the Western," he said. "I had a putt of 12 feet on the last hole to get in the playoff. Even though I missed it, it was satisfying to play well on a tough course and be in contention." (Tom Kite won the four-way playoff).

In 1981, Leonard had a day to remember as he shot a course record 31-31-62 at Glen Abbey Golf Club in the Canadian Open. He only missed one green but still birdied as he chipped in from off the edge. He used the same golf ball for 18 holes and then presented it to the Royal Canadian Golf Association for its museum at Glen Abbey.

Leonard joined the TOUR in the Fall of 1971, earning his card in his second attempt at the Qualifying School. He had sharpened his game at Wake Forest University and was a teammate of such players as Lanny Wadkins and Joe Inman.

He progressed steadily and in 1974 won the Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Classic. When his earnings totalled $122,349, his followers were sure his successes would continue.

It was shortly afterwards that Leonard started to fight the scales. When his weight reached 230, he decided it was time to start a conditioning program. In mid-November of 1974, he went on a crash diet and in 3½ months, lost nearly 50 pounds.

His earnings dropped almost as rapidly during the next two years, and that was when he decided it was time to seek out Arnold Palmer for help. The next year, 1977, he won $107,293. At the end of that year, he won the Pensacola Open by holing a 50-foot putt on the final hole for a birdie and a two-stroke edge on Curtis Strange.

A native North Carolinian, one of the highlights of his career was the course record seven-under par 29 on the back nine at Pinehurst No. 2, set in the 1977 Colgate Hall of Fame Classic.

Jim Thorpe may be in the record book for a long time as the last player to win back-to-back match play championships.

He capped a brilliant 1985 season by defeating Jack Renner in the final of the Seiko-Tucson Match Play event and he followed with a repeat victory in Tucson last October when he defeated Scott Simpson. Each victory was worth $150,000. Tucson was scheduled to be a stroke-play event this year.

Two years ago, Jim even went beyond his own dreams as he compiled an outstanding record. He won twice, in the Greater Milwaukee Open when he outdueled Jack Nicklaus down the stretch and then in Tucson.

He nearly won for a third time. In the Western Open, he came from behind the last afternoon to tie amateur Scott Verplank. Unfortunately for Jim, Verplank won the playoff with a par on the second extra hole.

A powerful man physically but gentle at heart, Jim usually plays the more difficult courses well. He was the first-round leader in the 1981 U.S. Open at Merion after shooting a 66, and finished tied for 11th. He finished fourth in the 1984 Open at Winged Foot.

He is the ninth of 12 children. He grew up in a large home off the second fairway at the Roxboro (NC) Golf Club where his father, Elvert, was the greens superintendent. He says with a laugh, "We used to go out after dark and hit shots by the back porch light."

Jim was quite a football player in high school and earned a scholarship to Morgan State. He was a running back, and a powerful one at that, but after a year, he abandoned the sport and then left school after two years to devote more time to golf.

"There were five boys in the family," Jim says, "and my father was the one who started me playing golf, but in those days, I would rather play football. My brother, Chuck, was the best golfer in the family."

Chuck was on the PGA TOUR in the early 1970s and it was Chuck who gave Jim some sound advice regarding the TOUR. "I couldn't hit my long irons very well, so one day Chuck said we should go to Pinehurst and he would help me with my game. We played and practiced and played some more. Finally, one day, Chuck said, 'You're ready.'"

Jim obtained his TOUR card in the Fall of 1975, but he only won $2,000, the next year, so he went home again. In the Fall of 1978, he was back in the School, this time better prepared, and was co-medalist with John Fought in the Q-School. Early the next year, he let everyone know he was indeed ready, as he tied with Tom Watson for second place in the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open, two strokes behind Bruce Lietzke.

It would take a book this size to tell the Lee Trevino story but, briefly enough, he already has left his mark as one of the great players and personalities in the history of golf.

He has won 27 times on the TOUR and only Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson have earned more money in a lifetime. As entertaining as he has been on the golf course for the last two decades, he now has developed into one of the leading golf analysts as he sits in the booth for NBC telecasts.

When Lee won his second PGA crown in 1984, it was one of the outstanding sports stories of the year. At age 44, he outlasted Gary Player and Lanny Wadkins at Shoal Creek, AL, by shooting all four rounds in the 60's.

Two years ago at Cherry Hills, CO, when he was defending his title, he came within two strokes of winning again. He shot a four-under-par 280, but his good friend Hubert Green won it with a 278 score. The last man to win back-to-back PGAs was Denny Shute in 1936 and 1937.

Until he won the 1984 PGA, Trevino had gone three-and-a-half years without a victory. His problem had been his back. He suffered with pain, sometimes severe, but never complained publicly. He always maintained his "Merry Mex" attitude. Some believe his problems originated when he was struck by lightning at the 1975 Western Open. In November of 1976, he underwent an operation for a herniated disc.

Lee's greatest year on TOUR was 1980 when he collected three titles, $385,814, and won his fifth Vardon Trophy with a scoring average of 69.73 for 82 rounds. His average was the lowest on TOUR since Sam Snead's 69.23 in 1950.

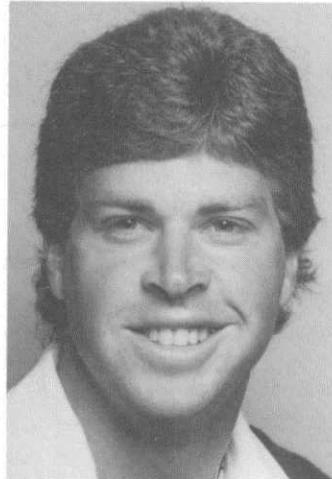

Trevino tied for 54th in the 1968 U. S. Open at Olympic Club in San Francisco. A year later at Baltusrol, he placed sixth in the U. S. Open, and was on the TOUR to stay. Twelve months later, he was entertaining everyone at the marguerita party at Oak Hill CC, Rochester, where he had just won the 1968 U. S. Open.

Lee won the U. S. Open again in 1971, defeating Jack Nicklaus in a playoff at Merion, and in a span of five weeks that summer he added the Canadian and British Open titles to his fast growing collection. He was named "Player of the Year" practically by acclamation.

Winner 1978 Trans-Mississippi Amateur, 1979 Southern Amateur, 1983 Sandpiper-Santa Barbara Open (TPS Series). Member 1978 and 1980 NCAA championship teams, 1980 World Amateur Cup Team. Named 1986 PGA Player-of-the-Year. Member 1986 U.S. Nissan Cup team.

It was a year to remember for Bob Tway but after the talent he displayed in a magnificent 1986 season, he could go on to have many more. He certainly is one of the more skilled players to come along in several years.

He was the TOUR's leading winner with four victories. He highlighted the season by dramatically holing a bunker shot on the final hole to win the PGA Championship after a tense duel with Greg Norman.

He went on to be named the PGA Player-of-the-Year. He finished as the No. 2 money winner with $652,780 and remarkably, was only $516 behind Norman. However, he added another $500,000 to his account at the end of the season as the winner of the inaugural season-long Vantage Cup competition.

Bob considered his rookie season of 1985 a successful one as he collected $164,023 and was in position to win a couple of times.

He broke through for the first time in the 1986 Shearson Lehman Brothers-Andy Williams Open. Due to weather, only 54 holes were played and Bob found himself tied with Bernhard Langer but he went on to win for the first time with a par on the second extra hole.

A second-round 63 set the stage for his triumph in the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic and he passed Hall Sutton the last afternoon in the Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Classic with a closing 64.

During his years at Oklahoma State University, Bob Tway was a name that commanded attention. He earned All-American status three times. He won the 1981 Fred Haskins award as the outstanding college-player-of-the-year.

Working under the watchful eye of Mike Holder, the golf coach at OSU, his game matured rapidly. However, it seemed he could play well until it came time to tee it up in the Qualifying School. The first three times he tried to get through it, he missed. "It was by a couple of shots each time," he said, shaking his head, "but I was able to play in a few TOUR events each year."

Bob played wherever he could find a good game. His travels took him on the Asian and European tours. "It was a lot tougher because of the traveling and the playing conditions," he said.

Bob started to play golf at age five. "I'd follow my grandfather and father around the course," he said. He was "about seven" when he played in his first junior tournament.

The family moved to Marietta, GA, when he was a youngster and Bob played basketball during his first two years in high school. Golf was his game, though.

"When I was growing up, I patterned my swing after Tom Weiskopf's. He was a great one and since we have about the same build, I copied his as best I could."

He prefers to play right to left and over the years he has been considered an excellent striker of the ball. His putting also has come along to be a strong part of his game.

Howard Twitty continued his return to the top of the PGA TOUR ranks in 1986 as the tall Arizonian had his best season since 1980.

"I'm slowly improving and I hope to keep progressing next year," said Twitty who has had back-to-back good seasons. "I'm very happy with the season I had in 1986."

He knows, though, he may never again play the game as well as he did in a stretch of 3½ tournaments in mid-summer of 1980. He went through 14 rounds with 13 of them being in the 60's and was 57-under-par.

One of those weeks ended in a victory, as he defeated Jim Simons on the sixth extra hole in the Sammy Davis, Jr.-Greater Hartford Open. In the others, he was second in the Greater Milwaukee Open, fifth in the Quad Cities Open, and, after the victory, he started 64-66 in the IVB-Philadelphia Classic but then the bubble burst.

Howard's first TOUR victory came the year before in the B. C. Open when he outplayed two close friends, Tom Purtzer and Doug Tewell on the 72nd hole. They were tied through 71, but Howard managed a par on the home hole and that gave him the victory.

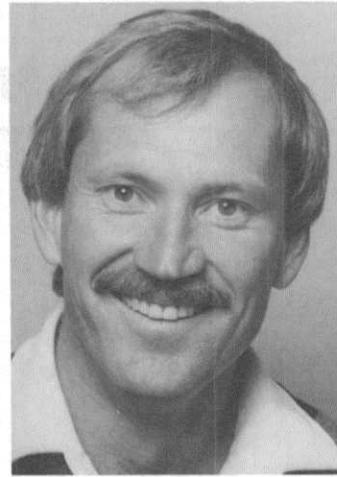

One of the biggest men on the TOUR at six-feet-five, 200 pounds, he once was asked why he didn't concentrate on football. With a grin, he replied "I like to keep my blood in my body."

Twitty believes now that his ample physical proportions probably slowed his progress in golf at an early age. He started to play at age 10 but it wasn't until he was a senior in high school in Phoenix that his game started to develop.

"I was about 6'3" when I was a sophomore," he recalls, "and I was terrible. I guess I just needed time to catch up with my body. I didn't have the coordination that I needed."

As a sophomore and junior at Arizona State, Twitty really showed progress, however. He won the important Sunnehanna and Porter Cup amateur events and, when he was a senior, he finished right behind the co-champions of the NCAA championship, Ben Crenshaw and Tom Kite from the University of Texas.

Twitty turned pro in 1973 and twice failed in the PGA TOUR Qualifying School before meeting success in June, 1975. That was the same year he also won the Thailand Open during a second trip to the Far East circuit.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1978 Tri-State PGA Match Play; 1983 California State Open. Finished second in 1983 Qualifying School and shot record-equalling 65 at Tournament Players Club.

It would be fine with Brett Upper if he could play every week on the Tournament Players Club course at Sawgrass.

When he qualified for the TOUR in the Fall of 1983, he set a course-record 65 in the fourth round and finished second to Willie Wood in the tournament. Last year, his tie for fourth in the Tournament Players Championship was his best finish, thanks to a second-round 65.

"It's my favorite course," the personable young man said, "and I feel very comfortable in those surroundings."

It's obvious he also feels comfortable with TOUR life as he has put together good years in 1985 and 1986.

During his rookie season of 1984, he tied for 44th place in the last event, the Pensacola Open, to move into the 125th money position. The next year, he played consistently well and jumped to 61st on the money list.

"Mostly, it was experience," he said. "I learned how to manage my game, manage my schedule and I had better course management. I felt more comfortable in the atmosphere of the TOUR."

Brett took a different route to the PGA TOUR. Instead of going to college, he became an assistant professional right out of high school and worked in pro shops for the next several years.

With a smile, he said, "The golf shop and the mini-tours were my college. I knew I probably would not jump out and be an instant success such as Corey Pavin, because I didn't have the same type of experience."

Brett started in the game at age eight under the watchful eye of his father. He started to play junior golf at the St. Davids Golf Club in Wayne, PA, and through those years, Pete Trenham, the head pro at St. Davids, showed him the way.

After high school, he went to work in the golf shop at the Lancaster (PA) Country Club in 1977. A couple of years later, he worked under Lew Worsham at Oakmont (PA) Country Club.

He demonstrated an ability to play as he won several PGA Sectional events around Pennsylvania. He started to play the mini-tours in Florida and then set his sights on the PGA TOUR.

The first two times he tried to obtain his card, he didn't make it. In the Fall of 1983, he was ready. A fourth-round 65 at the Tournament Players Club was the highlight of the week because it tied a course record. He finished with a 68 to move to within two strokes of medalist Willie Wood.

Even today, when Brett needs help with his game, he goes to his old friends and teachers, such as Trenham at St. Davids, plus Worsham and Bobby Ford, who is the head pro at Oakmont now.

Member 1985 Walker Cup team. Two-time All-America choice. 1985 Academic All-America team. Named 1982 American Junior Golf Association Player-of-Year; 1984 Amateur-of-Year by Golf Digest. Winner 1986 NCAA Championship.

When Scott Verplank shot a four-under-par 68 to take the first-round lead in the 1985 Western Open, everyone thought, "Scott's a nice young man and it's good to see an amateur playing so well."

Few people thought he would be challenging after two rounds, but he added another 68 on the demanding Butler National course and his 136 total gave him a three-stroke lead.

Everyone moved in for a closer look at this 21-year old from Oklahoma State University. As the heat of the competition became more intense, Scott responded as a winner should respond. He never wavered and his 69 before the national television audience in the third round gave him an 11-under-par 205 and a two-stroke lead over Jim Thorpe. No one else was really that close.

Consider, if you will, that an amateur had not won an official PGA TOUR event since Gene Littler did it in the 1954 San Diego Open. Doug Sanders won the 1956 Canadian Open as an amateur, but it was not a part of the TOUR in those days.

Most of the experts had been saying for several years that an amateur had a tough enough time trying to survive the cut, so the idea of winning a tournament was out of the question.

Verplank held tough, however, and when the final round was over, his 74 for a nine-under-par 279 was good for a tie with Jim Thorpe. Thorpe was bidding for his first TOUR victory and he had to make a marvelous par on the final hole to tie Scott.

They parred the first extra hole and then Scott Verplank made TOUR history by winning the tournament with a par on the second extra hole.

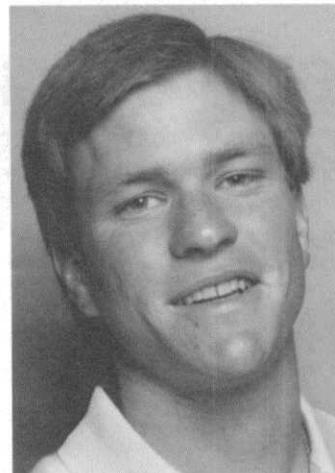

"It gave me a funny feeling," he said. "I've always been one of those who looked in the paper every day to see how the guys were doing. As a little kid, I would study the scores every week and think about how good they were."

Last year, he opened the season by playing as an amateur in the MONY-Tournament of Champions and he tied for fourth place. He made four more starts on TOUR as an amateur and made his professional debut in the U. S. Open. A third-round 67 led to a tie for 15th place."

Scott started to play at age nine. "I was around golf a lot because my grandparents and my parents played." His first competition came a year later. By the time he was in high school, he knew he wanted to play the game forever. "I worked hard on my game because I wanted to get a scholarship."

He went on to Oklahoma State University and was graduated from there in the Spring of 1986. Meanwhile, as an amateur, he continued his winning ways. He won the 1984 U.S. and Western Amateurs, was a member of the 1985 Walker Cup team and shortly before turning pro, he won the NCAA championship.

When he is playing well, he fades the ball but "I can take it both ways, which is what I had to do at the Western Open," he said. Putting always has been a strong part of his game.

Bobby Wadkins is still seeking that elusive first win on the PGA TOUR, but his game is getting sharper and sharper.

Last year he had his finest season to date winning $226,079 while making the cut in 25 of 31 outings with seven top ten finishes to his credit.

"It was a good year, no wins but I had my most consistent season," said Wadkins. "I made the cut in most of my outings, so I'm pleased."

He came close to winning in 1985 when he lost in a playoff to Bernhard Langer in the Sea Pines Heritage Classic.

Bobby thought he had the 1979 IVB-Philadelphia Classic title in his pocket, but Lou Graham came from six strokes back with a brilliant seven-under par 64 the last afternoon and caught him. Lou then won the playoff with a birdie on the first extra hole.

He does know how to win, though. In the Fall of 1978 he won the European Open and the next year, he won the Dunlop Phoenix tournament in Japan.

Bobby was in top form in 1984 when he had his best money year since 1979. "I went to see Dr. Bob Rotella (sports psychologist at the University of Virginia) and he had me thinking better. For the first time in 10 years, I developed a routine for each shot. It made quite a difference."

Bobby is approximately 20-months younger than his brother, Lanny, and while Lanny was more spectacular on the national amateur level and now during his years on the TOUR, they both were standouts in junior golf around their home territory of Richmond, Va.

They kept the city junior title in the family for six straight years, with Lanny winning four.

Through the years, Bobby and Lanny have worked on their games together but last Spring, Bobby sought out Peter Kostic for some extra help. "It's the first time I've gone to someone else for a lot of help," he said. "Putting still is what hurts me."

After high school—where he also was a standout basketball player—Bobby headed for the University of Houston and his two closest friends there—and now—were Bill Rogers and Bruce Lietzke.

After one year, though, he transferred to East Tennessee State and earned All-American status in 1972 and 1973.

He earned his TOUR card in the Fall of 1974.

Lanny Wadkins has compiled such a brilliant record during his years on the PGA TOUR that it is difficult to single out his greatest achievements. Chances are, he will tell you one of his greatest moments came in the fall of 1985 when he was acclaimed as the PGA Player-of-the-Year.

He earned the honor by winning three times and finishing second on the money list with $446,893, and second in scoring average with a 70.44 mark.

Lanny's approach to the game is quite simple, really. He attacks the course constantly. "I get a big kick out of playing that way," he says. "You know, going for the green in two on a par five when the second shot is over water, but I never take a chance if it's a bad risk."

While others must look for the safe way home, Lanny can be bold because he has the shots, possibly more shots than anyone in the game. With a grin, he says, "Some people don't know I have those shots. They see me lashing away but don't understand what I'm doing. I'm always working the ball. Every shot is calculated."

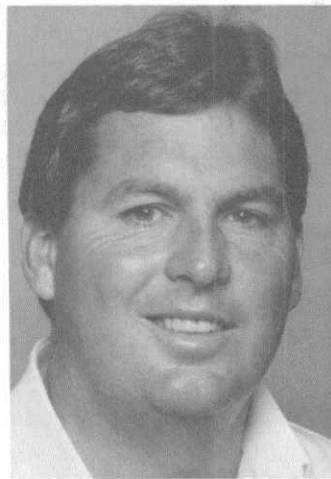

"That's when you win," he adds.

When he is on his game—which is most of the time in recent years—there isn't a more feared competitor on the TOUR. That's why he has been able to win some big ones on the most demanding courses.

For example, he won the 1977 PGA Championship in a playoff over Gene Littler at Pebble Beach; and later that summer, won the World Series of Golf in a marvelous performance on the tough Firestone South course.

Two years later, when weather conditions bordered on the unplayable, with wind gusts up to 45 miles per hour, he won the Tournament Players Championship at Sawgrass with a five-under par total of 283—five better than runner-up Tom Watson.

Lanny enjoyed a brilliant amateur career, highlighted by his victory in the 1970 U.S. Amateur. It wasn't any surprise when he became an immediate success on the PGA TOUR after earning his player's card in the Fall of 1971.

TOUR VICTORIES: 1986 Southern Open
(TOTAL: 1)

MONEY & POSITION: 1986—$75,092—115

BEST 1986 FINISHES: 1-Southern Open; T6-Pensacola Open.

1986 SUMMARY: Tournaments entered—6; in money—4; top ten finishes—2; stroke average—70.36.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: 1984 Eastern Amateur champ. 1984 All-American at South Carolina. Three mini-tour wins.

It is hard to imagine how anyone could have been happier than Fred Wadsworth was one evening in early October when he became the winner of the $350,000 Southern Open golf tournament.

"Unbelievable," he kept saying over-and-over again. "Can you believe this?" he added as he looked around a roomful of his friends at the Green Island Country Club in his hometown of Columbus, GA.

Fred Wadsworth, a handsome, slender 6'3" former All-American from the University of South Carolina, had progressed from the mini-tours of Florida to one of the highest rungs in the PGA TOUR and he did it in a very impressive style.

He came from two-strokes behind the last afternoon and turned back a solid group of veteran players to win by two over George Archer, John Cook, Jim Thorpe and defending champion Tim Simpson.

Let's quickly retrace the steps that permitted him to become a winner.

In the Fall of 1985, Fred attempted to obtain his TOUR card, but he missed in the final Qualifying Tournament by a stroke. Until the week of the Southern Open last year, he spent his time following the sun on the Florida mini-tours. Each week, he was hoping to play well enough to re-coup his entry fee.

He did qualify for the U.S. Open for a second time but Shinnicock Hills was a little too much and he missed the cut.

Determined to get on the TOUR, he started the qualifying process again. A couple of weeks before the Southern, he comfortably made it through the first step, the sectional qualifier.

Fortunately, the Southern Open fell several days before he would have to move on to the regional qualifier.

In order to get into the Southern, he had to enter the weekly open qualifier and make his bid for one of the four available spots. He made it with a 68.

He started the tournament with a three-under-par 67 and was two strokes off the pace being shared by Jim Thorpe and Lon Hinkle. The next day, he added another 67 for a 134 total and was three strokes in back of Rod Curl.

He inched a little closer to the lead on Saturday as a 68 gave him an eight-under-par 202. Thorpe was leading with a 200.

During the final round, there were numerous players fighting it out at the top. Fred made his move with birdies at the ninth, 10th and 12th holes to take the lead. He was two strokes in front when he played the par 3 17th hole. He hit an eight iron shot to within 12 feet and made it to gain a three-shot lead.

"That's when I knew I would win," he said. The bogey at the final hole gave him a 67 on the day, a total of 11-under par 269 and a two-shot victory.

Fred played some football and basketball during his school days, but golf was his game. His father, now retired, was an officer in the Army at the time, so the Fort Benning course in Columbus was his home track.

He learned his lessons well.

When Denis Watson was asked to give an assessment of his performance in 1984, he smiled and said, "It was an incredible result to a lot of hard work; a couple of years of hard work."

He joined Tom Watson as the only three-time winner on the PGA TOUR in 1984; came within a whisker of winning PGA Player-of-the-Year honors; and finished fourth on the money list with $408,562. Compare that, if you will, with his 1983 total of $59,284, which was his previous best.

Actually, his brilliant performance was centered on three tournaments in a seven-week span late in the summer. He broke through with a victory in the Buick Open, thanks to a 63-68 finish.

After he was 33rd in the PGA Championship, he won the NEC World Series of Golf at Firestone Country Club. He shot a course record eight-under-par 62 the second day and stayed in front the rest of the way to collect a check for $126,000. He missed the cut in his next two outings, and then won the TOUR's richest payoff of $162,000 when he won the Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational.

While he enjoyed a good season in 1985, he said, "I was within a couple of shots of an unbelievable year." True enough. He finished tied for second in the U.S. Open, just one stroke behind Andy North. Trying to defend his World Series of Golf title, he was tied with Roger Maltbie after three rounds, but Roger shot an exceptional 66 the last day to win it and Denis finished second.

There were several factors that boosted him into prominence. First of all, he has been working for several years with David Leadbetter on his golf swing; and has worked on the mental aspects of the game with Dr. Bob Rotella of the University of Virginia. He gives them both considerable credit.

Denis earned his TOUR card in the Spring of 1981. The next year, his first start was the Bay Hill Classic, and he tied with Tom Kite and Jack Nicklaus, but Kite won the playoff.

His father started him in the game when they lived in Rhodesia. He was 14-years old at the time, and two years later, his handicap was down to a one. "That's when I started to think about turning professional."

He played all sports, including cricket, rugby, tennis and competed in track and field, but golf was his love, no doubt about it.

He turned pro when he was 19. Although he had a dream that someday he would play the United States TOUR, he said it was little more than a dream as long as he lived in Rhodesia. So, he moved to South Africa in 1976.

"Gary Player and Dale Hayes said I should give the TOUR a try," Watson said. "Then Gil Morgan told me he thought my game was well suited for the American courses and even Howard Twitty encouraged me to come over here. So, I did."

During the past decade, Tom Watson has been one of the more dominant players in the game. Six times he has been the Player-of-the Year and five times he has been the leading money winner.

He has won five British Opens, two Masters Tournaments and one United States Open. Through last year, he had won 31 times on the PGA TOUR, placing him in a tie for ninth place on the all-time list with Jimmy Demaret. His career earnings of over $4-million rank him behind only Jack Nicklaus.

As long as the game is played Tom will be remembered for the brilliantly-executed pitch shot he made from off the 17th green at Pebble Beach in the 1982 United States Open.

As you recall, his two iron off the tee on the par three hole bounced in heavy rough on the left side of the green. He was tied with Nicklaus, who already had completed his round. Par seemed the absolute best Tom could do, but a bogey was far more likely.

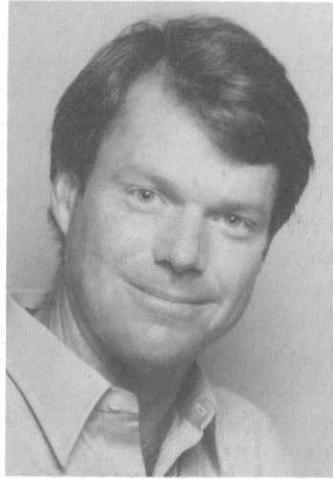

Instead, he hit the perfect shot, and holed it for a birdie two. He went on to birdie the last hole and win his first Open championship by two over Nicklaus.

In the Fall of 1983, he was paid a high compliment by his good friend and archrival, Nicklaus. It was prior to the Ryder Cup matches at Palm Beach Gardens, FL. Nicklaus was the team captain and he announced his plans to play Tom in every match because the "intimidating factor" would be worth a lot of points against the Europeans. Jack was right.

His biggest year was in 1980 when he won six times on TOUR, plus the British Open, and won a record $530,808. He was the first player to break the half-million dollar mark.

Since he won $1,065 for a tie for 28th in his first start on TOUR in the 1971 Kaiser International Open, this personable fellow has elevated himself to a position with the all-time greats.

Tom was only six years old when his father, a scratch golfer, exposed him to the game. He became a four-time winner of the Missouri State Amateur and played for three years at Stanford University before graduating in 1971 with a degree in psychology.

D. A. Weibring always has been considered a fine striker of the golf ball but his putting was suspect — until he started to use the unusual-appearing Pelz putter late in 1985.

Since then, all parts of his game have improved. He won twice overseas in the Fall of 1985 and came on to have his best year on TOUR in 1986. He was especially impressive in his tie for third place in the Southwest Classic and the 68-69 finish in the PGA Championship that led to a fourth place.

Two years ago, he finished second to Calvin Peete in the Tournament Players Championship at Sawgrass as his 11-under-par 277 was worth $97,200. It took a final round of six-under-par 66 by Calvin to beat him.

D. A. has had his good years but he also has suffered through a few, too, because of injuries. He injured his left wrist at the 1983 Phoenix Open. He said, "I never could get going, even though I tried to play with it." Finally, he had to take two months off in the early spring.

"I played well after I came back in early June, but still wasn't 100%, he continued. "Originally, I broke a blood capsule on top of the wrist hitting balls on the practice tee and then I went on to suffer ligament damage. The only cure was rest and therapy."

He did his therapy with the Dallas Cowboys physical staff and adds, "They also helped me to get in the best shape of my life."

The setback was frustrating since he was coming off his best money year, winning $117,941 in 1982, and anticipated even greater returns in 1983.

He was in good shape for most of 1984 and the results were evident. he jumped back up with the $100,000 winners, consistently placing among the money winners.

His lone victory came in the 1979 Quad Cities Open. He was tied with Calvin Peete through 14 holes the last day, but D. A. took charge at the par five 15th, registering an eagle and taking the lead to stay.

It was a popular victory. A graduate of Illinois State University, D. A. had a number of his followers from his hometown of Quincy, IL, there to cheer him on. He said, "If I had to pick a place to win my first tournament, the Quad Cities would be it."

His next closest brush with victory came in the 1980 Andy Williams San Diego Open. He fired a final round 65 and found himself tied with Tom Watson, but Watson went on to win on the first extra hole.

D. A. joined the TOUR in June of 1977 and in his first full year of 1978, he won $41,052, finishing 75th on the money list.

He explained how the use of his initials came about.

My father's name also is Donald Albert, and when I was a youngster, Mom decided she didn't want me to be called 'Little Don' or 'Junior,' so she started to call me D. A. It has been with me ever since."

Mark Wiebe has come along to be one of the solid young players in the game and, at his current rate of progress, there appears to be no limit to what he can accomplish.

After a relatively poor rookie season in 1984, he came on strong two years ago to win the Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic in a playoff over John Mahaffey. Last year he won the Hardee's Golf Classic with rounds of 69, 65, 66, and 68 for a 12-under-par 268.

It was a good year in 1986 for other reasons, too. He had four rounds in the 60s as he finished second in the Byron Nelson Classic and tied for third place in the AT&T Pebble Beach Pro-Am. His earnings, obviously, increased significantly.

"The best part of the year was in September," he said. "That's when Taylor Lynn was born and she is a special one for us."

His victory in the Anheuser-Busch Classic came after he three-putted the final hole for a bogey and dropped back into a tie with Mahaffey. On the first extra hole, however, he ended it quickly with a long birdie putt.

"The first win changed my schedule around completely and that's the most significant thing that's happened," said Wiebe. "It's allowed me to plan ahead and I haven't always been able to do that."

A two-time high school player of the year, Wiebe attended Palomar Junior College in California and won the state junior college title before going on to star at San Jose State.

Upon leaving the Spartans for whom he earned All-America honors, he decided to join the PGA TOUR. He would be frustrated in his attempts more than once, but finally broke through when he qualified for his TOUR card at the Fall, 1983 Qualifying Tournament.

His rookie year, though, was like that of many other newcomers to the world of the PGA TOUR, a disappointment. He earned only $16,257 and finished 166th on the Official Money list and once again had to return to the Qualifying Tournament.

A solid fourth place finish in the 1985 Q-Tournament allowed Wiebe to play in a number of early season events, but it was not until his fourth place finish at Westchester at mid-season that he collected a big check. One month later he claimed his victory and his future was set.

A considerable part of the credit, he says, goes to Carl Welty of the LaCosta staff. They have been working together for the last couple of years.

1986 NABISCO CHALLENGE TEAM: Hawaiian Open-28

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner of five major junior titles, including 1977 USGA Junior, 1978 PGA National Junior and 1979 Western Junior. Winner 1979 Nevada State Open (as amateur) and 1984 Colorado State Open. Member of 1983 U.S. Walker Cup team. Winner of nine collegiate events and was two-time All-America choice at Oklahoma State. Awarded 1982 Fred Haskins Trophy as outstanding collegiate player of year. Medalist in 1983 PGA TOUR Qualifying School.

When Willie Wood came on the PGA TOUR in January of 1984, he carried with him an impressive list of credentials. After he played in five West Coast tournaments, his peers knew he was for real. He won more than $27,000 and his name seemed to be on the leader board every week.

With a smile, he said, "When I started, I was really fired up. I was excited to be on the TOUR and I was still playing well from the Qualifying School."

Willie West Wood went to the Q School at the Tournament Players Club in the Fall of 1983 with high expectations. He wasn't disappointed. He shot two rounds of 70, two of 71 and two of even par 72 to win medalist honors by two strokes.

Those who have followed Willie's career, know it was a typical performance.

Willie started in the game at age nine and it was a natural sport for him. His father, Wilard, was the head professional at the Shreveport (LA) Country Club at the time. "He's a teaching pro in Lake Charles now," Willie said, "and he still is my only teacher. And, my older sister Deanie has been playing on the LPGA tour."

Willie accepted the challenge of competition immediately and he has been successful at every level of the game. He won numerous junior titles, the most impressive being the 1977 USGA Junior; the 1978 PGA National Junior and the 1979 Western Junior.

He went on to Oklahoma State University and proceeded to win nine collegiate events. In 1982, he was named the College Golfer-of-the-Year. In 1983, he was named to the U.S. Walker Cup team.

His performance early in his first year on TOUR shouldn't have been a surprise to anyone. He said, "I set one goal for myself when the year started: I wanted to play well enough to never have to go back to the qualifying school. You can't believe how tough that was."

Willie was pleased with his efforts in 1985 because "It was a consistent year. I didn't have any really outstanding weeks, but generally I played well." He did have four top 10 finishes with a third place in the Honda Classic being his best. As a result of his play, he increased his money winnings significantly.

Even though he earned more money in 1986, he was not completely satisfied. He had hoped to gain the elusive first victory. He was in position to get it at the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic but a final-round 66 left him one stroke behind the winner, Bob Tway. He also finished third in the Los Angeles Open and the Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Classic.

In the 1984 Anheuser-Busch Classic, he was leading by four strokes after three rounds but Ronnie Black came from seven strokes back with a brilliant 63 to win by one. "I had an even-par 71 which wasn't too bad," Willie said, "but Ronnie just played great the last day."

His all-time low score was a 61 at the 49ers Club in Tucson. He was in senior high school at the time, and had two eagles, nine birdies and two bogeys.

Until the 1984 PGA Championship at Shoal Creek, AL, few people really knew what Fuzzy Zoeller had to endure to play golf on the TOUR. Few people knew he constantly suffered with severe back pains because Fuzzy always was smiling and joking with those around him.

He arrived in Shoal Creek amid a torrent of publicity because of his magnificent performance in winning the United States Open Championship a few weeks earlier at Winged Foot. In the Open, he was tied with Greg Norman after 72 holes, and then the next day, Fuzzy was at his brilliant best, winning the 18-hole playoff by eight strokes, 67 to 75.

The morning he was to play his first round in the PGA, his back was so painful he barely could move. He was rushed to the hospital and remained there for nearly a week.

A month later, he was in Las Vegas to defend his title in the Panasonic Invitational, but his back condition worsened and he went to the Hospital for Special Surgery in New York City. The diagnosis was that a "couple of discs had ruptured" and surgery was necessary.

Because of boney-tissue growth, they had to chisel one disc out and could only do repair on the other.

Fuzzy was back on TOUR in 1985 for the Doral-Eastern Open at the end of February. He was delighted to tie for 46th place. The next week, he tied for 20th in the Honda Classic and then he won the Hertz Bay Hill Classic by shooting 66-67 the last two days. He went on to enjoy one of his best money years.

"The back problem started when I was playing high school basketball," he explains. "I was submarine and the back has bothered me from time-to-time ever since."

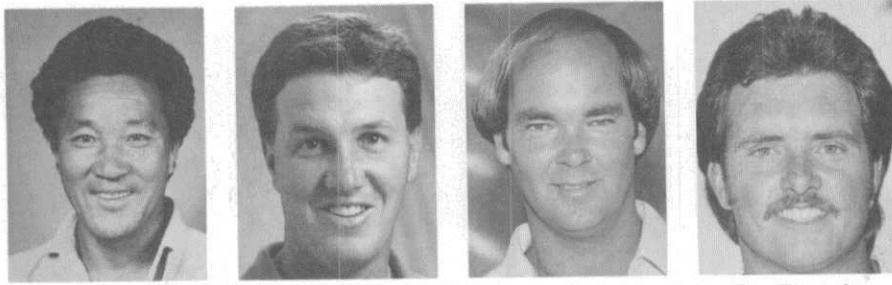

Fuzzy blossomed as a superstar in 1979 when he won the Andy Williams San Diego Open and also the Masters Tournament. He was six strokes in back of Ed Sneed starting the last round at Augusta National, and when he finished, he was thinking second place. As he sat in the scorers' tent at the 18th green, with Tom Watson, he watched Sneed bogey the last hole to force a three-way playoff. Fuzzy defeated Ed and Tom on the second extra hole.

Fuzzy was back with a vengeance last year winning three times and collecting well over $300,000 for the second time in his career.

"Anytime you beat these guys once is gratifying," said Zoeller. "To win three times is really something."

Zoeller grew up alongside a fairway at the Valley View CC in New Albany, Ind., and it seemed natural when he started swinging a golf club at age three. He entered his first tournament two years later. He enjoyed all sports while growing up, but when he was eight his father said to him, "Son, all we're doing is running back and forth between the golf course and the baseball diamond. You had better choose one."

Fuzzy chose golf, but during his days in high school he played varsity basketball mainly, he said to "keep in shape for golf, and in Indiana in the winter you can't play golf."

VANTAGE CHAMPIONSHIP

Oak Hills CC, San Antonio, TX
Par: 35-35—70 Yards: 6,576

Purse: $1,000,000
Oct. 23-26, 1986

LEADERS: First round — Ben Crenshaw, Chip Beck, Ken Brown and Bernhard Langer were tied at 5-under-par 65. There were six players — Phil Blackmar, Kenny Knox, Wayne Levi, Fred Wadsworth, Tom Byrum and Bob Eastwood — tied at 66. Second round — Payne Stewart shot a 65 to tie Crenshaw at 8-under-par 132. Blackmar, Brown, Knox, Larry Mize and D. A. Weibring were tied at 133.

CUT: 76 players at 1-under-par 139. However, due to the weather and the scheduled 36-hole finish, the low 60s and ties (2-under-par 138) played and there were 65 at that figure.

PRO-AMATEUR: $15,000. Individual: Larry Rinker, 62, $1,500. Team: Corey Pavin, 52, $1,500.

WEATHER: Thursday, play suspended from 8:15 a.m. until 9:05 a.m. due to fog. Play suspended again by rain at 12:45 and did not resume until 11:30 on Friday. First round completed that afternoon. Saturday, for second round, weather beautiful. Sunday, when 36-hole final scheduled, it was sunny and pleasant in morning. Severe storm hit at 12:45 and play suspended immediately. At 2 p.m., tournament declared official at 54 holes.

Winner: BEN CRENSHAW 65-67-64—196 $180,000.00

GREG NORMAN WINS PALMER AWARD

After a hotly waged contest, Greg Norman emerged as the winner of the 1986 Arnold Palmer Award with a record single season effort of $653,296.

Norman, who won twice during the year, topped the year-old standard of $542,321 set by Curtis Strange and edged out Bob Tway by $516 to claim the Palmer Award.

Tway had a chance to catch and pass Norman in the final event of the year, the Seiko-Tucson Match Play Championship, but he was an upset loser in the second round of play and fell short by the smallest of margins.

The Australian-born Norman is the first non-American to win the Palmer Award since its inception in 1981.

The trophy, a bronze casting of "Arnie," will be awarded to Norman at the PGA TOUR's National Awards Dinner.

The past recipients of the award are Tom Kite (1981), Craig Stadler (1982), Hal Sutton (1983), Tom Watson (1984) and Curtis Strange (1985).

Introduced prior to the start of the 1980 season, the PGA TOUR's Official Statistics Program has brought a new dimension to the game. The nine major categories provide a valuable detailed look at the particular skills of TOUR players.

Beginning in 1986, the Epson Computer Company provided overall sponsorship of the Official Statistics Program, including the awarding of cash prizes to the winners of each statistical category. Epson will award each statistical champion with $25,000 at season's end.

Statistics are gathered at each PGA TOUR event by scorers who accompany each threesome. The TOUR's official statistician then enters the raw data into Epson's on-site computer, which feeds the information back to TOUR Headquarters in Ponte Vedra, FL. There the weekly money lists and statistical standings are tabulated.

Had it not been for the Official Statistics, only a handful of golf enthusiasts would have recognized Calvin Peete as the game's most accurate player, prior to his emergence as a four-time winner in 1982. Peete has dominated the greens in regulation and driving accuracy categories from the beginning.

Listed below are the top 50 players in each of the nine performance categories for the 1986 season (minimum of 50 rounds required for listing):

RYDER CUP MATCHES

The Ryder Cup Matches developed from a match played between representatives of the American and British Professional Golfers' Association in England in 1926. That unofficial match, incidentally, was won by the British 13½ to 1½.

Following this highly successful exhibition, Samuel A. Ryder, a wealthy British seed merchant, offered to donate a solid gold trophy bearing his name to be competed for in a series of matches between professionals of the two nations.

From the start of the series through the 1959 Ryder Cup matches, the competition was comprised of four foursome matches one day and eight singles matches the other day, each at 36 holes.

In 1961, the format was changed to provide for four 18-hole foursomes the morning of the first day and four more that afternoon, then for eight 18-hole singles the morning of the second day and eight more that afternoon. As in the past, one point was at stake in each match, so the total number of points was doubled.

In 1963, for the first time, a day of four-ball matches augmented the program to add new interest to the overall competition. This brought the total number of points to 32.

In 1977, the format was altered once again. This time there were five foursomes on the opening day, five four-ball matches on the second day, and ten singles matches on the final day. This reduced the total number of points to 20.

For 1979, eligibility for the Great Britain-Ireland side was expanded to include all British PGA/European TPD members who are residents of European nations.

The 1987 Ryder Cup Matches will be played September 25-27 at Muirfield Village GC, Dublin, Ohio.

THE RYDER CUP

The USA squad is selected based upon an accumulation of Ryder Cup points from the beginning of the calendar year 1986 through the PGA Championship in 1987. Points are awarded to the first 10 positions in each PGA TOUR event on the following basis:

PGA Championship, U. S. Open and Tournament Players Championship: 1st-115; 2nd-70; 3rd-45; 4th-35; 5th-30; 6th-25; 7th-20; 8th-15; 9th-10; 10th-10.

All other events: 1st-70; 2nd-42; 3rd-28; 4th-21; 5th-18; 6th-14; 7th-11; 8th-10; 9th-8; 10th-6.

If a player who is ineligible finishes in one of those positions, no points are awarded for that position. In order to be eligible, a player must be a U.S. citizen and a member or apprentice of the PGA of America. The PGA Champion and the U.S. Open Champion automatically make the team, provided they are U. S. citizens.

There will be change in the present policy of automatically including the current (1987) U.S. Open and PGA Champions on the squad, providing they are native born Americans and whether or not they are members of the PGA of America. The remaining ten spots will come from the points list.

Each year the PGA of America honors the TOUR's leading player by presenting him with the PGA Player of the Year Award.

The award now is made on the basis of playing record for the year. Points are awarded on the following basis: 30 points to winner of Masters, U.S. Open, British Open, PGA Championship. 20 points to winner of TPC, World Series of Golf. 10 points to winners of all other co-sponsored or approved events. Points also awarded to top 10 on the year's money list and top 10 on year's scoring average list (20 for first, 18 for second, 16 for third, etc. down to 2 for 10th).

MEDIA REGULATIONS

The General Regulations

The following regulations are to be followed by all members of the Media:

1. Remain close up against gallery ropes in such a way as to appear to be a part of the gallery at all times. An ARMBAND is necessary to walk inside the gallery ropes.
2. Players are not to be distracted during play. DO NOT interview players or ask them to pose for photographs during their round.
3. DO NOT interview players or ask them to pose for photographs during their practice sessions prior to their round except by prior arrangement with the player.
4. Do not disturb players at their 18th green and/or scoring tent until after they have checked, signed and returned their scorecards.
5. If an interview is to be conducted in the practice areas, either the range or the putting green, it must be done by PRIOR ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PLAYER and up against the ropes and NOT in the middle of the areas where it could be distracting to other players.

Working Press Regulations

To avoid embarrassment to you and distraction to the contestants:

1. Do not walk or stand in playing areas.
2. Follow directions of marshals and other officials.
3. Do not interview during play. The leading players each day—and others requested—will be interviewed following their rounds in the Press Room interview area.

Tape Recorder Regulations

1. All tape recorder work should be done in the proximity of the Press Room and/or Clubhouse.
2. Tape recorders are NOT permitted in the locker room.
3. Tape recorders are NOT permitted within the playing area of the golf course.

PHOTOGRAPHY REGULATIONS

This Tournament is essentially for the players and spectators. Fair play requires that there be no noise or other distractions. The interests of all others must be subordinated to the players interests. The result of any one shot could decide the Tournament.

Only ACCREDITED PHOTOGRAPHERS for RECOGNIZED NEWS MEDIA will be permitted to take pictures during the Tournament. Photography will be restricted to news use. Commercial and personal photography is prohibited (except that spectators may take pictures on practice days and during a Pro-Am).

The following regulations apply to accredited news and television photographers and videotape cameramen as a condition of the privilege of taking pictures:

General – All Photographers

A photographer must not ask a player to pose or in any way verbally distract a player during a round.

If a player or an official requests that no photographs be taken in a certain situation, the request must be honored immediately, without discussion.

A camera must not be pointed at a player about to make a stroke in any manner which might tend to distract him or distract his attention.

At the 9th and the 18th greens, photographers must not approach, delay or distract a player until he has checked, signed and returned his scorecard to the proper official. Under the Rules of Golf, a player turning in an incorrect scorecard in stroke play may be disqualified.

Cameras are not permitted in the locker room.

Use of golf carts or other means of transportation on the course during tournament play is prohibited.

Still Photographers

Only still photographers to whom armbands have been issued will be permitted inside gallery ropes. They must station themselves immediately inside such ropes, and not more than an ARM'S LENGTH FROM THE ROPES, so as to blend into the gallery and appear to be part of the gallery. They must not take conspicuous positions in the open. Any photographer who violates this regulation will forfeit the right to working inside the ropes and possibly to work at the tournament.

Close-up action shots are prohibited.

All pictures must be taken at appreciable distances, as far from the players as possible and from angles which are not acute to the line of play.

When working at a green, photographers must not position themselves directly in a player's putting line.

Pictures, even from a distance, may not be made until the player has completed his stroke. The photographer must not release his camera shutter until the shot is made.

Television/Videotape Cameramen

Television and videotape filming may be done from inside the gallery ropes, or from areas approved by the PGA TOUR. All camera personnel who have been issued PHOTO armbands will be permitted inside the gallery lines but this does not include other members of the crew. Camera personnel must station themselves immediately inside the gallery lines, not more than an arm's length from those lines, so as to blend into the gallery. They must not take conspicuous positions in the open.

Filming may be done from such locations during a player's stroke, provided modern equipment that produces a minimum of noise is used.

Post-round interviews must be filmed far enough away from the arena of play to eliminate the possibility of distraction to those competing.

Difficulties will be avoided if photographers are fair and will treat players as they themselves would wish to be treated in similar circumstances.

The cooperation of all photographers will be appreciated.
