ABOUT THE COMMISSIONER

Deane R. Beman

Born: April 22, 1938

Birthplace: Washington, DC

Family: Wife, Judy; five children

Entering his 17th year as Commissioner of the PGA TOUR, Deane R. Beman has overseen the most explosive period of growth in the TOUR's history, since succeeding Joseph C. Dey, Jr., on March 1, 1974.

During the Beman administration, the "business side" of the PGA TOUR has shown dramatic growth and now includes many heretofore uncharted paths, each designed to help encourage continued prosperity and to ensure the future of the game.

PGA TOUR Investments, Inc., created just seven years ago, has already grown to include 13 "Stadium Golf" facilities nationally with another 5 in planning or construction stages across the United States. In 1989, TPC International was added to the network with the announcement of the initial three clubs in Japan. In December, 1986, in Clearwater, FL, the PGA TOUR opened the first in a network of "Family Golf Centers." In 1989 the TOUR opened another "Family Golf Center" at the Golf Club of Jacksonville, a municipal course the PGA TOUR built for the city of Jacksonville. In addition to providing state-of-the-art tournament and teaching golf arenas, Tournament Players Clubs and Family Golf Centers have been instrumental in the growth of PGA TOUR assets, which have climbed from $730,000 to more than $80 million during the Beman era.

PGA/PGA TOUR Properties, the joint marketing venture of the TOUR and PGA of America, continues to make steady progress in its quest to open new opportunities in golf for commercial sponsors and the TOUR's members. The Nabisco Golf competitions on the Regular TOUR and the Vantage Cup involvement with the Senior TOUR, an infusion of millions of dollars combined for players, sponsors and charities, is the largest example of these efforts.

PGA TOUR Productions, introduced in 1985, is the TOUR's first-ever in-house TV/audio-visual production entity, the creative possibilities of which are nearly limitless. Tournament highlight films, vignettes, commercials, specialty pieces and the acclaimed "Inside the PGA TOUR" weekly half-hour show airing on ESPN are several of Production's successful projects.

Other important innovations introduced during the Beman administration include a professional Agronomy department, the Nabisco Stats program, electronic scoreboards, "Official Golf Destinations" and the Centinela Hospital Fitness Van.

Competitively, the Beman era has witnessed the birth of the SENIOR PGA TOUR which started in 1980 with two events and has grown to 40 events this year and the Ben Hogan Tour, which debuts with 30 events this year. In all, over 120 tournaments are on the combined slate with prize money having increased from $8.2 million in 1974 to approximately $75 million this year.

The Player Retirement Plan, inaugurated in 1983, has already contributed $10 million toward the future benefit of active Plan participants, and larger contributions are expected in future years.

Charity, easily the TOUR's leading money winner during the Beman era, continues to benefit at a yearly record pace. Contributions by American Golf Sponsors to charitable organizations rose to another unprecedented total of $19.8 million and will again be substantially supplemented by $2 million in the Nabisco Team Charity Competition.

During his active years as a player, Beman established an enviable slate of accomplishments, compiling one of the great amateur records of all time. He won United States Amateur titles in 1960 and 1963 and the British Amateur championship in 1959. As an amateur, Beman was a member of four Walker Cup teams, four World Amateur Cup teams and three U.S. Americas Cup squads.

At the age of 29, in 1967, he left a prosperous insurance brokerage firm in Bethesda, MD, to join the PGA TOUR as a full-time player. During his six-year professional career, he won the 1969 Texas Open, 1970 Greater Milwaukee Open, 1972 Quad Cities Open and 1973 Shrine-Robinson Classic.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE PGA TOUR

"The PGA TOUR is enjoying these days the healthiest period of its existence. The reasons are too numerous to mention here, but in the opinion of many, including myself, the PGA TOUR is one of the last true forms of capitalism left in the world of sports today. Everyone starts out at zero the first of the year, and in the most literal sense, everyone starts out the same each week... One is merely paid for performance on the professional golf tour, and that may be one of the reasons it is held in such high esteem by the public. We as players, along with administrators, must endeavor to protect this idea forever."

*From the foreword by Ben Crenshaw in the recently published Doubleday book, The History of the PGA TOUR, by Al Barkow.*

It is not always easy to discover the exact beginning of something. So it is with the PGA TOUR. Certainly, there were professionals who competed against each other from the earliest days of the game.

Then on New Year's Day, 1989, ten professional golfers played 36 holes of stroke play and competed for money. The total purse was $150 and the winner took home $75. Due to the fact that a large gallery had come to witness the event, the New York Times covered the tournament. Shortly thereafter, tournaments began to pop up across the country. There was the Western Open in 1899. But this was not "tour" golf. The events lacked continuity.

Interest in the game, however, continued to grow. American professionals were rapidly improving and when John McDermott became the first home-bred to win the U.S. Open, enthusiasm for the game blossomed.

Helping this growth was a commercially backed "tour" by Englishmen Harry Vardon and Ted Ray. The duo travelled across the country and attracted good crowds wherever they stopped during the warmer months of 1913. However, the biggest explosion for the game occurred that September. A 20-year old "local boy," Francis Ouimet, defeated the pair in a playoff for the United States Open Championship at Brookline, MA. Suddenly, golf became front page news and a game for everyone.

In the early Twenties, the PGA TOUR could have seen its first development. Tournaments were held on the West Coast, Texas and Florida. These events were held in the winter and the golfers played their way east and up to Pinehurst in the spring. By the middle of the decade, the Tour was doing relatively well—offering $77,000 in total. What's more, resorts, hotels and Chambers of Commerce began to realize that publicity value professional golf brought to their facilities. Names like Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen and Bobby Jones became folk heroes.

In the thirties, The TOUR continued to grow. The PGA of America was providing support and despite the nation's financial woes during the period, golf tournaments continued to attract good crowds. It is interesting to look back at some figures of the time. Paul Runyan was the leading money winner of 1934 with $6,767. Last year, the top two money winners—Tom Kite and Payne Stewart—each earned over $1 million.

The names of the golfers continued to become household words. In the late 1930's and early 1940's Sam Snead's name started to appear in the headlines with regularity. Then came Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson, Jimmy Demaret and others who were beginning to gain nationwide fame.

The TOUR became more structured following World War II and then exploded in the late 1950's and early 60's. Flip through the Facts and Figures section of this TOUR Book and look at such areas as leading money winners and growth of tournament purses to witness the sudden and continuing growth.

Once television became a player in the game, the eyes of the world were on golf. This exposure inspired millions to try the game and at the same time, TV rights fees sent purses soaring. The bulk of these rights fees, which are distributed by the PGA TOUR to all co-sponsors, have gone back into the purses, accounting for the tripling of prize money in the last decade.

The touring professionals began to gain some control of the TOUR in late 1968. Joseph C. Dey was the first commissioner of what was then called the Tournament Players Division. He served from early 1969 through February 28, 1974 and was succeeded by Deane R. Beman, who took office March 1, 1974.

During the Beman administration, the value of tournament purses has escalated at an unprecedented rate; PGA TOUR assets have grown from $730,000 in 1974 to $80 million today, and total revenues have increased from $3.9 million to $140 million in the same time period.

Since 1938 PGA TOUR events have donated $145 million dollars to charity. Each of the last 13 years have seen charitable contributions increase dramatically, to the point where over $100 million has been donated since 1984. The slogan, "The leading money winner on the PGA TOUR is Charity," is definitely not just a catch phrase.

The competitive scope of the PGA TOUR is also much broader today. The Senior PGA TOUR is considered by many as the sports success story of the 1980's. This year, the PGA TOUR, with the help of the Ben Hogan Company and PGA of America sections, added another addition to its family. Named for one of golf's greats, the Ben Hogan Tour was created to help golfers sharpen their skills with hopes of earning a place on either the PGA TOUR or the Senior PGA TOUR.

Also continuing to grow is the Tournament Players Club Network. When the PGA TOUR opened the Tournament Players Club at Sawgrass in 1980, it beckoned the era of Stadium Golf. Owned and operated by the TOUR, the concept means these courses are the only major league sports arenas owned by the players themselves.

The TPC Network has expanded to 13 clubs in cities across the world, with more clubs in either the construction or the planning stages.

Four years ago the PGA TOUR opened its first Family Golf Center in Clearwater, FL, and this year the TOUR constructed a municipal course for the city of Jacksonville, FL. This, and other concepts, are expected to mature with the PGA TOUR.

NABISCO GOLF AND PGA TOUR SET FOR ANOTHER SEASON

Year-long consistency will once again be a premium on the 1990 PGA TOUR due largely to the impact of the $5.5 million Nabisco Golf program. The program was designed to reward players for quality and consistency of play and, in keeping with the PGA TOUR tradition of providing contributions to charity throughout North America. Year-long races for individual and team honors will culminate with the Nabisco Championships—the TOUR's richest event offering a $2.5 million purse and a $450,000 first prize, October 25-28 at Champions Golf Club, Houston, TX.

The program was in response to the popular Nabisco Challenge and Vantage Cup competitions of 1986 which were consolidated into a stronger, more cohesive program. RJR/Nabisco assumed sponsorship activities on the PGA TOUR including the electronic scoreboard systems which have enhanced on-site spectator viewing since 1981.

The following components make up Nabisco Golf.

Individual Competition

The Nabisco Individual Competition awards PGA TOUR pros for year-long consistency and excellence. This season-long competition offers a $1 million Bonus Pool with a $175,000 first prize for the player who has earned the most money at season's conclusion. Significantly, all Bonus Pool payouts count as official money. The top 30 PGA TOUR members will also earn the right to compete at the season-ending Nabisco Championships. Last year Tom Kite captured both the $450,000 first prize and the $175,000 bonus on his way to a record setting $1,395,278 in earnings.

Team Charity Competition.

The Nabisco Team Charity Competition promises an exciting finish when it also culminates at the Nabisco Championships. Last October each participating PGA TOUR tournament sponsor selected a four-man "team." Tom Kite, last season's Individual Competition winner, was chosen as the draft's first pick by the NEC World Series of Golf. Any dollars earned by each member in the individual competition will be credited to his team, and at season's end, $2 million will again be donated to the charities represented by the participating tournaments. First prize is $500,000. The charity team competition will be decided by the cumulative official money totals for the teams four members. Last year the MONY Tournament of Champions team, led by Kite, took top honors and Southern California charities benefitted.

Nabisco Championships

The Nabisco Championships will not only culminate the Nabisco Competition, but it will serve as an exciting, dramatic conclusion to the PGA TOUR campaign. The TOUR's largest purse, $2,500,000 will be at stake for the top 30 pros. Eligibility will be limited to the top 30 money winners (PGA TOUR members) through the event preceding the Nabisco Championships. In addition the $2 million Team Charity Competition will be settled as will the year-long Bonus Pool. The $5.5 million Nabisco Golf prize monies will be decided at the Nabisco Championships. Moreover, the Arnold Palmer Award, symbolic of leading the PGA TOUR official money list, will probably be contingent on the outcome of the Nabisco Championships.

NABISCO STATS

An integral part of the PGA TOUR since 1980, the Nabisco Stats program has helped to clearly indicate who the most skilled TOUR players are in a variety of categories.

A total of 10 statistical categories are charted each week of the season with Nabisco rewarding the 10 individual champions with a $25,000 bonus at season's end.

The ten stat categories are: Scoring, Driving Distance, Driving Accuracy, Greens In Regulation, Par-Breakers, Putting, Eagles, Birdies, Sand Saves and All-Around.

Statistics are gathered at each TOUR event by the walking scorers who accompany each group of players. The TOUR's Official Statistician then enters the raw data into an on-site computer, which then feeds the information back to TOUR Headquarters in Florida. There the weekly lists and standings are tabulated. Epson computer products are used to gather and compile the data.

Since its inception, the Nabisco Stats program has proven to be a real eye-opener. Prior to 1980, only the most sophisticated golf fans would have recognized Calvin Peete's amazing accuracy off the tee. However, with Calvin now winning the last nine consecutive Driving Accuracy titles, almost everyone realizes that Calvin is the game's most accurate player.

Another benefit of the Nabisco Stats program is felt by the players. Many of today's TOUR players have found the statistical printouts available at each TOUR site to be an excellent source of information about their own respective games. For example, a player can be working on his bunker play in practice and can chart on a weekly basis his progress through the keeping of statistics.

In order to be eligible for the Nabisco Stats program, a player must complete a minimum of 50 rounds in 1990.

NABISCO SCOREBOARDS

The PGA TOUR over the years has introduced many innovations to enhance the spectator enjoyment of the tournaments. One such innovation was "Stadium Golf," another was the electronic scoreboards. The introduction of the Nabisco Scoreboards in 1981 provided up-to-the-minute information about action on the course to all spectators.

The electronic Nabisco Scoreboard systems that travel the PGA TOUR are indeed a phenomenon. Not only do they bring status reports, current scores, biographical and statistical information, special reports and messages to players and fans spread out over many acres, but they also survive a gamut of weather conditions as well as the vagaries of travel as the two systems leapfrog around the nation.

In 1988 they became even more phenomenal with the introduction of new state-of-the-art technology. By the end of the 1988 TOUR schedule the existing systems were replaced by scoreboards featuring the new "Glowcube" technology from Daktronics Inc. of Brookings, S.D.—the manufacturer of the electronic scoreboards for the 1988 Winter Olympics. This "Glowcube" technology driven by new Epson computers will allow for faster scoring, better graphics and will feature the use of radio signals to transmit the data. The need for telephone lines from the greens to the scoreboards and from the scoreboards to the computer center in the van will be eliminated.

Nabisco Golf will be responsible for the transport, set up and maintenance of the new electronic Nabisco Scoreboard systems while PGA TOUR personnel will be responsible for the on-course operation during tournament week.

The Nabisco Scoreboard system is all just a part of Nabisco's major contribution to the PGA TOUR. The interest of Nabisco Brands, Inc., is helping the PGA TOUR towards its goal of making professional golf the world's greatest spectator sport.

PGA TOUR PRODUCTIONS MOVES TO FLORIDA'S FIRST COAST

PGA TOUR Productions, the in-house television production company of the PGA TOUR, will begin the 1990 season from its new facilities in Jacksonville, FL. The company has recently relocated from New York City.

PGA TOUR Productions is the producer of the highly acclaimed "Inside the PGA TOUR," which is seen weekly on ESPN, plus tournament highlight films, vignettes, commercials, home videos and travel and resort videos among other projects.

By moving to Jacksonville, PGA TOUR Productions brings together the separate branches of the TOUR on Florida's First Coast. The National Headquarters of the PGA TOUR is located just south of Jacksonville in Ponte Vedra.

"The move to Jacksonville is a logical and exciting step for PGA TOUR Productions," said Ruffin Beckwith, Vice President of PGA TOUR Productions. "From the economic advantages to the quality of life for our employees—not to mention the proximity to TOUR headquarters—this is a very important phase in our history, and will allow us to better serve the needs of our clients."

Florida's First Coast is the five county area including and surrounding Jacksonville. A virtual hot-bed for golf, the Greater Jacksonville area offers the perfect location for the TOUR to be centered.

Besides being the home of the TOUR's National Headquarters and PGA TOUR Productions, the area is also home to the Tournament Players Club at Sawgrass, which annually hosts THE PLAYERS Championship. New to the Jacksonville area is the Golf Club of Jacksonville, a municipal facility the TOUR built and manages for the city.

Golf, however, is not the only attraction of Florida's First Coast. There are miles and miles of beaches, as well as lakes and rivers for water sports enthusiasts.

PGA TOUR PRODUCTIONS

Football fans have the Mazda Gator Bowl, which annually features some of the nation's top college football teams. The annual Florida-Georgia football game is also held in the Gator Bowl.

The city also features college basketball and minor league baseball.

Nightlife is another attractive feature of Jacksonville, with numerous fine dining establishments along the St. Johns River and the Jacksonville Landing located on the north bank of the river. The refurbished Prime Osborn Convention Center and newly implemented skyway express are part of a revitalized downtown area that is continuing to grow.

The largest city in the continental United States in land area, Jacksonville and Florida's First Coast offer the excitement of a metropolitan city while still having room to stretch and grow.

The PGA TOUR Productions van, centered out of Jacksonville, FL, covers TOUR events across the country.

CENTINELA FITNESS CENTER

The "Official Hospital of the PGA TOUR" since 1984, Centinela Hospital Medical Center in Inglewood, CA, will again sponsor the Centinela Hospital Fitness Van (CHFV) on TOUR in 1990.

One of the most popular innovations on the circuit, the CHFV is a mobile gymnasium that includes a state-of-the-art line of Wynmor Products, Ltd. exercise equipment, a massage table, television, stereo, three treatment tables, various physical therapy modalities, and a full line of vitamins and nutritional products.

Staffed by a qualified physical therapist and athletic trainers, the CHFV travels to the vast majority of TOUR events across the country providing both rehabilitative and preventative care.

Through its first six years on TOUR, the Centinela Hospital Fitness Van has attracted the interest of virtually every player with at least 80% using the mobile unit on a regular basis. Housed in a 45-foot long trailer (expandable to 24' wide when parked), the Centinela Hospital Fitness Van enables TOUR pros to maintain peak levels of performance at absolutely no cost to the individual player.

Additionally, Centinela Hospital Medical Center will provide each player with a personal physical conditioning program based on that individual's current level of conditioning and provides the service noted orthopedic surgeon Dr. Frank Jobe. Dr. Jobe, Medical Director of the PGA TOUR, is also team physician to the Los Angeles Dodgers. He is assisted by Dr. Lewis A. Yocum, his associate, an orthopedic consultant to the California Angels.

The CHFV has made its impact over the past six years with many players finding the van and available technicians an invaluable aid to their success on the TOUR. In fact, many players have commented that they would have been unable to compete in some tournaments without this facility.

"If they had this setup several years ago," Fuzzy Zoeller said, "it might have saved me from having back surgery."

"If it wasn't for Centinela Hospital's Fitness Van," said Curtis Strange, "I wouldn't be here."

Centinela Hospital's Biomechanics Laboratory has done research and testing on professional golfers' swings and, based on the results, developed scientific exercise programs which are available through books (Champion Press) and videotapes. These programs, designed by Dr. Jobe and Dr. Yocum, have helped countless golfers stretch their potential while minimizing their risk of injury. For more information contact Centinela Hospital.

In addition to the involvement of Wynmor Products, Ltd., one of the top names in exercise equipment on the market today, several other leading companies in their field will add to the quality of Centinela Hospital's Fitness Van.

As has been the case since the introduction of the CHFV, Foot-Joy, Inc., the leading name in golf and casual shoes on the PGA TOUR, provides a quality line of fitness shoes to be used in the mobile training facility. Foot-Joy, Inc. is the "Official Athletic/Fitness Shoe on the PGA TOUR."

Coppertone (a product of Schering-Plough, Inc.), the leading manufacturer of skincare products in the country, began providing their products to the CHFV in 1989. After extensive research with TOUR players, Coppertone has developed a line of skincare products which are now available in leading pro shops.

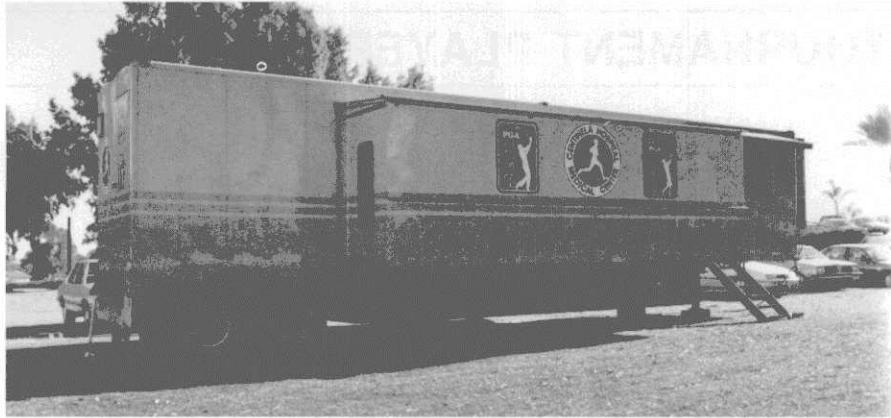

Advil (a product of Whitehall Labs) has supported the Centinela Hospital Fitness Van by providing some of the leading pain-relievers available on the market today. As is the case with the other sponsors of this facility, Advil will also be exploring new ways of providing better healthcare products for golfers.

The products contributed by each sponsor of the Centinela Hospital Fitness Van have helped make the facility such a success that a similar Fitness Van was introduced on the Senior TOUR in late 1986.

TOURNAMENT PLAYERS CLUBS

The original concept of the PGA TOUR, The Tournament Players Clubs have within the decade of the 80's gone from a dream to a network that now encompasses 21 courses in 12 states and now with the addition of TPC International, two countries.

It was the TOUR's view that the spectator had been left out in golf course design throughout the years and when it came time for the PGA TOUR to build its own course, the opportunity presented itself for the TOUR to build a course that not only challenged the players, but allowed spectators to see the action as never before.

It's called "Stadium Golf" and once you've viewed a tournament on a Stadium Golf Course, you'll understand why the network has grown in such a short period of time.

Spectator mounds abound that afford fans unrestricted views whether on tee shots, fairway shots or on the greens. In fact, the 18th hole at the original TPC at Sawgrass can accommodate crowds of some 30,000 people—all with a clean view of the action. You won't see any periscopes at an event on a Players Club course.

The network began in 1980 with the club at Sawgrass where it annually hosts the THE PLAYERS Championship, and quickly grew into the present number of 21. All TPCs are designed to host PGA TOUR or Senior PGA TOUR events and to date the clubs have been designed by some of the top architects in the business—Pete Dye, Arnold Palmer, Arthur Hills, Jay Morrish, Bob Cupp, the Von Hagge/Devlin team and Jack Nicklaus to name just a few.

In addition, one of the things that adds a bit of spice to all TPCs is that a PGA TOUR player (or in some cases, two) are assigned to serve as a consultant to the designer. To date, Ed Sneed, Tom Weiskopf, Fuzzy Zoeller, Hubert Green, Craig Stadler, Ben Crenshaw, Al Geiberger and Chi Chi Rodriguez have been among those lending their expertise to the TPC Network.

In reality a nationwide country club, a membership at one TPC affords the member a chance to play at any of the other clubs across the country and an opportunity to view the greatest players in the world in action on his own course once a year.

Since the Tournament Players Club at Sawgrass opened, the TPC Network has now truly become "the best set of clubs in America."

Thousands of fans saw the action at the new Tournament Players Club at Southwind during last year's Federal Express St. Jude Classic

CHARITABLE CONTRIBUTIONS CONTINUE TO GROW

In keeping with the TOUR's motto of "the leading money winner on the PGA TOUR is Charity," the PGA TOUR and the American Golf Sponsors (AGS) were delighted to announce in late 1987 that charitable contributions from TOUR events had passed the $100 million mark.

Last year was the 13th consecutive record breaking year according to AGS figures with some $19.8 million going to charitable concerns across the country. That figure exceeded the year old mark of $18.4 million raised in 1988.

Beginning in 1938 with a $10,000 pledge to charity at the Palm Beach Invitational, several TOUR events now donate in excess of $1 million annually. In fact, every PGA TOUR event donates its net revenue to charitable organizations of every kind.

It is, of course, the hard work of thousands of dedicated volunteers at each TOUR stop that have made this largesse possible and it is they who are the heroes in this story.

"We have said for years that charity is our leading money winner," said Commissioner Deane R. Berman. "We have never meant for that saying to be just a catch phrase, we've always meant it and there's no doubt that the golf world has been doing its fair share to help others who are less fortunate."

People from all walks of life have benefitted from the $145 million that has been contributed to charity. TOUR events annually benefit hospitals, youth groups, research groups, educational foundations and countless other projects.

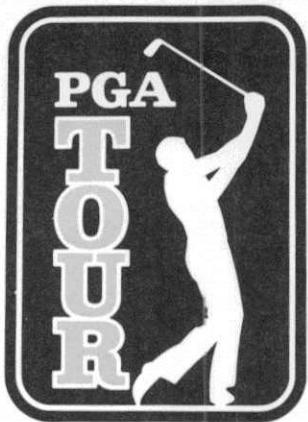

"It's a real credit to the tournament organizations and the commercial sponsors that we can not only improve our purse each year, but our contribution to charity as well," said Ted May, President of the AGS.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1975 Arizona State Amateur; led TOUR in Greens in Regulation statistic in 1988.

John Adams has found a steady improvement in his game the last few years and he has every reason to believe the upward swing will continue.

Two years ago, after going to noted teacher Jim Flick for help, John was able to finish first in the Greens in Regulation Nabisco statistic. He won by a slim margin over Dave Barr, hitting the greens an average of .739 percent of the time. "Jim Flick is the reason I won it," John said.

Last year, his progress continued and he had two top ten finishes and earned more than $100,000 for the first time. He was sixth in the Hardee's Golf Classic with two of his rounds being 67; and he was 10th in the Canadian Open with an exceptional 69-67 finish at Glen Abbey.

"It was a rebuilding year," he said of 1989. "I'm still trying to get back to the way I played in the early 1980's. Jim (Flick) has taken me from a large hook to a straight ball to a fade and it has helped a lot."

John doesn't remember how old he was when he started to play golf. Smiling he says, "All I know is I was as young as I could be and still hold a club."

In those days, he does know he played crosshanded and putted the same. "When I was about three-years old, I finally gave up playing crosshanded."

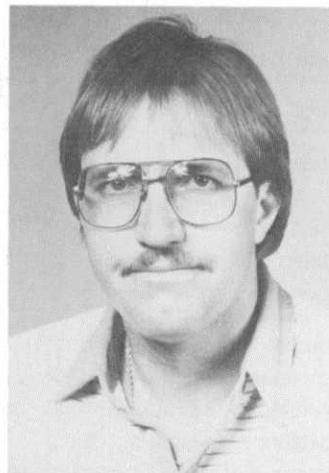

His father was a golf professional in the Midland, TX area, but retired when John was still a youngster. His father continued to coach and assist him through the years but in 1986 he passed away.

John played in junior events around Texas and eventually headed for Brevard Junior College. He transferred to Arizona State University, and while there, he won the 1975 Arizona State Amateur championship.

His first year on TOUR was 1978 and he found little success. Then, as he says, "I found a course I could play, but we don't play it any longer."

He was referring to Pinehurst No. 2. In the fall of 1982, he tied with Jay Haas in the Hall of Fame Classic, but lost in a playoff when he bogeyed the second extra hole. However, his check for $27,000 was more than he had won in any single season. It boosted his season earnings to $54,014, and that's more than he had won through his first four years on the TOUR combined.

On the second extra hole, Haas made a routine par, but Adams missed the green. He chipped to within 10 feet and his par putt lipped out of the cup.

1990 NABISCO TEAM CHARITY COMPETITION: Bob Hope Chrysler Classic

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1987 South African PGA; 1986 & 1987 Palaborwa Classic, 1986 AEGI Charity Classic, 1988 Sun City Million Dollar Challenge, all in South Africa.

Fulton Allem has been a strong player on the South African Tour for the last few years, but little did he know what it would mean when he won the 1987 South African PGA Championship.

The victory carried an invitation to the NEC World Series of Golf at Firestone Country Club in Akron and it was the trip to Akron that turned his career around.

He played four solid rounds and finished alone in second place, just three strokes behind Curtis Strange with a score of 2-under-par 278. He earned $86,400 and that was more than enough for him to qualify for his TOUR player's card. And, it also let him finish among the top 125 money winners for the year and thus gain exempt status.

"I was planning on going to the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall," he said, "but I wasn't looking forward to all the pressure that goes with it. I felt I could play well enough to be on the PGA TOUR if I had the opportunity."

Allem had another solid year in 1989 earning $134,706, enough to give him exempt status for the 1990 season.

The husky Allem did try the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament once. It was 10-years ago when he still was in his teens but was not successful.

Allem has been a winner on his home circuit but he points out, "I had 18 second-place finishes before I finally won."

As it was reported in South Africa, "The dynamic Allem couldn't break through after 10 tough years of trying but he subsequently annexed four titles in one year."

"The cherry on top was his superb win in the Lexington PGA over a difficult Wanderers course in late January (1987) where he outdueled a plucky Hugh Baiocchi over the final stretch to claim the most important success of his career thus far."

Fulton started to play golf at age 7 under the encouragement of his father. Through the years, it has been his father who has been there to teach him the fine points of the game.

He was a good junior player but did not travel extensively to establish himself as an international amateur.

"Gary Player was a big influence," he said. "He was so serious about his golf that I tended to be the same way. I couldn't take it lightly like some of the amateurs, so, I decided to take the plunge and I turned pro when I was just 19."

Even today, Player is his favorite. "I have the highest respect for Gary and what he has done," Fulton said, "but I've always liked Jack Nicklaus, too."

"What I admire so much about Gary is that he has grinded all the way from nothing and has beaten the giants. He has guts and determination. He never gives up. I just love the man."

1989 SUMMARY: Tournaments entered—31; in money—17; top ten finishes—3; stroke average—71.33.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1980, 1981 Insurance Youth Classic, 1981 PGA National Junior Championship, 1986 North and South Amateur, 1986 Sunnehanna Amateur. Won four collegiate tournaments. Member 1986 NCAA Championship team at Wake Forest. All-American, 1984, 1985, 1986. Ranked No. 1 junior player in nation in 1981.

NATIONAL TEAMS: Junior World Cup, 1981 (won team title with Sam Randolph at Portmarnock, Ireland); World Amateur Cup, 1986; Walker Cup, 1987.

Billy Andrade always knew he had a home on the PGA TOUR. All he needed was a little patience to find the right address.

He has enjoyed great success at all levels of the game and his peers believe he will be a standout on the TOUR for many, many years. In 1981, for example, as a 17-year old, he was ranked the No. 1 junior player in the nation.

His first year as a member of the PGA TOUR was not too bad, but certainly not what he expected of himself. He finished 134th on the money list with nearly $75,000. "My own goals were unrealistic," he says.

He returned to the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1988 in an effort to improve his position as an exempt player. He finished fifth and, after a slow start on the West Coast at the start of 1989, he made his move.

"I knew I would be all right," he said, "when I had guys like Fuzzy Zoeller and Tom Kite tell me, 'You're going to be out here a long time. Take your time and be patient. Don't try to force it.'"

He had three grand weeks in the summer and they were the ones that launched him into exempt status. He tied for fifth place in the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic in June; tied for second in the Buick Open in July; and tied for fourth place in the International in August.

Billy started the game at age 5 when he would tag along behind his grandmother on the course. He played his first tournament in Rhode Island when he was 11.

"I followed in the footsteps of Brad Faxon," he said. "Brad was three years ahead of me in school but we played together a lot at the Rhode Island Country Club in Barrington."

He played most sports through school even though he lacked height, he was named all-state in basketball while at Providence (RI) Country Day School.

Knowing he wasn't big enough to play basketball in college, he started to concentrate on golf. He did well at an early age and "that fueled the fire," he said. "My goal was to get a scholarship to college."

He did. He was the recipient of an Arnold Palmer Scholarship to Wake Forest. He went on to win four collegiate events and lead the Deacons to the 1986 NCAA Championship. He was an All-American choice three times.

Through the years he gained considerable experience as a winner. He joined with Sam Randolph to win the Junior World Cup crown in Ireland in 1981. He also played on the World Amateur Cup and Walker Cup teams.

This personable young man figures to be around a long time. Just ask Fuzzy and Tom.

When your name is Tommy Armour III, it does attract a little extra attention. There are not many in the game who can say their grandfather—known as Silver Scot—was a winner of the United States, and British Opens, plus the PGA Championship.

The Silver Scot passed away in 1968 but he would have been proud of the effort put forth by his grandson this past year. He had his career-best money year with $185,018 and he ranked in the top 20 in three separate Nabisco Statistical categories. He also placed second at the Kemper Open, one of two top 10 finishes on the year for him.

He first qualified for the TOUR in the fall of 1981 but his 1982 season was not what he had hoped it would be. Every year since then, he tried to get his card back but each time he barely missed.

So, he would travel the world, spending most of his time on the European and Asian Tours where he had enjoyed exempt status.

"It was a great experience," he said. "The main thing I was able to play in real golf tournaments." Each year, he became a little better and his patience paid off handsomely in the fall of 1987 when he finished tied for eighth place in the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament.

He learned a valuable lesson two years ago. "I started out with new equipment and a new driver," he explained. "After I missed five straight cuts in the spring, I said to myself, 'What are you doing with this new stuff?'

"I went back to my old equipment and the next two weeks, I was 11th in the Kemper Open and 10th at the Westchester Classic."

As he also said, "after that, there were several more times when I was just a shot or two away from the big cheese."

He played junior golf all around southern California, winning the occasional tournament. He

1990 NABISCO TEAM CHARITY COMPETITION: THE PLAYERS Championship

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1980 Florida State match play championship; Gator Invitational and Metro Collegiate Conference. Medalist in Qualifying School in Fall of 1984. Runner-up 1987 British Open. Named 1987 PGA and Golf World Player-of-the-Year. Led the TOUR in sand saves 1986 and 1987, and All-around in 1989.

NATIONAL TEAMS: Ryder Cup, 1989; World Cup, 1989.

Every young player could learn a valuable lesson from Paul Azinger. In just a few short years, he has gone from struggling to make a living on the PGA TOUR to the head of the class.

His rise to superstardom really began in 1987 when he won three times and was named PGA Player-of-the-Year. He won his first start of the year, the Phoenix Open and then added the Panasonic-Las Vegas Invitational and Canon Sammy Davis, Jr.-Greater Hartford Open titles to his list.

He won in Las Vegas with an eagle putt of 30 feet on the last hole. By season's end he had accumulated $822,481.

Two years ago, he won the Hertz Bay Hill Classic by five shots over Tom Kite and last year, he claimed another victory in the Canon Greater Hartford Open.

One of the keys to Paul's success has been his ever-improving consistency. Last year, en route to earning $951,659—he had 13 top-10 finishes in 25 starts. He finished the season with a second at the Texas Open and ties for third at Walt Disney World/Oldsobile Classic and the Nabisco Championships.

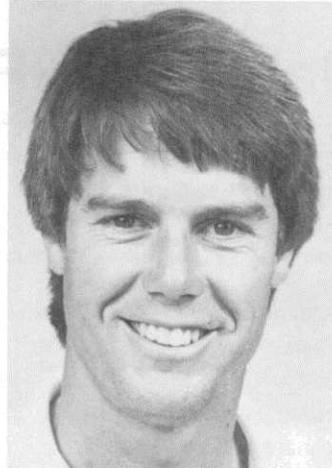

Even in the Ryder Cup against the European team, Paul played exceptionally well. His big moment came of in a singles victory over Seve Ballesteros.

He first gained international attention in the 1987 British Open. He led by one stroke with two holes to play, but finished bogey-bogey due to bunker problems and Nick Faldo slipped in to win.

A turning point in Paul's career came when he attended Brevard Junior College and his coach there, John Suttie, introduced him to John Redman. As he has said, "John has taken me to the level I'm at now."

He moved on to Florida State University and in 1981 he turned professional and headed for the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament. He made it. Although he missed the 1983 season, he was back in 1984. After a season or two to get his spikes firmly implanted, his star began to soar.

As good as he has played, Paul has been even more impressive in his personal life. He has become a favorite of the galleries because of his exciting play; but, even more important, he is regarded as one of the nicest guys in the business.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1983 New Zealand Open. 1984 West Australian Open, New South Wales Open. 1985 Queensland PGA Championship, Victorian Open, Scandinavian Open. 1987 Australian Match Play Championship, Polaroid Cup (Japan). 1988 Australian Masters, Pocari Sweat Open (Japan), Bridgestone Open (Japan).

NATIONAL TEAMS: Australian World Cup, 1985; Australia/New Zealand Kirin Cup (4), 1985, 1986, 1987, 1988.

It was a big decision for Ian Baker-Finch but he now knows it was the right one. At the end of 1988, Ian decided "it was time to pull up roots and play the U.S. TOUR fulltime."

He would forget about trying to play all over the world, hopping on airplanes from his homeland of Australia to Japan to Europe to the United States and back again. His pretty wife Jennie was delighted.

"You are never going to be recognized as a great player unless you win every tournament overseas," the tall, handsome Aussie said. "You have to play well over here in the States and do well."

Golf fans around the world—and in Akron, Ohio—knew he had exceptional talent and he put it all on display at the Southwestern Bell Colonial in Fort Worth, TX, in May of last year.

He led all the way at the Colonial Country Club with rounds of 65, 70, 65 and 70 for a total of 10 under-par and won by four strokes over David Edwards. He led by one after the first and second rounds and by four after three.

"I feel like I've earned my spot," he said. "It's not that I ever felt like I shouldn't be here, but I knew it was because the sponsors wanted me to be in their tournament. I couldn't just enter; I had to ask for an invitation."

In the 1988 NEC World Series of Golf at Firestone Country Club, Ian was tied for the third-round lead with Larry Nelson and Mike Reid. He shot a final round of 71 and that dropped him into a tie for third place, two strokes out of the Reid-Tom Watson playoff.

However, in four starts, he earned $75,840 to rank 133rd on the money list at the season's end. It was enough for him to gain membership in the PGA TOUR and, thus, could accept unlimited sponsors exemptions.

"The TOUR has really been good to me," he said, "and the sponsors have shown a lot of confidence in me."

He was playing in the Colonial on a foreign exemption.

Baker-Finch's home is in Sanctuary Cove, near Brisbane in Queensland, the same "neighborhood" as Greg Norman and Wayne Grady.

He turned professional in 1979 and his first important pro victory was in the 1983 New Zealand Open. He led the 1984 British Open at St. Andrews after three rounds, but a poor fourth round dropped him down the list.

He has won seven times on the Australia/New Zealand Tour, with his most impressive and cherished victory being in the 1988 Australian Masters. He won the 1984 New South Wales Open by 13 strokes.

He has represented his country well, playing on the 1985 World Cup team and also on the last four Australia/New Zealand Tour Kirin Cup teams with excellent results.

One of the steadiest players on the PGA TOUR, Dave Barr once again, had a solid season. He earned a check in 20 of the 25 events he competed in, along the way compiling $190,480 in earnings.

His best finish of 1989 came in his homeland, as he tied for eighth in the Canadian Open.

Dave's first victory on TOUR was in the 1981 Quad Cities Open in a five-way playoff and he won again in the 1987 Georgia Pacific Atlanta Classic with a brilliant 23-under-par score of 265.

Dave received considerable national attention in the 1985 United States Open championship when he battled Andy North all the way to the wire before finishing in a tie for second place with Denis Watson and Tze-Chung Chen.

Dave always has been successful in his native Canada. He has won 12 Canadian Tour titles including the 1985 Canadian PGA Championship and the 1988 Canadian Tournament Players Division title. He also led the Canadian Order of Merit four times, including last year.

He has played on eight Canadian World Cup teams and in 1983 he won the individual title and in 1985 he joined with Dan Halldorson to give Canada the team championship.

When the final round started at the 1981 Quad Cities Open, Dave was five strokes behind Victor Regalado. A closing 66 shot him into a tie at the end of regulation play with Halldorson, Woody Blackburn, Frank Conner and Regalado.

It was eight holes later (only one playoff in TOUR history has been longer), that Dave managed a par and that was all he needed to gain his elusive triumph.

"This is great," he said. "It's what we all play for out here. When things are not going well, you sometimes wonder if you made the right decision. Winning makes it all worth it."

Andy Bean was one of the game's leading players for more than a decade before a bout with tendinitis cut into his effectiveness a couple of years ago, so, now, it's good to see the big fellow back near the top of his game.

He won 11 times on the TOUR from 1977 through 1986—three of them being in the Doral-Eastern Open—and last year he came close to winning another pair.

Andy shot a 66 the final day of the PGA Championship and came within a stroke of forcing a playoff with Payne Stewart. Three weeks later, he was second in the Greater Milwaukee Open, only because of a superb winning effort by Greg Norman.

"I could see a lot of improvement," he said. "I knew I was on the right track."

After winning twice in 1986 and finishing fourth on the money list, Andy came up with a severe case of tendinitis in his right elbow in 1987. He dropped to 120th on the money list and the next year, he fell all the way to 149th. He simply couldn't play well.

Interestingly enough, he did play well in the Ryder Cup matches in 1987 and one of his victories was in singles over Ian Woosnam.

Andy certainly had the background to become a professional golfer. As a youngster, he lived on Jekyll Island, GA, where his father was associated with a golf course. When he was 15, the family moved to Lakeland, FL, where his father bought a course.

He is one of the biggest men in the game and he has the personality and the heart to match his size. Wherever the game is played, he always is one of the more popular men in the field.

NATIONAL TEAMS: Ryder Cup, 1989; Kirin Cup, 1988; Four Tours World Championship, 1989.

Chip Beck had the kind of season in 1988 that many have been expecting of him since this talented young man joined the TOUR in 1979.

That year Chip finished second on the money list with a whopping $916,818. He won twice and came close a third time losing in a playoff late in the year at the Disney.

He broke through with his first-ever win at the fabled Riviera Country Club taking home the Los Angeles Open title with a brilliant 17-under par effort. He won again two months later at the USF&G Classic with a near record performance of 26-under par 262.

He earned a spot in the Disney playoff with a 25-under par performance and his brilliant scoring earned him the 1988 Vardon Trophy with a scoring average of 69.46.

"That was my best year," said Beck. "The consistency I desire was represented in the Vardon Trophy."

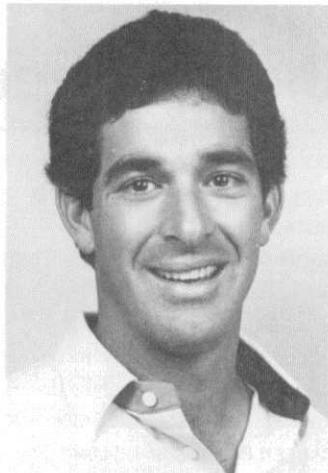

"The first win was great," added Beck. "I feel like my career really started after that tournament."

Though he didn't win in 1989, it was still a successful campaign as he earned $694,087. Along the way he accumulated ten top 10 finishes, including three second place finishes.

Chip well remembers the day he was introduced to golf. He was only 10-years old at the time, and his mother was going to the Highland Golf Club in Fayetteville, NC, to attend a clinic that was to be given by the head professional.

Once he started to hit balls, he was hooked. He played all summer and the golf career of Chip Beck was well under way. By the end of the summer, he won the Pee Wee division at the club.

A journalism major at the University of Georgia, he enjoyed considerable success on the Bulldog golf team before setting his sights on the TOUR. As a senior, he was named the Athlete of the Year, and that's the first time a golfer had ever been honored at Georgia. He won six collegiate events, such as the Southern Intercollegiate three times and the All-America championship hosted by the University of Houston. He also won the Dixie Intercollegiate and was an All-America choice three years, twice being on the first team.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: 1982 Wyoming State Amateur (stroke play); 1983 Wyoming State Amateur (medal play). Winner 1982 Western Junior championship. Winner British Columbia Open. Winner 1987 Canadian Tour Order of Merit. Named 1987 Canadian tour rookie of the year. Winner 1988 Victorian (Australia) Open. Winner of four collegiate events for Northwestern, including co-champion 1986 Big Ten title. 1986 Collegiate All-American.

Jim Benepe lived the dream at the 1988 Beatrice Western Open. He was making his first ever start on the PGA TOUR, thanks to a sponsor's exemption, when the sun set on Sunday evening of that week, he was the champion.

"I'm just overwhelmed," he said. "What a thrill to win the Western Open."

He played four solid rounds on the tough Butler National course. His scores of 71, 68 and 69 for 8-under-par 208 placed him four-strokes behind Peter Jacobsen entering the final afternoon.

He proceeded to play a strong round of 70 for a 10-under-par 278. He dualed Jacobsen through most of the incoming nine and then had to wait by the edge of the green for Peter to finish. All Peter needed was a par to win but, unfortunately he hit his second shot over the green and into the water. He finished with a double bogey and Jim had his victory.

Jim was familiar with the Western and Butler National since he was a standout player at Northwestern University. He had a fondness for the tournament as a former winner of the Western Junior championship and one year was medalist in the Western Amateur.

"It makes all the hours of hard work and sacrifice worth it," he said. "There is no feeling like winning."

"Last year was not a good one for Jim, but he came on strong at the end of the year, making three of the last four cuts."

Benepe began playing the game at the age of seven in Sheridan, WY, when his father started to show him a few of the fundamentals. He progressed steadily and in 1982 he won the Wyoming State Amateur stroke play title and the next year he captured the state's amateur match play crown.

He went on to Northwestern where he obtained a bachelor's degree in psychology. Along the way, he won four collegiate events, was 1986 co-champion in the Big 10 and earned All-American honors.

He was determined to make it all the way to the PGA TOUR. He went to the Qualifying Tournament in the fall of 1986 but didn't make it.

"I knew I needed more experience to prepare myself for the TOUR," he said, so he went overseas and also competed on the Canadian Tour. Success followed him. He won the 1987 British Columbia Open, led the Canadian Tour Order of Merit (money list) and was named the Rookie of the Year. Early last season, he won the Victorian Open in Australia.

Jim is a fine striker of the ball, but he occasionally seeks the help of Dick Harmon. He also worked with the late Claude Harmon, Sr.

Incidentally, during his school days he was an excellent swimmer and he won several Wyoming state titles.

Ronnie Black has had his good moments on the PGA TOUR but he says there was a stretch in the latter half of last year when "I played as well as I ever have in my life."

Ronnie was coming off a hand injury when the season started and he simply did not play well for the first few months. His game started to come around in mid-May and he played very well, indeed, the rest of the year. In fact, he finished with his best money year with two runner-up finishes adding to his bank account.

He tied with Wayne Grady in the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic but lost the title when Grady rolled in the birdie putt on the first extra hole. Later in the year he was second to Bill Britton in the rain-shortened Centel Classic.

A few days before he headed for the Southern Open in Columbus, GA, in the fall of 1983, Ronnie confided: "I know I belong on the TOUR after the year I've had. I'm not satisfied, but I know I've played even better than what the money list shows."

At that point, he had accumulated more than $40,000 and was assured of exempt status for 1984. The finest was yet to come.

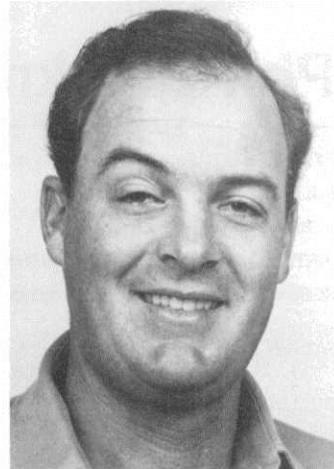

While most people were cheering for Sam Torrance, the flamboyant Scot who stopped off on his way to the Ryder Cup matches, Ronnie came from three-strokes behind to tie Sam at 9-under-par 271. Then, Black gained the victory with a six-foot putt for a birdie on the fourth extra hole.

It was just a warm-up for the 1984 campaign. His biggest day came on the Kingsmill course in the Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic. He trailed Willie Wood by seven strokes entering the last round, but he shot an 8-under-par 63 to edge Wood by a stroke.

Ronnie was nine-years old when he first picked up a golf club. His father was the basketball coach at Lovington (NM) High School, so he grew up in a sports atmosphere. "Dad told me then that I couldn't go to the course until I was able to hit the ball from our front yard, across the road and over a fence on the other side. It was a shot of about 75 yards."

His older brother, James, became the head professional at Pinewood Country Club in Beaumont, TX, and as Ronnie came of age, James took him under his wing. "He recruited me for Lamar University and I worked in his shop for a while," Ronnie said.

Until he went to Lamar, he had never played on a course with bunkers or one of championship caliber, but he always dreamed of someday playing on the PGA TOUR.

Phil Blackmar is a big, easy-going fellow who has a golf game that can border on the awesome when he gets everything in synch.

He has won twice since starting on the TOUR in the Fall of 1984, but has been close to winning on several other occasions as well. He has won well over $100,000 in four of the last five seasons.

Phil admits his rookie season of 1985 was even better than he expected it would be.

He won the Canon Sammy Davis Jr. Greater Hartford Open in a playoff over Dan Pohl and Jodie Mudd as he birdied the first extra hole to earn $108,000. He went on to collect a healthy $198,537 for the year.

"It wasn't really a surprise," he said of the victory, "but I hadn't planned on it; either. I did know that if I got hot, I could win. It was just a question of being lucky and getting hot at the right time."

He could have made the same statement in 1988 after the Provident Classic in Chattanooga, TN. He won the title and $81,000 after a playoff against Payne Stewart. Phil rolled in a birdie putt on the first extra hole to clinch it.

"It made my year," he said. "I was on the verge of playing well for several weeks, even if the results didn't show it."

Phil started in the game as a youngster and he had a teacher with good credentials-his father. Phil's dad won the National Lefthanders title in 1965 and he introduced Phil to the game.

In fact, his dad has caddied for him on occasions. Phil was a three-time All-Southwest Conference selection while at the University of Texas and after graduation in 1979, he enjoyed similar success on the mini-tour circuit.

He performed splendidly at the 1984 Qualifying Tournament at La Quinta, CA, shooting rounds of 69-72-70-66-70-72—419 to finish one shot in back of medalist Paul Azinger.

With his TOUR card firmly in hand, Blackmar headed out on TOUR with a good attitude and a plan of attack.

"I recognize my limitations. I'm not one of the pure strikers out here," he said. "However, when I get hot I'm going to try and run the table."

It took awhile for Jay Don Blake to settle in to life on the PGA TOUR, but once he did, he started to establish himself as a solid player and one who will contend frequently.

Last year, he made a couple of strong bids at victory and he displayed the skills needed to win. In the BellSouth Atlanta Classic, he finished third, just one stroke out of the Scott Simpson-Bob Tway playoff.

The next week he started 68-64 in the Kemper Open and finally tied for eighth. He had a 66 the first day of the U.S. Open. The point is, he continues to get better and better.

"I feel good about 1989" he said. "I practiced hard and gained a lot of confidence."

When Jay Don was a youngster in St. George, Utah, he spent most of his time on the nine-hole course that was adjacent to his family's home. Since his mother, father and four brothers all played the game, it was the natural thing for him to do. By the time Jay Don was 12, he knew that he wanted to play golf for a living. With little formal instruction, he set out to accomplish his goal.

He attended Utah State and for the first two years, was merely content with showing a little improvement. However, his junior year "things started to come together."

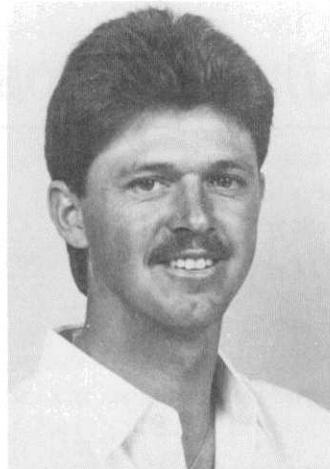

He won the NCAA title his junior year and then carried over the feeling from "my first real big confidence boost" to have an outstanding senior year that saw him named as the 1981 College Player-of-the-Year.

He nearly repeated as the NCAA champion, losing by a single shot to Ron Commans after he held a six-shot lead entering the final round. Despite that disappointment, he was ready to turn pro and earn his spot on TOUR.

He found out it wasn't that easy. After he didn't make it through the Qualifying Tournament on his first attempt, he stepped away from the highly-competitive game for a couple of years.

Gradually, he started to get back into it. After enjoying some success on secondary tours, he tried again in the fall of 1986 and he made it. After a slow start in 1987, his climb up the money list began in earnest in mid-summer and by year's end, he easily finished among the leading 125 money winners.

He did enjoy another taste of victory in 1988 even though it was not on the PGA TOUR as he captured the Utah State Open.

Jim Booros found it difficult to explain why he enjoyed his best year on the PGA TOUR in 1989, winning more than $100,000 for the first time.

He believes one of the main reasons may be because he finally could devote his full time to the game and his life on the TOUR. For many years he tried to play the TOUR and also work as the head professional at the Allentown (PA) Municipal course.

"Early in my career," he said, "if I wasn't playing well, I'd bail out and go back home to the club. I knew I always had that waiting for me."

As a result, he did struggle trying to keep his TOUR card. Only twice before did he enjoy exempt status and that was in 1983 after finishing 89th on the 1982 money list and again in 1984 after finishing 125th in 1983.

He lost his card again after the 1984 season and was not able to regain it until the start of 1988.

Last year, however was a good one. He did win the Deposit Guaranty Golf Classic in Hattiesburg, MS, in a playoff over Mike Donald. While the victory was unofficial, the $36,000 he collected definitely counted. Two weeks later, he finished fifth in the K mart Greater Greensboro Open to earn another $36,500.

At Hattiesburg, the tournament was called after 54 holes due to severe storms, and Jim and Mike were tied. Jim laughed, "Mike is one of the best friends I have, but I was doing a rain dance in the parking lot."

In their playoff, Jim won it with a par on the fourth extra hole.

He said his play at Greensboro was a "carry-over," and he was pleased with his performance. "I hung in there on the weekend to tie for fifth," he said, "and I felt good about being able to do that. It's something I will remember."

Jim enjoyed playing golf around his hometown of Reading, PA, but basketball was his game in those days. He was named to the all-state team in high school and went to Edinboro State College on a basketball scholarship.

However, late in his senior year in high school, he tore a cartilage in his right knee, and he says, "that had a lot to do with my turning to golf."

After one year at Edinboro State, he left school to devote more time to golf. After he won the 1973 Pennsylvania Public Links crown, he played the mini-tours for three years. On his fifth try in the Q-School, he obtained his card at Brownsville, TX, in the Fall of 1976.

One of the hardest workers on the PGA TOUR, Bill Britton finally received his reward in 1989 when he took home his first title at the Centel Classic.

For Bill, it was a reward for perseverance and hard work over the years. Times have not always been kind to the competitive man from New York, but he kept faith in himself and reached new heights last year.

He began his TOUR career in 1980 and showed good progress through the next three years. In fact, he finished 57th on the money list in 1982 with over $75,000. During that season he had his best-ever finish, a playoff loss to Hal Sutton at the Walt Disney World Classic. Bill had played brilliantly with a closing 64 to force the overtime.

From 1983 through 1987 though, Bill struggled and did not even play on TOUR in 1986.

"I wondered," admitted Britton. "When you lose your card as often as I had, you have to wonder. I thought I could play well enough, but if not for my first two years out here I would have packed it in."

In 1988, though, Britton regained his form and had his best year to date. This past year, however, Britton easily surpassed anything he had done before as he not only won his first event, but he contended often enough to finish 34th on the money list with $307,978.

"There's still room for improvement, but I feel like I'm back to my old style of play," said Britton. "I guess I should be a little better after playing out here for nine years."

The smallish Britton (5-7, 140) is one of the game's most dogged competitors and his success last year was enjoyed by many.

Bill began his golfing career when he used to sneak under the fence at a public course near his home in Staten Island, NY. He enjoyed amateur success winning the Metropolitan Amateur in 1974 and 1975 and he also won the Metropolitan Open in 1975.

He won the National Junior College title while at Miami Dade North and then attended the University of Florida where he graduated in 1979. He then joined the TOUR in the spring of 1980.

It all came down to one putt, and Mark Brooks didn't hesitate. He had seen this putt before, he knew the exact line that he was looking for, and he knew that it was just an extended version of a putt that he had made just a few minutes earlier.

However, when the putt rolled into the cup, Brooks had done something for the first time in his life. He had won a PGA TOUR event. Brooks had also put together four spectacular rounds of 66-65-69-69—269, and was now the 1988 Canon Sammy Davis Jr., Greater Hartford Open Champion.

Brooks won this tournament the hard way, in a playoff with seasoned TOUR players Joey Sindelar and Dave Barr. His 269 total assured him of his best finish ever in his TOUR career, but he wanted it all.

After Sindelar knocked his tee shot into the water on the first playoff hole, it came down to Brooks and Barr on the second hole. And Brooks, a Fort Worth, TX native sank his 10-foot birdie effort, a recap of the putt that he had made several minutes earlier, to take home the $126,000 first prize.

"It was the same line as my 3 1/2-foot par putt in regulation. I gave the winning putt just a little more," said Brooks.

However, unlike some of his peers, Mark was still the same quiet reserved person that he had been before winning.

"This will take a few days for it all to sink in," said Brooks. "There are so many things that you don't think about, out on the course, so many things that you shouldn't think about. Things like the playing in the Masters and such. My only goal was make good golf swings; that was the ticket all week."

He nearly won again late in 1988 losing in a playoff to Tom Purtzer at the Gatlin Brothers Southwest Classic. He gained entry into sudden death with a 50-foot eagle on the final hole.

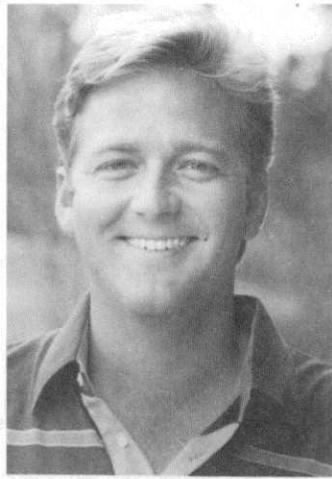

"I exceeded all of my expectations in 1988," said Brooks. "My first goal was to stay away from Qualifying School. Winning was just icing on the cake."

While he struggled at times last season, Mark was still able to go over the $100,000 mark for the second time in his career.

Mark began the game at the age of eight, while visiting his grandparents. His grandfather was an avid golfer, and soon had Mark feeling the same way.

He enjoyed much success at the high school and junior levels, winning several titles. From there he moved on to the University of Texas, where he was a two-time All-America selection.

He obtained his TOUR card four different times, only to have to go back to Qualifying School at the end of the year.

Being a rookie in any sport is tough, but particularly in golf where if you don't play well, you don't get paid and you don't get to play the next year. No one realized this more than Billy Ray Brown when he missed the cut at the 1988 Centel Classic, the last PGA TOUR event of the year.

When he didn't make the cut, Brown had to go home and wonder whether or not he had made enough money to stay in the top 126 on the money list. Before the Centel tournament, Brown was 122nd on the money list, with several people behind him who could pass him in this event. Finishing 126th or better would make life easier for Brown in every respect, due mainly to the fact that he would not have to go back to the TOUR's Qualifying School. By finishing 126th or better, he would retain his playing privileges for another year.

"I was scared to death," said Brown, "I didn't want to go back to the Q-School. And I knew to the penny what everyone had to make in order to pass me. The last eight weeks I was really on edge. I made the cut in six of eight tournaments and missed the cut in the others by one stroke."

"After I missed the cut at Centel, I kept calling the press room to see what was happening," Brown continued.

What happened was that Brown survived. He was passed by Chris Perry, Leonard Thompson and Jim Gallagher, but he was in at the 125th spot on the money list.

He didn't have similar worries this past year as he continued to improve and climbed to 85th on the money list with $162,964 in earnings.

His best finish came in June at the Kemper Open when he finished in a T2 and collected his biggest career paycheck, $67,200.

"I wanted to better myself this year," said Brown of 1989. "I came through better this year when I had the chance, I choked a little in those spots my first year. I'm hoping that will continue in 1990."

It is no great surprise that Brown has done as well as he has, due to his excellent amateur background. As a freshman at the University of Houston in 1982, he won the NCAA Championship. He finished his four years at Houston as a four-time All-America selection.

Although winning the NCAA Championship was a wonderful accomplishment for Brown, it also raised expectations for him. His next three years at Houston were good, but never quite what he wanted them to be.

While at Houston, Billy Ray was teammates with Steve Elkington, Billy Tuten and David Tentis. During that time, the Cougars won three NCAA team championships, and all three were members of the PGA TOUR.

Brown was raised in a very athletic household. His dad was a center for the Oakland Raiders of the National Football League, and his brother played tackle for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Brad Bryant should receive an award for perseverance. His career was starting to blossom in the early 1980's when he was struck down by injuries and serious illnesses within his close-knit family.

It is a testimony to his strong character that he has been able to wade his way through it all without complaint and finally put together the good year that he did last season.

A tie for fifth place in the Las Vegas Invitational—thanks to a final round 64—was his best finish, but he used the consistency he displayed early in his career as the key for his success.

How good was he? In 1982, he came within a whisker of winning Tournament Players Championship as he tied for second place and later in the year was second in the Quad Cities Open. The following year, he again was runner-up in the Byron Nelson Classic.

In 1984, however, he not only tore up his left shoulder, but his father and wife, Sue, were stricken with serious illnesses. He tried to play with the shoulder, but played hurt.

Finally in December of 1985—after the injury had been properly diagnosed—he underwent an operation. The recovery period was long and slow but the good signs started to re-appear in 1988 and then blossomed again last year.

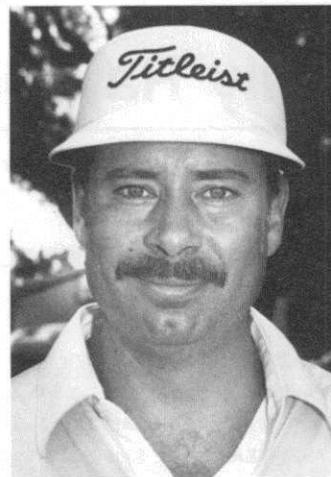

"It was the first time I had been able to play healthy since 1983," he says matter-of-factly. No question, without the injury, his life on TOUR would have changed dramatically through the middle 1980's.

Brad started in the game at age 10, going to the course with his father in Rosebud, TX. At age 15, he started to work hard on his game and says "you can't believe how many golf balls I hit when I was 15-and-16-years old."

The effort made him the terror of New Mexico junior golf and he went on to the University of New Mexico.

He obtained his TOUR card in the Fall of 1978 and progressed steadily. In the 1982 Tournament Players Championship, he was tied for the lead after three rounds with Bruce Lietzke. Jerry Pate, the eventual winner, was three strokes behind.

When he birdied the 14th the last day, he still was tied, now with Lietzke and Pate. However, he three-putted the 15th and, even though he birdied the 16th, Pate birdied the 17th and 18th to win it. Brad tied with Scott Simpson for second place.

One of the promising young players in the game, Clark Burroughs, broke through into the top 125 last year for the first time and the future looks very bright for the Waterloo, IA, native.

A former NCAA champ while at Ohio State, Burroughs, like so many good collegiate players before him, failed to get his TOUR card in his first try. In fact, he never hit a shot at his first Qualifying Tournament missing his tee time and suffering a DQ.

He did succeed in the Fall of 1987, however, but his rookie year was less than he had hoped for as he finished 165th on the money list with only $33,670.

"I didn't know what to do out here," said Burroughs of his first year. "I didn't know where to stay, where to eat, anything. I also didn't have the luxury of choosing where to play. The travel was a real tough adjustment to make."

His showing necessitated a return to the Q-School where he again earned his TOUR card. The 1989 season began slowly, though, highlighted by the birth of a son (Conner) in March.

In late June, though, Burroughs found himself in the lead at the prestigious Canadian Open after posting scores of 69-66-64 through the first three rounds. He remained in contention all the way to the final hole before settling for a T2. He collected $67,200 for his biggest payday ever, but more importantly, he gained confidence.

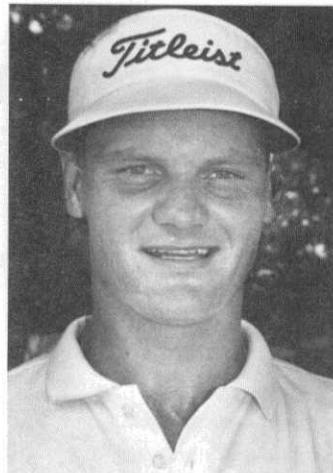

"I kind of grew up that week," he recalled. "I found out what it was like to feel the heat and start the day with butterflies. I learned a great deal from the experience."

He had two more excellent outings later in the year finishing in a T7 at Hartford and teaming with Lance Ten Broeck in a T5 at the Chrysler Team Championship.

All in all, he made the cut in 11 of 26 outings and finished 110th on the money list with $124,715.

Burroughs got his start in golf at age five playing on Tuesday nights with his father. "I'd play a couple of holes and get tired and quit, but I got my start playing like that," he remembered.

With a full exemption in hand, Burroughs can plan his schedule accordingly in 1990 and this talented young player with the lightning fast swing may be a threat to accomplish even greater things this year.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Named All-American in 1980. Winner, 1979 Pacific Coast Amateur. Winner, South Dakota State Juniors, four times and South Dakota State Amateur five times. Winner 1986 Showdown Classic on Senior PGA TOUR with Bobby Nichols.

It is easy to understand why Curt Byrum has a special fondness for the Hardee's Golf Classic and the Oakwood Country Club in Coal Valley, IL.

First of all, he claimed the 1989 Hardee's title as his first on the PGA TOUR. A final round 4-under-par 66 for a total of 12-under-par 268 was all he needed to earn the winner's check of $126,000.

On a historical note, his younger brother, Tom, won the Kemper Open seven weeks earlier so they became the first brothers to win in the same year since Dave and Mike Hill did it in 1972.

As Curt said with a laugh afterwards, "I started to feel the pressure when Tom won because I'm the oldest and I've always been one up." Then he added, "It's nice to have the first one out of the way. I feel I'm over the hump and I hope to go on from here."

There is another good reason why the Hardee's and Oakwood are special. He had lost his TOUR membership after the 1985 season, but the folks at Hardee's gave him a sponsor exemption into the 1986 event. It was his first start of the year.

Curt played marvelously. Rounds of 64 the first and third days put him two-strokes ahead of Mark Wiebe going into the final round. Although Wiebe came on strong to gain the victory, Curt finished second and earned $43,200. It was enough to earn him a special membership and his career has blossomed from there.

A month later he joined with Bobby Nichols in the Showdown Classic at Jeremy Ranch in Utah—a popular Senior TOUR event—and he played brilliantly as they won the title.

He used that confidence to put together an excellent 1987 campaign in which he won $212,450 with a runnerup finish at the prestigious Memorial Tournament at Muirfield Village.

Curt and Tom grew up in Onida, South Dakota. "We used to have a nine-hole course with sand greens there," Curt said. "It's grown over now, but when Tom and I are home, we get out the mowers and cut down a couple of the fairways so we can practice."

He was exceptional as a high school athlete. He was all-state as a quarterback in football and as a guard in basketball. His senior year in 1977, he was named the South Dakota Athlete of the Year.

He was recruited by the University of New Mexico to play golf so that's where he decided to go.

After three years at the university, Curt came under the tutelage of Ken Venturi and they still spend time together although for many years the Byrum brothers have helped each other.

Everyone knew it was only a matter of time before the Byrum brothers broke through and won golf tournaments.

Tom, who is two years younger than Curt, was the first to do it and he was most impressive at the 1989 Kemper Open on the TPC course at Avenel. He won by five strokes after shooting 65-68 for his final two rounds and totalling 16 under-par 268. It was worth $162,000.

Several weeks later, Curt won the Hardee's Golf Classic, so they became the first brothers to win in the same year since Dave and Mike Hill did it in 1972.

Tom said afterwards, "I'm not real excited to be the first in the family to win. My brother has taught me more than anybody and he's been an inspiration to me."

He came close to winning on a few other occasions. he finished second in the Southwest Classic during his rookie season of 1986. He appeared headed for victory in the Pensacola Open late in 1988, leading by four strokes going into the final round, but Andy Magee came on strong to win it.

"My goal each year," he said, "is to become better than the year before." Thus far, he has done just that.

A lot of hard work and patience has paid off for Tom, but he also points to the week of the Hardee's Golf Classic in July of 1986 as one that had a tremendous impact on his life on TOUR.

His older brother, Curt, who had lost his TOUR card at the end of 1985, received a sponsor's exemption and finished second and earned $43,200. That was enough to get his playing privileges back so the Byrum brothers were a team again.

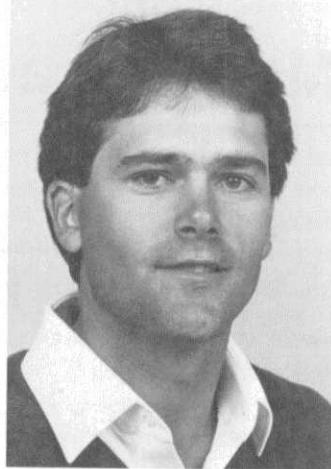

"Curt has helped me with my game more than anyone else," Tom said. "We know each other's swings and we constantly watch each other. A lot of the success I've had happened after he came back on TOUR."

After he was graduated from high school, Tom headed for New Mexico where Curt was going to the University. He took a part-time job at a country club in Albuquerque and became a walk-on for the golf team. He played for two years, one of them with Curt, and then transferred to New Mexico State where he did exceptionally well.

"That was when I decided to see how far I could go in the game," he said. After he was graduated in 1984 with a degree in Sociology, he entered the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1984. He didn't make it. "I simply wasn't ready," he said, matter of factly.

He played in Asia in the Spring of 1985 and the experience was invaluable. He went back to the Q-School in the Fall of 1985 and made it easily, finishing third.

The folks up in Onida, South Dakota—all 850 of them—are mighty proud of the Byrum boys and well they should be.

Mark Calcavecchia has arrived as one of the truly outstanding players in the game today. It took him a few seasons to put all the pieces of his powerful game together and last year, he displayed the results of his years of hard work and dedication.

He won twice on the PGA TOUR—the Phoenix Open by seven strokes with a 65-64 finish—and the Nissan Los Angeles Open.

His biggest week came in mid-July during the British Open Championship at Troon, Scotland. Mark birdied the final hole and his score of 13 under-par 275 tied him with Greg Norman and Wayne Grady.

The Royal and Ancient uses a multi-hole playoff system and this time it was to be decided over four holes. Mark went to the fourth extra-hole tied with Norman, but the Aussie drove into a bunker and more problems followed.

Meanwhile, Mark won it with a drive to the right and then a great 5-iron shot from 190 yards to within seven feet. His birdie that followed was icing on the cake.

Mark's first victory came in the 1986 Southwest Classic in Abilene, TX. It gave him exempt status for the first time and he made the most of it. The next spring he won the Honda Classic, and the following year, he won the Bank of Boston Classic. They were all stepping stones to the big season of 1989.

Oh, yes, another big moment came in early August when his wife, Sheryl, presented him with a daughter, Brittney Jo.

After his family moved from Laurel, Nebraska, to the Palm Beach area in Florida when he was 13-years old, he discovered he could play golf every day of the year. "I couldn't believe it at first," he said, "and the greatest thing was playing golf on Christmas Day afternoon."

He enrolled at the University of Florida and played well, but after three years, he felt "it was time to move on." He turned professional in January of 1981 and six months later, he qualified for his TOUR card. He was barely 21-years old.

All you need to look at is Jim Carter's record during his first three years on the PGA TOUR, and you realize he is one of the brightest young talents in the game.

He finished 134th on the money list his first year, 60th in his second season and last year moved up to 33rd with $319,719. "It was a fun year," he said, "a great year for me; my best ever. I just want to keep getting better and play forever."

He had six top-ten finishes, highlighted by a tie for third in the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am and a fourth in the Hawaiian Open after a 64-66 start. Late in the year, his 11 under-par 61 during the second round of the Centel Classic established a tournament record.

Although he is a little on the quiet side, Jim has made his presence felt at every level of competition. The folks in Arizona know all about Jim Laver Carter.

His high school team won the state interscholastic title in 1979 and he might have won the individual crown except a fellow named Willie Wood from Tucson was too good.

"Willie was too good for everyone," Jim says with a smile. "None of us could beat him."

The big prize in his basket is the NCAA Championship for Arizona State University in 1983 in Fresno, CA. Twice he won the Arizona State Amateur and the Southwest Amateur championships.

There have been many great athletes come out of ASU, but in 1984 Jim was named the university's Athlete-of-the-Year.

Jim started to play the game at age 13. "I just went out with a friend of mine," he said, and that was all he needed to get hooked on the game of golf. "Then I started to go out with my dad and we'd try to play nine holes a lot of evenings."

As time went along, his father started to take him to junior tournaments around the state and his career was launched.

"I used to play all sports," he said. He was on the varsity wrestling team as a sophomore, "but I gave up everything else to play golf."

Whenever he had the opportunity, he would watch the TOUR events on television and always dreamed of being out with the stars of the game.

After he was graduated from ASU in 1984, he tried to obtain his TOUR card in the Fall of 1985 and didn't make it. He went back the next fall and succeeded.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner of two Tournament Players Series events in 1983, Magnolia Classic and Greater Baltimore Open. He won $100,863 in eight events to be the leading money winner. Winner 1975 Kentucky State High School Championship.

It is safe to say Russ Cochran is the finest lefthanded golfer on the PGA TOUR and probably is the best since Bob Charles of New Zealand was winning TOUR events in the 60's and early 70's.

Each year he seems to be contending more often and that pleases him. "I'm happy to be able to play good golf and raise a good family," he said. "Each year I try to figure out a way to improve the level of my game."

He joined the TOUR in 1983 and, although he did not enjoy great success on the regular TOUR, he did win $100,863 and two events on the old Tournament Players Series. That, really launched him on his way to success. He now has had three straight $100,000-plus years.

For the first time in his career he put together back to back top-ten finishes in the 1988 MCI Heritage Classic and the USF&G Classic. Last year, a fourth round 64 propelled him to a tie for fifth in the Las Vegas Invitational and a $43,906 payday.

He definitely has "improved the level" of his game, and he knows there are even better days ahead.

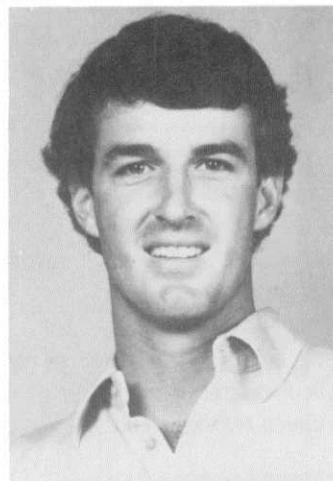

Although he easily retained his exempt status through 1985 and 1986, he wasn't up to par physically and it cut into his effectiveness. He struggled early in 1987, but by the end of April, his game started to come around. At one stretch, he made the cut in 11 straight events.

The highlight of that season was a tie for second in the Federal Express-St. Jude Classic in Memphis. He finished just one stroke behind Curtis Strange and many of his friends from Kentucky were there to see him do it.

Russ started in golf when he was about 10-years-old. He used to go to a neighboring course with his older brother. A couple of years later, when he won a state age-group tournament, he truly was hooked. He played junior golf in the area and then through high school, winning the state scholastic title in 1975. He went to the University of Kentucky and played for three more years.

Oh, yes, he does play lefthanded. "When I was younger, I used ladies' clubs because they were the only lefthanded ones I could find. Several people told me I should switch around and try to play righthanded, but no one made a real effort to change me, so I stayed with it. I do everything lefthanded, anyway."

Including accepting healthy checks on the PGA TOUR.

Everyone loves to see a young man rewarded for hard work, so it has been especially pleasant to see John Cook enjoy some very good years on the PGA TOUR.

Physical problems cut into his effectiveness during several seasons but he never complained. When healthy, he is one of the best.

His right hand has bothered him for several years and, finally on May 26th last year, he underwent an operation to remove tiny pieces of bone that had broken away and to relocate a tendon. His first competition upon returning was in the Isuzu Kapalua International last November.

John never was better than he was during The International at Castle Pines near Denver in August of 1987. He went the distance in the tournament that uses a modified Stableford system for scoring and earned $180,000. It was an eagle three at the 17th hole that put him over the top.

"I'm not much of an eagle person," he said, "and I wasn't thinking eagle at the time." He hit a four iron for his second shot to 12 feet and made the putt. "I turned an average year into a good one," he said.

A week after Jan presented him with Jason, their third child, in January of 1986, John played extremely well in the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic. It was his first start of the year and he tied with his good friend Donnie Hammond. Unfortunately for John, Donnie won the playoff with a birdie on the first extra hole.

In 1983, when he earned $216,868, he won the Canadian Open in a stirring six-hole playoff over Johnny Miller and accumulated seven top ten finishes.

One of his best-ever efforts on TOUR came in the 1981 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, when he was tied with Hale Irwin, Ben Crenshaw, Bobby Clampett and Barney Thompson. John finally won the title on the third extra hole. Due to heavy rains, it was a 54 hole tournament.

John has been successful during all stages of his golfing career. He won the 1974 World Junior title when he outlasted Gary Hallberg. One of his biggest titles came in 1978 when he won the U.S. Amateur Championship. The next year, he lost in the Amateur final to Mark O'Meara.

Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf convinced him he should go to Ohio State, even though his school years were spent in Southern California.

He was an All-American choice three years, and in 1979, he helped the Buckeyes win the NCAA team title. In December of 1983, he was on the U.S. World Cup team with Rex Caldwell and they combined to win the team championship.

NATIONAL TEAMS: U.S.A vs. Japan, 1984; Ryder Cup, 1989.

There are few players in the game with the talent of Fred Couples. He continually displays an ability to rise to the occasion, especially on the more difficult courses.

It was never more clearly demonstrated than in the 1984 Tournament Players Championship on the TPC at Sawgrass where every shot must be precise. Fred took the lead the second day with a brilliant record-tying 8 under-par 64 and he stayed in front the rest of the way. He had to fight off the challenges of the game's finest players to get the victory. Seve Ballesteros and Tom Watson were chasing him after the third round and the final margin was only one stroke over Lee Trevino.

The 1986 season was a forgettable one for Couples, but he returned more determined than ever in 1987. His hard work paid off with his third TOUR triumph at the Byron Nelson Classic where he beat Mark Calcavecchia in a playoff.

Two years ago, he lost the Phoenix Open in a playoff to Sandy Lyle. He was a frequent challenger again last year with nine top-ten finishes. His best was a second place in the Doral Ryder Open and he also finished third in the MCI Heritage Classic and Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic. By year's end, his $653,944 was a career high.

Fred's first victory came the hard way in the Kemper Open on the demanding Congressional Country Club course. He had to defeat Gil Morgan, Scott Simpson, Barry Jaekel and Tze-Chung Chen in a playoff. On the second extra hole, the 211-yard 16th, he hit a splendid 5-iron shot to within two feet of the hole and he made it for his victory. "I felt like crying," he said. "I've never hit a shot that amounted to so much."

He convinced a lot of people at the 1982 PGA Championship at Southern Hills in Tulsa that his future was very bright indeed. Fred shot a closing 4 under-par 66 to gain a tie for third place, but during the first round, he really had eyes popping. He birdied the last six holes for a championship record score of 29.

Couples was introduced to golf by his father, who works for the Seattle Parks & Recreation Department. So all sports were a natural with him. Within a few years, he was competing in junior-golf events in the Seattle area.

NATIONAL TEAMS: Ryder Cup (3), 1981, 1983, 1987; World Cup (2), 1972, 1988 (won individual title in 1988); U.S. vs. Japan, 1983; Kirin Cup, 1988.

Anytime Ben Crenshaw wins a golf tournament, it is one of those wonderful moments in the game. There probably isn't a player who is more loved by his fans and peers.

So, his victory in the 1984 Masters Tournament was extra special. As he thought about what he had accomplished, he said slowly, "It's a sweet, sweet thing. I don't think there ever will be anything sweeter for me."

Ben's 67 gave him the first-round lead over Lee Trevino by one stroke, but he slipped back the next two days. He was four-strokes behind Mark Lye after two days and two-strokes behind Tom Kite after the third.

Through the final round, he shot a 4 under-par 68 and won by two over Tom Watson with an 11 under-par 277. "Ben deserved it," Watson said later.

He followed that great year with a horrible season in 1985 but it wasn't diagnosed until late in the year that he was suffering from a hyperactive thyroid.

Once on the proper medication, he came back strong—vintage Crenshaw. He won twice in 1986 and added victories in 1987 and 1988. Last year, he played extremely well in the NEC World Series of Golf, only to lose in a playoff to David Frost.

He held a one-stroke lead entering the final round of the Masters Tournament, but a 71 dropped him into a tie for third, just a stroke out of the Nick Faldo-Scott Hoch playoff.

All in all, it was another solid campaign for gentle Ben.

If you are looking for a good example of what perseverance can do for you, you need look no further than to Mike Donald.

He has had to work hard in order to move up the ladder on the PGA TOUR—harder than most people—but during the last few years he has been enjoying some of the game's rewards.

Last year he broke into the winners circle, defeating Tim Simpson and Fai Sutton in a playoff at the Anheuser Busch Golf Classic. "I just have to go out and make birdie before Tim does," said Donald after the playoff was suspended until Monday due to darkness. "No matter what happens I'm going to be proud of myself and what I've accomplished."

"I felt calm all day, and shot a 65 to get into the playoff," he added. "I'm going for the win."

And win he did. On the first hole of their suspended playoff, after Sutton had been eliminated the night before, Donald calmly sank an 8-footer for birdie to capture the $153,000 first prize. He had nearly won earlier in the year, losing in a playoff to Jim Booros at the Deposit Guaranty Golf Classic.

Well liked by his peers, Mike was elected in the fall of 1987 to a four-year term as a Player Director on the TOUR's Policy Board.

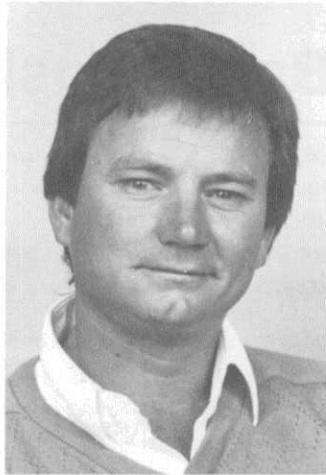

When Mike was in the ninth grade, he gave up baseball to concentrate on golf. It was a good move. He went on to Broward Community College and won the National Junior College championship. It earned him a Chris Schenkel scholarship to Georgia Southern College.

In his first tournament at Georgia Southern, he finished fifth, not bad at all when you consider the players who were 1-2 respectively were Jay Haas of Wake Forest and Chip Beck of Georgia. His parade didn't last long though, because "I had a conflict with the coach and they took my scholarship away."

So Mike headed for home. "I didn't have any money, so I delivered flowers and umpired baseball games for a year." Georgia Southern brought in a new coach the next year and Mike was back in school. Before he returned though, Mike was impressive again as he went to the finals of the 1978 North and South Amateur before losing to Gary Hallberg.

Mike started in the game at age 12. "My parents bought me a set of clubs because they didn't know what else to buy me. I loved to play baseball and I had everything I needed for that sport. They just wanted to get me something different and, even though they didn't play golf, they thought it would be a good sport for me."

In December of 1984, he joined with Vicki Alvarez of the LPGA to win the JC Penney Mixed Team Classic.

Throughout his career, David Edwards has shown an ability to post really low numbers on some of the more difficult golf courses.

Last year for example, he trailed Ian Baker-Finch by nine strokes entering the final round of the Southwestern Bell Colonial. He then went out and shot a 65 on the tough Colonial course to leap into second place.

Two years ago, he finished 65-67 to move into second place in the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic.

His best may have been in the 1984 Los Angeles Open on the great Riviera Country Club course. He shot a magnificent 7 under-par 64 to win by three over Jack Renner.

"Riviera always has been one of my favorite courses, and because of that, the Los Angeles Open always has been my No. 1 choice. So, to win there was something very special to me."

The victory put him in the 1984 Masters Tournament for the first time and the experience was all he expected it to be—and more. A final-round 67 boosted him into a tie for third place.

David enjoys telling people how he got started in the game. "I was about 12-years old," he said, "and I played because my brother Danny (who is five years older) played. That's all there was to it. All I did when I was growing up was tag along. I did whatever he did. He was the one who talked me into getting a set of clubs."

In the fall of 1980, they carried their brother relationship to the ultimate, winning the Walt Disney World National Team Championship.

David has enjoyed his share of success during his career, but he said it hasn't been easy. "At every level, from juniors, through high school, then college and now on the TOUR, I have had to start at the bottom and work my way up. I haven't been any instant success."

He always found that success, though. He won the Oklahoma State Junior title in 1973, and won the National Collegiate championship for Oklahoma State in 1978, and twice was named to the collegiate All-America team.

You know there will never be a dull moment when Dave Eichelberger is around and this friendly fellow is around a lot of the time on the PGA TOUR. He enjoys playing and you can count on him being in at least 30 events a season.

Last year for example he played in 34 tournaments and was in 31 the year before. Once again, he went over the $100,000 in 1989 with fourth place finishes in the K mart Greater Greensboro Open and B.C. Open his best.

He has won four times and the first two victories came in the 1971 and 1977 Greater Milwaukee Opens; and then won the 1980 Bay Hill Classic.

His last victory was in the 1981 Tallahassee Open and it came in a playoff with Bob Murphy and Mark O'Meara. Dave missed a putt of three feet at the final hole that would have given him the victory, but he claimed the title on the first extra hole.

Dave started in the game at age 13 in the junior programs at his family's club in Waco, TX. It wasn't until he went to Oklahoma State University that his game started to blossom. He reached the semi-finals of the 1964 U.S. Amateur Championship at the Canterbury Club in Cleveland and the next year represented Uncle Sam on the Walker Cup and Americas Cup teams.

He came out of the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament in 1967 and steadily worked his way toward a $108,312 season in 1971 that placed him ninth on the money list. The victory in Milwaukee was the highlight.

His game has had its peaks and valleys through the years but few peaks were higher than in March of 1980 when he mastered the cold, biting wind to win the Bay Hill Classic. He was superb.

That same year, he ran away with "Eagle" honors in the statistical program, making 16 of them. It prompted the question, "How many Eichels did Eagleberger have?"

His game started to slide after the $122,352 year in 1980, all the way down to $9,934 in 1984. That was when he started to rebuild his swing. Since then, bit-by-bit, his game has improved.

"It involved a grip change," he said. "It's still not there, but it's getting closer. I worked it out on my own and I feel it really will help me in the long run. It already has helped and should prolong my career."

1990 NABISCO TEAM CHARITY COMPETITION: Independent Insurance Agent Open

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1980 Australia-New Zealand Amateur. Winner, 1981 Australian Amateur. 1981 Doug Sanders Junior World champion. Two-time All-American. Two-time SWC champion. Member of 1984 and 1985 NCAA Championship teams. Runnerup at 1986 Q-School.

He's not exactly like Crocodile Dundee, but he does come from the outback of Australia. Unlike Dundee, however, he didn't spend his youth hunting crocs, he spent them playing golf and that has turned out to be a wise choice for Steve Elkington.

Another in a long line of Australians to enjoy success here on the PGA TOUR, Elkington had a good rookie season in 1987 and then improved on it the last two years to firmly establish himself as a PGA TOUR player.

He grew up idolizing Bruce Devlin and says that he was often compared to him back home although Steve modestly attributes that to "the fact that we were both skinny."

While winning the Doug Sanders Junior World Championship in 1981, Elkington was spotted by University of Houston coach Dave Williams who recruited the no-longer skinny Elkington to play for the Cougars. He had an excellent career at Houston winning All-America honors twice, collecting two individual Southwest Conference titles and he helped lead the Cougars to two NCAA Championships.

It was while attending Houston that he first had thoughts of playing the TOUR, but first he spent a year on the European circuit as a tuneup.

"Playing in Europe was the best thing that ever happened to me," said Elkington. "It really got me ready for the PGA TOUR and I needed the experience because the TOUR is even tougher than I thought it would be."

Despite discovering an early season allergy to grass that obviously made playing golf difficult, Elkington got off to a strong start with two top ten finishes early in 1987 highlighted by a tie for eighth at the Honda Classic. It would prove to be his best finish of the year and it propelled him to exempt status for 1988.

Last year he had three top ten finishes, including a tie for second at the Shearson Lehman Hutton Open. A brilliant final round 62 propelled him into third place at the B.C. Open.

Good things have been expected of Elkington ever since he won the Australian-New Zealand Amateur in 1980 and the Australian Amateur in 1981. He attributes his success to playing a lot as a child.

"I grew up in the Outback and we really didn't have much to do so we spent all of our time playing, caddying, etc." said Elkington. "I've been going at it pretty strong since I was 10 years old."

His reward was the scholarship to Houston, although he admits he almost left and he credits Coach Williams for keeping him here in the U.S.

"I ended up having a great time at the University of Houston, but if it wasn't for Coach Williams I probably wouldn't have stayed at first," recalled Elkington. "I'm glad that I did."

And what about those childhood comparisons to Devlin?

"Bruce Devlin is still my favorite player, I really looked up to him and now he's a neighbor and a friend," smiled Elkington.

He might just turn out to be as good a player as Mr. Devlin as well.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1983 Texas State High School Championship; 1985 Trans-Mississippi Amateur; 1987 LaJen Amateur; 1988 Texas State Amateur; 1988 Bogey Hills Invitational, St. Charles, MO (first event as a pro); 1989 Bob Simonds Ping-Pro-Scratch. Winner of six collegiate events. Winner of 1988 Jack Nicklaus and Fred Haskins awards as college player of year. Named All-American, 1987, 1988.

Bob Estes has every reason to be proud of his first year on the PGA TOUR. Not only did he improve as the season went along, but he also came within a stroke of winning his first tournament.

It was at the B.C. Open in September of 1989 after rounds of 66, 68 and 66, he was leading by one stroke.

"I never lost the lead," he said, "although I was tied with Mike Hulbert a couple of times. And, I didn't make a bogey all day until the first extra hole and it cost me the tournament. I bogeyed No. 1 and Mike birdied it to win, but I was really proud of the way I held up."

The $54,000 he collected was more than enough to elevate him into the top 125 money winners category and thus, exempt status for this year.

For Bob Estes, playing on the PGA TOUR was a goal for many, many years. He was an exceptional basketball player—gaining all-district honors around Abilene, TX his junior and senior years—but "when I was about 12 years old, I knew I wanted to play on the TOUR."

He was only four-years old when his father took him to the golf course for the first time. By the time he was "six or seven" he was playing in junior events around Abilene. "They were on a Par 3 course," he said, "and my Dad helped to run them."

He played basketball and golf through high school; in fact he won the Texas High School Golf Championship in 1983.

He earned a golf scholarship to the University of Texas and enjoyed considerable success as a collegiate. In 1988, he was awarded the Jack Nicklaus and Fred Haskins awards as the college-player-of-the-year.

His close friend and teammate through these years—from eighth grade on—has been Kyle Coody, son of former Masters champion Charles Coody.

In 1988 after leaving Texas, Bob turned professional and played in five TOUR events on sponsor exemptions. He made the cut in four of them. "That gave me some added confidence going into Q-School," he said.

He made it through the School to become eligible for the 1989 campaign. He struggled through the early weeks, surviving the cut in only three of his first 16 starts.

"I developed bad fundamentals," he said. "Among other things, I was gripping the club poorly."

Finally, in July, he took some time off to seek the help of Frank Jonhson, a pro in Abilene, and Mike Adams in Austin.

"My short game was in pretty good shape anyway," he explained, "but after working with Frank and Mike, my ball-striking improved greatly."

As a result, he made the cut in 10 of his last 11 tournaments with a playoff loss at the B.C. Open his best total effort. He also tied for fifth place at the Chattanooga Classic.

NATIONAL TEAMS: Walker Cup, 1983

When Brad Faxon was enjoying a very successful season during his final year at Furman University, he started to think about the game of golf as a career. "It wasn't until then," he said, "that I realized I was good enough to play on the TOUR."

There wasn't any doubt in the minds of those who followed him through his young career that he was good enough. Brad had enjoyed success at all levels of the game.

Three times he won the Rhode Island State Junior championship. Twice he won the Rhode Island State Amateur and on two other occasions, in 1980 and 1981, he won the New England Amateur titles.

He won 11 times during his collegiate days, and in 1983, won three of the finest awards given to college golfers, the Fred Haskins, Golf Magazine and the NCAA Coaches awards as the Player-of-the-Year. He also was named to the U.S. Walker Cup team that year.

During those later years, he had a taste of TOUR competition. He played in three U.S. Opens, and in 1983 at Oakmont, was the low amateur.

At one time, Brad's grandfather owned a golf course on Cape Cod, and that's where his father, a scratch golfer, learned to play. "I was about five-or-six years old when Dad started me," Brad said, "and I played in my first tournament when I was 13."

It was with that sort of background that Brad launched his PGA TOUR career in the Fall of 1983. He entered the Qualifying School and had little trouble making the grade.

Gradually, his game continued to develop and it was solid the week of the 1986 Provident Classic in Chattanooga (opposite U.S. Open). He shot 67-62-69-63—261 for the victory. Even though it wasn't an official victory, the $54,000 was official money.

His consistency level has improved each year as he continues to climb the ladder of success. He earned a career high of $222,076 last year due to "being much more consistent, making more cuts and generally scoring better."

Twice he finished second, in the Shearson Lehman Hutton Open and the Bank of Boston Classic, the latter before many hometown followers.

In the Summer of 1984, he visited with Dr. Bob Rotella, the noted sports psychologist. "I had heard of Dr. Rotella when I was in college," Brad said, "and I've always been interested in sports psychology. He has helped me with the mental aspects of the game."

Ed Fiori has enjoyed a very comfortable living while playing on the PGA TOUR and that includes savoring the tastes of victory on three rather special occasions.

His first victory came in the 1979 Southern Open when he defeated Tom Weiskopf in a playoff. Two years later, he won the Western Open by four strokes. He started the week with a 74 but fought back with rounds of 67, 69 and 67 on the demanding Butler National course.

He was at his finest in the 1982 Bob Hope Classic. He played brilliantly with rounds of 70, 65, 66, 69 and 67 to tie with Tom Kite and then won it in a playoff.

He can't explain what happened in 1984 when he was never a challenger—especially after he enjoyed a good money year in 1983. The only bright spot was a victory and $20,000 in the Jerry Ford Invitational in Vail, CO, a non-TOUR event.

It was another good year for Ed in 1989 with his most profitable week being at the K mart Greater Greensboro Open. He collected $68,000 for a third place finish. He also was ninth in the PGA Championship.

The stocky Fiori started in the game at age seven. "We lived next to a course in Downey, CA and I used to sneak through the strands of barbed wire to play. About twice a week, they would catch me and my pal and chase us off. A neighbor had given me a few clubs to use."

After high school, Ed started to work at odd jobs around southern California, mainly in construction work. He also found enough time to play considerable golf, "wherever I could find a game."

One of those golf excursions took him to a tournament in Guadalajara, Mexico. He birdied the last four holes to get into a playoff with Craig Stadler and Jack Renner. Stadler won the playoff, but a University of Houston alumnus was there and was impressed. He recommended him to the Cougars.

"I had been out of high school for four years, so I went to Wharton Junior College for a semester, sat out a semester and then transferred to Houston."

His second year, the Cougars won the NCAA team title, and Ed was named to the All-American team. "Until then, I had not thought much about joining the PGA TOUR, but that was what all the guys on the team talked about . . . getting on the TOUR."

He dropped out of Houston in the Spring of 1977, played in a few mini-tour events and then headed for the Q-School.

Raymond Floyd surely will be remembered as one of the most remarkable players in the history of the PGA TOUR.

Toward the end of the 1970s, there were indications that maybe, just maybe, he was nearing the end of his career. Instead, he came back with years that made him the envy of the TOUR. He won well over $350,000 in 1981 and 1982 and a total of six tournaments.

In 1987 he continued to amaze as he came from behind on Sunday at Shinnecock Hills with a dazzling 66 to become the oldest U.S. Open champion in history. He later captured the Walt Disney World/Oldsobile Classic title while earning well over $300,000 for the fourth time in his brilliant career.

"The U.S. Open had always been one of my goals," said Floyd. "I don't think my career would have been complete without the Open."

His victory in the 1982 PGA Championship at Southern Hills in Tulsa was also extremely impressive. He started with a 7 under-par 63 and led all the way. He said of the 63, "without a doubt, it was the best round of golf I've ever played, anywhere in my life."

His second and third round totals of 132 and 200 respectively established PGA Championship records.

Raymond played on six Ryder Cup teams and was the Captain of the 1989 team that went to the Belfry in England and managed a tie against the Europeans.

Floyd grew up in Ft. Bragg, NC, the son of an Army man who now is co-owner of the Cypress Lakes Golf Club in Fayetteville. Although he was exposed to golf at an early age, Ray chose to pursue baseball until he won the National Jaycees golf title in 1960.

Dan Forsman is like a man on a mission. He knows what he has to do with his life to be successful and each year he finds new-and-better ways to accomplish his goals.

"I feel like I'm still young and trying to learn," he once said. There's a great deal more wisdom and scoring knowledge that I need to acquire."

His first victory came in rather impressive fashion. He was six-strokes behind Bob Tway after two rounds of the 1985 Lite Quad Cities Open. He shot a splendid 7 under-par 63 the third day to take the lead and then clinched the victory with a closing 67.

In 1986, he struck it rich again in the rain-shortened Hertz Bay Hill Classic. Rounds of 68 and 67 gave him a two-stroke lead after two rounds and then he held off the strong challenges of Ray Floyd and Mike Hulbert in the third (and last) round to win by a stroke. He earned $90,000.

Dan had his best year yet in 1988 with a runnerup finish at the Hardee's representing his best outing, but he's a player who is not satisfied with the ordinary.

Last year was a disappointment. He felt he played too many tournaments in 1988—35—in his quest for the birdie title and it took too much out of him. He did get the crown, though, with 465 for the year.

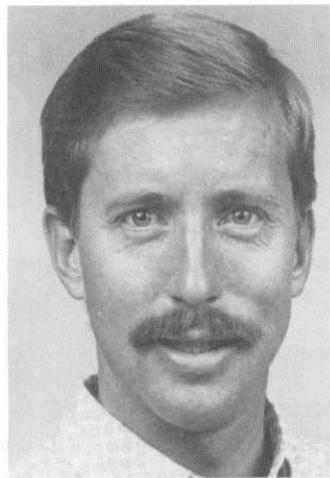

He said, "I need to get away from quantity and go to quality play."

Dan started to play golf at age 13, being introduced to the game by his father, an avid golfer. Although he was born in Wisconsin, the family moved to the San Francisco area "When I was about two."

He played his golf at the Los Altos Country Club and started to play in the Northern California junior program, competing against the likes of Bobby Clampett and Joey Rassett.

Dan qualified for the 1982 U.S. Open at Pebble Beach and it was the first time he had ever competed against the TOUR pros. He was fortunate one day to have a practice round with Seve Ballesteros. At the time, Dan was working as an apprentice at the Camelback Country Club.

After enjoying some success in sectional PGA events, he felt it was time to try the TOUR. He went to the School in the Fall of 1982 and made it.

There appears to be no limit to what David Frost can accomplish in this game and year-after-year he keeps moving forward, reaching new heights.

He was winless through his first three years on the PGA TOUR, but his progress was impressive. He broke through toward the end of 1988 and won twice, in the Southern Open in a playoff over Bob Tway and then in the Northern Telecom Tucson Open.

The same week as the Tucson Open, he won the Merrill Lynch Shoot-Out Finals. He had 11 top-10 finishes in 25 starts.

Last year he was even more consistent than the year before but the big victory came in late August in the NEC World Series of Golf. As an example of his steadiness, he had rounds of 70, 68, 69 and 69 on the par 70 South Course at Firestone Country Club.

His 4 under-par 276 tied him with Ben Crenshaw and then won it all with a par on the second extra hole. With the victory, he earned a 10 year exemption to all PGA TOUR co-sponsored events.

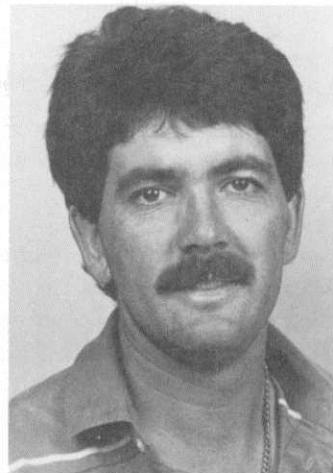

A resident of Dallas, TX, David started on TOUR in 1985. Twice he lost playoffs before gaining his first victory. He lost to Tom Kite in the 1986 Western Open (Nick Price and Fred Couples also were involved) and to Seve Ballesteros in the 1988 Manufacturers Westchester Classic (Greg Norman and Ken Green also were involved).

The 1987 season was an excellent one for Frost as he posted three runnerup finshes at the Hertz Bay Hill Classic, the Canadian Open and the Southern Open en route to earning a whopping $518,072.

David started in the game at age 14. "I would caddy for my Dad," he said. He played in his first South African Amateur when he was 18. Three times he was selected to play on the South African National amateur team.

The trend was being established as he steadily refined his game. He turned professional in 1981. The following year, he ventured to the United States and "I tried to play on the mini-tour, but I didn't do much."

He went back home and, in the 1982-83 season, he finished second in the South African Order of Merit. Then he was off to the European tour and he continued to play well. In 1984, he won the Cannes Open in France as he made a 20-footer to save par at the 17th hole and another 20-footer for a birdie to win at the 18th.

Winner of 1982 Indiana State Amateur. Honorable mention All-American at Tennessee AJGA Jr. All-American in 1979.

This past year was a big one for Jim Gallagher, Jr. Not only did he have easily his best year on TOUR with $265,809 in earnings, the affable Gallagher also got married in the late fall to the former Cissye Meeks, now on the LPGA.

Gallagher fulfilled his promise in 1989 as he contended several times during a hot streak in the summer that saw him finish in the top 20 in seven out of eight events including three top 10 finishes.

"I've finally got to the point where I feel like I belong," said the Indiana resident. "I got myself in position to play well and I did. I proved to myself that I can do it."

A former star at the University of Tennessee, Gallagher comes from a golfing family and there was little doubt that Jim Jr. would be a golfer.

"My dad has been a club professional for 26 years and he started me at age two," remembered Gallagher. "He didn't always have time to teach me, though, so I learned with my Mom."

His father is the professional at Meshingomesia CC in Marion, IN, and that's where Jim played most of his early golf.

"I used to sneak out on the course, but my Dad always caught me every single time."

Like most youngsters, Gallagher played all sports. However, he was cut from his high school basketball team when he was a sophomore and he decided to cast his lot with golf.

"Getting cut was the best thing that ever happened to me," he said.

After attending Tennessee, Gallagher qualified for the PGA TOUR in the fall of 1983 on his first try. His first year, though, was a bit of a disappointment to him as he finished 148th on the money list earning $22,249.

He regained his full exempt status the hard way in 1988. He lost his card at the end of the 1987 season and played only on sponsor exemptions. A tie for second at the Greater Milwaukee Open, though, vaulted him into contention for the top 125 and he played well down the stretch to finish 124th on the money list with $83,766.

Look for Jim Gallagher, Jr. to break into the winner's circle soon.

Buddy Gardner can always look at the 1987 Big "I" Houston Open as the tournament someone "took away" from him. He didn't lose it, Jay Haas simply went out and won it.

Trailing by a stroke going to the final hole, Haas, who was playing ahead of Gardner, holed a putt of 70 feet for a birdie and a 12-under-par 276. A few minutes later, Buddy had to two putt from 80 feet for his par and force a playoff. Jay won it on the first extra hole.

It was a big disappointment to Buddy because it would have been his first triumph after a decade of trying. As consolation, he did use the event as the springboard to his most financially rewarding campaign.

He had another good year in 1988 and he saved the best until near the end of the season. A final-round 65 propelled him into a third-place finish in the Gatlin Brothers Southwest Classic and he earned $27,200. It easily moved him over the $100,000 mark.

He was a little more consistent last season and the result was his third straight $130,000-plus campaign.

Buddy first qualified for the TOUR in the Fall of 1977, but in his first full year of 1978, he won only $5,637 and lost his card. He went back to the Q-School the Fall of that year and earned it back. Starting in 1979, he failed to qualify for the first four events, and then hit paydirt. He tied for second behind Bruce Lietzke in the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open. It set up a very good year, winning $71,468. He also tied for second in the Anheuser Busch Classic in the fall.

An accident late in the fall of 1979 proved costly as he tore the ligaments in his left wrist. It wasn't until 1983 that his career started on the upswing again.

The two most important changes in his life occurred off the course, the first one being in May of 1983. He married Susan, a nurse from Birmingham, AL and that played a role in his comeback. The other was in February of 1987 when Brooke Marie was born.

Buddy started in the game at age five. "We lived about 100 yards from the first tee of the Bonnie Crest Country Club in Montgomery (AL). Everyone in the family played golf, so it was natural for me to play, too."

At one time, Buddy recalls, the juniors competition in that area was pretty tough, "with the likes of Bill Rogers, Mike Reid, Mac McLendon and myself competing against each other."

He won the Alabama State high school golf championship as a senior and went to Auburn University on a scholarship.

NATIONAL TEAMS: Ryder Cup, 1983; World Cup, 1982; U.S. vs. Japan, 1982

Bob Gilder has been playing with his old enthusiasm the last few years and it certainly shows in his record.

Last season a 68-66 start led to a tie for second place behind John Mahaffey in the Federal Express-St. Jude Classic.

He enjoyed three very strong weeks in 1988. A second-round 65 led to a tie for fifth in the Kemper Open; a 66-68 finish gave him a tie for sixth in the PGA Championship; and he was only one stroke out of the third-round lead in the U.S. Open, but finished tied for eighth place.

At the end of the year he won the Isuzu Kapalua International with a 22 under-par 266 score.

Players dream of having years such as he enjoyed in 1982 when he won three times and earned $308,648. He was sixth on the money list and his exceptional play earned him a position on the 1983 Ryder Cup team.

Each time he won in 1982, he put on a marvelous display of scoring. His winning total of 14-under-par 266 in the Byron Nelson Classic was the lowest ever shot in the 16 years the tournament was played at Preston Trail.

His 19-under-par 261 in the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic set a tournament standard and his week was highlighted by a double eagle two on the 509-yard 18th hole the third day. He only needed a driver and three wood. Finally, he won the Bank of Boston Classic.

After the first five weeks of 1983, he was heading for another splendid year. He won the Phoenix Open in a playoff over Rex Caldwell, Johnny Miller and Mark O'Meara.

Bob starred for the Arizona State University golf team—winning the 1973 Western Athletic Conference title—and was a teammate of Howard Twitty and Tom Purtzer. After graduation in 1973, he tried for his TOUR card three times without success. Meanwhile, in 1974, he won the New Zealand Open in a playoff over Jack Newton and Bob Charles.

In the Fall of 1975, he did earn his playing privileges.

In his first start of 1976, he missed the cut in the Tucson Open. The next week at the Phoenix Country Club, he overtook Roger Maltbie the final afternoon to win by two strokes.

Bill Glasson believes he has moved to a new plateau on the PGA TOUR and after his solid performance through 1989 surely he has.

1988 was a big year for Bill winning the B.C. Open after taking a three-stroke lead over Joey Sindelar into the final round at the En-Joie Golf Club and holding it. He shot all four rounds in the 60s with the third-day 6-under-par 65 the key.

A month earlier, he had three straight top 10 finishes, climaxed by a 68-67 finish in the Canadian Open and a tie for second place. Finally, he finished the season with a two stroke victory in the Centel Classic.

It was a big year in another way. Maxwell Alexander was born five days after his B.C. victory to Bill and his wife Courtney.

1989 was another successful year for Bill. In February he captured the Doral Ryder Open by one stroke over Fred Couples on the way to his best season on the TOUR with $474,511 in earnings.

Bill's first year on TOUR was in 1984 but, even though he won the Driving Distance statistical category, he lost his player's card at the end of the year. He returned to the Qualifying Tournament at the end of the year and regained it. He made the most of his new opportunity.

He finished eighth in the 1985 Andy Williams Open to earn $11,200 and two stops later he took home another big check, this one for $18,250 after his tie for fifth at the Hertz Bay Hill Classic. In his next stop, he collected another $18,050 at the Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational.

Feeling instilled with confidence, and with his card all but assured for 1986, Glasson travelled to the long and difficult Congressional Country Club for the Kemper Open.

After three rounds, Glasson stood at four-under-par 212, six-shots back of Larry Mize.

However, Glasson caught fire on Sunday while Mize struggled and when Glasson reached the par-four 18th hole, he needed a 50-foot putt to claim the lead. His long putt ran true and dropped in the hole for a stunning birdie that held up as the final groups finished behind him.

His long putt was one of the most exciting moments on the PGA TOUR in 1985 and the victory was worth $90,000.

Pained by bad knees that have faced surgery three times, the victory had a second benefit beyond the money. It allowed Bill to pick his spots the rest of the season and to rest his knees whenever necessary, something he has continued to do.

As a result, has become a consistent money winner and challenger. In 1987, he tied for second in the Provident and Centel Classics and was seventh in the Tournament Players Championship after playing solidly the first three days.

It was a wonderful year for Wayne Grady but the personable Australian came ever so close to having an exceptional campaign.

He won for the first time with an impressive performance in the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic as he defeated Ronnie Black in a playoff. A month later he lost the British Open Championship at Royal Troon in Scotland in a playoff to Mark Calcavecchia. Greg Norman also was involved.

Despite the setback, Wayne looked at 1989 as a season full of positives confirming his belief that he truly is a winner.

At Westchester, he birdied the final hole to tie Black and then proceeded to birdie the first extra hole to win it. In the Open Championship, he led by two strokes after two rounds and by one over Tom Watson after three, but Calcavecchia and Norman put on their patented charges to catch him at the wire.

Three times last year he was honored to represent Australia in team events—in the Asahi Glass Four Tours World Championships of Golf in Japan, in the Dunhill Cup matches in Scotland and in the World Cup in Spain.

As a youngster, Wayne wanted to be a pilot in the Australian Air Force. He didn't start to play golf until he was 14 years of age and then turned professional two years later. He worked in pro shops, but realized it was not the life he wanted, at least not at that time.

He applied to get his amateur status back and was able to do so later in the year. He played a lot of amateur golf around Queensland and then turned professional again in 1978 when he was 21-years old.

Later in 1978, he did win the West Lakes Classic in Australia and collected $12,000. "I thought this was an easy way to make a living," he says, "and I got lazy." Along about 1983, he realized it was time to buckle down and go to work on his game. It was the start of his success story.

He played for a short while in Europe in 1983 and showed a little profit. The next year, his earnings leaped, thanks to the victory in the German Open. The week prior to his triumph, he was second in the Benson & Hedges International after Sam Torrance birdied the last hole to beat him.

Wayne made a few appearances on the PGA TOUR in 1984. "I didn't feel all that comfortable, but I was determined to give it a try in the Qualifying School." He finished in sixth place at La Quinta, CA in 1984.

There have been many highlights in the spectacular career of David Graham, too many to mention, but everyone knows his victories in the 1979 PGA Championship and the 1981 United States Open Championship would be enough to last many a man a lifetime.

David, the proud man that he is, will treasure those moments forever.

He won well over $100,000 in six straight seasons, with the high mark being reached in 1983. He collected the tidy sum of $244,924. One of the highlights of that year was a victory in the Houston Coca-Cola Open when he came from five strokes behind the last afternoon.

David has established a remarkable record for a fellow who started in the game with a pick-up set of left-handed clubs.

At the Merion Golf Club in the 1981 U.S. Open Championship, he trailed George Burns by three strokes after three rounds. He then played what many have called one of the finest finishing rounds in the history of the tournament. He shot a 3 under-par 67 for a total of 7 under 273, one stroke better than Burns and Bill Rogers.

As Rogers said at the awards ceremony, "David Graham hit 18 greens in regulation and in the last round of the U.S. Open, that is unbelievable."

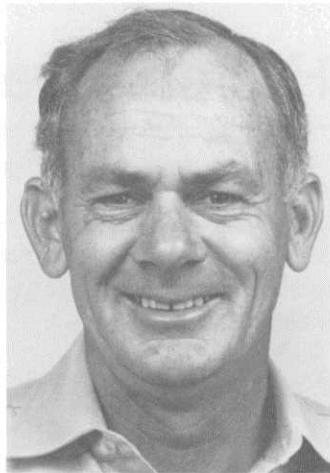

Not many of his eight victories have been easy. His first was in the 1972 Cleveland Open and he had to defeat his close friend, Bruce Devlin, in a playoff.

When he won the PGA Championship in 1979, he was cruising and then he double bogeyed the 18th hole to let Ben Crenshaw tie him. He won it with a birdie on the third extra hole.

In the Memorial Tournament in 1980, Tom Watson was headed for an apparent victory, but David won it with a 30-foot birdie putt at the 18th.

David was only 14-years old when he found the left handed clubs in his garage in Windsor, Australia. He played with them for two years before making the switch to righthanded. As a 16-year old, he worked in a golf shop in Melbourne and, after a three-year apprenticeship, took a head job at a nine-hole course in Tasmania.

Later in the 1960's, he embarked on the tournament circuit, first through Australia and the Far East. It was a road that has taken him to the very top.

Hubert Green has every reason to be proud of the exceptional record he has compiled during his two decades on the PGA TOUR. His 19 victories place him 22nd on the all-time list and he has the 1977 United States Open and 1985 PGA Championships as his highlights.

He won the Open at Southern Hills in Tulsa. He captured the PGA in a stirring duel with Lee Trevino at Cherry Hills in Denver.

He was two strokes behind Trevino after two rounds, but moved three strokes in front of Lee after the third round. Hubert was able to hold his game together on the treacherous greens and win by two over Trevino.

He nearly made it 20 victories in the Spring of 1986, but Andy Bean caught him on the closing holes in the Doral-Eastern Open and then won with a birdie on the fourth extra hole.

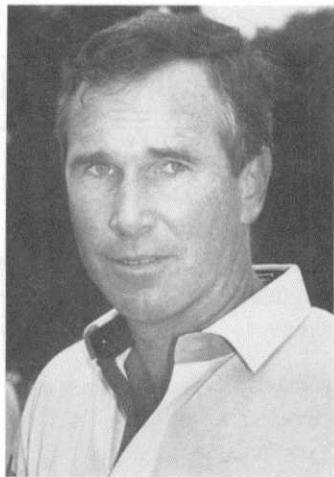

A low point to his exceptionally fine career came during the 1983 season when he suffered with a shoulder problem. Microscopic surgery in the Fall of that year corrected the situation.

Hubert had a stretch of about seven years through the 1970s when he was devastating and certainly one of the outstanding players in the world. During one three-week period in 1976, he won three straight tournaments—Doral-Eastern Open, Greater Jacksonville Open and the Sea Pines Heritage Classic.

In 1977 he won the United States Open in a gutsy performance at Southern Hills in Tulsa. While his swing may have appeared a little unorthodox, it was highly effective.

Hubert started to swing a club at age five, but as he was going through the teen years, he played all sports. "My father was a believer in sports," he says. "He wanted me to play them all, but as I became older, I eliminated one after the other as I realized I wasn't good enough or big enough to play them." As a result, he began to concentrate more on golf.

He turned professional in 1970 and worked for a summer as an assistant pro at Merion Golf Club in Ardmore, PA. He qualified for his TOUR card in the fall of that year.

Ken Green found the easiest way to turn a discouraging year into a brilliant one; win tournaments back-to-back.

He did that in 1988 when he captured the Canadian Open by one stroke with a second-day 65 on the tough Glen Abbey course; and the next week used a third-round 61 for an easy victory in the Greater Milwaukee Open at the Tuckaway Country Club.

The "discouraging" part came in the spring. He three putted the final green in the K mart Greater Greensboro Open to drop back into a tie with Sandy Lyle and then the big Scotsman won it with a birdie on the first extra hole.

A few weeks later in the Manufacturers Hanover-Westchester Classic, he tied with Greg Norman, David Frost and Seve Ballesteros. Seve won the playoff with a birdie.

Late in the year, he had another disappointment. He was tied with Andrew Magee in the Pensacola Open but three putted the final green to finish tied for second.

Nevertheless, it was a great year for Ken Green and his performance elevated him onto a new plateau, one that is reserved for superstars.

Last year Ken won for the fifth time on TOUR, a two-stroke victory over John Huston at the K mart Greater Greensboro Open. Middle rounds of 66 propelled him to the victory.

Ken's first year on the TOUR was in 1982, but he had to return to the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1982 and again in 1984 to keep his playing hopes alive.

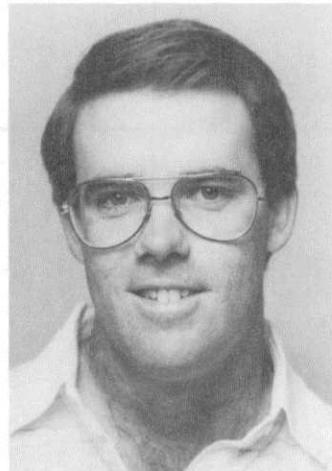

It was in 1985 that he finally broke through, winning the Buick Open by four strokes with a 20-under par 268.

He showed that it was no fluke, though, when he came back in 1986 to win the inaugural International tournament on his way to picking up $317,835 for the year.

It would seem obvious that the modified Stableford scoring system used at The International is good for him because the next year he nearly won again. He finished second and collected $108,000.

Ken started playing golf at age 12 when his family moved to Honduras where his father was the principal at the American School.

"The only choices we had in Honduras were to play soccer or golf," Green recalled. "I didn't want to kick the ball, so I just went to golf."

Jay Haas has been one of the more highly regarded players on the PGA TOUR for several years and one of the most popular among his colleagues.

Jay quietly goes about his business, wins a few tournaments, challenges numerous times and collects a healthy amount of money.

Four years ago, for example, he had a hot stretch in the spring when he recorded four straight top 10 finishes including a tie for seventh in the Tournament Players Championship and a tie for sixth at the Masters Tournament.

In 1987, he was hot in the same stretch, but climaxed it with a playoff victory over Buddy Gardner in the Big "I" Houston Open. Jay holed a putt of 70 feet on the final hole to tie Buddy and then won it with a par on the first extra hole.

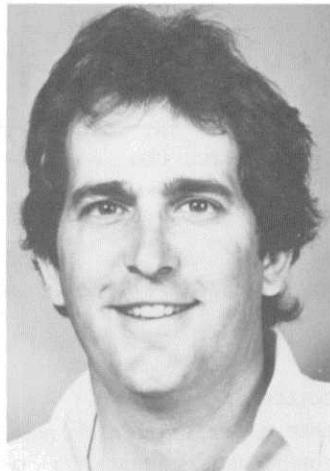

1989 was another successful campaign for Jay as he recorded five top 10 finishes, among them ties for second in the MONY Tournament of Champions and the Southern Open.

Jay had big seasons in 1981 and 1982. He won twice each year, and it was his performance late in 1982 and early 1983 that earned him a position on the U.S. Ryder Cup team.

With former Masters champion Bob Goalby as his uncle, it was a forgone conclusion that Jay would become a professional golfer. Bob started him early and has helped him through every stage of his career.

"I was about five years old when I started to swing a golf club," Jay recalls. With a wide grin, he went on, "Bob had a club that was broken in half, so it actually was about half my size. He put a grip on it, and that was the start. It wasn't long before he put several more clubs together."

Under the tutelage of Goalby, Jay went on to win the Illinois state high school championship in 1972 and then headed for Wake Forest University. His junior year was the big one. "I had one stretch when I played some of the best golf of my life," he said. It started with him winning three of his Walker Cup matches, then advancing to the fifth round of the British Amateur, the third week he was the low amateur in the U.S. Open at Medinah; and finally, he won the NCAA championship at Ohio State University.

Winner 1986 Chrysler Team Championship (with Scott Hoch). Winner of 1988 Jerry Ford Invitational.

Gary Hallberg is a fellow with a lot of talent and he believes he is reaching the point in his career where great days are ahead. He decided to play more aggressively last year and the results were evident, although he says he played even better than it may appear.

He didn't play with much enthusiasm in 1988 after enjoying a banner year in 1987 when he won for the second time in his career—the Greater Milwaukee Open. He won by two strokes with a 19 under-par 269 at the Tuckaway Country Club.

The one shot that clinched it came on Monday after the final round was interrupted on Sunday by the weather. He was in the rough short of the green at the par three 17th hole, but he chipped in from 50 feet for a birdie. It gave him all the daylight he needed.

Gary's first TOUR victory was in the 1983 Isuzu-Andy Williams San Diego Open. He nearly won it again in 1984 but Gary Koch shot a splendid final-round 65 at the Torrey Pines Golf Club to tie him and then won the playoff with a birdie on the second extra hole.

He trailed Tom Kite by four strokes entering the last round in 1983 and proceeded to shoot a 6 under-par 66 to edge Kite by one. He had an eight-foot birdie putt at the final hole and he made it. "My heart was pumping like it's never pumped before," he said.

Gary was an impressive winner all through his amateur career and instant stardom was expected once he joined the PGA TOUR. He became the first player ever to earn his TOUR card by winning the minimum $8,000 needed at the time to obtain playing privileges without going through the Qualifying School. In 11 tournaments, he won $64,244. He finished the year with six top 10 finishes.

Gary started in the game at age nine when his father brought home a set of old clubs. Once he started to play, he loved the game and worked diligently at it. So much so, in fact, that his Dad finally had to tell him to ease up and not be so serious. He eventually earned a scholarship to Wake Forest, and he went on to become the first four-time, first-team All-America choice. He was the NCAA champion in 1979 and won a total of 14 college tournaments.

During his early teen years, he also played hockey, and it wasn't until he went to Wake Forest that he started to think about being a professional golfer.

Jim Hallet will never forget his first visit to the Augusta National Golf Club for the Masters Tournament in 1983.

He was a 23-year old amateur and qualified by reaching the semi-finals of the 1982 United States Amateur Championship.

The first day, this extremely-personable young man shot a 4-under-par 68—the same as Arnold Palmer and Seve Ballesteros. The next day, he found himself paired with Arnold and Seve.

"That was the biggest thrill I've ever had," he said. "Actually, I believe I was leading through 27 holes."

Eventually, Jim shot a 1-over-par 73 for a 141 total, while Seve had a 70 that day and Arnold a 74. Seve went on to win while Jim finally finished tied for 40th place.

It was exciting, but this fellow tends to create excitement. And, he knows how to win.

Jim is another in a long line of golfers in the Hallet family. His grandfather was a head professional and his father worked for a while as an assistant to Tom Nieporte at Siwanoy Country Club in Westchester County.

Nevertheless, Jim used to dream of being a hockey player. He was, and a good one, too, until his Alma Mater, Bryant College, dropped the sport. "That's when I turned to golf on a more fulltime basis," he says, "but I played just about every sport because I've always been competitive."

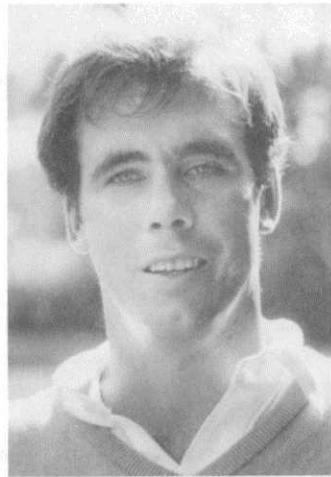

His first taste of success was at age 14 when he won the Northeast Junior Classic on Paul Harney's course in Massachusetts. A few years later, he lost the major Northeast Amateur Classic in a playoff to Chris Perry.

Before earning his TOUR card in the fall of 1987, however, he did win such Open titles as Rhode Island, Massachusetts and British Columbia. Playing around the world to gain needed experience, he even finished as the leader in the 1987 Asian Order of Merit.

He turned professional in 1984 and it wasn't until his fourth attempt at the Qualifying Tournament that he made it through. That was in the fall of 1987 and he finished second, just one stroke behind John Huston.

Before he started his first full season on TOUR—he had played in a number of events prior to 1988 on Sponsor's exemptions—he was married and, with Holly, went to the Bahamas Classic Pro-Am on their honeymoon in early January.

Jim saved some of his best golf for the latter part of the season a year ago as he tied for 11th in the Buick Open and the next week tied for sixth in the Federal Express-St. Jude Classic. He closed the official year with a tie for 10th in the Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1982 Florida State Open. Medalist in 1982 PGA TOUR Qualifying School, winning by 14 strokes. Set then course record of 65 at Tournament Players Club in Q-School. Winner 1979 Sun Belt Conference title.

Donnie Hammond has a reason to be proud of his progress on the PGA TOUR. His first victory came in the 1986 Bob Hope Chrysler Classic when a final round of 66 let him tie with John Cook and then he won the playoff with a birdie on the first extra hole.

He climbed several notches this past year as his late-season burst produced his second TOUR win at the Texas Open. His four-day total of 258 (22 under-par) was the second lowest in TOUR history as his 65-64-65-64 missed Mike Souchak's TOUR record by a single shot.

He followed that up by finishing second by a single shot to Tim Simpson in his next start at the Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic. That late season effort bolted him from 92nd on the money list all the way to 20th at season's end with $458,471.

"It was a pretty good year, but a great finish," Hammond noted. "I started out well, slumped in the middle and played great at the end so I'm really excited about 1990."

When Donnie made his bid to join the PGA TOUR, he established a record that may stand forever. He was the medalist in the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1982 by an incredible 14 strokes.

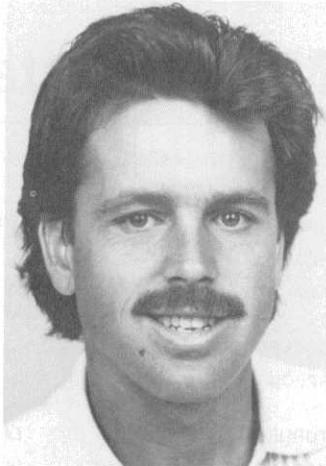

Ben Crenshaw won by 12 strokes in the Fall of 1973 and most people thought no one would ever come close to that mark.

Donnie played his six rounds in 13-under-par 419. He opened with rounds of 66 and 68, followed with a 71, and then stunned everyone with a then record 7-under par 65 on the demanding Tournament Players Club course in Ponte Vedra, FL.

One of the keys, he said, came the first day. He started at No. 10 at the TPC and "When I walked to the 18th green (his ninth hole), I looked up and there was my Dad in the stands. I was three under at the time and I stayed pumped up all week."

His home was in Frederick, MD, and the old Baltimore Colts of the NFL had their pre-season training camp not too far away at Westminster College. "I would go with Dad to watch them, and then we'd play a nine-hole course there. I only had four-or-five irons, but I seemed to pick it up quickly. When he saw that, he bought me a set. I was 13 at the time."

Donnie played at Frederick High School and then went to Jacksonville University. In three years, he won five college events, including the Sun Belt Conference title in 1979 by six strokes.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: 1972 NAIA All-American. Captained 1972 U.S. International University team that won NAIA championship. Winner, 1968 Mexico National Junior championship. Led TOUR in putting category in 1983.

Morris Hatalsky has won three times on the PGA TOUR but the last may have been the most satisfying. It was in the 1988 Kemper Open in a playoff over Tom Kite and it came after a five year winless stretch.

"It definitely was one of the highlights of my career," he said. "It was very satisfying."

His par on the second extra hole was good enough to collect the biggest check of his career, $144,000.

Morris knows the meaning of hard work, patience and faith. He will tell you, "to be successful, you have to be willing to pay the price to get better."

In July of 1983, he won the Greater Milwaukee Open in a playoff over George Cadle. The next week, he lost a playoff to Danny Edwards in the Miller High Life QCO and then tied for eighth in the Anheuser-Busch Classic. He went on to his first $100,000-plus year.

The first time he reaped the rewards of his dedication was in the Fall of 1982 when he won the Hall of Fame Classic on the famed No. 2 course at Pinehurst, winning by two strokes over Jerry Pate and D.A. Weibring.

He nearly returned to the winner's circle again in 1987, but close friend Larry Nelson edged him out at the Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic. Still, it was a good year.

A few years ago, he started to spend considerable time working on the mechanics of his swing. As a result, his ability to score improved.

"It was something I had to do," he explains. "I've not only learned a lot about the golf swing but about myself as well. I know the work will pay off for many years."

Morris started in golf at age 10 after his brother gave him a set of clubs. "I fell in love with the game right away," he said. Living in San Diego, it wasn't long until he was competing on the junior level and winning. At age 17, for example, he won the Mexico National Junior title, and in 1969, was the San Diego high school golfer of the year.

After two years at Arizona State University, he transferred to the United States International University and continued to play well. While a freshman at Arizona State, he was a teammate of Howard Twitty, Tom Purtzer and Bob Gilder.

1990 NABISCO TEAM CHARITY COMPETITION: Kemper Open

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Named 1984 All-American. Winner 1977, 1979 Maryland State High School championships; 1988 National PGA Assistants Championship (Foot-Joy).
Named 1986 & 1988 Mid-Atlantic PGA Section Player-of-the-Year.

Webb Heintzelman had every reason to be pleased with his first year on the PGA TOUR. He earned just enough to gain exempt status by collecting more than $100,000.

"I played well toward the end of the year," he said, "and that pleased me. I was becoming more adjusted to life on the TOUR."

If there was a surprise to his first full year, he said it was the friendliness of the players. "I knew most of them were good guys," he said, "but they were even nicer than I imagined. They accepted me as a TOUR player and I found them willing to help me whenever I needed it. The comaraderie is incredible."

"People such as J.C. Snead and Fuzzy Zoeller, veteran players who were good to me," he added.

Webb's best finish was a tie for 10th place in the Bank of Boston Classic but in the fall he had four other finishes of 21st place or better with ties for 14th at the Southern Open and Texas Open.

Twice he had 65s the last day when it helped considerably at the pay window - in the B.C. Open and again at Texas.

Webb came onto the TOUR after several years of working as an assistant professional in the Mid-Atlantic Section of the PGA and earned his Class A card.

Starting at the beginning, however, his brother, Wade, introduced him to the game at age 12. "He taught me and he still is my main teacher," Webb said. Wade, incidentally, is in the golf club repair business in Bethesda, MD.

He played well through the growing-up years, twice winning the Maryland State High School Championships.

He earned a golf scholarship to the University of South Carolina and went on to gain All-America status.

He thought about the TOUR, but found it difficult to obtain a sponsor, so he turned to the club professional side of the game. He was in the business for nearly five years, the last stretch at the Glenn Dale Country Club in Maryland.

He continued to play well. Twice he was named the Mid-Atlantic PGA Section Player-of-the-Year; and he also won Foot-Joy's National Assistant Pro Championship in 1988.

He played in four events in 1988 on sponsor exemptions but one special week came in the Kemper Open, near his home. He was tied with Howard Twitty after the first round with a 66.

The fact that he gradually fell off the pace and finally tied for 39th place was not overly important. It was a stepping stone for him and because of his fast start, he received considerable local and national coverage.

"It opened some doors for me and gave me confidence that I could play out here," he said. Indeed he can.

If there were such a thing as the "comeback-player-of-the-year", Lon Hinkle would have won it hands down for 1989.

The big friendly fellow struggled through a horrible 1988 season, entering 13 events and surviving the cut in none. Last year, healthy again, he came back strong. He won $151,828 with four top ten finishes. His best was a tie for fifth in the Southwestern Bell Colonial with a 66-68 close.

It took a few years for Lon to get his feet firmly established on the PGA TOUR, but when he did, he became a very good player, indeed. He won a little over $40,000 through his first five years, but starting in 1977, he has been able to collect nearly $1.4 million.

He hit a high mark in 1979, winning $247,693 and finishing third on the money list. His earnings dipped in 1982 when he suffered with a shoulder injury. But, he rebounded in 1983 with another $100,000-plus year and did it again in 1985.

Chatting about his early days on TOUR, he says, "my goals were too low. My main goal was to survive. When things would go bad over here, I'd bail out and go overseas to find an easier game."

While his first victory was in the 1978 New Orleans Open, he had his biggest year in 1979, winning the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am in a playoff over Mark Hayes and Andy Bean. He also won the World Series of Golf, outlasting Larry Nelson to the wire.

Lon's father is a Professor in Literature at San Diego State University, and Lon started in the game of golf at age 13, shortly after the family moved from Granville, Ohio, to San Diego. He'd play golf every day.

There are seven Hinkle children and in the early days, it wasn't unusual for all of them to be competing in junior golf tournaments around Southern California.

Lon received a mental boost in 1980 when he finished third to Jack Nicklaus in the United States Open and PGA Championships. Although Jack won both by comfortable margins, Lon learned in those two experiences that he could win the significant championships.

His biggest enjoyment in 1981 came in the National Long Drive contest. He won with a belt of 338 yards, six inches and became the first TOUR player ever to win it. He still moves the tee ball a long way. Last year, he finished eighth in the driving distance statistic.

Lon represents the Eagle Bend Country Club in Big Fork, Montana.

Winner 1986 Chrysler Team Championship with Gary Hallberg.

NATIONAL TEAMS: World Amateur Cup, 1978; Walker Cup, 1979.

Scott Hoch is starting to be recognized as one of the outstanding players in the game; one who can post very low numbers and is capable of winning at any time.

An important victory was earned in April of 1989 when he won the Las Vegas Invitational—and $225,000—in a playoff over Robert Wrenn. He donated $100,000 to the Arnold Palmer Children's Hospital, which is affiliated with the Orlando Regional Medical Center where his son Cameron was successfully treated for a rare bone infection in his right leg.

This marvelous success story came only three weeks after he tied Nick Faldo in the Masters Tournament and promptly missed a putt of 2 1/2 feet on the first extra (No. 10 at Augusta National) that would have given him the victory. On the next hole, Faldo made a long putt for a birdie and the green jacket.

By the end of the year, Scott had accumulated $670,680 to finish 10th on the money list—easily the best of his career.

Scott won the coveted Vardon Trophy for low stroke average in 1986 with a 70.08 mark and nearly won it again the following season.

Scott qualified for the PGA TOUR in the Fall of 1979 but before he had a chance to tee it up in his first start, the 1980 Phoenix Open, he jarred his back and had to withdraw. The pain became so severe he could not even swing a club. It wasn't until the Atlanta Classic in June—the 23rd tournament of the year—that he was able to play 72 holes. He went 15 weeks without even trying to enter.

A few weeks later, in the Quad Cities Open, he shot a course-record 63 the first day and never was headed. He went on to set a tournament record 14-under-par 266 and edged two of his former Wake Forest teammates, Curtis Strange who was second, and Gary Hallberg, who finished third.

At Wake Forest, he was a teammate of Strange and Jay Haas when the Demon Deacons won the 1975 NCAA team title.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Named All-American, 1980. Runner-up in New York State Junior championship, 1973; and in New York State Amateur in 1979. Winner, 1987 Chrysler Team Championship (with Bob Tway).

Mike Hulbert put together his finest season since he joined the TOUR in 1985, but it was an extra special one because he won the B.C. Open in his home territory.

Mike had to go one extra hole to get the triumph in a playoff over Bob Estes, but he pointed out, "It was like being at home. My whole family and a lot of friends were there."

A final-round 64 at the Canadian Open gave him a tie for second place and by season's end, he had accumulated seven top ten finishes and $477,621; easily his best.

Mike's first TOUR victory came in the 1986 Federal Express-St. Jude Classic in Memphis and what made it exciting was the fact that he had to outdue his closest friend Joey Sindelar, all the way to the finish. "I still can't believe it," Mike was saying long after the final putt had dropped. "I don't know when it will hit me."

The Hulbert-Sindelar relationship goes all the way back to their days as kids in Horseheads, NY. "Joey's family lived by the golf course," Mike recalls. "When I first started to go over there, I met Joey and we became friends right away. We'd play every day and we'd play as many holes as we could."

There was no doubt in Mike's mind that Joey was the better player. As they grew older, Joey headed for Ohio State University. Mike, meanwhile, started scouting around for a smaller school with a good program and he finally settled on East Tennessee State.

His skills started to show early in 1986. In his third start, the Shearson Lehman Brothers Andy Williams Open, he tied for third place. He pointed out, "I missed a putt of four feet on the last hole that would have put me in the (Bob Tway-Bernhard Langer) playoff." He won $23,400.

Five weeks later in the final round of the Hertz-Bay Hill Classic, he birdied five of the first six holes and three of the last four to shoot a 64. He tied with Ray Floyd for second place, just one stroke behind Dan Forsman.

His steady play continued but his next strong finish didn't come until the PGA Championship at Inverness. A 69-68 start helped him to tie for seventh place. "That was a big one," Mike said, "because it qualified me for the (1987) Masters."

Two weeks later, he earned his victory at the Colonial Country Club in Memphis with a 68-69 finish for an 8 under-par 280. It was worth $109,064.

While Joey's dad helped him in the early days, Mike has been under the wing of David Leadbetter for the last five years.

Winner of 10 mini-tour events. Medalist in 1987 Qualifying Tournament.

John Huston continues to move up the ladder of success and this quiet young man from Auburn University appears well on his way to a productive TOUR career.

He was the medalist in the Qualifying Tournament in 1987 and responded with a $150,000 season as a rookie. He had a third in the Hawaiian Open and a tie for fourth in the Memorial Tournament.

"The Hawaiian was a big boost," he said, as it set up his entire year.

His good play continued through several weeks of 1989, especially at the K mart Greater Greensboro Open. He finished second to Ken Green and pocketed $108,000.

John's father was a good player in the Orlando area and at the age of seven, it was Dad who first put the clubs in his hands. "I enjoyed the game right away and the more I played the more I wanted to play."

He was about 11 when he started to play in small junior tournaments near his home. In 1978, he helped to lead Dunedin (FL) High School to a second place in the state scholastic championships.

He went on to Alexander City Junior College where he met Gene Sauers and when Gene moved on to Georgia Southern College, John matriculated to Auburn University. They still are the best of friends and have played in the Chrysler Team Championship together.

"I knew from day one that I wanted to play on the TOUR," he said. "I was 13 years old when I saw my first TOUR event. It was the Greater Jacksonville Open at Deerwood Country Club."

After he turned professional in 1983, he tried the TOUR's Qualifying School with little success. It wasn't until 1987—his fifth attempt—that he did make it.

"I just wasn't ready the first couple of years," he admits. "I was ready in the Fall of 1986, though, but I couldn't putt those greens at PGA West in La Quinta (California)."

He added with a laugh, "Everyone told me that the greens broke toward Indio, but I never did figure out where Indio was. They kept moving the town on me."

That's not likely to happen again.

John Inman will tell you he has had the finest teacher in the game. His older brother, Joe. "All I've ever learned about the game has been from Joe," he said shortly after winning the Provident Classic in Chattanooga, TN in 1987. It was his first victory and paved the way to a splendid rookie season. He had rounds of 65, 67, 67 and 66 for a 15-under-par 265 on the par 70 Valleybrook course and walked away with $81,000.

"I felt very comfortable coming down the stretch," he said, "and managed to keep my composure. That helped me to make the 15 footer I needed on the last hole to win."

Interestingly enough, it was in the Chattanooga Classic last year that he had his best finish with 66-68-67-65—266, just one stroke higher than his winning score of 1987. This time he tied for fifth place.

John said he has been playing golf "for as long as I can remember. I've seen pictures when I was 18-months old and I had a golf club in my hand. But, I suppose I was about six-years old when I remember really trying to play for the first time.

"Playing golf is all I've ever wanted to do. Joe is 15 years older than I am, so when I came along, he took care of me.

"I'll never forget all he wanted me to do was chip and putt. He said I could beat a lot of people if I could get the ball up and-down from around the greens consistently."

After John was graduated from high school, he did break from family tradition. He went to the University of North Carolina instead of Wake Forest. "Everyone in the family went to Wake, but when I saw North Carolina, I knew it was the place for me."

During his years there, he won 10 collegiate events including the 1984 NCAA Championship at Bear Creek Golf World in Houston. His 17-under par score broke the previous mark of 15-under set by Ben Crenshaw.

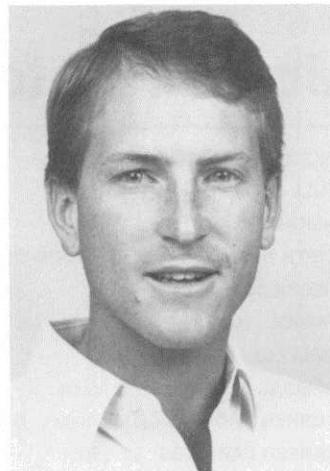

During his final two years, he was a teammate of Davis Love III.

During those days, he knew the TOUR was his destination. He tried the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1985 and did not make it. He missed by a stroke. He played on the TPA tour for a year and then was successful in obtaining his TOUR card in the Fall of 1986.

"I was well prepared for TOUR life," John said. "I saw it a lot as a spectator, watching Joe and everyone else play. I caddied for Joe on a few occasions and I also played in a couple of events before I got my card."

"Joe prepared me well for it. You know about all the travelling, but it was difficult at first."

Now that he has settled in, you can expect John to carry on the fine golfing tradition of the Inman family.

The great players always seem to find a way to win, to keep a good round going, to keep a streak alive. Even during those moments when the situation appears near impossible, they have the skills to execute.

Hale Irwin has been known as one of the brilliant shotmakers in the game and when you mix in the competitive heart he possesses, you have a man who knows no boundaries.

As an example of his consistency, he went from early 1975 through the 1978 schedule—covering 86 tournaments—without missing a 36-hole cut. That's the third best streak in TOUR history.

Many of his victories have been on some of the more difficult tests in the game. His first two were in the Heritage Classic in 1971 and again in 1973 on the demanding Harbour Town Golf Links.

His two greatest triumphs came in the 1974 United States Open at Winged Foot and the 1979 Open at Inverness.

The Butler National, Riviera, Pinehurst No. 2, Muirfield Village and Pebble Beach are true classic courses and Hale has won on them all. In fact, he won twice at Muirfield in the Memorial Tournament in 1983 and 1985.

In 1984, he gained a victory in a rather unusual fashion. In the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, he needed a birdie on the testy 18th at Pebble Beach to tie Jim Nelford, who already had finished his round. Hale's tee shot went far to the left, hit a rock on the Carmel Bay beach and ricocheted back onto the fairway. He made his birdie. On the second extra hole of the playoff, he hit a poor three wood into a bunker, but then struck one of the great two irons of his career to nine feet and he made it for the victory.

While at the University of Colorado, Hale won the 1967 NCAA golf championship. A great athlete, he was a starter at quarterback as a sophomore and then became an All-Big Eight Conference defensive back his last two years.

Many years ago, someone coined the phrase, "Nice things happen to nice people." Whoever said it first, must have had Peter Jacobsen in mind.

Peter is one of the most personable and popular men in the game, and he certainly had a lot of nice things happen to him in 1984. For starters, he won twice, at the Colonial National Invitational and the Sammy Davis, Jr.-Greater Hartford Open.

His victory at the Colonial came in a playoff over Payne Stewart and came just the week after Peter's father had undergone a rather serious operation. When he dropped a birdie putt on the first extra hole, Peter said, "Well, this one's for you, Dad."

Peter's most rewarding year financially was in 1988 but it also was one of his more frustrating. Three times he finished second and in each case, victory was so close.

One was in the Beatrice Western Open when he double bogeyed the last hole to permit Jim Benepe to slip in with the victory. Last year, the Western was his best finish again as he tied Mark McCumber only to lose the title on the first extra hole of their playoff.

Peter battled a ruptured disc in his back in 1987 and admitted, "I'm swinging and playing well only when the back allows."

His first victory was in the 1980 Buick-Goodwrench Open. The next year, he nearly won it again, only to lose in a playoff to Hale Irwin.

Peter started in the game at age 12. His father taught him the fundamentals, and his older brother, David, also helped considerably. "They are about the only teachers I've ever had," he says.

He went to the University of Oregon and won the PAC-8 Conference championship in 1974. He was named to the collegiate All-America team three years. In 1976, he won the Oregon Open and the Northern California Open.

Along with his playing skills, Peter also is in demand for clinics and exhibitions.

Steve Jones won three times a year ago and those who know him well believe those victories are a sign of great things to come.

He was positively brilliant at the start of the season, winning the MONY Tournament of Champions by three strokes over David Frost and Jay Haas and the next week he won the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic in a playoff over Paul Azinger and Sandy Lyle.

After the first two events of the year, he had $315,000 in the bank.

He took the lead the second day at LaCosta and never was headed in the Tournament of Champions. He opened the Bob Hope with a 76, but it was a 9 under-par 63 the fourth day at Eldorado that put him into contention.

After he tied with Azinger and Lyle on the fifth day he won it all on the first extra hole with a 7-iron approach to four feet and he made the birdie putt.

"I can't believe it," he said grinning. "I won one tournament in five years out here and I didn't think I was ready for this year, then boom-boom."

In mid-summer, he made it three with an impressive victory in the Canadian Open, worth another $162,000.

Steve set the stage for a splendid campaign with a victory in the 1988 AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am, beating Bob Tway in a playoff.

Golf was fun in those days, but the Jones boys were into other sports as well. Steve ran track and played golf in high school, but he earned all-state honors for basketball.

He grew up reading golf magazines for tips and instruction. "When I'd see a tip in the magazine, I'd go right out and try it," he said, smiling. "I developed my putting stroke and my chipping style from reading those tips. They all came from the magazines."

Tom Kite's position as one of the outstanding players in the history of the game is secure. Just as important, he truly is one of the finest gentlemen ever to compete on the PGA TOUR.

His career is full of highlights because he is one of the more consistent players in the game but he went well beyond the "highlight" stage in 1989. His performance was like a full-blown Fourth of July fireworks celebration.

He won the Arnold Palmer Award as the leading money winner for the second time in his brilliant career. He won it in 1981 and last year he set a record with $1,395,278. He also became the all-time leading money winner with $5,600,691.

He won three times and they all were very significant events. He won the Nestle Invitational at Bay Hill in a playoff against Davis Love III and the next week he gave a superb performance in winning THE PLAYERS Championship on the TPC at Sawgrass course.

He continued to play well through the year but he climaxed it with a playoff victory over Payne Stewart in the Nabisco Championships at Harbour Town. This victory was worth $625,000—$450,000 for the winner's check and another $175,000 from the season-long bonus.

All of these accomplishments gave him the PGA Player-of-the-Year honors.

A few months after Kenny Knox started to play golf at age nine, he knew this was the game for him. "I never thought about anything else," he says. "My family is in the construction business, but when I was in high school, they wouldn't let me touch a hammer."

It was his dedication that led to his success in high school golf, and then at Florida State University and finally all the way to becoming a winner on the PGA TOUR. He won the 1986 Honda Classic the hard way, by refusing to buckle under the pressure and turning back the challenges of such players as Andy Bean, John Mahaffey, Clarence Rose and Jodie Mudd, to name a few.

He followed with another fine season in 1987 with the highlight being the victory in the Hardee's Golf Classic. He won by a stroke over Gil Morgan with a tournament record 15-under-par 265.

This past year was a bit of a disappointment to Knox, but he did manage to set an all-time PGA TOUR record when he needed only 93 putts for the week at the MCI Heritage Classic. He also tied TOUR records needing only 18 putts for 18 holes and eight for nine holes.

As a sophomore in high school, the team won the Georgia State championship and Kenny finished third in individual play. The next year, the family moved to Tallahassee, FL. When he was graduated, he moved on to Florida State and attained more success.

In those days, his only thought was to play on the PGA TOUR but he found it a difficult goal. He first went to the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1978 and he tried a total of seven times before he succeeded in the Fall of 1981.

He found himself bouncing on and off the TOUR through the next four years. By the end of 1985, he was in 146th position on the money list. He retained a membership, but would be well down the priority list for entry in the 1986 season.

He did not play at all on the West Coast. It didn't appear as if he would get into the Honda Classic either, so he shelled out $100 entry fee and took his chances in the Open qualifier. He shot a 67 and gained the fourth-and-last position.

He surprised a few people by taking the first-day lead on the TPC at Eagle Trace course with a 6-under-par 66. The next day, he birdied the final two holes for a 71 and a 137 total. He led by one over Bean.

The third day, the wind blew extremely hard. On a day when the average score for the field was more than 79 strokes, Kenny shot an 80. It wasn't surprising that his one-over-par 217 was only two strokes out of the lead being shared by Bean and Rose.

The last afternoon, he was amazingly calm under the pressure. While others fired and fell back, Kenny made the critical shots when he had to make them. His 70 for a one-under-par 287 was one better than Bean, Mahaffey, Rose and Mudd.

Gary Koch has been known for years as one of the truly nice guys in the business, well liked by his peers and by tournament sponsors.

Other players know him as a solid, hard-working professional while the sponsors see him as one who will do whatever he can to help make each event a success.

So, when Gary Koch came on strong to win the Panasonic-Las Vegas Invitational in early May of 1988, it was a popular victory.

To Gary, it was an experience beyond words. After four straight good years, everything came apart in 1987 and he fell off the charts, finishing 175th on the money list. He said it was "burnout." He had to rely on sponsor exemptions to get into most tournaments and that's what he received at Las Vegas.

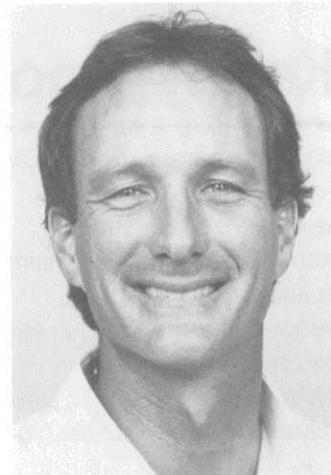

Weather forced the tournament to be played at 72 holes instead of the scheduled 90 holes and Gary shot 68-73-66-67—274 and his 14-under-par score was one better than Peter Jacobsen and Mark O'Meara.

"To know I can still play with the best players in the world," he said, "is a great feeling. The $250,000 is nice, but that feeling of knowing I belong is nice, too."

Gary's best previous year was 1984 when he won twice and on both occasions, he came from six-strokes back to catch the leaders and then he won in playoffs. He defeated Gary Hallberg in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open and George Burns in the Bay Hill Classic. In both situations, he did it with a birdie on the second extra hole.

Gary was a brilliant amateur player. He won such titles as the 1970 U.S. Junior, three Florida State juniors and won the 1969 Florida State Open as a 16-year-old. He won 10 tournaments at the University of Florida and was a runner-up twice in the NCAA Championship.

Twice, he played for Uncle Sam in Walker Cup competition and once on a World Amateur Cup team.

Wayne Levi has a good reason to be proud of his record. He averaged a victory a year through his first eight full years on the TOUR and played in the MONY Tournament of Champions on eight straight occasions.

The string was broken in 1986 mainly, he said, because of his putting. "I hit the ball well enough. I didn't have the consistency on the greens."

He had profitable seasons in 1987 and 1988, but had several chances to win in 1989 and ended up 16th on the money list with a career high of $499,292.

"I really played kind of inconsistent," said Levi of 1989. "I had a lot of good tournaments, but I missed too many cuts. I had four good chances to win though, but my putter let me down."

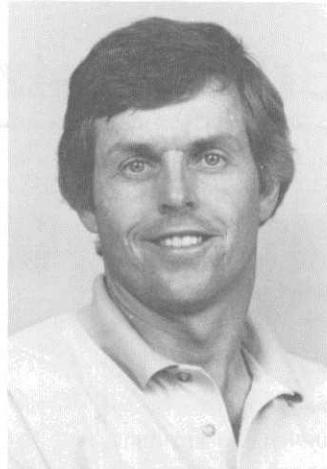

He has been able to succeed on TOUR without devoting 100 percent of his efforts to the game. His family is very important and he spends as much time as possible with them.

As an example, prior to his victory in the 1983 Buick Open, he skipped five of the preceding six events, saying, "I wanted to be home to see Lauren crawl (their second-born) and I want to be there to see her walk. There will be many more tournaments, but you get to see that only once."

On a historical note, when he won the 1982 Hawaiian Open, he did so using Wilson's Optic Orange ball. He thus became the first player to win a TOUR event while using a colored golf ball.

Wayne started to play golf at age 13, mainly because his pals were playing the game. He fell in love with it almost immediately. During his days at Herkimer High School in upper New York State, he never lost a match, and won the 1970 New York State Interscholastic title. During his two years at Oswego State College, he lost only once.

In the summer of 1972, he headed for Florida so that he could devote 12 months of the year to his game. After two years of mini-tour action, he tried for his TOUR card, but didn't make it on his first two attempts. Meanwhile, he played wherever he could find a game throughout Florida and, during the summer months, on the New England circuit. He won numerous events, his first the 1973 New Hampshire Open.

When Bruce Lietzke's game is right—and it usually is—he is one of the finest players in the game. It has been said, and rightly so, that he is capable of winning anywhere at any time under any condition.

So, it wasn't a surprise when he came from four strokes behind during the last round of the Honda Classic in 1984 to tie Andy Bean and then win the tournament on the first extra hole.

It was a surprise, however, that he did not win again until the GTE Byron Nelson Classic in 1988. He had to birdie the first extra hole of his playoff with Clarence Rose to get the victory. It was special, he said since Byron has been one of his idols for many years.

Last season, Lietzke continued his strong play as he earned over $100,000 for the 13th straight year. He also won the Nabisco greens-in-regulation statistical category by hitting the greens nearly 73% of the time. He placed fourth in driving accuracy.

During the week of the 1982 Canadian Open, even though he was playing well, he kept insisting that he didn't expect to win. He held a two-stroke lead going into the final round at Glen Abbey, and told everyone he felt he had a good chance to win, but didn't expect to win. He did, of course, by two strokes over Hal Sutton.

It is hard to believe, but there was a time when Bruce put his golf clubs in the closet and wasn't certain if he wanted to continue with the game. It was in the Spring of 1973, shortly after he left the University of Houston.

"I had played so much through high school and college that I was tired of it," he said. At that time, he said he was through with the game. "Oh, I suppose, in the back of my mind, I knew I would get back to it."

Six-months later, he did, and he turned professional in 1974. He missed by one stroke in his first attempt at qualifying for the PGA TOUR, but he made it in the Spring of 1975.

He played well on TOUR almost from the start, although his first victory did not come until the 1977 Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open when he defeated Gene Littler on the fourth extra hole. A couple of weeks later he won again in the Hawaiian Open.

Bruce started to play golf at age five when brother Duane, then an assistant professional in Wichita, Kansas, gave him a cut-down set of clubs.

Bob Lohr said, "I'm pretty proud, leading wire-to-wire, after never having won before." And well he should have been as he birdied the fifth extra hole of his playoff with Chip Beck to win the 1988 Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic.

Bob played brilliantly all week, to say the least. He opened with a 10-under-par 62 on the Palm course, added a 67 at Lake Buena Vista for a 15-under-par 129 and then a 66 at Magnolia for a 21-under-par 195.

He posted a 4-under-par 68 at Magnolia in the final round with a birdie on the final hole, while Beck had a 66 with a bogey on the 18th. They were tied at a tournament-record total of 25-under-par 263.

They both birdied the first extra hole, parred the next two and birdied the fourth. Then came the deciding hole. Beck three putted from 60 feet, missing his par from eight feet. Bob was over the green in two, chipped five feet beyond and then made a good comeback for the triumph.

Bob is considered one of the better young players in game and last year he displayed his talents in the second half of the season.

After surviving the cut in only six of his first 18 starts, he was successful in going the distance in his last 13. The highlight was a tie for third in the Texas Open Presented by Nabisco.

After he came out of the Qualifying School in the fall of 1984, he didn't set any specific goals, except to finish among the 125 money winners. "I've never been a goal-oriented person," he explained. "Sometimes you can reach a goal and where do you go from there? I just want to continue to improve and learn what I can."

"If you play your own game and put a good score on the board, it doesn't make any difference what the other people do. It sounds simple enough, but it is something you have to learn and adjust to it."

Bob started to play the game at a relatively young age, but he also was an outstanding baseball pitcher as a youngster. He continued to pitch through high school, but when he went to Miami University in Ohio, he had to make a decision, since both sports were played in the spring. It wasn't an easy decision, but he decided to stay with golf.

Is there pressure on the TOUR? He says there is some but adds, "Pressure is when you're on the mound, the bases are loaded, it's the bottom of the ninth and you have a 3-and-0 count on the batter."

Wherever the "pressure" is found, he's managed to handle it well. For more proof, check the results of the 1988 Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic.

Davis Love III said, "I started to play golf as soon as I could walk. As long as I can remember that's all I've wanted to do. When I was nine-or-10 years old, there wasn't any doubt in my mind. I wanted to be a pro."

It was a natural happening. When Davis was just a tot, his father was playing on the TOUR. For many years, until his tragic death late in 1988, Davis Love Jr. was regarded as one of the premier teachers/technicians in the game.

"Whenever I would be doing something with Dad," Davis said of his early days, "it would be playing golf."

Since he had spent all of his life in the golfing environment, he knew the PGA TOUR wouldn't be an easy road to travel. He knew it would take hours of hard work to stay one stroke ahead of the next guy.

"What I didn't realize," he said, "was how much fun it would be. I've met so many nice people, made good friends and done things I never would have been able to do if it wasn't for the TOUR."

It was a good first year for the three-time All-American and former Walker Cup player. He was in position to win on a couple of occasions and it was disappointing not to get the victory, but looking at the season as a whole, it was a good one.

He established himself early as one of the longest hitters in the game and went on to finish first in the Nabisco driving distance stats, averaging 285.7 yards.

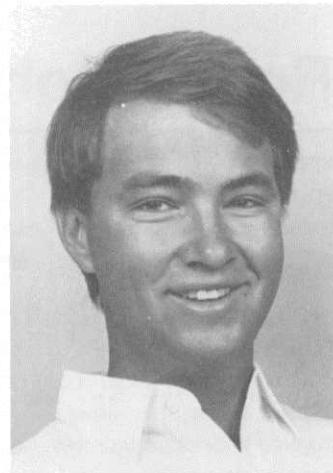

In 1987, Love proved that he's also one of the best players in the game, winning the MCI Heritage Classic on the Harbour Town Golf Links. He was also second at the Colonial NIT and went on to win $297,378.

"Winning at Harbour Town was special because it was so close to home and on a course where you need to hit it straight and putt well," said Love. "The win also got me into all the special events that I always dreamed of playing in."

Davis had another good season in 1989 and he came so very close to gaining his second victory. In the Nestle Invitational, middle rounds of 67-66 gave him a two-stroke lead over Tom Kite. The final afternoon, however, Kite caught him and then won the playoff with a par on the second extra hole. He also finished third in the BellSouth Atlanta Golf Classic.

Love points to a round in the 1986 PLAYERS Championship as a big turning point in his development.

"I was paired with Ben Crenshaw the last day. I had a really good round (67) while playing in front of a lot of people with one of the stars in the game, that day, something told me I belonged."

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1976 Champion of Champions tournament in Australia. Winner 1977 Australian Order of Merit. Winner 1976 Rolex Trophy tournament in Switzerland. Collegiate All-America 1975.

Mark Lye enjoyed the best money year of his career last season and much of it was due to an exceptional run at the end.

He reeled off four straight top ten finishes and collected nearly $125,000 in the process with a fourth in The International, a third in the Greater Milwaukee Open, a ninth in the B.C. Open and a sixth in the Bank of Boston Classic.

Speaking of Bank of Boston, he may never experience another afternoon such as the hot-and-humid one at the Pleasant Valley Country Club in September of 1983.

After seven years of battling on the TOUR, he finally won his first tournament, coming from eight strokes behind the last day with a brilliant 8 under-par 64 to win by one shot over John Mahaffey, Jim Thorpe and Sammy Rachels. He finished birdie, par, birdie, birdie.

He came back with another very good year in 1984, with his performance in the Masters Tournament standing out. He led by two strokes after two rounds and was the center of national media attention. He finally finished tied for sixth.

He had the finest round of his career in the third round of the 1984 Walt Disney World Classic. He shot a course record 11-under-par 61 at the Palm Course.

Although he now resides in Ft. Myers, FL, he grew up on the fairways of the Silverado Country Club in Napa, CA and it was there in the 1979 Kaiser International that he nearly won his first tournament. With the cheers of his hometown friends ringing in his ears, he was tied with Lon Hinkle for the third-round lead, but finally had to settle for something less as several others came on strong at the wire.

As soon as Mark started to play the game, he knew he would be a golfer for the rest of his life. He received his first set of clubs as a nine-year old, and he played every day, all day.

He played all over California, and in 1970, he was the No. 1 junior on the state's point system. As a 12-and-13-year old, he was winning tournaments.

He headed for San Jose State after being graduated from high school, and it was difficult at first, because he still had not started to sprout. As a freshman, he was five-feet-nine, 125 pounds. By the end of the next year, he was close to his present size of six-feet-two, 175 pounds.

After graduating from San Jose State, he set his sights on the TOUR, but first headed for Europe for more experience. He tried the Qualifying School in the Fall of 1975 and missed and again in the spring of 1976 and missed. He was off to Europe, and then Australia after that, and blossomed a winner. In fact, he won the 1976 Australian Order of Merit. In the Fall of 1976, he was back in the Qualifying School, and he made it.

Sandy Lyle has earned his position as one of the great players in British golf history with triumphs in the British Open Championship, the Masters Tournament and THE PLAYERS Championship at the top of an impressive list of victories.

When he won the British Open at Royal St. George's in England in the Summer of 1985, he became the first "home" winner of the Open since Tony Jacklin won at Royal Lytham in 1969 and only the second since Max Faulkner won in 1951.

He was three strokes off the lead going into the final round of the Open but a solid closing day gave him a one-stroke victory over Payne Stewart.

He commented, "Things just hadn't clicked for me. My swing wasn't quite right and the putts weren't dropping. Then, bingo, suddenly I had achieved my life's ambition. The birdie putts I holed at the 14th and 15th holes were the key."

Sandy found more success in the spring of 1987. He won the Tournament Players Championship and, with it, a 10-year exemption to all PGA TOUR co-sponsored events.

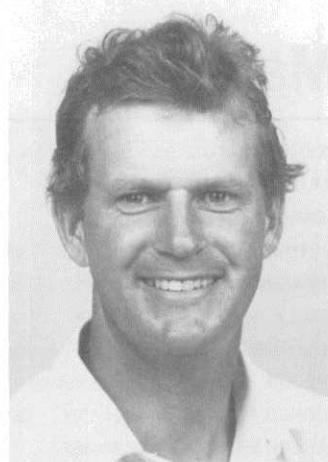

It wasn't easy. He tied with Jeff Sluman and then he had to go to the third extra hole on the TPC at Sawgrass course to win it.

"This tournament," he said, "is one of the majors in my mind right now."

Sandy had a brilliant season on the PGA TOUR in 1988. He won the Phoenix Open in a playoff over Fred Couples, and the K mart Greater Greensboro Open in a playoff over Ken Green.

The next week it was the Masters. He moved in front the second day and stayed there the rest of the way, although he needed one of the great shots in the history of the game to win it. He was in the left fairway bunker on the final hole. Using a seven-iron, he struck it perfectly. The ball landed well beyond the hole and rolled back down the slope to 10 feet. He made the birdie putt for a one-stroke margin over Mark Calcavecchia.

Sandy was born in England but because of his Scottish heritage, he has always played for Scotland in team events. It was logical for him to be attracted to the game at an early age. His father, Alex, was a golf professional for many years, although he is retired now.

Andrew Magee took a huge step forward late in the 1988 season when he came from four strokes behind during the last afternoon to win the Pensacola Open. It was his first triumph on the TOUR.

Even before he went to Pensacola, he was enjoying his most productive year, thanks to such strong finishes as a tie for fourth in the Memorial Tournament.

"I have to give credit to two people," he said. "Jim Flick in Scottsdale has helped me tremendously with my game and Dr. Bob Rotella the sports psychologist from the University of Virginia has helped me with my confidence."

Andrew was more than satisfied with his rookie season of 1985 and one of his more enjoyable weeks came at the Bank of Boston Classic. He started to play the game at age 11 at the urging of his older brother and that same brother caddied for him in Sutton, MA.

He had his share of memorable moments during his first year. One was being paired with Jack Nicklaus in the Doral Ryder Open. "I'll never forget it," he said.

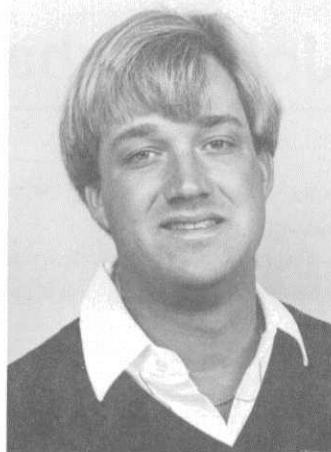

Two weeks later, he was paired with Curtis Strange and Fuzzy Zoeller in the last group the last day and saw Fuzzy gain the victory. He also had a first round 64 in the Byron Nelson Classic and it was special since he grew up in the Dallas area.

Although Andrew's money level dropped off a little last year, he did have three top 10 finishes with a tie for sixth in the Kemper Open his best. He had a 65 the third day.

After getting started in the game by his brother, he progressed gradually until he reached the University of Oklahoma. He had a good spring as a sophomore and then his game took the quantum leap. He became a three-time All-America choice.

"I started to think about the TOUR because I had a few older friends who were going to the Qualifying Schools and making it, fellows such as Willie Wood and Mark Brooks."

"When I first came out," he said, "I worked hard on my game. I still do, but over the years I've learned how and when to practice to be more productive."

It was vintage John Mahaffey at the Federal Express-St. Jude Classic in Memphis last year. John wasn't going anywhere fast after opening rounds of 70 and 71 on the new TPC at Southwind course and then he blitzed everyone with rounds of 66 and 65 to win by three strokes at 12 under-par 272. It was worth $180,000 and was the 10th of his career.

"I made a lot of cuts," he said of his season up until the date in Memphis, "but I wasn't being aggressive enough. I made up my mind on Saturday to play the last two rounds as aggressively as I could and go for every pin I could."

Certainly one of the highlights of his splendid career came in the 1986 Tournament Players Championship. He came on strong during the final round to overtake Larry Mize and win by a stroke on the TPC at Sawgrass course. A 7 under-par 65 the third day, put him in position to make the last-day charge.

He also enjoyed profitable years in 1984 and 1985. He won the Bob Hope Classic in 1984 after defeating Jim Simons in a playoff and he won the Texas Open in 1985 by defeating Jodie Mudd in a playoff.

John joined the PGA TOUR in the Fall of 1971 after a fine amateur career. He won the 1970 NCAA championship for the University of Houston.

His first victory was in the 1973 Sahara Invitational in Las Vegas. Physical problems hit him for the first time at the 1976 PGA Championship at Congressional. He suffered a hyperextended tendon in his left elbow. It gradually became worse toward the end of the year, and it practically was impossible for him to compete early in 1977.

He was completely healthy again by mid-1978, and enjoyed a six-month stretch when he played as well as everyone knew he could. He won the PGA Championship at Oakmont in a playoff over Tom Watson and Jerry Pate. The next week he won the American Optical Classic in Sutton, Mass.

He was named to the World Cup team that played in Hawaii, and he won medalist honors.

1990 NABISCO TEAM CHARITY COMPETITION: Canon Greater Hartford Open

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1972 and 1973 Northern California Amateur, 1974 California State Open, 1980 Magnolia Classic. Member of PGA TOUR Policy Board 1985-1987.

Roger Maltbie has always been his own man, as they say, but he also has been highly respected by his peers.

He has had to overcome adversity but when he has been on his game he has been brilliant, indeed as the five TOUR victories attest.

The key one had to be the NEC World Series of Golf at the Firestone Country Club in 1985 because it provided him with a 10-year exemption. In addition to his on-course performances, he has helped to shape the destiny of the TOUR serving for four years as a Player Director on the Policy Board.

The personable Californian was one of the bright young stars in the game after winning the Quad Cities Open and Pleasant Valley Classic back-to-back during his rookie year of 1975. After the latter triumph, he left his winners check of $40,000 in a restauraunt near the tournament site. The sponsor issued a new one and, at last report, the original still hangs on the wall behind the bar.

The next year, he won the Memorial Tournament at Muirfield Village, defeating Hale Irwin on the fourth extra hole of their playoff.

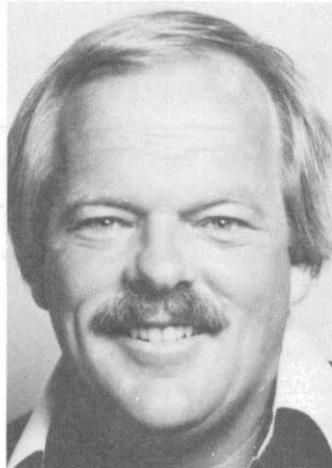

After that, he struggled for several seasons, partly due to injuries, but bounced back in grand style by winning the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic and the NEC World Series of Golf.

He came close twice in 1986, as Fuzzy Zoeller edged him out in the Heritage Classic on Hilton Head Island and he lost a playoff to Mac O'Grady in the Canon Sammy Davis Jr. Greater Hartford Open.

There were several highlights to the 1987 season. He was tied for the lead after three rounds of the Masters Tournament but finished tied for fourth. He was third in the Westchester Classic.

"The real highlight," he said smiling, "was on March 3. That's when Spencer Davis was born."

Roger was a teammate of Forrest Fezler at James Lick High School in San Jose, CA. As a sophomore, Roger beat Forrest, who was then a senior, for the county scholastic title. Maltbie went on to win the Northern California Amateur in 1972 and 1973, and the California State Open in 1974.

1990 NABISCO TEAM CHARITY COMPETITION: Phoenix Open

NATIONAL TEAMS: Walker Cup, 1987.

Billy Mayfair joined the PGA TOUR a year ago with an extremely—impressive list of credentials. He is one of the few people to win both the United States Amateur Championship—in 1987—and the U.S. Public Links crown—1986.

He also won a lot more as an amateur, enough to be named the 1987 collegiate Player-of-the-Year while performing for Arizona State University.

As a result, he was expected to do well once he was on the TOUR and he certainly didn't disappoint. He collected $111,998 and easily made it among the top 125 money winners to earn his exemption.

His best finish was a tie for 12th in the Doral Ryder Open and the way he reached that level tells you something about Billy Mayfair and what he is capable of doing.

"I made a putt of 20 feet for a birdie on the 18th hole on Friday to make the cut," he said, and then he shot 9 under-par 135 the last two days (69-66).

Billy started to play golf at age two. "My father cut down some of his old clubs and I'd hit plastic golf balls in the back yard," he explained.

By the age of five, he was receiving instructions from Arch Watkins, who now is the head teaching professional at Camelback in Scottsdale. He was competing in the Arizona State Juniors two years later. He won the state Pee Wee division at age 8, his first title.

He said with a laugh, "I really liked the big trophies. I kept working on my game so I could try and win some more."

Being from Phoenix, it seemed natural for him to move on to Arizona State where his success continued. After winning the Arizona State Juniors four times, he added seven collegiate titles to his collection.

Playing on the PGA TOUR "always was one of my goals," he said. He entered the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1988 and, of course, he made it. "That probably was the hardest thing I've ever done in golf," he said "going through all three stages."

He had some experience with TOUR events prior to last year, such as playing in the 1988 Masters Tournament, the 1988 U.S. Open, the Phoenix Open twice, the Colonial National Invitational and the Tucson Open once.

He said of the first year, "The TOUR is great, but it isn't as glamorous as some people think. And, there is more travelling than I thought there would be."

As for the competition, he added, "You play with friends and they want to beat you and win just as much as you do. The important thing, though, is they remain your friends."

1990 NABISCO TEAM CHARITY COMPETITION: Southwestern Bell Colonial

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Three-time All-American. Winner, 1986 Texas State Open. Runner-up 1981 Canadian Amateur.

Blaine McCallister became part of TOUR history when he won the 1988 Hardee's Golf Classic at the Oakwood Club in the Quad Cities area.

His middle two rounds of 62-63—125 equaled the all-time lowest score ever posted on the TOUR. Ron Streck set the standard when he won the 1978 Texas Open in San Antonio.

With opening-and-closing rounds of 68, Blaine finished with a 19-under-par 261 and won by three strokes over Dan Forsman.

"Oh what a feeling," the personable Texan said. With a grin, he added, "Maybe I can hang out with some of the big boys now." He came close in the 1986 Bank of Boston Classic but his good friend, Gene Sauers, birdied the third extra hole of their playoff to win it.

He got his vengeance on the Pleasant Valley course this past year when he won the Bank of Boston title. He also collected the Honda Classic crown and had by far his best year with $523,891 in earnings, good for 15th on the money list.

Blaine started to play golf at age 14 in Fort Stockton, TX, with a couple of friends. "I thought it was neat how far you could hit the ball," he recalls.

He went on to win the 1977 Texas State High School championship. Ken Wright, who was the pro at the Fort Stockton Golf Club, helped him through those early years.

He received a scholarship to the University of Houston and became a four-year letterman. He roomed with Fred Couples one year and with CBS sportscaster Jim Nantz the other three.

He qualified to play on the TOUR in 1982 and 1983 but had little success. He missed in his attempts to regain his playing status in 1984 and 1985.

Charlie Epps, the head pro at the Houston Country Club, helped to turn his game around. Putting was one of Blaine's weaknesses because "I seemed to see too much break when I putted righthanded."

"I do everything lefthanded except play golf," Blaine recalls. "Charlie suggested I try putting lefthanded."

It took awhile to get used to the feel but gradually more putts started to drop. "I can see the line a lot better," he said, "Now I believe I'm more of an all-around player."

With his new stroke, he has added more consistency to his game and is not throwing away shots as he said he did in the earlier years on TOUR.

It was a highly-emotional scene as Mark McCumber walked onto the 18th green at THE PLAYERS Championship, his head held high, as the thousands in the gallery roared in salute to the champion-to-be.

Mark proceeded to win this coveted title at the Tournament Players Club with a TPC at Sawgrass record score of 15-under par 273. He had rounds of 65-72-67-69 to win by four strokes over Mike Reid.

Mark had been recognized as one of the finest players in the game for several years — he had won five previous events — but THE PLAYERS moved him up another notch.

He had an impressive stretch early last summer with four straight top 10 finishes, culminating in a victory in the Beatrice Western Open in a playoff over Peter Jacobsen. A tie for second in the U.S. Open was part of the streak.

He closed the year with seven top 10 finishes and certainly one of the highlights for him was being a part of the Ryder Cup team.

He started on TOUR in the Spring of 1978 and was a winner of the Doral-Eastern Open twice, in 1979 and 1985. He enjoyed a banner year in 1983, winning the Western and Pensacola Opens.

He added the Anheuser-Busch Classic title to his collection in 1987 with a final round of 66 helping immensely.

He also is extremely proud of the work of Mark McCumber and Associates, the design-arm of McCumber Golf the company he helps operate with his brothers.

They have numerous courses either completed or in the design stage and he adds, "the last dozen or so have been Mark McCumber design courses."

As highly respected as he is for his talents in playing the game, Mark is beginning to make an even greater impact in the world of golf course design.

Pat McGowan recalls with a laugh how he received his introduction to the game. "I was about eight and a half years old," he said, "and I used to play tennis four or five hours a day with my two older brothers at the Colusa (CA) Golf and Country Club. We are crazy about tennis."

"Then one day the pro at the club, Warren MacCarty, had a putting contest for all the kids and we did reasonably well. The next day, one of my brothers, Mike, and I asked for jobs picking up golf balls at the range. We did that for the next eight years. The tennis racquets went into the closet to stay as soon as we started to work."

He won several junior titles and went to Brigham Young University where he played on teams with the likes of Mike Reid, Jim Nelford, John Fought and Mike Brannan. He continued to win through college with one of his big victories being the 1977 Pacific Coast Intercollegiate.

He made it onto the TOUR after his first attempt at qualifying in the Fall of 1977 and had an excellent rookie year, winning $47,091. That was his best money year until he went over the $100,000 mark in 1983 and in 1986, he once again reached a new high.

He earned the biggest check of his career in the 1986 USF&G Classic in New Orleans. He shot four rounds in the 60's to finish second to Calvin Peete and collect $54,000.

One of the great thrills of his career came in the 1984 Sacramento Classic in the Tournament Players Series. He won by defeating Steve Hart in a playoff, but there were many, many of his close friends in the gallery from his hometown of Colusa.

His first strong showing on the TOUR came in the 1978 Canadian Open when he finished second to Bruce Lietzke. In the Quad Cities Open in 1982, he was tied with Calvin Peete and Jeff Mitchell after three rounds and eventually tied for second. He had a final-round 67, but Payne Stewart won it with a closing 63. It was especially pleasing since his father had flown in from Sacramento the night before to see the final round.

Karl Tucker, the head golf coach at BYU, had a big influence on his game, but in recent times, Peggy Kirk Bell, his mother-in-law who is one of the leading instructors in the game, has helped him at their Pine Needles course in Pinehurst.

While in high school, Pat was named all-conference in both football and basketball for three years, and in 1973, was Valedictorian of his class.

Rocco Mediate was too busy pitching baseballs as a youngster to even think about pitching golf balls. "I didn't get my first set of golf clubs until I was 16-years old," he said. "I always played baseball and I was a pitcher for about 12 years."

Once he started to play a little golf, however, he was hooked. "My Dad never pushed me, but he encouraged me," Rocco said. "I only played in three tournaments as a senior in high school and then I went to California (PA) State College for 18 months. After that, I transferred to Florida Southern and that is where I really learned to play."

Jim Ferree, a prominent member of the Senior PGA TOUR, was the head professional at Westmoreland Country Club near Rocco's home in western Pennsylvania. He credits Jim with "getting me started," and he still sees Ferree on occasions.

During his years at Florida Southern, Coach Charlie Matlock "was a heck of an influence on me."

Rocco's home in Greensburg, PA, is only a few miles from Latrobe, the home of Arnold Palmer, and he'll never forget the day he first had the opportunity to play with Arnold at the Latrobe Country Club. "I was only 19 and a friend of my family had set it up. When I went over there, I thought it was to play the course. I had no idea Mr. Palmer would be there."

Even today, their friendship remains strong and Rocco occasionally has the opportunity to play a leisurely round with Arnold. "He has given me a lot of encouragement and that means a lot to me."

He admits he didn't have a lot of amateur experience when he attempted to qualify for the TOUR in the Fall of 1985, but he made it. He finished 174th on the money list in 1986. He lost his player's card but returned to the Q-Tournament in the Fall of 1986 and finished fourth.

"My first year was a success even though I only won about $20,000," he said. "I learned where I needed to improve and I learned so much about life on the TOUR, you know, travelling, how to handle everything."

He topped $100,000 for the first time in 1987 and has done so in each of the past two years as well. In 1989 he earned a career high $132,501.

Mediate finished in the money in 23 out of 30 events this past year, but he feels like things can get better for the Ponte Vedra Beach (FL) resident.

"I've been improving my putting and it's coming along well," said Mediate. "It's been the weak link in my game, but I think I'm becoming more consistent."

The last couple of years, Rocco has been working with Rick Smith of the Gaylord (MI) Treetops Resort. "He is the one who has helped me to reach this level," he said.

At the rate he is going, it appears likely Rocco will be on the TOUR for many years to come.

Throughout his career, when Johnny Miller has played well, he has been awesome. He always has been able to make the game appear so easy, driving the ball long and straight; rifling his irons dead on the flagsticks and holing putts from all corners of the greens.

Miller's arrival as a star always has been tied to his final-round 63 and victory in the 1973 U.S. Open at Oakmont, but it was in 1974 that he won eight times and set what was then a record of $353,021. He won the first three events of the year.

The next year, Johnny's clubs were blazing again. He won the Phoenix Open to start the year with a 24-under-par score, and the next week won the Tucson Open with a 25-under score. In each tournament, he had a round of 61.

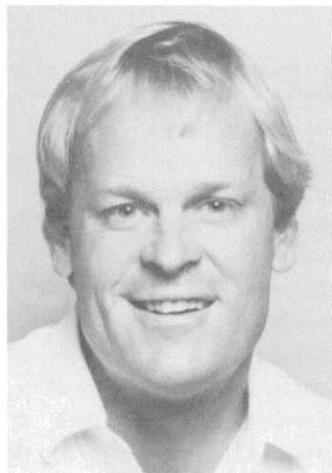

No one has touched back-to-back efforts like that since.

Johnny won for the 23rd time in the 1987 AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am and it was something special. It was his first victory in four years and was especially satisfying because "it was in front of a lot of friends, since I grew up in San Francisco."

One of the many highlights of his magnificent career was winning the 1976 British Open championship at Royal Birkdale. Jack Nicklaus and Seve Ballesteros tied for second.

In mid-December of 1983, he joined with Jack Nicklaus and they won the Chrysler Team Championship. It was especially significant since Johnny served as the tournament's official host for several years.

The winner of more than $2,500,000 in his career, he is exempt this year by virtue of his position among the top 25 all-time money winners.

Larry Mize will be known forevermore in golf history as the man who made the "impossible" shot to win the 1987 Masters Tournament.

Setting the stage, Larry made a gutsy eight-foot putt for a birdie on the final hole to tie with Greg Norman and Seve Ballesteros at 3 under-par 285.

The playoff started at No. 10. Seve was eliminated when he three putted the first hole. Larry and Greg parred.

On the 11th, Larry's approach sailed far to the right of the green, some 140 feet from the cup. Norman was on the right fringe.

Using a sand wedge, Larry's chip was absolutely perfect and rolled dead center for a birdie. Slightly dazed by the turn of events, Norman missed his long putt for a birdie.

It was the second victory of his TOUR career. The first was in the 1983 Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic when he made a birdie putt of 25 feet to edge the likes of Fuzzy Zoeller, John Mahaffey and Chip Beck.

He lost the 1986 Kemper Open to Norman in a playoff that lasted six holes.

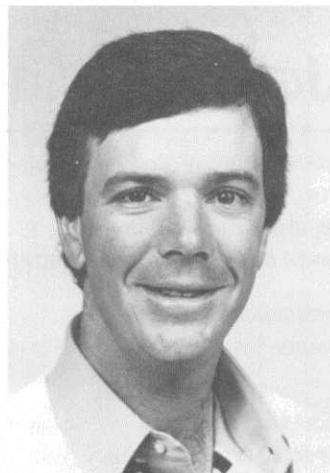

Even before his victory in the Masters, Larry was considered a solid player, who could win at any time. He was at his brilliant best throughout 1987, winning $561,407 and ranking seventh on the money list. As far back as his rookie season of 1982, Larry displayed the intensity needed to succeed.

Just when it appeared as if he had no chance to make the exempt list for 1983, he fooled everyone. He had won $14,787 with two tournaments remaining on the 1982 schedule, so his chances were slim, indeed, of making the top 125 money winners.

However, he proceeded to tie for ninth in the Pensacola Open and then tie for 11th in the Walt Disney World Classic to win $14,000 and finish the year in 124th place with $28,787.

Since the first time he picked up a club at the age of nine, Larry Mize has been totally in love with the game. He only had a few lessons in the formative years, as his father, a scratch handicapper, pointed him in the right direction.

He went to Georgia Tech, where he was No. 1 for three years and captain of the team for two. Along the way he also won an Atlanta Amateur championship.

If you think Gil Morgan was delighted with his play during the latter half of 1987, you should have seen him during the early months of the 1988 campaign.

He underwent surgery for a torn rotator cuff in early September of 1986. Dr. Frank Jobe of the Centinela Hospital Medical Center performed the operation and while it was declared successful, he couldn't be certain how well he would perform in the heat of battle.

It was nearly nine months before Gil was back on the firing line as he returned for the 1987 Panasonic-Las Vegas Invitational in early May. During the middle of summer, he was near the top of his game again.

At the Hardee's Classic, a third-round 63 gave him the lead, but he finally finished second to Kenny Knox. He also finished in the top 10 in his next two starts, as well.

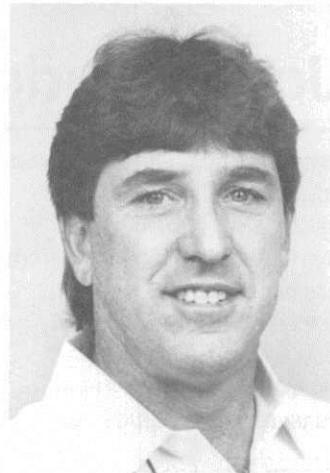

He was positively amazing early in 1988 when he finished in the top eight in seven straight events, starting with a tie for seventh place in the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic and finishing with a tie for second in the MCI Heritage Classic.

He had a 63 and a 64 in the Las Vegas Invitational and that led him to his best finish last year, a tie for third place. He also finished with more than $300,000 for the second time in his fine career.

Through the years, Gil always has been able to create excitement on the course with his exceptional play. In 1983, for example, he won the first two tournaments of the year—the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open in a playoff over Lanny Wadkins and then the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open.

His biggest victory was in the 1978 World Series of Golf when he defeated Hubert Green in a playoff and finished the year as the No. 2 money winner behind Tom Watson.

Gil started to play the game at age 15. When he was a junior at East Central State in Oklahoma, he decided to pursue it as a career, along with his goal of some day obtaining a degree in optometry. He won the Oklahoma collegiate championship in 1967, but waited until he earned his doctorate in optometry before turning professional in 1972.

Those who have followed Jodie Mudd throughout his career know he has the game to be successful. He was only 22-years old when he joined the TOUR in the Spring of 1982 and it took him a couple of years to become comfortable with life on the road.

His game started to fall into place in the latter half of 1984 and in 1985, he blossomed out as a genuine contender. He finished second three times and on two of those occasions, he lost in playoffs.

He shed the contender title in 1988 and became a champion winning at the Federal Express St. Jude Classic in Memphis. The win was not only his first, but it held significance as well.

"I waited a long time to win so close to home," he said.

"I just want to keep doing what I'm doing," added Mudd who had easily his best year in 1988. "I want to make the right shots, the right decisions at the right times. That's what it boiled down to for me."

That's exactly what he did during the 1989 GTE Byron Nelson Classic. He was three strokes out of the lead after three rounds, shooting 68, 66 and 66 for a 10 under-par 200 and then he blazed the Four Seasons Resort course with a 5 under-par 65 the last afternoon. He finished tied with Larry Nelson, but Jodie birdied the first extra hole to win.

Jodie became an official member of the PGA TOUR in April of 1982, the week after the Masters Tournament. As an amateur, he tied for 20th at Augusta that year. His first pro start was the Tallahassee Open and he tied for 30th, winning $675. The next week, he played in the USF&G Classic and tied for fifth place, pocketing $10,537.

That was sufficient for him to meet the minimum money guideline that was in effect at that time, and he was a TOUR regular the next week in the Houston Open.

Jodie came from a golfing family, and in the early days, he caddied for his father. He continued to play golf in high school but also excelled in basketball. "I gave up basketball in my senior year, though," he said, "so I could concentrate on golf."

After playing in a couple of events in Florida, he accepted a scholarship to Georgia Southern College. There, his game blossomed. Twice he won the United States Public Links Championships, in 1980 and 1981. He won the prestigious Sunnehanna Amateur in 1981 and was a member of the U.S. Walker Cup team the same year. He won eight collegiate events

Larry Nelson enjoyed a great year in 1987 and he said it was because of two factors — patience and the desire to work harder on his game.

"It was a discouraging first half," he said, "but it turned out to be my best year."

Indeed it did, starting with his playoff victory over Lanny Wadkins in the PGA Championship at Palm Beach Gardens, FL. Two months later, his brilliant 9-under-par 63 the last afternoon gave him the Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic title.

He was a proud man at the 1988 Georgia Pacific-Atlanta Classic. He gained his 10th victory after a brilliant display through the first three rounds, shooting 63-66-66—195 (21-under par) and then a final 73 to win by one at the Atlanta Country Club where he has a home.

Larry's first major championship was in the 1981 PGA before thousands of his hometown followers at the Atlanta Athletic Club. He won by four strokes over Fuzzy Zoeller.

The 1983 U. S. Open at Oakmont has to go down as one of his great performances. He was seven strokes off the pace after two rounds but his 6-under-par 65 the third day lifted him to within a stroke of the co-leaders, Tom Watson and Seve Ballesteros.

The last day, it turned out to be a battle between Larry and his good friend Watson. When severe thunderstorms stopped play for the day, Larry was on the 16th tee and Watson on the 15th.

The next morning, Larry hit a four wood shot to the back of the green, some 62 feet from the cup. Incredibly, he made it for birdie and went on to win by one. His 10-under-par 132 for the last two rounds set an Open record.

There are not many stories on the PGA TOUR more unusual than Nelson's. Only four years after he started to play golf, and after playing only one 72-hole tournament, he was on TOUR.

Larry lettered in baseball and basketball in high school and attended Southern Tech for a year before he was drafted and spent two years in the military. After his discharge in 1968, he tried college again and also worked as an illustrator at the Lockheed plant near his home.

He went to a driving range one day in 1969, liked hitting balls so much that he went to work in pro Bert Seagraves' shop at the Pine Tree Club in Kennesaw, GA. He turned pro six months after that.

Greg Norman may be the most charismatic player in the game today and with his incredible skills, he does generate excitement.

He has posted many victories worldwide and most of them have been impressive, indeed. Even when he doesn't win, he can make it exciting.

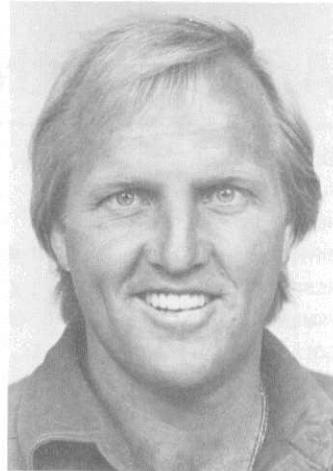

Last year he won two more on the PGA TOUR—The International and two weeks later, the Greater Milwaukee Open. In all, he had eight top 10 finishes in just 17 starts. One that got away, however, was the British Open at Troon, Scotland, but, true to his nature, he did make it exciting.

He lost in a playoff to Mark Calcavecchia (Wayne Grady also was involved) after shooting a brilliant round of 64 to gain the tie.

He missed nearly two months of 1988 with an injured wrist. In the second round of the U.S. Open, on the ninth hole, he strained it severely when hitting a ball off a tight lie and the club hit a boulder. He did win the MCI Heritage Classic that year but he also lost another pair of TOUR events in playoffs.

He truly was incredible in 1986. He won twice on the TOUR, was second four times and had 10 top 10 finishes in 19 U.S. starts. Overseas, he won the British Open, European Open, Suntory World Match Play and then three in a row in his native Australia.

In all four of the more significant 1986 championships, he was in the lead going into the final round. He led by one stroke going into the last day of the Masters Tournament and finished tied for second. He led by one after three days at the U.S. Open and finally tied for 12th place.

Andy North has had many wonderful days on the PGA TOUR and he always thought there never would be another week like the one he enjoyed in 1978 when he won the United States Open Championship at Cherry Hills in Denver.

But there was another. It came in the Summer of 1985 at Oakland Hills in Birmingham, MI, when he won the Open Championship again, this time in a tense duel with several players who had opportunities to win. At the end, it was Andy at one-under-par 279 and one stroke better than Tze-Chung Chen of Taiwan, Dave Barr of Canada and Denis Watson of Zimbabwe.

At Cherry Hills, he led by four strokes with five holes to play. There were some anxious moments before he was through, though. When he hit his tee shot on the 18th hole, he needed a bogey to win—and that's what he scored. After being bunkered in three, he blasted to four feet and he made it to gain the victory.

It was a struggle for Andy in 1983 and 1984, due mainly to a painful right elbow. He underwent an operation in the Fall of 1983 to remove a bone spur.

Last year, he underwent a knee operation at the beginning of the year, came back in the spring and played through the U.S. Open. The next week he underwent a neck operation "to remove some bone spurs." He was back for the PGA, but a month later, he injured a shoulder and was finished for the year.

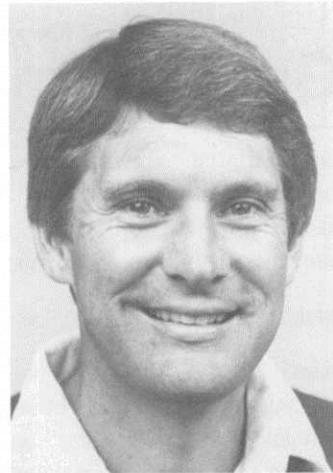

"I'd like to have a good solid year," he said last November, "to see how well I can play."

He also had a knee operation in October of 1987 "to clean the joint surfaces."

Meanwhile, he also has become involved in golf course design work and has done some work as a golf commentator on television.

An unusual ailment helped lead North to golf when he was in the seventh grade in Madison, WI. A bone in his knee had stopped growing and was disintegrating. While on crutches for 18 months he was told to give up his pursuit of basketball and football but that he could play golf—if he rode in a cart.

Since Andy's father was a low-handicap golfer, the game was no stranger to the family and he progressed quickly. He also returned to basketball and was chosen all-state as a high school senior, but by then golf was his dominant sport.

1990 NABISCO TEAM CHARITY COMPETITION: Centel Western Open

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1975 Illinois State High School championship; 1979 Harvey Penick Invitational; 1980 Illinois State Open. Winner 1987 Deposit Guaranty Classic in Hattiesburg, MS; Winner, 1988 Peru Open. Winner, 1989 Chrysler Team Championship (with Ted Schulz).

David Ogrin had a good season in 1988 and the maturity he gained that season led to an even better 1989. Now it appears as if he is ready to be a more consistent challenger.

The fact that he made the cut in his first 12 starts attests to his strong, steady play and one of those finishes was a second place to Gene Sauers in the rain shortened Hawaiian Open. He was only one stroke behind Sauers after 54 holes but weather denied him a chance to go head-to-head with Gene.

It was the second time in his career that he came close to the elusive first victory. In 1985, Hal Sutton had an exceptional last round of 7 under-par 65 to tie David at 9 under-par 275, and then Hal won the playoff with a long birdie putt from the back fringe of the first extra hole.

"I felt I finally played to my potential," David said. "I played an entire tournament my way and found out it was good enough. Except for Hal's great putt, I might have been the winner."

He did win the 1987 Deposit Guaranty Classic in Hattiesburg, MS. A final-round 64 gave him a one stroke margin over Britain's Nick Faldo. It was worth $36,000, and while the victory is considered "unofficial," the money definitely counted.

If you ask David when he was introduced to the game, he'll smile and tell you, "Legend has it I was born with a club in my hands. When I was two-years old, my dad had one of his clubs break, so he sawed off the shaft, put a grip on it and I started to swing away."

There was a time when David was considering baseball as a career. "I had dreams of being a switch-hitting catcher," he says with a laugh, "but my love of golf was too much."

In 1975, David won the Illinois State Interscholastic title. Then he went to Texas A&M on a scholarship. He won three collegiate events, including the 1979 Harvey Penick Invitational in Austin. Hal Sutton was the runner-up.

"I wanted to go as far as I could in the game," he said, "and I made it through the TOUR's Qualifying School on my fourth attempt." That was in the Fall of 1982 at the Tournament Players Club.

"It isn't often one dreams a dream" he said, "and then when he reaches the dream, realizes it is even better than the dream. The TOUR is all I dreamed it would be, and more."

Oh, yes, there have been some special highlights during the last two years. His wife, Sharon, presented him with Amy Rene in June of 1988 and then along came Jessica Lea in September last year.

NATIONAL TEAMS: Ryder Cup (2), 1985, 1989; U.S. vs. Japan, 1984; Nissan Cup, 1985.

Mark O'Meara has been one of the most consistent players on the TOUR the last few years and, as a result, he has challenged frequently.

Last year en route to his most profitable season with $615,804 in official earnings, Mark won again in the Pebble Beach National Pro-Am—this time it was the AT&T. In 1985 it was the Bing Crosby.

It wasn't an easy effort. He led after the second round and was tied with Nick Price after three rounds. A final-round 2 under-par 70 on the Pebble Beach links gave him an 11 under-par 277, one better than Tom Kite.

When Mark won at Pebble in 1985, he followed the next week with a victory in the Hawaiian Open with a 21 under-par 267. His first TOUR victory was in the 1984 Greater Milwaukee Open.

He also has been a winner elsewhere, such as in the 1985 Isuzu Kapalua International in a playoff over Corey Pavin and has won several foreign events such as the 1986 Australian Masters.

He finished second on the money list to Tom Watson in 1984 as he had a total of 15 top ten finishes. He was second five times and third three times and finished only $10,387 behind Watson.

The last several years, Hank Haney has been the man Mark has turned to when he needed help.

He started to play the game at age 13 after his family moved to Mission Viejo, CA. A golf course was next to their home and, at the time, Mark didn't know many of the kids in the neighborhood. So, he would slip onto the course and play.

He wanted to make the golf team as a freshman at Mission Viejo High School, and he did. His junior year, the team won the state championship.

He wanted to play well enough to earn a college scholarship, and he did that, too, going to Long Beach State University.

He broke onto the national scene in a big way in 1979, winning the United States Amateur at Canterbury in Cleveland, defeating John Cook in the finals.

Jerry Pate has never been one to look back and reflect on what might have been; at least not in public.

However, he couldn't be blamed if he did. Instead, when his brilliant career was put on hold after a serious shoulder injury in mid-1982, he moved on to other interests.

He continues to play a limited schedule and says he enjoys the competition as much as ever, but he also formed his own company named, Jerry Pate Golf Design.

He turned to golf course designing shortly after the injury and through the years, he has done some extremely-impressive work, including the Valley Course at the TPC at Sawgrass with Pete Dye.

In a span of seven years, the personable Pate won the U.S. Open at the Atlanta Athletic Club in 1976 and a few weeks later, won the Canadian Open. He has eight TOUR titles, his last being the 1982 Tournament Players Championship on the Stadium Course at Sawgrass.

When he won the 1981 Danny Thomas Memphis Classic, he dove into the large lake to the left of the 18th green.

After he won the Tournament Players Championship and while on the 18th green for the awards ceremony, he pushed Deane Beman, Commissioner of the PGA TOUR, and the course architect, Pete Dye, into the lake; then he dove in himself.

He had good reason to celebrate. He birdied four of the last seven holes—including the 17th and the 18th holes.

Jerry has also left his mark on television. He has become a prominent on-course commentator for all ABC golf telecasts.

Pate literally burst into world-wide attention as a PGA TOUR rookie in 1976. His last swing in the U.S. Open, a five-iron from the rough at Atlanta Athletic Club, left him a two-foot birdie putt for a two-shot victory. His total of $153,102 in official earnings was the most ever won by a rookie until Hal Sutton bettered it in 1982.

Steve Pate knocked on the door on several occasions during his first two years and close followers of the game knew it was just a matter of time until the former standout at UCLA claimed his first victory.

When he decided it was time to go through, he did more than knock on the door. He stepped all over it and charged to three victories in a span of less than five months.

The first was in the Southwest Classic in Abilene, TX, in late September of 1987. He came from four-strokes behind the last afternoon to win by one.

He started the new year in spectacular fashion, winning the rain-shortened MONY Tournament of Champions at LaCosta by one stroke over Larry Nelson. Five weeks later, he won again by a stroke in the Shearson Lehman Hutton-Andy Williams Open in LaJolla, CA. Jay Haas was the victim this time.

Although he did not win again the rest of the year, he did finish second in the International and third in the U.S. Open. He earned well over a half-million dollars. "I wasn't disappointed with the year at all," he said grinning.

After his first triumph, he said with a smile, "You have to play well to win, but you also have to play well at the right time."

Steve came close to winning in his rookie year of 1985. He was tied with Wayne Levi after 72 holes in the Georgia Pacific-Atlanta Classic but lost on the second extra hole to Levi's birdie putt of 12 feet.

It prompted him to comment, "Yes, I'm a little disappointed but Wayne had to birdie three of the last four holes we played to beat me. I was having fun and it was a blast being on television."

Steve started to play golf at the age of nine, mainly because his parents played and they encouraged him. In his first competition, at age 11, he recalls shooting a 107. He progressed well enough to make his high school team in Santa Barbara as a freshman. In his senior year, he won the California Interscholastic Federation title. He moved on to UCLA.

Jim Petralia of the Annandale Country Club in Pasadena also has been a big help. "He was in Santa Barbara for awhile and I started to work for him when I was 16," Steve said.

Oh, yes, he does get asked frequently if he is related to Jerry Pate. The answer is no.

NATIONAL TEAMS: Walker Cup, 1981; Nissan Cup, 1985.

Corey Pavin went into the record book when he won the 1988 Texas Open presented by Nabisco at the Oak Hills Country Club in San Antonio. He won by eight shots with a total of 21 under-par 259.

He thus became only the fifth player in PGA TOUR history, Donnie Hammond made it six with his 258 total in the 1989 Texas Open, to break 260. Mike Souchak owns the all-time mark at 257 (shot at Brackenridge Park in the 1955 Texas Open) while Corey joins Byron Nelson, Chandler Harper and Tim Norris as the only players at 259.

Corey started the week with a 6 under par 64 and then added a 63 and a 66 before closing with a 66 and a 259 total.

Corey won the Houston Coca-Cola Open in his rookie season of 1984. He won the Colonial National Invitation in 1985 and his 14-under par 266 established a tournament record.

He became the last player to successfully defend a title when he won the Hawaiian Open in 1986 and 1987. He also added the Greater Milwaukee Open to his list in 1986 and the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic in 1987 when he made a dramatic birdie putt on the final hole.

When Corey collected $260,536 in his first year, it was—at that time—the most money ever won by a rookie. In 1985, he compiled 13 top 10 finishes—more than any other player.

The last few years, Bruce Hamilton has been his mentor.

Corey started in the game at age eight and it wasn't long before he was receiving his first taste of competition. It was in 1977 that he won his first two important titles. As a 17-year old, he captured the Junior World crown and also became the youngest ever to win the Los Angeles City Men's Amateur.

He was very successful during his years at UCLA, winning 11 tournaments including the PAC-10 championship in 1982. His exceptional play as an amateur landed him a position on the 1981 U.S. Walker Cup Team. Later, he also represented Uncle Sam in the TOUR's 1985 Kirin Cup matches.

When Corey failed to get his TOUR card in his first attempt in 1982, he took his golf game overseas. He was successful, to say the least. He won the South African Open, the German Open and the Calberson Classic in France.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1983 Ben Hogan Award. Winner 1984 Vardon Trophy. Winner driving accuracy statistic every year from 1981 thru 1989; three time winner greens in regulation statistic, 1981, 1982, 1983.

NATIONAL TEAMS: Ryder Cup (2), 1983, 1985; U.S. vs. Japan (2), 1982, 1983; Nissan Cup, 1985.

The Calvin Peete success story is one that will live forever in the history of the PGA TOUR. In a five-year span in the mid 1980s, he won nine times and established himself as one of the truly great ball-strikers in the game.

The most prestigious title came in March of 1985 when he won the Tournament Players Championship at Sawgrass. It assured him of exempt status for the following 10 years.

Four of his victories came in a brilliant 1982 campaign and he has been a leader in such statistical categories as driving accuracy and greens in regulation almost from the beginning of the program. He has played on two Ryder Cup teams as well.

Lower back problems put him on the sidelines for much of 1987 and again last year. "When I felt it coming on in 1987," he said, "I should have taken time off, but I didn't. It just made matters worse."

While he had a reasonably good 1988, the back flared up again last year and he did take time away from the game this time.

He did win the driving accuracy statistic for the ninth straight year in 16 tournaments. "I take great pride in that," he added, and well he should.

He won the Golf Writers' Ben Hogan award in 1983. It goes annually to the individual who had to overcome a physical handicap or illness to play the game. As a youngster, Calvin suffered a broken left elbow and even today, he cannot extend the arm. So much for golf's straight-left arm principle.

In 1984, when Calvin won the Texas Open in San Antonio, he had two rounds of 67 and two rounds of 66. It assured him of his first Vardon Trophy for low stroke average—70.56.

Born in Detroit, Mich., Calvin spent most of his life on a Florida farm with his 18 brothers and sisters—through two marriages by his father. He was forced to drop out of school at an early age.

While still a teenager, Calvin got into the business of selling goods to migrant farm workers. The field hands had little chance of getting into the city stores, so he would pack clothes, rings, watches, jewelry and anything else he could squeeze into his station wagon and take off. Wherever the migrant workers went, Calvin was not far behind. From Florida it was a series of selling stops along dusty roads as far north as Rochester, N.Y.

Calvin had friends in Rochester, and each year his buddies would invite him to play golf. Finally, in 1966, when he was 23 years old, Calvin tried the game with his friends.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Named 1984 Collegiate Player-of-Year. Three-time All-America, 1982, 1983, 1984. Winner: 1983 Big Ten Championship, 1982 Northeast Amateur, 1982 and 1983 Minnesota State Amateur, 1984 Minnesota State Open, 1978, 1979 and 1980 Minnesota State high school championships. Runner-up 1984 U.S. Amateur. Set Ohio State record with 14 victories (previous record was held by Jack Nicklaus).

There was a time when Chris Perry had to make a very big decision. As a strong-armed righthander, he compiled a 9-0 pitching record as an ninth grader with a 0.91 earned run average and he also carried a healthy .325 batting average.

But, he also loved to play golf.

"My Dad never said I had to follow him," Chris remembers, "but he did say things are so specialized in sports today that I would have to make a decision. I couldn't do everything."

His dad, Jim Perry, knew something about such things. He was an outstanding pitcher for many years in the major leagues, starring for Cleveland, Minnesota, Detroit and finally with Oakland.

"By the time I was 13-or-14-years old," Chris adds, "I knew I wanted to play professional golf. In Minnesota (his dad pitched for the Twins for 10 years), you play golf and baseball for six months and skate for six months." And skate he did. High school ice hockey is a big, big sport there and Chris was captain of his team his senior year. "I played hockey for eight-or-nine years as a defense-man," he said.

When it was time to move on to college, he selected Ohio State University "because of its great tradition. Being from the north, I didn't want to go south and play golf 12 months of the year. As soon as I saw Ohio State, I fell in love with everything about it."

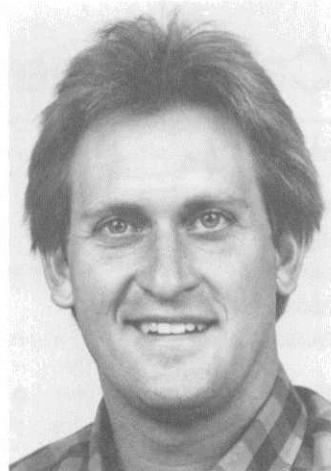

The feeling was mutual. Chris went on to win 14 collegiate events, shattering the "victory" record of Jack Nicklaus. He was a first-team All-America choice for three years.

After he was graduated in 1984, he made his first attempt at the TOUR's Qualifying School in the Fall and he made it easily.

He has earned exempt status all five years he has been on the TOUR. A tie for third in the Bank of Boston Classic was his best finish last year as he earned a career-high $206,932. Two years ago, he needed a tie for third in the final event—the Centel Classic—to lift himself in among the top 125 money winners.

He prefers to play the ball from right to left, "but I like to work it both ways. My iron game improved a lot during the year."

Oh, yes, his dad played a major role in his development as a young player. "We'd go to spring training with him and play the courses in Florida. He's still a good player and carries about a 4 handicap now, but I sure wouldn't give him two strokes a side."

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1978 Kentucky State High School championship. Runnerup in Charley Pride Classic on TPS.

Kenny Perry will always look at the 1987 Panasonic-Las Vegas Invitational as the tournament that started him on the road to success.

"It was a turning point," he said of his tie for fourth place. "I was tied for the lead after three rounds (with Hal Sutton, Ken Brown and Dan Pohl). I played in the last group on Sunday and I shot a 69. It gave me a lot of confidence."

Paul Azinger had a final round of 64 and won the tournament, while Sutton finished second, Curtis Strange third and Kenny tied with Brown for fourth place. He earned $55,000.

"I had to learn how to play in front of so many people," he went on. "It's hard to concentrate, but I learned how to go out and play my own game and not think about them. It isn't easy."

He went on to have a successful year, winning more than $100,000. He has improved his winnings each year to a high of $202,099 last year.

He said of 1988: "It was identical to my rookie year. I had about the same amount of success and had two really good chances to win, at Greensboro and Hartford. I enjoyed the feeling of being in contention."

His two finest weeks on TOUR came in the Spring of 1989. He finished second to Payne Stewart in the MCI Heritage Classic after starting with rounds of 65-67 at Harbour Town. The next week, he tied for eighth place in the K mart Greater Greensboro Open, so he won $116,400 in those two events.

Kenny started to play golf when he was seven under the encouragement of his father. "Dad used to be a scratch golfer and he still is my biggest fan," Kenny said.

His first competition came when he was 11 and he went on to have a fine high school career—he won the 1978 Kentucky State High School Championship—and also played well while at Western Kentucky University.

Norman Head of Bowling Green, KY, who now is retired, has been Kenny's teacher since he was a freshman in college. "I really believe in his theories and owe a lot of my success to him."

"He stressed ball striking more than chipping and putting but he never lets you forget you have to work on all aspects of the game."

Kenny tried the TOUR Qualifying Tournament three times before he made it in the Fall of 1986.

1990 NABISCO TEAM CHARITY COMPETITION: Las Vegas Invitational

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Michigan State Amateur champion, 1975, 1977. Winner, 1987 Vardon Trophy. Winner, 1987 All-Around category. Winner, 1988 EPSON stats match. Led TOUR in driving distance, 1980-81.

Dan Pohl waited a long time for 1986 to come along and happen. He had been successful through his first seven full years on the PGA TOUR, but he had not been able to win.

In 1986, he won twice — in the Colonial National Invitation and the NEC World Series of Golf. He also finished second to Greg Norman in the Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational. In those three events, he won $358,200.

While victory eluded him in 1987, Pohl added another feather to his cap by making the Ryder Cup team and by winning the prestigious Vardon Trophy.

He earned a career high $465,269 and also won the first stats All-Around title, indicative of the strength of his overall game.

"To have had a good year (1986) and come back with another one is very satisfying," said Pohl. "The Ryder Cup selection was a real honor; anytime you represent your country and your fellow players, it's a real thrill."

Last season was an injury marred one for Pohl, although he still managed to earn $195,789. He had surgery on his injured back in the Fall and he looks to return to top form soon.

As for his length off the tee, Dan was the TOUR leader the first two years such statistics were kept. In his best year, he averaged 280.1 in 1981.

Although he started in the game at age five, baseball and basketball were his first loves.

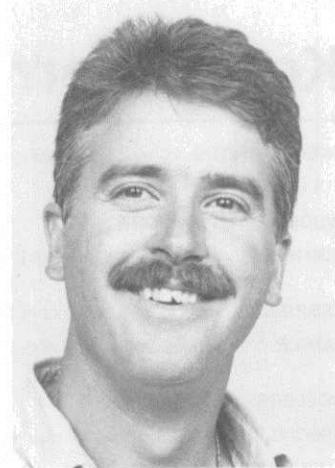

He earned his TOUR card on his second attempt, in June of 1978, but the following 12 months profited him only $1,047. He went back to the school in June of 1979 and regained his playing privileges.

With new vigor, he attempted to qualify for the Canadian Open and Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic, but could gain only alternate status. He didn't get in either one.

The next week, he qualified for the Western Open, and suddenly, he was in the spotlight. With three holes to play on Sunday afternoon at the Butler National Golf Club, Dan Pohl was in the lead.

"I had played solid all day," he said, "but you can't believe how pumped up I was. I thought I was putting good swings on it, but the ball started to act like it was shot out of a cannon. I hit every approach shot over the green on the last three, and bogeyed each one of them."

He tied for third, only one stroke out of the Larry Nelson-Ben Crenshaw playoff, won by Nelson. Nevertheless, he won $17,400, and he was here to stay.

Don Pooley had been waiting for a year such as 1987 to come along. It easily was his best season on TOUR with the victory in the Memorial Tournament serving as the highlight.

"It was my best year in a lot of ways," he said. "It was pleasing because I played well when I was in contention."

He also will be remembered for his million-dollar hole-in-one at the Hertz Bay Hill Classic. The $1 million was offered as a prize for an ace on the 17th hole during the final round.

Pooley used a 4 iron for the 192-yard shot and the ball hit the flagstick about two feet above the cup and dropped straight down. The Arnold Palmer Children's Hospital in Orlando received $500,000. Don gets the other half — in monthly installments of $2,083.33 for the next 20 years.

"Injury and illnesses cut into his effectiveness two years ago but he still had seven top 10 finishes with a second in the Bank of Boston Classic. Last year, a tie for third in the Bank of Boston was his best, once again."

In 1985, he won the coveted Vardon Trophy with a 70.36 scoring average for 97 rounds.

The Don Pooley story is an interesting one. It shows what a person can do who is willing to work at his profession and, as he says, also have a faithful God.

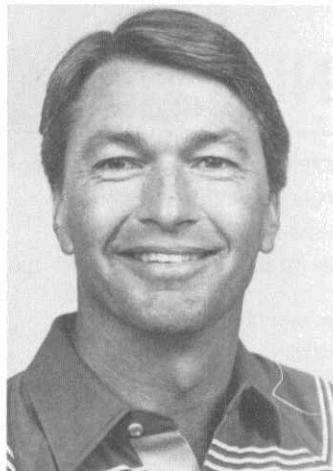

After suffering through a miserable year in 1979, winning only $6,932 due mainly to muscle spasms in his back and tendinitis in his left hand, he rebounded with a $157,973 year in 1980. The improvement of $151,041 was the biggest jump on TOUR that year.

His first victory came at the B.C. Open in 1980. He was tied with Lee Trevino at 10-under par 203 after three, and his closing 68 gave him a one-stroke margin over Peter Jacobsen, while Trevino slipped into a tie for third.

Don says he has been playing golf for as long as he can remember. He received his first set of clubs on his seventh birthday.

He improved at each level of competition, and was the No. 1 man on his Riverside High School team and then played No. 1 on the University of Arizona team.

He played the mini-tours for a while after college, and it wasn't until his third attempt at the Qualifying School in the Fall of 1975, that he obtained his card.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1979 Asseng Invitational (South Africa); 1980 Swiss Open; 1981 South African Masters. Runner-up 1982 and 1988 British Open. 1985 ICL International (South Africa) champ. Winner, 1985 Lancome Trophy. Winner 1981 Italian Masters, 1982 Vaal Reefs Open (South Africa)

Although Nick Price was born in South Africa, he moved to Zimbabwe—formerly Rhodesia—at a very early age with his family and it was there that his career in golf started.

Since both of his parents are British citizens, he carries a British passport but for several years, Nick has made the United States his home. This is where he played almost all of his tournament golf and he has done so exceptionally well.

He joined the PGA TOUR for the start of the 1983 season and it turned out to be a big year for him. He qualified for the World Series of Golf as the leader on the Order of Merit for the South African tour that year and he played brilliantly to win by four strokes over Jack Nicklaus at Firestone Country Club.

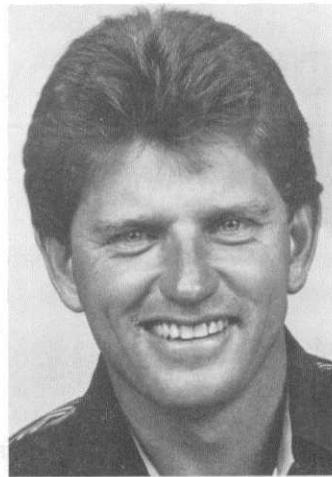

The victory gave him a 10-year exemption to PGA TOUR co-sponsored events. He continued to play well through the next two years, but starting in 1986, he made the big leap up the money list and has remained among the game's best since then. In the third round of the 1986 Masters Tournament, he shot a course record 63 and eventually finished tied for fifth place. Later that season, he lost the Western Open in a playoff to Tom Kite, Fred Couples and David Frost also were involved.

Two of his biggest disappointments over the years have come in the British Open. At Royal Troon in 1982, he led by three strokes with six holes to play but dropped four shots on the way to the clubhouse, permitting Tom Watson to slip in and gain the victory.

Nick led by two strokes after three rounds at Royal Lytham in 1988, but Seve Ballesteros shot a brilliant 65 the last day to edge him. A superb shotmaker, he has shown the ability to post really low numbers on occasions, but every year he is among the leaders in scoring average.

Nick started in the game as an eight-year old caddy for his brother in Zimbabwe. He progressed rapidly as a player, and by the time he was 17, he had an invitation to compete in the Junior World tournament at Torrey Pines in LaJolla, CA. "Everyone said I should go," he recalls, "so my mother and brother paid my way. They figured that if I didn't do well, I would get competitive golf out of my system." He fooled them. He not only played well, but he won.

He played on the South Africa and the European Tour as an amateur in 1975, and then went into the Rhodesian Air Force for the next two years. He was out in time to play on the South African Tour as a professional in the Fall of 1977.

Tom Purtzer will tell you that no matter what else he accomplishes in the game, it isn't likely to give the satisfaction he experienced when he won the 1984 Phoenix Open although his triumph in the 1988 Gatlin Brothers-Southwest Classic might come close.

He has spent most of his life in the Phoenix area and through the final round at the Phoenix Country Club, there wasn't any doubt about who most of the thousands in the gallery wanted to win.

He won in rather spectacular fashion, too. On the par 5 18th hole, he put his second shot into a bunker on the right, but he played a brilliant explosion shot. The ball stopped about two feet from the cup. He made the putt for a birdie and a one-stroke victory over Corey Pavin.

It gave Tom a 6-under-par 65 for the sunny afternoon and a total of 16-under-par 268.

Tom was four strokes behind entering the last round of the Southwest at Abilene, TX. His 8-under-par 64—with an eagle at the last hole for 19-under-par 269 gave him the lead. Along came Mark Brooks with an eagle at the 18th on a putt of 50 feet to tie him.

On the first extra hole, Tom won it all with a par.

One of the longest drivers on TOUR, he has averaged nearly 270 yards through each of the last nine seasons. Over the years, some of his finest performances have been on the more difficult courses.

His first victory was at Riviera, for example, in the 1977 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open.

Tom got an early start in golf because his father, Horace, enjoyed the game.

"Dad was a good golfer," Purtzer said, in recalling his own background in the game. "I guess he was a two or a three handicapper when I was very young. He wanted both of his sons to play the game and Paul and I were given cut-down clubs. We started hitting the ball when we were eight or nine. (Paul is Director of Golf at the plush Gainey Ranch in Scottsdale, AZ, and a former TOUR player.)

"Meanwhile, I liked baseball and football and played both. When I got to high school I gave up baseball. I played high school football and then concentrated on golf."

Purtzer continued to play golf for Arizona State and became one of the better collegiate players. He also won both the Arizona State amateur title and the Southwest Open in 1972.

Mike Reid found it difficult to express his feelings after the 1988 NEC World Series of Golf. And, for good reason. He had just won the coveted title by defeating Tom Watson in a playoff. Reid and Watson tied at 5-under-par 275 and on the first extra hole, Mike made his par while Tom bogeyed on the South Course at the Firestone Country Club.

It truly was the culmination of many years of hard work and dedication. The victory—the second of his career—gave him a 10-year exemption to all TOUR co-sponsored events.

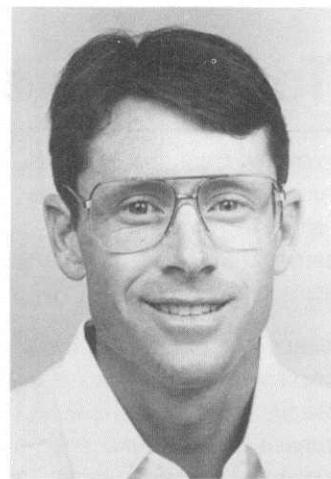

There also were tears in Mike's eyes as he proudly accepted the winner's check in the Seiko Tucson Open in the fall of 1987.

Mike has been one of the TOUR's more consistent players for many years but as good as he was, he could not break through and win. So, as his 11th season was coming to a close, he played brilliantly in Tucson to win by four strokes. Last year was another good one for Mike even though a big one got away on the final holes. He played marvelously through three rounds of the PGA Championship and led by three strokes going into the final afternoon after rounds of 66, 67 and 70 for 13 under-par 203. He still was leading with three holes to play but water at the 16th and a balky putter at 17 were costly and he tied for second behind Payne Stewart.

Mike's father was a Colonel in the Air Force when he retired, but during his growing-up days, Mike was in many different cities. At an early age, he realized golf was a game he could play alone, and it was a game that gave him something in common with others no matter where they lived.

His older brother Bill is Director of Golf at the TPC of Scottsdale and has assisted Mike with his game over the years. The John Geerstens of Pebble Beach, Senior and Junior, have worked closely with Mike.

Mike went to Brigham Young University, and was a teammate of Jim Nelford, John Fought and Pat McGowan. The first time he attempted to get his TOUR card, he made it, in the Fall of 1976. He progressed up the ladder the next three years, and his closest bout with victory was in the 1978 Pensacola Open. He lost in a playoff to Mac McLendon.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1978 Southeastern Conference. Leading money winner Space Coast mini-tour, 1980. Winner, 1985 JCPenney Mixed Team Classic (with sister Laurie).

Larry Rinker started to play the game at the age of six when his brother, Laine, began taking him to junior golf clinics. Larry played in his first Florida State Junior tournament at the age of 12 and continued to play through high school and at the University of Florida.

While playing for the Gators, he won the 1978 Southeastern Conference championship and, upon graduation, was presented the Doug Beldon Award for athletic/academic excellence.

While playing on the mini-tours, he won 10 tournaments including six in 1980 and was voted the "player-of-the-year" by Florida Golf Week magazine.

Larry's first national exposure came at Pebble Beach in the 1982 United States Open Championship. He was in the final twosome of the third round and, after 40 holes, was tied for the lead. He eventually tied for 15th place.

Larry came into his own in 1984 after finishing second in the USF&G Classic in New Orleans. He finished 60th on the money list as he earned $116,494.

He enjoyed a tremendous year in 1985. During the first three months, he had won more money than he had in any other single season. He earned big checks when he tied for second place in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am and was third by himself in the Tournament Players Championship.

In 1985, Larry led the TOUR in eagles with 14. He also joined with his sister, Laurie Rinker, to win the JCPenney Mixed Team Championship.

In 1989 Larry reached the $100,000 plateau for the second straight year, buoyed by top ten finishes in the Southern Open and the Nestle Invitational.

He indicated that he is trying to develop outside interests. He would like to continue developing his role as an entertainer, singing and playing the guitar. He has played at a few TOUR events the last few years.

He also believes that getting married has helped him focus in on his priorities and led to better play.

The Rinkers have quite a golfing family. His brother Lee played on the TOUR in 1984. His sister, Laurie, is a winner on the LPGA Tour. Kelli, who is the wife of Larry's brother, Laine, also has played on the Ladies' Tour.

"We work with each other," he said. "We trade ideas and pull for each other."

Loren Roberts would like to believe that he is on the PGA TOUR to stay; not as just another player but one who will continue to be a contender more frequently.

This past year Roberts elevated his game to a new level with five top ten finishes and a career high $275,882 in earnings.

"This was the best season I've ever had and I'm really looking forward to 1990," said the quiet Californian. "It was just a matter of making a few changes and having the experience to count on when things were tough."

Loren enjoyed good seasons in 1984 and again in 1985 when he comfortably gained exempt status, but his work with the blade on the greens started to diminish and the next two years were less than expected.

"I changed from a blade putter to a mallet," he said, "and I added two-and-a-half inches to the shaft so I would be more upright. And, with the heavier putter, I started to see immediate results."

There was more. "I used to be a stiff-wristed and shoulder putter, but I switched at the start of the year (January of 1988) to more hand action. It gave me more feel."

"I was always a pretty good putter, but I seemed to have one day when I'd be terrible. I started to have trouble with the speed, too. I had to do something to get more feel."

A look at his record for last year will tell you he made a good move. In his second start of the year, he tied for sixth place in the Hawaiian Open, although he collected bigger checks later in the summer with top 10 finishes in the Manufacturers Hanover-Westchester Classic and the Federal Express-St. Jude Classic in Memphis.

Interestingly enough, in 1984 when he earned exempt status for the first time, his two best efforts were at Westchester and Memphis.

Loren didn't start to play the game seriously until he was about 16-years old. He played a lot of tennis and baseball in high school in San Luis Obispo, CA, but the golf coach convinced him to concentrate on golf.

He worked for a while as an assistant pro at the San Luis Obispo Country Club. He said, "I didn't really set out to be a professional; it just sort of happened."

Through the years, his best finish on the TOUR was a third place in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open in 1985. He opened with a 65 at Torrey Pines, added three more rounds in the 60's and finished alone in third place, just one stroke out of the Woody Blackburn-Ron Streck playoff.

He has worked hard to reach this level and he gives considerable credit to Jim Swagerty, who was a head professional in the Los Angeles area for many years, but now's retired and living in San Diego.

NATIONAL TEAMS: Walker Cup, 1973; Ryder Cup, 1981.

Through most of his golfing career, enthusiasm for the game was one of the strong points for Bill Rogers. No one in the game seemed to be having more fun than Bill.

While winning the 1981 World Series of Golf gave him a 10-year exemption to all PGA TOUR co-sponsored events, the spark that was present earlier in his career has diminished. He rarely plays on TOUR anymore.

His last victory was in the 1983 USF&G Classic in New Orleans. "I had a very positive attitude," he said. "It was never the same after that."

Even in his fondest dreams, it would have been difficult for Bill to picture himself having a year such as 1981 and being named PGA Player-of-the-Year.

Winner of the World Series of Golf, the Heritage Classic and the Texas Open on TOUR, plus the British Open, Japan's Suntory Open and New South Wales Open in Australia; Rogers was dazzling once he got his act together starting with the Tournament Players Championship.

The year had a strange beginning. He was seventh in the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open and fourth in the Bob Hope Desert Classic. Then his game nearly fell apart. He missed cuts in five of his next six starts. He only tied for 51st in the TPC, but it was there, at Sawgrass, that he could see his game taking shape again. Indeed it did, because he won the Heritage Classic the next week.

Bill started to play at age nine in Montgomery, AL. The family moved to Texarkana, TX, shortly after that and Bill began to play competitive golf by the time he was 13. Although his father and brother started him, it was Jerry Robinson, professional at Northridge Country Club in Texarkana, who taught him the fine points of the game.

While attending the University of Houston, he was a roommate of Bruce Lietzke and the latter nicknamed him the "Panther." As Bill recalls, "I was the jumpy type. I never wanted to miss anything."

Bill's father was a lieutenant colonel in the Air Force and from age three to six, he lived in Germany; from age six through eight, he lived in Morocco, North Africa.

Everything seems to get better every year for Clarence Rose. For starters, through his eight full seasons on TOUR, he has increased his earnings each year.

Last year was special for a couple of reasons. Most important, his wife Jan presented him with their first born, Clark, on February 20. Once again, he had a runner-up finish and now has six for his years on TOUR. This time, it was in The International at Castle Pines, CO, as he chased Greg Norman to the wire. It was worth $108,000, and that was the largest check of his TOUR career up until that point.

His first runner-up finish came in the 1985 Southern Open when he trailed Tim Simpson by two strokes.

The next year, he had back-to-back second-place finishes in the Los Angeles Open to Doug Tewell and then in the Honda Classic to Kenny Knox.

Scott Simpson managed to edge him out in the 1987 K mart Greater Greensboro Open. The following season, he tied with Bruce Lietzke in the GTE Byron Nelson Classic but lost the title in a playoff as Lietzke birdied the first extra hole.

Incidentally, the week after his playoff loss, Clarence led the Colonial National Invitation by three strokes after three days, but Lanny Wadkins came on strong to win it.

Regarding course management, he said, "I do try to go for birdies and I make a lot of them, but I'm also trying to cut back on my mistakes." He has had well over 300 birdies in each of the last seven years. He's also one of the longer drivers on TOUR.

Clarence's father was a "very good golfer," and he started him at about age 12. "I played baseball all the time, but once I started into golf, that ended my days in baseball," he said.

He won his first junior tournament at age 14, the North Carolina State Jaycees. He went on to win the North Carolina State Amateur, too.

He gained All-American status while at Clemson and in June of 1981, he entered the PGA TOUR School. He qualified easily, gaining a tie for fourth at Walt Disney World. "My last year at Clemson," he said, "I started to think about the possibility of being on the TOUR. I knew that's what I wanted, so I left school and spent about eight months just getting ready for it."

Until he started on TOUR, he played from right to left, but he changed his game over and now favors the fade.

He constantly checks his weekly statistics, and through those numbers, he believes he is better able to diagnose his strengths and weaknesses.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner of three mini-tour events.

Dave Rummells has been getting better and better with each passing season and the only surprising thing through his first four years is that victory has eluded him.

His peers will tell you that Dave has one of the finer swings in the game and the fact that he continues to knock on the door is proof enough that he has the game to be successful for many years to come.

He has improved his money winnings each year to a high of $419,979 last year. Twice he finished third. His 65-64 finish in the rain-shortened Hawaiian Open was worth $51,000; and his 67-67-66 finish at the Canon Greater Hartford Open was another $68,000.

For the second straight year, he challenged in the PGA Championship. He tied for sixth place two years ago and was fifth last year.

Dave grew up in the small town of West Branch, Iowa, where "about the only thing we had to do was play golf on a nine-hole course."

His father introduced him to the game at the age of five, but Dave says it really was his childhood friends who played together and we sort of taught one another how to play," he said.

A golf scholarship sent him to the University of Iowa. After he graduated in 1981, he turned professional and headed for Florida.

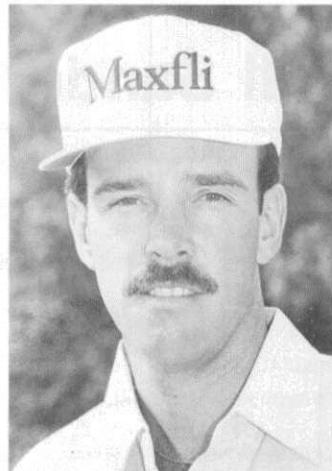

He failed in three attempts to gain his PGA TOUR card, but he played the mini-tours.

A good showing at the 1985 Qualifying Tournament earned Dave his PGA TOUR card and he struck paydirt quickly finishing in a tie for ninth at the Hawaiian Open and cashed a check for over $11,000.

A few weeks later he finished a strong tie for 10th at the Tournament Players Championship and picked up another $21,600 and he was on his way. During the course of his week at the difficult TPC, Rummells equalled Tom Watson's course record when he posted six consecutive birdies during his second round en route to a seven-under-par 65.

He set a goal of winning at least $100,000 in 1987 and he easily achieved it. "The year was really consistent," he said. "Since I saw most of the courses for a second time, I know when and where not to be aggressive."

Dave Rummells has certainly come a long way from that nine-hole course in West Branch, Iowa.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1976 United States Amateur. Three-time winner of Seattle City Amateur. Member 1977 U. S. Walker Cup team and World Amateur Cup team. Winner, 1989 MCI Pro Celebrity Long Distance competition finals.

When Bill Sander joined the PGA TOUR in the Spring of 1978, he thought "here we go. This is going to be fun."

He had won the U. S. Amateur Championship the summer before at Bel-Air Country Club in Los Angeles. At age 19, he was one of the youngest in modern times to do so. The next year, he played on the Walker Cup and World Amateur Cup teams.

He did miss in his first attempt to obtain his TOUR card in the Fall of 1977 but made it easily the next Spring.

"My first tournament," he recalls vividly, "was the Western Open. I played beautifully and on the last day, I was paired with Andy Bean. Andy won the tournament and I won a nice check. I thought it was great."

"The next week in Milwaukee, I played well again and was one-under par after 36 holes but I was shocked to discover I had missed the cut. The next week, I shot a 69 in the Monday qualifier for the Quad Cities Open and didn't make it."

"That's when I said to myself, 'Welcome to the TOUR'."

The years that followed were not too kind to Bill. It wasn't until 1985 when he tied for fourth in the Canadian Open and tied for seventh in the St. Jude-Memphis Classic that he finally broke through and earned exempt status.

"I had a good start in 1987 with two top 10s on the West Coast," he said. "I did well at Greensboro and Atlanta but for some reason, I started to fiddle with my swing." Toward the end of the year, he reverted back to his old swing and the results were better.

He had his "best-ever" finish in the 1988 Los Angeles Open. He started the week with a 70, and then added marvelous rounds of 69, 66 and 66 to tie for second place behind Chip Beck.

He went over the $100,000 mark for the second straight season a year ago with his best finishes being a tie for fifth in the USF&G Classic and a tie for 10th in the Canadian Open.

Bill started to play at age 13 when he was caddying at Inglewood Country Club in Seattle. He won three straight Seattle City Amateur titles, the first as a 17-year old.

During his early years, Billy Derrickson, who was the head pro at Inglewood, helped him the most. When he came on TOUR, he started to listen to suggestions from everyone. It took him awhile to realize he had to play his own game.

When everything is going right, he prefers to play right to left. Iron play, plus chipping and putting, are the strongest parts of his game.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner of three Georgia State Opens, once as an amateur. Winner of Trans America Athletic Conference title.

Maybe Gene Sauers was off to a rather slow start through the first two years of his PGA TOUR career, but once he gained the confidence he needed, he became one of the finest young players in the game.

He has improved his money winnings each year since his inaugural in 1984, but the big push to the top started when he won the Bank of Boston in a playoff over Blaine McCallister.

Since then, his star has continued to climb. He won for the second time in February of 1989 at the Hawaiian Open. Although the weatherman played a part—the tournament was called official after 54 holes due to excessive rain—Gene would have been difficult to catch no matter what the weather.

He had rounds of 65 the first-and-third days with a 67 in between for a total of 19-under par 197. He obviously enjoys Waialae Country Club in Honolulu. In 1988, he had three solid rounds in the 60s to finish fourth.

He has started to become a more consistent challenger after smoothing out a few wrinkles in his short game, his chipping and putting.

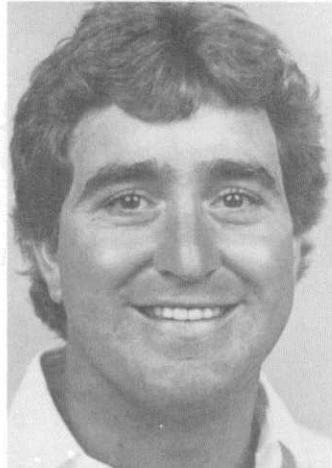

Every player has had a tournament get away from them, but Gene remembers the one in his own backyard in 1987. He has lived all his life in Savannah, GA, and on nearby Hilton Head Island in the MCI Heritage Classic, he was tied for the lead going into the final round. A third-day 64 put him in that position, but a 73 the last afternoon dropped him into a tie for third place.

Gene went through the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1983. He was the youngest player on the circuit when he started in 1984, but during the early weeks of the season, he didn't get into many tournaments.

Once the three-time Georgia State Open champion got his chance to play consistently towards the end of the season, he made the most of his chances. The 1985 season started out in similar fashion. In mid-season, though, Sauers got his chance to play regularly and he capitalized on it. He went on to finish among the top 125 money winners, a position he would not relinquish.

Gene started in the game at age nine when he would tag along with his father and brother out to the golf course on the weekends.

"They'd bring along an extra club and I'd hit it around," Sauers recalls. "My brother was a good golfer (played at Columbus College) and I'd go out to practice with him and beat balls around."

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1983 Kentucky State Amateur; 1984, 1988 Kentucky State Open; co-winner 1989 Jerry Ford Invitational. Winner, 1989 Chrysler Team Championship (with David Ogrin).

Ted Schulz wrote one of the better success stories on the PGA TOUR last year. He went from winning only $17,838 in 1987, to being off the TOUR in 1988 to an impressive $391,855 last year.

He made the season a total success by winning the Southern Open by one stroke over Tim Simpson and Jay Haas. He had three rounds of 66 and another of 68 at the Green Island Country Club for his total of 14 under-par 266.

Throughout his golfing career, Ted has had to learn the meaning of patience. He'll be the first to tell you he never won much of anything in the game—except the 1983 Kentucky State Amateur and a pair of Kentucky State Opens, 1984 and 1988.

A typical youngster, Ted played all sports but when he was about 15 years old, he decided the "golf really was a major league sport." He worked in his father's grocery store in Louisville, KY and played in junior tournaments whenever the opportunity presented itself.

He went on to the University of Louisville but, as he said, "I only played one year fulltime."

He turned professional in the Fall of 1983 and had thoughts on the TOUR, but he knew he wasn't ready.

The winter season of 1984, he even ran the driving range for Bill Ogden at Bermuda Dunes in the Palm Springs area.

Finally, in the Fall of 1986, he made it through the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament but in his rookie season of 1987, he only made $17,838 in 29 starts.

He headed for the Asian Tour in 1988 and he says that may be the place where he started to fill in the missing pieces. "You had to be tough," he said, "You learn a lot of patience; how to make cuts; playing in really adverse conditions on bad courses."

He went back to the Q-Tournament in the Fall of 1988 with a new approach.

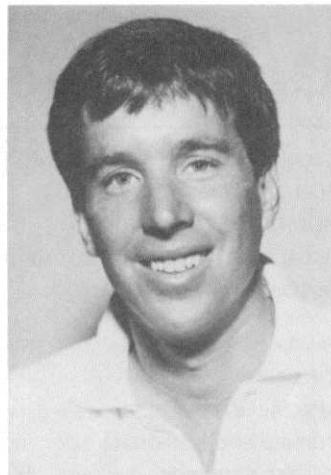

"I knew I had to get it (TOUR card)," he said, "and then keep it. Otherwise, I'd have to go back to one of those foreign tours. That's incentive and pressure. And, it's scary." He finished 25th and then started to make plans for 1989.

Immediately, he found success. He tied for 14th in the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic—his first start—and earned $17,500. The next week in the Phoenix Open, a first round 64 led to a tie for seventh place and another $21,088.

His consistent play continued. In mid-summer, he tasted victory as he shared the Jerry Ford Invitational (non-TOUR) title with Donnie Hammond.

A few weeks later, he tied for ninth in the Chattanooga Classic and then tied for third the next week in the Greater Milwaukee Open. They served as the impetus for his march to victory in the Southern Open.

After missing cuts in his next two starts, he tied for sixth place in the Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic to qualify as one of the 30 leading money winners for the Nabisco Championships.

1990 NABISCO TEAM CHARITY COMPETITION: Deposit Guaranty Golf Classic

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1978 Alabama State Open; 1988 Florida Cup; 1988 Dixie Classic. Won 37 events on mini-tours.

Don Shirey's pals knew all along that he was good enough to play on the PGA TOUR, and the personable graduate of Auburn University lived up to their expectations last season.

Don first qualified for his TOUR card in the Fall of 1978 but he has said for years that he wasn't quite ready for the bigtime back then. He became one of the kings of the mini-tours, winning 37 times with 15 of the victories coming in 1986. "I made a good living," he said, "but it's not the same."

His years of experience, however, may have been just what he needed to make it on TOUR, because last year he put together a good one with a tie for third place in the Chattanooga Classic his highest finish.

He said at the time, "I love to play tournament golf. If I didn't, I wouldn't have spent years on the mini-tours.

"I'm 33 years old now and I'm past the immature stage where you try to force things," he continued. "You can't make things happen. I've learned that a little later in life than most guys."

Don started to play golf at age nine in Fort Payne, AL. "My Dad taught me how to grip the club, but I didn't get serious about it until I was about 13."

He played a lot sports as a youngster but was good enough in basketball to earn a scholarship. It wasn't long until he decided he wanted to pursue an individual sport and golf was the sport of his choice.

He qualified for the TOUR the first time he tried, but his rookie season was a disaster. That was in 1979, and he remembers, "I qualified a lot but made only one cut all year. That was at the B.C. Open."

He tried to qualify again for the next year but didn't make it; and then headed for the mini-tours "to try and learn how to play."

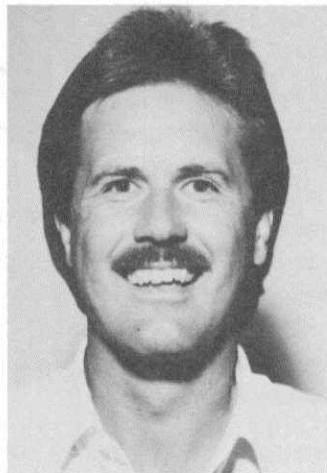

"I won the first tournament I entered," he recalled, "and that triggered something. I knew then that I could play at a higher level!"

It wasn't until the Fall of 1986 that he regained his Tour privileges and he went on to have a decent 1987. Toward the end of the year, he tied for ninth place in the Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic, thanks to a final round of 9-under par 63.

All of the experiences he had gathered led to his good season in 1989 and, for the first time, he gained exempt status.

"I did a few things last year that I had never done before on the TOUR," he said. "I feel I made a lot of progress. I even had the taste of the lead a couple of times."

With a grin, he added, "I suppose I've just progressed at a later age than some."

"It's always been the dream of my life to be able to say I've won on the PGA TOUR. Now that I've done it, I can't describe the feeling."

Tom Sieckmann was one happy fellow after he won the 1988 Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic in a playoff over Mark Wiebe at the Kingsmill Golf Club.

Wiebe, who won the same title in 1985, masked his own disappointment with kind words for his friend.

"Tom is really a fine player," he said. "He's been grinding it out, paying his dues, paying a lot of dues. I'm sorry for me but I'm really happy for him."

The victory was rather unexpected. Everyone knew Tom had the skills to win, but prior to the Anheuser-Busch Classic, he had won money in only three of 16 events.

He stayed close to the lead through the first two rounds at Kingsmill and then was tied with Peter Jacobsen and Kenny Knox after three at 12-under-par 201. While Jacobsen and Knox faltered slightly, Wiebe took the lead midway through the incoming nine with a birdie at the 13th to go 14-under-par. He finished at that figure.

Sieckmann birdied the 13th to go 14-under, but bogeyed the 15th to drop a shot off the pace. He came back with a birdie at the 17th and eventually tied at 14-under-par 270.

Tom and Mark both parred the first extra hole and then Tom won it on the next by making a par from the left fringe while Wiebe missed the green, chipped long and two putted for bogey.

Last year was something of a disappointment for him because it was not as productive as 1988. However, he said, "Actually, I'm playing better than ever. I've worked hard and I know there are good days ahead."

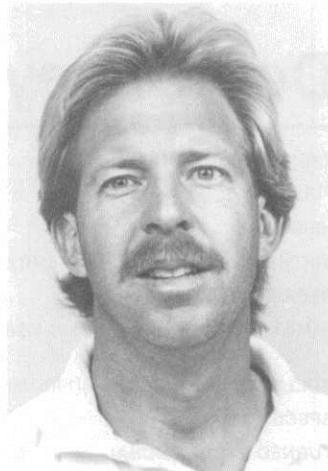

He was a basketball player as a youngster, but as the years moved along, he knew golf would be his game. He started at the University of Nebraska, but later transferred to Oklahoma State University.

Mike Holder, the Cowboys' golf coach, said, "Bob Tway and Willie Wood were our best players in those days but Tom was with them and they formed one of the best teams I've ever had."

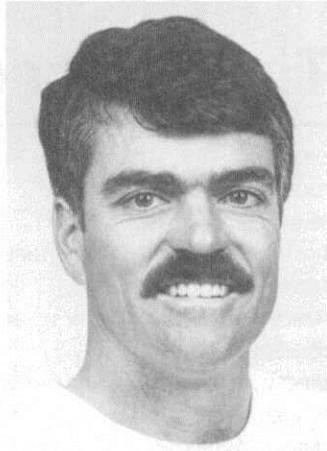

He had his problems trying to get on the PGA TOUR, but whenever he went elsewhere to look for a game, he found success. He won several times overseas and 1981 was the banner year when he won three times—the Philippine Open, Thailand Open and the Brazilian Open.

He finally made it onto the TOUR in a rather impressive fashion. He tied for second in the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1984. He earned $30,052 for his first year in 1985 with a tie for 12th place in the Byron Nelson Classic his best. Unfortunately, he finished 143rd on the money list.

He went back to the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1985 in an effort to improve his position on the priority list. He did that as he earned medalist honors.

Scott Simpson has been a strong, steady player for many years so it wasn't surprising to those who follow the game closely that he could win the grandest prize of them all—the United States Open Championship.

He did it in 1987 at the Olympic Club in San Francisco, winning by one stroke over Tom Watson. He did it with a brilliant final nine holes as he registered three birdies and saved par on three other occasions with splendid recovery shots.

His birdies came in succession, starting at the 14th hole where he hit a seven iron to four feet and made the putt. Then he made putts of 30 feet at the 15th and 15 feet at the 16th. He finished the day with a 2-under-par 68 and a total of 3-under-par 277.

"I feel overwhelmed that I could win a tournament such as the U.S. Open," he said. "This totally is a dream come true for me."

Earlier in the year, he braved the wind and cold to win the Greater Greensboro Open. By season's end, he had earned $621,032 and was ranked fourth.

Scott earned the fifth victory of his TOUR career the hard way at the BellSouth Atlanta Classic last year. He was four strokes off the third round lead. And, so was Bob Tway. They both shot 68's the last day to tie at 10-under par 278 and then Scott won the playoff with a par on the first extra hole.

Scott had an excellent amateur record, winning the National Collegiate titles in 1976 and 1977 for the University of Southern California. "It was after I won it the first time that I thought I would make a career in golf, and someday turn professional. I felt if I could win over a field such as that, then maybe I had a chance."

He also won two PAC-8 titles for the Trojans and was a member of Uncle Sam's Walker Cup team in 1977. He seemed to be a sure thing.

Yet, he met the disappointment that so many young players have had to face, twice failing to make it through the TOUR's tough Qualifying School. He finally made it the third time, in the Fall of 1978.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner 1976 Southern Amateur; All-Southeastern Conference and All-American at Georgia. Winner of Georgia and Atlanta Juniors Titles; 1981 World Under-25 Championship (France). Winner, 1981, 1984 and 1987 Georgia State Open.

Tim Simpson is one of the better ball-strikers in the game and last year his putting improved to the point that he became one of the leading players on the TOUR.

He won twice. The first came in late March in the USF&G Classic in New Orleans as he held off the challenges of Greg Norman and Hal Sutton. Late in the season, he won the Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic by a stroke over Donnie Hammond.

Tim played well the other weeks as well. He lost the Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic in a playoff to Mike Donald and tied for second in the Southern Open just a stroke behind Ted Schulz. He finished brilliantly at Green Island, shooting 65-63.

Incidentally, the Southern has been a good event for him. He won the title in 1985 for his first TOUR victory and was second in 1987 as well.

As an example of how he moved his game to a higher level last year, he was 12th in greens-in-regulation, 23rd in driving accuracy and 53rd in putting. He finished fourth in all-around stat performance.

His $761,597 placed him sixth on the money list.

A keen student of psychology, he has been working with Dr. Bob Rotella, the sports psychologist. It was Rotella who told him, "from my observations and from what I've heard from others, the one missing link in your game is your putting." He stressed the need for Tim to relax more. Obviously, he has.

Tim's father, Jack, started him in the game as a seven-year old and he went on to win junior championships of Atlanta and Georgia. "I owe a lot to my father," he said. "He worked hard so I could afford to play and he has always stood behind me. He has been the guiding force in my life."

Another who helped to mold his game is Art Kraft Jr., the pro at the Ansley Country Club in Atlanta. "I've been working with Art since I was 15-years old," Tim said.

Tim went on to the University of Georgia and earned all-Southeastern Conference and All-America honors. He won the Southern Amateur in 1976. In the Spring of 1977, he earned his player's card.

Those who know Tim also know there are three other people who have helped turn his career around—his wife, Kathy, son Christopher and daughter Katie. "They gave purpose to my life," he said.

Winner, 1986 MCI Long Distance driving competition.

NATIONAL TEAMS: Kirin Cup, 1988.

Joey Sindelar is a player with incredible skills so it comes as no surprise when he puts together a season such as he had in 1988. He won twice—Honda Classic and The International—and accumulated $813,732 to rank third on the money list.

As an example of how others assess his talents, he was the first player chosen in the Nabisco Team Charity draft for the 1989 campaign. He was tabbed by the folks at K mart Greater Greensboro Open.

So, it was something of a surprise when his game suffered last year and he only had three top 10 finishes as compared to 10 the year before.

When he talks of his golf game and his goals, he always says, "we." He'll tell you, "We talked it over and decided . . ." The other party in the "we" is his father, the man who first put a club in Joey's hands when he was six-years old.

"My Dad always stressed that if anything is worth doing, it's worth doing right. He's always been behind everything I've done."

Through high school, Joey knew that if he was going to go to college, it would have to be on a scholarship, so he worked extra hard on his golf game. There were offers, but he decided on Ohio State because "I had met a few of their players when I would go to amateur tournaments, and they were really nice to me."

"The fact that Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Ed Sneed had played for Ohio State helped to influence me, too," he added with a smile.

He was devastating for the Buckeyes. He won 10 collegiate events and in 1981, he won the Big Ten championship by 12 strokes. He was named Ohio State's Athlete-of-the-Year in 1981.

Along the way, he managed to sweep the New York State titles—Junior, Amateur and Open championships.

The PGA TOUR was his goal, though, and he made it through the Qualifying School in the Fall of 1983, finishing in a tie for third.

His first win came at the Greater Greensboro Open when he holed an eight-foot par-saving putt on the 72nd hole to win by one and then later in the year he won again at the B. C. Open edging Mike Reid for the title in front of his hometown fans. He also won the B.C. Open in 1987.

1990 NABISCO TEAM CHARITY COMPETITION: B.C. Open

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner of 1985 Tallahassee Open of TPS. Winner of 1980 Metro Conference championship.

Jeff Sluman turned in one of the great finishing rounds in PGA Championship history and won going away in August of 1988.

He started the last day three strokes behind Paul Azinger and then proceeded to shoot a brilliant 6-under-par 65 to win by three strokes over Azinger. Jeff had two birdies and an eagle (holed a sand wedge shot from 115 yards) on the outgoing nine, and returned with three birdies and a lone bogey.

"I accomplished one of the things I've always wanted to do," he said, "and that was to win. And, to make my first one a major, well, that's very special to me."

During the last four years, Jeff has climbed steadily up the ladder of success. "Practice," he said, "more than anything else and maybe a little sharper mentally," when asked for the reasons.

Last year, despite playing a limited schedule, Sluman managed four top ten finishes, including a tie for sixth in the MONY Tournament of Champions.

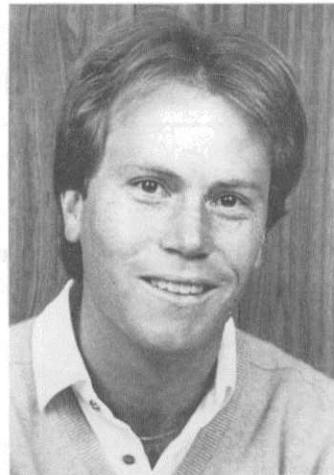

Jeff nearly had his first victory in the 1987 Tournament Players Championship, but he lost on the third extra hole of his playoff to Sandy Lyle.

When introduced to the game of golf at an early age, he had no goals or aspirations to be a professional golfer. Started in the game by his family at age four, Sluman didn't even think about turning pro until after his senior year at Florida State University. After a solid collegiate career that saw him win the Metro Conference title, Sluman opted for a career in golf.

Sluman turned professional in 1980 and in the fall of 1982 he earned his PGA TOUR card. However, he won only $13,643 in 1983 and finished 171st on the money list and lost his playing privileges.

After sitting out the 1984 season, Sluman returned to the Qualifying Tournament in the Fall of 1984 and posted rounds of 74-74-69-70-74-72—433 to finish 23rd and regain his player's card.

Jeff won the 1985 Tallahassee Open when it was part of the Tournament Players Series, so it was unofficial. It also was special, however, since he had three rounds of 65 and won by a stroke over Gary Player and former FSU teammate Kenny Knox.

J. C. Snead remembers it as the most satisfying week of his fine career. It was the week of the 1987 Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic and, at age 46, he won it in a playoff over Seve Ballesteros. It was his eighth victory since starting on the TOUR in the fall of 1968, but it also was his first since he won the 1981 Southern Open in a playoff over Mike Sullivan.

J. C. moved in contention at Westchester with a six-under par 65 the third day and it put him three strokes in back of Mike Reid.

The last afternoon, he fashioned a one-under-par 70 for an eight-under-par 276, while Seve's 72 left him with the same score.

"I birdied the last two holes," J. C. said, "and Seve came along behind me and did the same thing."

On the first extra hole, Ballesteros drove the ball behind a pine tree and that was the start of his problems, while J. C. routinely parred it for a victory.

Those who know J. C. well, know him as a fellow with a great sense of humor and a heart as big as all-outdoors. However, with a touch of brusqueness and a sly smile, he'll deny it all.

He has a wonderful sense of humor. Several years ago, he decided he wanted to go by his full name, Jesse Carlyle. After a few weeks of not playing well, he informed everyone he was going back to using J. C. because "Jesse Carlyle hasn't been playing worth a damn."

Jesse Carlyle, although constantly mentioned as the nephew of the legendary Sam Snead, stands on his own performance record. He was a superb athlete in other sports while growing up in Hot Springs, and at one time, sought a career in baseball. He was in the Washington Senators' farm system before turning to golf as a career in 1964.

He worked for a couple of years as an assistant pro at the Century Country Club in Westchester County, NY, before obtaining his TOUR card. He burst into prominence in 1971 by winning twice in a three-week period at Tucson and Doral immediately before and after the PGA Championship at Palm Beach Gardens, FL.

Whatever Craig Stadler accomplishes during the rest of his career, his followers will fondly remember 1982. It was the year he broke away from the field and went from being a good player to a superstar.

He won four times, starting the year by capturing the first tournament, the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open. He won two of the year's more significant events, the Masters Tournament in a playoff over Dan Pohl and the World Series of Golf in a playoff over Raymond Floyd. His other victory was in the Kemper Open by an impressive seven strokes.

He won the Arnold Palmer Award as the leading money winner, as he earned $446,462. Until 1985, only Tom Watson and Mark O'Meara had won more in a single season.

He won the Byron Nelson Classic in 1984 and has been oh, so close to winning a few more.

For example, in 1985 he played the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic and Hawaiian Open in a combined 47-under par, yet he didn't win. He lost in a playoff to Lanny Wadkins in the Hope and was second to Mark O'Meara in Hawaii.

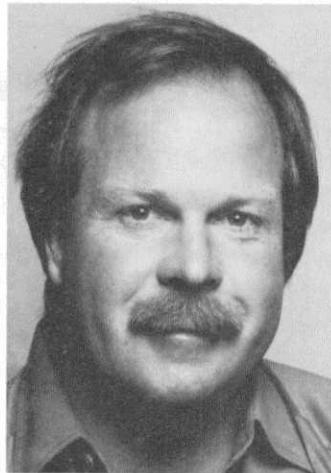

In 1987, he lost the Hawaiian Open again, this time in a playoff to Corey Pavin.

Two years ago, he was third in the Masters and Kemper Open; and last year was second in the Independent Insurance Agent Open and third in the Las Vegas Invitational, only one-stroke out of the Scott Hoch-Robert Wrenn playoff. It was, however, a very profitable year in 1989.

Before turning professional in 1975, Craig compiled an excellent amateur record, highlighted by his victory in the 1973 U. S. Amateur Championship at the Inverness Club in Toledo.

He had given some thought to leaving the University of Southern California after that triumph, but changed his mind. He went on to be an All-America choice in 1974 and 1975 and was named to the 1975 Walker Cup team. He also has played on two Ryder Cup teams.

Craig first played the game at age five with the assistance of his father and really became interested at age "eight or nine."

Payne Stewart has established himself as one of the outstanding players in the game—and certainly the most colorful.

He has been a strong, steady player for several years, but last season he elevated himself to a new plateau with victories in the PGA Championship and the MCI Heritage Classic.

He was also second three times, losing once in a playoff to Tom Kite in the Nabisco Championships. Unfortunately, he bogeyed the final hole in regulation play to set-up the playoff.

Nevertheless, Payne had 11 top 10 finishes and was No. 2 on the money list to Kite with $1,201,301. He was third or better in four of his last six starts.

In the PGA at Kemper Lakes near Chicago, a first round 74 put him eight strokes out of the lead, but he came on strong with rounds of 66, 69 and 67 to win by a stroke.

In the MCI Heritage Classic, he had four rounds in the 60's at Harbour Town and won by five.

Another special victory for Payne came in the 1987 Hertz Bay Hill Classic. He donated his entire check of $108,000 to the Florida Hospital Golden Circle of Friends Home "in memory of my father, William Louis Stewart, who died of cancer two years previous to the day."

Payne's golfing career progressed in an orderly fashion through junior programs, high school and finally to a golf scholarship at Southern Methodist University. While there, Payne won several collegiate events, including the 1979 co-championship of the Southwest Conference.

He played the Asian Tour in 1980 and 1981 and with victories in the 1981 Indian and Indonesian Opens under his belt, plus his marriage to Tracey Ferguson, an Australian girl he met while in Malaysia, Payne returned to the U. S. to attend the 1981 spring Q School. He was successful.

When you read through the biographies of the players on the PGA TOUR most look remarkably similar in one regard, they all played a lot of amateur and intercollegiate golf.

Occasionally though, a player comes along who has a completely different background and one such refreshing change from that pattern is Canadian Ray Stewart.

Stewart has a bit of Larry Nelson or Calvin Peete in him in that he didn't get serious about golf until he was in his 20's and he's not even sure that his University of British Columbia even has a golf team.

"I really didn't begin playing at all until I was 16 or 17 and I didn't get serious about golf until I was 23," said the personable Stewart. "I finally bought a full-set of clubs at 23, drove into Vancouver and saw sand traps on golf courses and thought this game is kind of neat."

Largely self-taught, Stewart picked up the game from reading golf magazines and says, "ask me about any tip ever written, I've probably read it."

Finally, at age 26, Stewart played in his first tournament in British Columbia and decided that the PGA TOUR might be a great way to make a living. He earned his card in 1983, but won only $7,577 and lost his playing privileges.

Undaunted, Stewart played on the Asian circuit for four years and the European circuit for another year before regaining his TOUR card in the 1986 Q-School. The time spent overseas was definitely a positive step in this development.

"I've been everywhere playing this game," said Stewart. "Asia was such a big help character-wise—if you can travel over there you can handle anything. It really taught me a lot about patience."

For the first two-thirds of 1987, patience was a virtue he needed as he had won only about $16,000 but a T10 at the Provident Classic gave him a confidence boost and then two weeks later at the Bank of Boston Classic he turned his career around in three short days.

He opened at Pleasant Valley with a fine 65, but a second round 73 left him well back of the lead. However, he used two eagles to post another 65 in the third round and when Sunday's finale was washed out due to rain, Stewart found himself tied for second and he collected $37,333.

He then finished out the year in good fashion and eventually ended the 1987 season in the 124th spot on the money list with $72,136.

He was disappointed with his 1988 season when he was forced to return to the Q-School, but 1989 was a different story altogether.

This past year started slowly, but a T10 at The International brightened his outlook on the year and then the following week in Chattanooga, he nearly broke into the winners circle. Stan Utley's birdie-birdie finish edged Stewart by a shot, but the $54,000 runner-up check boosted him back comfortably into the top 125 and he finished the year in 106th place on the money list with $133,944.

"I'm a little disappointed I didn't win, but I'm still real happy," said Stewart after his rounds of 71-63-67-63—264 in Chattanooga. "It's nice to play well under pressure. I controlled myself and my swing under tough conditions."

While pleased with this past year, the highlight for Stewart and his wife, Maureen, was traveling with infant son, Brett, who was born in Nov. of 1988.

Curtis Strange stands with the greats in the history of the game. His play during the last five seasons has established him as one of the most feared competitors in the world.

Look at the record. He won the United States Open Championships in 1988 and 1989 to become the first since Ben Hogan (1950-1951) to win the coveted title in back-to-back years.

His victory in 1988 at The Country Club in Brookline, MA, was in a playoff over Nick Faldo, 71 to 75; and last year he played brilliantly through the final holes at Oak Hill in Rochester, NY, to win again.

He has won 12 times on the PGA TOUR in the last five years—easily the best record; and three times has won the Arnold Palmer Award as the leading money winner. Two years ago, he became the first to go over $1 million in a single season with four triumphs and $1,147,644.

His biggest money day came in the 1988 Nabisco Championships at Pebble Beach. He birdied the second extra hole to defeat Tom Kite. It was worth $360,000 plus the season-long bonus money of $175,000.

Obviously, he was everyone's "player-of-the-year." It was Hale Irwin who once said, "Curtis is the best player in the world today. Period!"

Curtis started to play at age seven, "and by the time I was eight, I was playing every day." His father was a golf professional and owned the White Sands Country Club in Virginia Beach, Va.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1984 Shootout at Jeremy Ranch (Utah) on Senior PGA TOUR with Don January.

Mike Sullivan knows of the importance to be patient on the golf course. He knows what it means to be patient in the clubhouse, as well.

His victory in the 1989 Independent Insurance Agent Open at The Woodlands near Houston came because he managed to stay calm both places.

Mike barely survived the cut after rounds of 76 and 71, but he hung in there and came back with a 4-under par 68 for the third day. He was an early starter on Sunday but he was seven strokes behind the leader, Mike Donald.

The big, personable Sullivan caught fire on the TPC Course at The Woodlands and proceeded to roll in eight birdies before a bogey at the 18th gave him a 65 and an 8-under par total of 280.

He really didn't think it would hold up—but it did, by a stroke over Craig Stadler. His 65 was three strokes better than anyone else that day.

Mike started on the TOUR in 1977 and his only other victory came in the 1980 Southern Open in Columbus, GA. The next year at the Southern, he shot a final-round 64 to tie J.C. Snead, but Snead won the playoff.

Another victory came his way in 1984 when he teamed with Don January to win the Shootout at Jeremy Ranch in Utah on the Senior PGA TOUR.

He has always had the talent to excel, but re-occurring back problems have kept him from reaching the high consistency level at which everyone knows he can play. As an example, of his skills, he shot a 7-under par 28 for nine holes in the 1988 Texas Open.

Mike played a lot of golf with his father when he was a youngster. "He was a scratch amateur, and taught me everything in those days."

Living in Ocala, Fla., his father took him to see the Florida Citrus Open in Orlando, and the old Greater Jacksonville Open. He went to the University of Florida briefly—and had Andy Bean for a roommate—but he wanted to play golf, and not go to school.

In the 1978 Buick Open, he tied with Jack Newton of Australia but lost the playoff.

Hal Sutton keeps searching for ways to get better but true to the mark of a great competitor, he says he isn't as good as he knows he can be and expects to be.

His first victory was in his rookie season of 1982. He won twice in 1983, added two more in 1985 and was a double winner again in 1986. During the "non-win" years, he knocked at the door constantly, but something always seemed to happen to keep him out.

Just like last year when he had two runner-up finishes and a very good year financially. He lost the Anheuser-Busch Classic in a playoff to Mike Donald and was runner-up to Tim Simpson in the USF&G Classic.

At the 1987 Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational, Hal was closing in on victory again, but Paul Azinger came roaring from out of the pack, made eagle at the final hole with a long, long putt, and won by a stroke over Hal. He also was second to Mike Reid in the Seiko-Tucson Open.

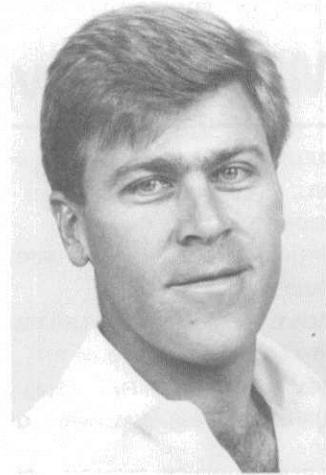

His greatest season had to be 1983. He won the Tournament Players Championship and the PGA Championship and went on to be the No. 1 money winner with $426,668.

Although his father did not play the game, Hal said he always was the "moving force behind me." A friend of his father's sent him a set of clubs when he was 11, and that was the start. "I played some team sports, but it was discouraging because I never seemed to be on a good team. I decided I wanted to win or lose on my own ability and that's why I chose golf."

As a 12-and 13-year old, he would take his father's cart and "sometimes play 72 holes a day." He said he only had mediocre success until his junior year at Centenary College, although he did win the Louisiana State Junior title in 1974.

Hal won the 1980 U. S. Amateur at the Country Club of North Carolina and was named Golf Magazine College Player of the Year, also in 1980. At the time, there was talk that he might forever remain an amateur.

"I went to work for my Dad and would go as long as a month without playing at all," he said. "When I did try to play, I didn't have any feel. I had put so much into the game to that point, I felt it was senseless to give it all up. I could always go back into business, but in later years, I couldn't go back to the game at the level I wanted. So I decided to turn professional and go on TOUR."

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS: Winner, 1984 Magnolia Classic; 1975 Southwest Conference; 1975 Chicago District Amateur; 1976 Harvey Penick Invitational; three Chicago District Golf Junior titles.

Lance Ten Broeck's life on the PGA TOUR has not been an easy one, but now that he ranks up with the exempt players once again, he has his heart set on a long career.

Lance has gone through nine campaigns and only twice has he finished among the leading 125 money winners—in 1984 when he was 123rd on the list and last year when his career high of $146,568 placed him 96th.

He has always had the skill to excell, but until last year, he had some problems trying to put the good rounds together. He did so in 1989 and the result was three top ten finishes.

His best was a tie for third place in the Deposit Guaranty Golf Classic in Hattiesburg, MS when he shot 69, 65 and 67 in the rain-shortened event. He tied for fourth place in the Southern Open, thanks to middle rounds of 66 and 65.

He was especially pleased with his tie for fifth place in the Beatrice Western Open since Chicago is his hometown and he won many amateur events in the area before he headed for the University of Texas.

Lance spent all of his growing up years in Chicago. His father was a fine golfer and Lance happens to be the youngest of eight children. All of his brothers and sisters played, too. And, played well.

"I grew up caddying for them," he said, but his first real competitor was as a 14-year old in a Chicago District Junior tournament.

Lance won three district junior titles and in 1975, won the Chicago District Amateur. He headed for the University of Texas and played there for two years. As a freshman, he won the Southwest Conference title and as a sophomore won the Harvey Penick Invitational, plus a few others.

When the PGA TOUR Qualifying School was scheduled for Brownsville, TX in the Fall of 1976, the temptation was too great. "It wasn't that far from Austin," he said, "and I had to give it a try."

He missed that year and he also missed getting through the Qualifying Tournament on his next five attempts as well. "I made it on my seventh and eighth tries," he says with a smile, "but I missed again on my ninth and 10th tries."

As you can tell, it hasn't been easy for the big easy-going guy. It is interesting to note that that in 1984 when he earned exempt status for the first time, one of his best finishes was in the Western Open, a tie for ninth place.

He commented, "I learned a long time ago that it takes a lot of patience and hard work to succeed on the TOUR. I hope it will start to pay off."

There was never any doubt in Brian Tennyson's mind. He knew as a 12-year old that he wanted to play on the PGA TOUR.

It took him awhile to make it—four attempts in the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament—but he was successful in the fall of 1987. Now, after two seasons, Brian has established himself as one of the better young players in the game.

"Actually," he said with a smile, "I was a little disappointed with my first year, but I was also happy to achieve a couple of my goals. I wanted to win at least $100,000 and that would let me keep my TOUR card."

Last year he showed even more improvement, earning $189,345 and finishing tied for second in the Hardee's Golf Classic, his best-ever finish on TOUR.

"This year was even more fun than last on the TOUR," he said. "I'm more comfortable with my game."

"The TOUR is a little different than I thought it would be. I thought I was very well prepared, since I had played a lot of tournament golf here and overseas, but it was tough adjusting to it at first."

He demonstrated his skills early in the 1988 season with four good rounds at the USF&G Classic and the next week he tied for fourth place in the Independent Insurance Agent Open in Houston.

"Do you realize," he said grinning, "that I shot a lower score (275) than the winner did the year before in Houston (Jay Haas, 276), yet I still lost by five strokes?"

Just for the record, the three players ahead of him were Curtis Strange, Greg Norman and Tom Kite. That's heavyweight competition.

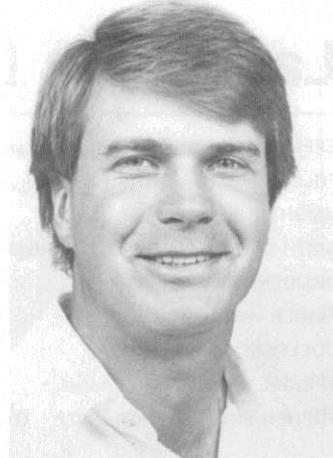

Brian started to play golf at about the age of eight. The youngest of nine children, his mother and father were the first to put a club in his hands. An older brother, Roger, is a Class A PGA teaching professional.

Brian played through high school and he also lettered in soccer. He went to Ball State University and played for four more years, winning eight events and gaining All-American status. That's also where he met his wife, Jeanne.

He turned professional after graduation and tried three times to qualify for the TOUR with out success. In 1986, he only missed by a stroke.

So, he played where he could including 10 tournaments on the Asian Tour in 1987 and he won twice, the Indian Open and the Philippine Open.

He turns to Mike Adams, the Director of Golf at the Academy of Golf at the Hills of Lakeway in Austin, TX, when he needs help. "Without Mike's help," he said, "I'd probably be looking for another line of work. He made the big change in my game."

There were many memorable accomplishments on the PGA TOUR in 1986 and Doug Tewell's performance in the Los Angeles Open has to rank with the best of them.

Playing the great Riviera Country Club course, Doug shot rounds of 66 and 63 the last two days and won by seven strokes over Clarence Rose. He took the lead the third day when he birdied the first six holes and then set sail for the victory.

He saved his best until near the end in 1987. After taking a month off the TOUR, he went to the Pensacola Open. It was close until the final nine holes, then he ran away from the field and eventually won by four strokes.

He finished with an 8-under-par 64 at the Buick Open last summer and it vaulted him into a second place finish, just two strokes behind Scott Verplank.

Last year was an injury filled one for Doug. However, he did recover in time to tie for second in the Buick Open, the second straight year he has occupied that position at the Warwick Hills G&CC.

"It was a frustrating year," said Tewell. "I missed 12 of the first 16 events because of a back injury, but with the help of Centinella I was able to recuperate."

"I am really looking forward to 1990," he added.

Doug said he "will remember forever" his first round in the 1985 PGA Championship at Cherry Hills Country Club. He shot a course record 64 and went on to a respectable tie for 12th place.

His biggest year was in 1980 when he won twice, in the Sea Pines Heritage Classic in a playoff over Jerry Pate; and in the IVB-Philadelphia Classic. In the latter event, he was 10-strokes behind after two rounds but closed brilliantly with 65-67 to win by one over Tom Kite.

Doug started to play golf at about age 12 and his first teacher was Labron Harris, Sr. at the Lakeside club in Stillwater, Okla.

After being graduated from Oklahoma State University, he worked as an assistant professional for two years and then moved on as head pro at the Pinetop Country Club in Pinetop, Ariz. During the off seasons, he worked at Camelback in Phoenix. In June, 1975, with his Class A PGA membership in hand, he joined the TOUR.

Leonard Thompson had tears in his eyes—and so did a lot of other people—as he stood by the 18th green at the 1989 Buick Open and realized he finally was a winner again.

It had been 12 years since he had enjoyed the sweet taste of victory and TOUR records indicate that it represented the longest anyone had ever gone between triumphs. He had to go back to the 1977 Pensacola Open when he rolled in a birdie putt of 50 feet on the final hole to edge a rookie by the name of Curtis Strange.

Leonard started on the TOUR in the fall of 1971 and his first victory came in the 1974 Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Classic. It led to his first $100,000 plus season.

He was the first round leader in the Buick Open at Warwick Hills Country Club after a first round of 65. A 71 the second day put him one stroke off the lead and a third round 69 left him three strokes behind Payne Stewart.

It was touch-and-go all afternoon with Stewart and Hal Sutton appearing as the main contenders. Sutton double bogeyed the 17th and Stewart bogeyed the 18th and when all was said and done, Leonard was the winner. His closing 4-under par 68 gave him a 15-under par total of 273—and a check for $180,000.

With a big grin, he said, "I didn't know they made checks that big with my name on it."

In 1981, Leonard had a day to remember as he shot a course record 31-31—62 at Glen Abbey Golf Club in the Canadian Open. He only missed one green but still birdied as he chipped in from off the edge. He used the same golf ball for 18 holes and then presented it to the Royal Canadian Golf Association for its museum at Glen Abbey.

Prior to joining the TOUR, Leonard had sharpened his game at Wake Forest and was a teammate of such players as Lanny Wadkins and Joe Inman.

A native North Carolinian, one of the highlights of his career was the course record 7-under-par 29 on the back nine at Pinehurst No. 2, set in the 1977 Colgate Hall of Fame Classic.

Jim Thorpe may be in the record book for a long time as the last player to win back-to-back match play championships.

He capped a brilliant 1985 season by defeating Jack Renner in the final of the Seiko-Tucson Match Play event and he followed with a repeat victory in Tucson in 1986 when he defeated Scott Simpson. Each victory was worth $150,000.

Tucson returned to the stroke-play format in 1987, but Jim had to miss it. He underwent surgery on his left wrist/thumb on September 30. He also had to miss most of the 1988 season because of an injury.

The 1989 season then became something of a year to try and regain his competitive form. He was at his best at the Kemper Open where he tied for second.

"It was a surviving year, I just wanted to see if I could play again," said Thorpe. "I think I'm 100 percent and I'm real encouraged. I'm looking forward to 1990."

Five years ago, Jim even went beyond his own dreams as he compiled an outstanding record. He won twice, in the Greater Milwaukee Open when he outdueled Jack Nicklaus down the stretch and then in Tucson.

He nearly won for a third time. In the Western Open, he came from behind the last afternoon to tie amateur Scott Verplank. Unfortunately for Jim, Verplank won the playoff with a par on the second extra hole.

He is the ninth of 12 children. He grew up in a large home off the second fairway at the Roxboro (NC) Golf Club where his father, Elvert, was the greens superintendent. He says with a laugh, "We used to go out after dark and hit shots by the back porch light."

Jim was quite a football player in high school and earned a scholarship to Morgan State. He was a running back, and a powerful one at that, but after a year, he abandoned the sport and then left school after two years to devote more time to golf.

"There were five boys in the family," Jim says, "and my father was the one who started me playing golf, but in those days, I would rather play football. My brother, Chuck, was the best golfer in the family."

Chuck was on the PGA TOUR in the early 1970s and it was Chuck who gave Jim some sound advice regarding the TOUR. "I couldn't hit my long irons very well, so one day Chuck said we should go to Pinehurst and he would help me with my game. We played and practiced and played some more. Finally, one day, Chuck said, 'You're ready!'"

Jim obtained his TOUR card in the Fall of 1975, but he only won $2,000, so he went home again. In the Fall of 1978, he was back in the School, this time better prepared and was co-medalist with John Fought in the Q-School. Early the next year, he let everyone know he was indeed ready, as he tied with Tom Watson for second place in the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open, two strokes behind Bruce Lietzke.

It would take a book this size to tell the Lee Trevino story but, briefly enough, he already has left his mark as one of the great players and personalities in the history of golf.

He has won 27 times on the TOUR and last fall he set his sights on winning at least that many on the Senior PGA TOUR. He made his debut with the Seniors in the GTE Kaanapali Classic on Maui in early December. Lee was 50 on December 1.

When Lee won his second PGA crown in 1984, it was one of the outstanding sports stories of the year. At age 44, he outlasted Gary Player and Lanny Wadkins at Shoal Creek, AL, by shooting all four rounds in the 60's.

Until he won the 1984 PGA, Trevino had gone three-and-a-half years without a victory. His problem had been his back. He suffered with pain, sometimes severe, but never complained publicly. Some believe his problems originated when he was struck by lightning at the 1975 Western Open. In November of 1976, he underwent an operation for a herniated disc.

He has enjoyed many great years en route to winning two U.S. Opens, two PGAs, two British Opens and a Tournament Players Championship. He won his fifth Vardon Trophy for low stroke average in 1980 as his 69.73 for 82 rounds was the lowest since Sam Snead's 69.23 in 1950.

Trevino tied for 54th in the 1966 U.S. Open at Olympic Club. A year later at Baltusrol, he placed sixth in the U. S. Open, and was on the TOUR to stay. Twelve months later, he was entertaining everyone at the margarita party at Oak Hill CC, where he had just won the 1968 U.S. Open. Lee won the U. S. Open again in 1971, defeating Jack Nicklaus in a playoff.

For the last several years, he also has been one of the game's leading analysts, working NBC telecasts.

Winner 1987 Oklahoma State Open. Winner 1987 Chrysler Team Championship (with Mike Hulbert).

NATIONAL TEAMS: World Amateur Cup, 1980; Nissan Cup, 1986.

It was a year to remember for Bob Tway in 1986 and with the talent he displayed, he could go on to have many more. He certainly is one of the more skilled players in the game.

He was the TOUR's leading winner with four victories. He highlighted the season by dramatically holing a bunker shot on the final hole to win the PGA Championship after a tense duel with Greg Norman.

He went on to be named the PGA Player-of-the-Year. He finished as the No. 2 money winner with $652,780 and remarkably, was only $516 behind Norman. However, he added another $500,000 to his account at the end of the season as the winner of the inaugural season-long Vantage Cup competition.

He broke through for the first time in the 1986 Shearson Lehman Brothers-Andy Williams Open. Due to weather, only 54 holes were played and Bob found himself tied with Bernhard Langer but he went on to win the playoff with a par on the second extra hole.

A second-round 63 set the stage for his triumph in the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic. He finished with a 64 in Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Classic and passed Hal Sutton.

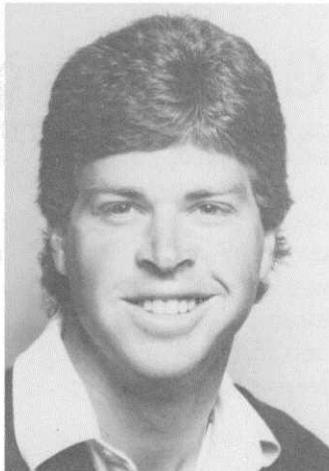

Last year, Bob came through with another victory, and an impressive one it was, too. He won the Memorial Tournament by two strokes over Fuzzy Zoeller with his last three rounds in the 60s. He nearly won again two weeks later, but lost the BellSouth Atlanta Classic in a playoff to Scott Simpson.

During his years at Oklahoma State University, Bob earned All-American status three times. He won the 1981 Fred Haskins award as the college player-of-the-year.

Working under the watchful eye of Mike Holder, the golf coach at OSU, his game matured rapidly. However, it seemed he could play well until it came time to tee it up in the Qualifying School. The first three times he tried to get through it, he missed.

Bob started to play golf at age five. "I'd follow my grandfather and father around the course," he said. He was "about seven" when he played in his first junior tournament.

The family moved to Marietta, GA, when he was a youngster and Bob played basketball during his first two years in high school. Golf was his game, though.

After being the 52nd and final qualifier at the 1988 Q-School, it didn't take long for Greg Twiggs to make an impact.

In mid-February Twiggs captured the first PGA TOUR victory of his career at the 1989 Shearson Lehman Hutton Open. The triumph came in Twiggs' hometown of San Diego on the Torrey Pines course on which he had played many previous rounds.

Twiggs came back the next day and fired a 69 to win the tournament by three strokes over four other players. "It's almost a surprise," said Twiggs. "I tried not to think about anything, I just realized I was in the position to enjoy myself."

After going through Q-school five times, Twiggs can now enjoy the two-year exemption his victory was worth, along with some new found riches. In fact, his winner's check of $126,000 was more than he had earned previously on the PGA TOUR.

"There is a lot of love in this game. People know how hard it is out here," Twiggs said following his popular victory.

Golf is not the only sport in which Twiggs has been successful. He was a member of the 1976 United States Junior World Hockey team and he also excelled in American Legion baseball.

While his road on the TOUR was somewhat rocky in the early stages, he did shoot the lowest score in the history of the old Tournament Players Series. He had a 62 in the 1982 Chattanooga Classic.

Still those memories will be hard pressed to beat the ones of the Shearson Lehman Hutton Open. "I have a lot of good memories on this course."

"The feeling coming down to the last hole, with all the people watching me about to win a golf tournament, was that I started to feel proud of myself," said Twiggs.

It was not a year of distinction, however, other than the victory. After finishing 43rd in the Masters Tournament, he missed the cut in 12 of his last 17 starts with his best finish in that stretch being a tie for 32nd in the NEC World Series of Golf.

Nevertheless, his $154,302 placed him in 90th position and the victory gave him the winning feeling that he expects to carry him to more successes.

Howard Twitty may not be too excited over his play during the last two seasons, but he found ways to play well enough to stay up among the leading 125 money winners.

He did cut back on his schedule a little last year, especially because of the birth of a son, Charles Barnes, to his wife Sherre. Now, with more hard work, he looks forward to more successes in the years to come.

He knows, though, he may never again play the game as well as he did in a stretch of 3½ tournaments in mid-summer of 1980. He went through 14 rounds with 13 of them being in the 60's and was 57-under-par.

One of those weeks ended in a victory, as he defeated Jim Simons on the sixth extra hole in the Sammy Davis, Jr.-Greater Hartford Open. In the others, he was second in the Greater Milwaukee Open, fifth in the Quad Cities Open, and, after the victory, he started 64-66 in the IVB-Philadelphia Classic but then the bubble burst.

Howard's first TOUR victory came the year before in the B. C. Open when he outplayed two close friends, Tom Purtzer and Doug Tewell on the 72nd hole. They were tied through 71, but Howard managed a par on the home hole and that gave him the victory.

One of the biggest men on the TOUR at six-feet-five, 210 pounds, he once was asked why he didn't concentrate on football. With a grin, he replied "I like to keep my blood in my body."

Twitty believes now that his ample physical proportions probably slowed his progress in golf at an early age. He started to play at age 10 but it wasn't until he was a senior in high school in Phoenix that his game started to develop.

"I was about 6'3" when I was a sophomore," he recalls, "and I was terrible. I guess I just needed time to catch up with my body. I didn't have the coordination that I needed."

As a sophomore and junior at Arizona State, Twitty really showed progress, however. He won the important Sunnehanna and Porter Cup amateur events and, when he was a senior, he finished right behind the co-champions of the NCAA championship, Ben Crenshaw and Tom Kite from the University of Texas.

Twitty turned pro in 1973 and twice failed in the PGA TOUR Qualifying School before meeting success in June, 1975. That was the same year he also won the Thailand Open during a second trip to the Far East circuit.

There's hardly a year that goes by without a rags-to-riches TOUR story and the 1989 version was the unlikely Chattanooga Classic champion, Stan Utley.

Utley, who had played in only a handful of TOUR events since leaving the University of Missouri in 1984, gained a sponsors exemption into the Chattanooga event on the strength of his victory the previous week in the Missouri Open, and took advantage of his opportunity by earning a one shot victory worth $90,000. More importantly, he also earned his TOUR card through 1991.

"It was the first sponsor exemption I'd ever gotten on TOUR and I was thrilled just to get one," said Utley. "Once I started playing, though, I knew I was on my game. Everything was set up for me to have a good week."

It was a good week, indeed. He opened with rounds of 69 and 66, but it wasn't until he completed his third round on Sunday morning of the rain plagued event in 64 shots that he could even think of winning. He began the final 18 five shots out of the lead, but after 16 holes he was one shot behind fast finishing Ray Stewart. He narrowly missed an eagle on the 17th and pulled even with Stewart and then struck a five-iron to 12 feet on number 18. With his wife and parents in the gallery, he coolly sank the 12-footer for the win.

"My wife and I were probably the calmest people around on the 18th," said Utley. "I can't explain it, but I was in total control. I tried to play like a person on the outside looking in."

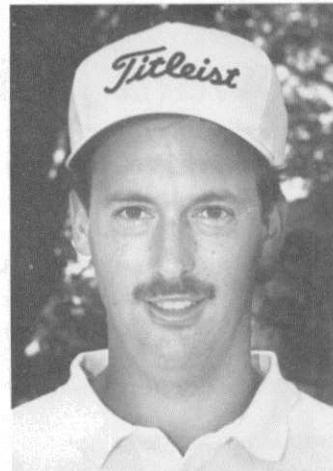

Utley had experienced success on the mini-tours winning several events including the Missouri Open in both 1988 and 1989 with record scores, but had suffered nothing but frustration at the PGA TOUR's annual Qualifying Tournament. He missed by a single shot of gaining his card in 1985 and advanced to the finals again in 1987 and 1988, but again missed earning his playing privileges.

"I knew I was making progress, though, I could see that I was getting better each year," said the native of Thayer, MO. "I was making money playing golf and I was close to getting my card every year."

A three-time All-Big Eight choice and two-time All-America for the Missouri Tigers, his early career highlights included a Missouri Junior title and the individual title at the BYU Cougar Classic where he set a tournament record. The top moment, however, came when his Missouri team topped Oklahoma State and Oklahoma to win the Big Eight title in 1984.

Stan began in the game at age nine learning from his father. He played other sports but realized at age 14 or 15 that golf was really his special ability although he dreamed of a pro basketball career.

The choice of golf for his future endeavors, though, looks like a good one and the future is very bright for Stan Utley.

Two-Time All-America selection. 1985 Academic All-America team. Named 1982 American Junior Golf Association Player-of-the-Year; 1984 Player-of-the Year by Golf Digest. Winner 1986 NCAA Championship.

By winning the 1988 Buick Open, Scott Verplank finally was able to put to rest the pressure of trying to win a PGA TOUR event as a professional. It had taken Verplank over two years to fulfill the expectations of most of the golfing world, after winning the 1985 Western Open as an amateur.

Scott fired four steady rounds of 66-66-70-66 to take the Buick title, and his 268 total tied him for the second best score ever at the Warwick Hills Country Club.

Since winning the Western Open, Verplank's professional play had not been what everyone expected. He had struggled through his first two seasons, and finished out of the top 125 money winners both years. Because of this he ended up losing his exemption for winning the Western, and he was forced to go to the Qualifying School for the first time. He survived the grueling ordeal and regained his playing privileges with a tie for sixth place.

However, 1988 started much the same as the two previous seasons as he found it difficult to put four good rounds together. In fact, before his victory at the Buick Open, he missed the cut in two of the previous four events he had entered.

Verplank then decided that he was going to play the game the way that he used to play it. In other words, just go out and have fun. He made a conscious effort to smile before and after every shot that he hit, regardless of how well the shot was played.

At the start of the final round, Verplank was tied with TOUR veteran Howard Twitty and old collegiate rival, Steve Elkington. However, the final round proved to be extremely good to Verplank, as he was able to capitalize on the rain-softened greens, while his counterparts would fall by the wayside.

Leading after three rounds was not exactly an unfamiliar position for Verplank, as he also led after three rounds in the 1985 Western Open. In his quest to become the first amateur to win a TOUR event since Gene Littler in 1954, Verplank captivated the golfing world with his coolness under pressure during the Western.

After a final round of 74 in the Western, Verplank was tied with veteran Jim Thorpe. In the ensuing playoff, both players parred the first extra hole, however on the second, Verplank's par was good enough for the victory.

Scott started to play golf at the age of nine. By the time that he was in high school, he knew that he wanted to play the game forever.

"I worked very hard at my game, because I really wanted to get a scholarship," said Verplank.

Bobby Wadkins goes about his business on the PGA TOUR without much fuss or fanfare. He occasionally will knock on the door of champions' room, but has had to be satisfied with walking away with a nice check instead.

While he has not won during his 16 years on the TOUR he has learned to live with it. He said not too long ago, "hopefully, I'm a late bloomer and my best years are still to come."

Even without the elusive victory, he has won well over $900,000 during the last four years as consolation.

Twice over the years he has lost titles in playoffs - in 1985 to Bernhard Langer in the MCI Heritage Classic and in 1979 to Lou Graham in the IVB-Philadelphia Classic. Graham came from six strokes behind the last day, shooting a 64 to catch him.

Overseas, he has been more successful and in strong events, too. He won the 1978 European Open and twice has captured the Dunlop Phoenix titles, in 1979 and 1986. That's one of the biggest tournaments in Japan.

As comfortable as he is on the golf course, however, he is even more so in a bass boat or hunting ducks and geese.

Bobby is approximately 20-months younger than his brother, Lanny, and while Lanny was more spectacular on the national amateur level and now during his years on the TOUR, they both were standouts in junior golf around their home territory of Richmond, Va.

They kept the city junior title in the family for six straight years, with Lanny winning four.

Through the years, Bobby and Lanny have worked on their games together, but a couple of years ago, Bobby went to Peter Kostis for extra help. The results have been dramatic.

After high school—where he also was a standout basketball player—Bobby headed for the University of Houston and his two closest friends there—and now—were Bill Rogers and Bruce Lietzke.

After one year, though, he transferred to East Tennessee State and earned All-American status in 1972 and 1973.

He earned his TOUR card in the Fall of 1974.

Lanny Wadkins surely will go down in golf history as one of the outstanding players of all time. He has compiled such a brilliant record that it is impossible to single out his greatest achievement. He has won the PGA Championship, THE PLAYERS Championship, and the World Series of Golf.

Seven times he has won at least two tournaments in the same season and, in 1985 when he won three times, he was named the PGA Player-of-the-Year. Through the years, he has won 18 times, played on six Ryder Cup teams and now is approaching $4 million in earnings.

Lanny's approach to the game is quite simple, really. He attacks the course constantly. "I've never thought of myself as being that aggressive," he has said, "but, everyone says I am, so I must be. It's the way I've always played and I get a big kick out of it."

A year ago, Lanny was off to a fine start with top 10 finishes in his first three starts but he wasn't able to continue the torrid pace.

He has had many great weeks, however, and his peers expect him to have many more. He won the 1977 PGA Championship in a playoff over Gene Littler at Pebble Beach; and later that summer, won the World Series in a marvelous performance at Firestone.

Two years later, when weather conditions bordered on the unplayable, with wind gusts up to 45 miles per hour, he won the Tournament Players Championship at Sawgrass with a 5-under par total of 283—five better than runner-up Tom Watson.

There are several stories about how James Joseph Waldorf earned the nickname "Duffy". One is that when he was quite small, he would tag along with his grandparents when they were playing golf and they started to call him "Little Duffer".

There hasn't been anything "little" about Duffy for many years, however, and that goes from his physique to his golf game.

He was a fine football player in high school but Duffy decided golf was more to his liking, especially after he was ranked as the No. 2 junior player in Southern California the summer after he graduated from high school.

He was given a partial scholarship to UCLA and he went all the way to becoming the "college player of the year" in 1985; gained All-America status and played for Uncle Sam on the Walker Cup team that summer.

As a sophomore, he was on the same squad as Corey Pavin, Steve Pate and Jay Delsing. Just before the start of his senior season, he won the California State Amateur.

At about that time, he started to think about making golf his career and playing on the TOUR. "It's a big step up," he said with a smile, "from college golf to the TOUR. Bigger than I realized. In college, there were about ten guys to beat each week. Out here there are 144."

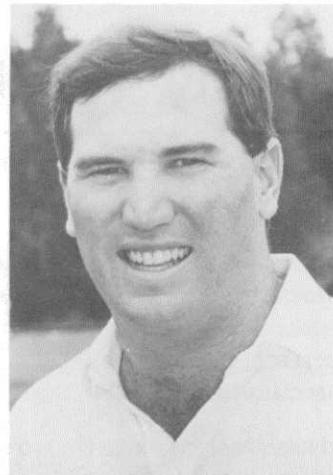

"It was a big adjustment for me because I wasn't used to having guys beat me," he continued. "I was having a hard time concentrating on what I had to do. That's something I was able to do (last year) and it made the difference."

It was evident that he became more comfortable with the TOUR as the season progressed. He started to put better rounds together and the Greater Milwaukee Open in early September became an important week.

He was able to carry his good play all the way through with four rounds under par—three in the 60's—and he tied for seventh place. He won $21,657 and that put him at what he believed to be the "safe" figure to make the top 125 exempt list.

"It was a great feeling," he said, "one I've never enjoyed before." Now able to relax a little, he tied for 12th at the Bank of Boston Classic and tied for third at the Texas Open Presented by Nabisco where he had a second round of 63. That was his best ever TOUR finish, but the check for $31,200 represented his largest in his first three years on the TOUR.

Oh, yes, the colorful flowered hats. "My wife saw them in the pro shop at Wood Ranch (CA) just before Greensboro," he explained. "She thought they would look good on me and bought a couple."

When Denis Watson was asked to give an assessment of his performance in 1984, he smiled and said, "It was an incredible result to a lot of hard work; a couple of years of hard work."

He joined Tom Watson as the only three-time winner on the PGA TOUR in 1984; came within a whisker of winning PGA Player-of-the-Year honors; and finished fourth on the money list with $408,562. Compare that, if you will, with his 1983 total of $59,284, which was his previous best.

Actually, his brilliant performance was centered on three tournaments in a seven-week span late in the summer. He broke through with a victory in the Buick Open, thanks to a 63-68 finish.

After he was 33rd in the PGA Championship, he won the NEC World Series of Golf at Firestone Country Club. He shot a course record 8-under-par 62 the second day and stayed in front the rest of the way to collect a check for $126,000. He missed the cut in his next two outings, and then won the TOUR's richest payoff of $162,000 in the Panasonic-Las Vegas Invitational.

While he enjoyed a good season in 1985, he said, "I was within a couple of shots of an unbelievable year." True enough. He finished tied for second in the U.S. Open, just one stroke behind Andy North. Trying to defend his World Series of Golf title, he was tied with Roger Maltbie after three rounds, but Roger shot an exceptional 66 the last day to win it and Denis finished second.

Injuries in three of the last four seasons have slowed his progress, but an operation last summer should put him on the road to recovery as he prepares for the 1990 season.

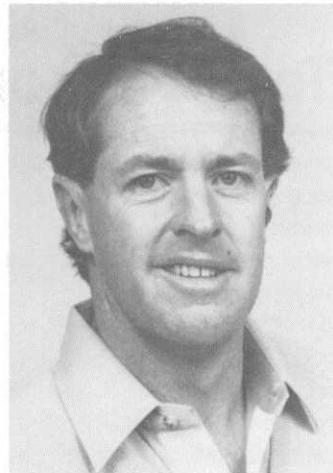

There were several factors that boosted him into prominence. First of all, he has been working for several years with David Leadbetter on his golf swing; and has worked on the mental aspects of the game with Dr. Bob Rotella of the University of Virginia. He gives them both considerable credit.

Denis earned his TOUR card in the Spring of 1981.

His father started him in the game when they lived in Rhodesia. He was 14-years old at the time, and two years later, his handicap was down to a one. "That's when I started to think about turning professional!"

He played all sports, including cricket, rugby, tennis and competed in track and field, but golf was his love, no doubt about it. He turned pro when he was 19.

"Gary Player and Dale Hayes said I should give the TOUR a try," Watson said. "Then Gil Morgan told me he thought my game was well suited for the American courses and even Howard Twitty encouraged me to come over here. So, I did."

Tom Watson's position as one of the all-time greats in the history of golf is unquestioned. For many years, he was the dominant player in the game. The fact that he was the PGA Player-of-the-Year a record six times and the leading money winner five times attests to that.

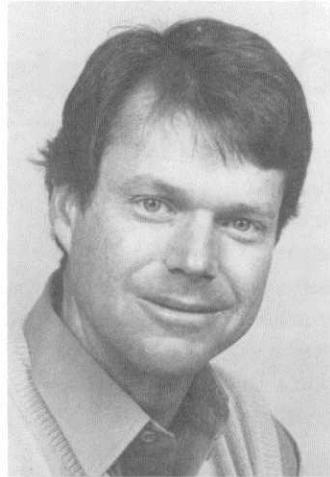

He has won five British Opens, two Masters Tournaments and one United States Open. He has won 32 times on the PGA TOUR.

As long as the game is played Tom will be remembered for the brilliantly-executed pitch shot he made from off the 17th green at Pebble Beach in the 1982 United States Open.

As you recall, his two iron off the tee on the par three hole bounced in heavy rough on the left side of the green. He was tied with Nicklaus, who already had completed his round. Par seemed the absolute best Tom could do. Instead, he hit the perfect shot, and holed it for a birdie two. He went on to birdie the last hole and win his first Open by two over Nicklaus.

In 1987, he nearly won his second Open, but lost by one stroke to Scott Simpson at the Olympic Club. Possibly, the sweetest victory came in the fall of 1987 in the Nabisco Championships in San Antonio, TX. He was vintage Watson as he led the way to capture the $360,000 winner's check. As he said, "I'm probably the happiest man in the world today." He lost the 1988 NEC World Series of Golf in a playoff to Mike Reid.

His biggest year was in 1980 when he won six times on TOUR, plus the British Open, and won a record $530,808. He was the first player to break the half-million dollar mark.

D. A. Weibring is one of the more popular players in the game, so anytime he works his way into contention, he has a lot of people pulling for him.

That certainly was the case at the rain-shortened 1987 Beatrice Western Open when he turned back the challenge of Larry Nelson and Greg Norman to win by a stroke. Over the years, he has shown an ability to do well in the more significant championships. He finished second to Calvin Peete in the 1985 Tournament Players Championship. It took a final round of 6-under-par 66 by Peete to beat him. D.A.'s 11-under-par 277 was worth $97,200.

He tied for fourth in the PGA Championship three years ago and was tied for third in the 1987 PGA, just one stroke out of the Nelson-Lanny Wadkins playoff. Last year, he finished tied for third in the U.S. Open and was fifth in the Western.

He also is sprouting out into the business world and has joined with a few friends to form Golf Resources, Inc. The company will work in the areas of marketing, promotion, consulting and assisting in the development of courses.

D. A. has had his good years but he also has suffered through a few, too, because of injuries. He injured his left wrist at the 1983 Phoenix Open. He said, "I never could get going, even though I tried to play with it." Finally, he had to take two months off in the early spring.

The setback was frustrating since he was coming off his best money year, winning $117,941 in 1982, and anticipated even greater returns in 1983.

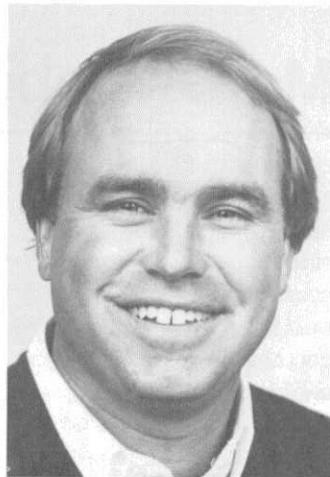

His first victory came in the 1979 Quad Cities Open. He was tied with Calvin Peete through 14 holes the last day, but D. A. took charge at the par five 15th, registering an eagle and taking the lead to stay.

It was a popular victory. A graduate of Illinois State University, D. A. had a number of his followers from his hometown of Quincy, IL, there to cheer him on. He said, "If I had to pick a place to win my first tournament, the Quad Cities would be it."

In the 1980 Andy Williams San Diego Open, he fired a final round 65 to tie Tom Watson, but Watson went on to win on the first extra hole.

He explained how the use of his initials came about.

My father's name also is Donald Albert, and when I was a youngster, Mom decided she didn't want me to be called 'Little Don,' or 'Junior,' so she started to call me D. A. It has been with me ever since."

Mark Wiebe has become one of the solid players in the game and, at his current rate of progress, there appears to be no limit to what he can accomplish.

After a relatively poor rookie season in 1984, he came on strong in 1985 to win the Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic in a playoff over John Mahaffey. He won the 1986 Hardee's Golf Classic with rounds of 69, 65, 66, and 68 for a 12-under-par 268.

It was a good year in 1986 for other reasons, too. He had four rounds in the 60s as he finished second in the Byron Nelson Classic and tied for third place in the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am. His earnings, obviously, increased significantly.

"The best part of the year was in September," he said. "That's when Taylor Lynn was born and she is a special one for us."

His victory in the Anheuser-Busch Classic came after he three-putted the final hole for a bogey and dropped back into a tie with Mahaffey. On the first extra hole, however, he ended it quickly with a long birdie putt.

Two years ago, he nearly won the Anheuser-Busch Classic again. A third round 64 put him in position and then a final round 68 gave him a tie with Tom Sieckmann at 14-under par 270. Unfortunately for Mark, Tom won the playoff with a par on the second extra hole. A few other strong finishes helped him to his best money year.

A two-time high school player of the year, Wiebe attended Palomar Junior College in California and won the state junior college title before going on to star at San Jose State.

Upon leaving the Spartans for whom he earned All-America honors, he decided to join the PGA TOUR. He would be frustrated in his attempts more than once, but finally made it at the Fall, 1983 Qualifying Tournament.

His rookie year, though, was like that of many other newcomers to the world of the PGA TOUR, a disappointment. He earned only $16,257 and finished 166th on the Official Money list and once again had to return to the Qualifying Tournament.

A solid fourth place finish in the 1985 Q-Tournament allowed Wiebe to play in a number of early season events, but it was not until his fourth place finish at Westchester at mid-season that he collected a big check. One month later he claimed his victory and his future was set.

A considerable part of the credit, he says, goes to Carl Welty of the LaCosta staff.

Every year on the PGA TOUR there are storybook tales and in 1987, Robert Wrenn was the author of one of them.

The year started slowly for Robert and by mid-summer, he only had a little more than $15,000 in earnings for the year. He entered the Buick Open, almost unnoticed.

An opening round of 7-under-par 65 drew him a little attention. His second round of 9-under-par 63 tied the course record and people sat up and took notice that this young man could indeed play the game.

Still, though, many expected the 27-year old to fade under the pressure of the weekend. They were wrong, very wrong.

A third round score of 67 put him at 21-under-par 195 for 54 holes and eliminated virtually any doubt that here was the tournament winner. He started the final round with a six-shot lead and quickly extended it with birdies on two of the first three holes. He then took dead aim at the PGA TOUR's All-Time record of 27-under par for 72 holes.

A birdie on the 17th hole got him to 26-under and he hung a chip for birdie on the lip on the final hole to finish at 262 and win by seven shots over his nearest competitor. He collected $108,000 for his efforts, over $30,000 more than he had won in his first two and a half years alone.

Last year he played brilliantly in the Las Vegas Invitational and his 24-under-par 336 for the five rounds put him into a tie with Scott Hoch. Unfortunately for Robert, Scott birdied the fifth extra hole to win it. However, Robert collected $135,000 for finishing second.

An 8-under-par 62 in the final round of the 1988 Texas Open last year let him finish second alone to Corey Pavin.

Robert was a third-year professional out of Wake Forest when he first made it in the TOUR's Qualifying Tournament in the fall of 1984. He had a moderately-successful first year but struggled in his second year of 1986. It was all part of the learning experience.

Robert (it is Robert, not Bob) was introduced to the game at age 12 by his father Bob (his mother is Bobbie) and he eventually progressed well enough to earn a scholarship to Wake Forest where he earned a degree in Communications in 1981.

Robert started to work with Scott Davenport of Sea Island in 1986 and David Leadbetter in mid-1987 and he credits them for his improved play.

Fuzzy Zoeller is regarded as one of the outstanding players in the game. A United States Open Championship crown and a Masters Tournament title are enough to insure his place in history. His position as one of the game's all-time personalities and favorite of the galleries is unquestioned.

Few people, however, really know what Fuzzy has had to endure to reach such a lofty status; or have stopped to wonder how much greater his impressive record would be if he had been healthy all these years.

Those close to him knew of his back problems, but it wasn't until the week of the 1984 PGA Championship at Shoal Creek, AL, that the sports world became aware.

He arrived in Shoal Creek amid a torrent of publicity because of his performance in winning the U.S. Open a few weeks earlier at Winged Foot. In the Open, he was tied with Greg Norman after 72 holes, and the next day, he won the 18-hole playoff by eight strokes, 67 to 75.

The morning he was to play his first round in the PGA, his back was so painful he barely could move. He was rushed to the hospital and remained there for nearly a week.

A month later, he was in Las Vegas to defend his title in the Panasonic Invitational, but his back condition worsened and he went to the Hospital for Special Surgery in New York City. The diagnosis was that a "couple of discs had ruptured." Fortunately, surgery was necessary.

Fuzzy was back on TOUR in 1985 for the Doral-Eastern Open at the end of February. He was delighted to tie for 46th place. The next week, he tied for 20th in the Honda Classic and then he won the Hertz Bay Hill Classic by shooting 66-67 the last two days.

"The back problem started when I was playing high school basketball," he explains. "I was submarined and the back has bothered me from time-to-time ever since."

Fuzzy was back with a vengeance in 1986 winning three times.

Fuzzy blossomed as a superstar in 1979 when he won the Andy Williams San Diego Open and also the Masters Tournament.

TOM KITE WINS SECOND PALMER AWARD

Tom Kite earned his second Arnold Palmer Award as he set the PGA TOUR record for money won in a single year with $1,395,287 in 1989.

Kite had previously won the award in 1981, the year of its inception. Kite joins Curtis Strange as the only players to win the award more than once. Strange has won the award three times.

Kite's $1,395,378 betters the old mark of $1,147,644 set by Strange last season.

The trophy, a bronze casting of "Arnie," will be awarded to Kite for the second time at the PGA TOUR's National Awards Dinner in early January.

Past recipients of the award include Craig Stadler (1982), Hal Sutton, (1983), Tom Watson (1984), Curtis Strange (1985, 1987, 1988) and Greg Norman (1986).

MERRILL LYNCH SHOOT-OUT SERIES

A real winner in its first three seasons, the Merrill Lynch Shoot-Out Series will return bigger and better than ever in 1990.

A 10-man competition covering nine holes of play, the Merrill Lynch Shoot-Out Series will be held at 19 different PGA TOUR events in 1990 with the top players collecting $3,000 from the $10,200 purse.

What is a Shoot-Out? The format is easy to understand and a pleasure to watch. Ten players begin and end on each hole, and the player with the highest score is dropped from the field. Should ties exist, a sudden death playoff is held requiring each of the players involved to execute a pitch shot, a chip or a long putt. The player farthest from the hole is eliminated.

The field for each Shoot-Out consists of that tournament's defending champion, the six leading money winners entered into that tournament and three sponsor selections.

At season's end, a Shoot-Out championship will be held (date and place TBA) in which 10 players will vie for $250,000 in prize money, with $90,000 going to the winner. Chip Beck won the title last year at The Melrose Club on Daufuskie Island, SC.

The field for the final competition consists of the top five money winners on the 1990 PGA TOUR Official Money List, the top three money winners from the season-long Shoot-Out Series and two sponsor selections.

The 1990 Merrill Lynch Shoot-Out Series Competition's will be held on the Tuesday of tournament week.

THE VARDON TROPHY

The Vardon Trophy is awarded each year by the PGA of America to the PGA TOUR player who posts the season's best scoring average. The system was amended in 1988 to allow all TOUR members to compete for the prestigious award provided they have played in 60 rounds. The new system also uses an "adjusted" score for purposes of computing the scoring average. The adjusted score is computed based upon the average score of the field at each tournament. As a result, a player's adjusted score may be higher or lower than his actual score. For example, a player shoots 70 each day at a tournament while the field average was 73. His 280 total would then be adjusted to 268 since he actually played 12 shots better than the field did during the tournament. The Vardon Trophy is a bronze colored plaque measuring 39" by 27".

Each year the PGA of America honors the TOUR's leading player by presenting him with the PGA Player of the Year Award.

The award now is made on the basis of playing record for the year. Points are awarded on the following basis: 30 points to winner of Masters, U.S. Open, British Open, PGA Championship. 20 points to winner of THE PLAYERS Championship, NEC World Series of Golf. 10 points to winners of all other co-sponsored or approved events. Points also awarded to top 10 on the year's money list and top 10 on year's scoring average list (20 for first, 18 for second, 16 for third, etc. down to 2 for 10th).

RYDER CUP MATCHES

The Ryder Cup Matches developed from a match played between representatives of the American and British Professional Golfers' Association in England in 1926. That unofficial match, incidentally, was won by the British 13½ to 1½.

Following this highly successful exhibition, Samuel A. Ryder, a wealthy British seed merchant, offered to donate a solid gold trophy bearing his name to be competed for in a series of matches between professionals of the two nations.

From the start of the series through the 1959 Ryder Cup matches, the competition was comprised of four foursome matches one day and eight singles matches the other day, each at 36 holes.

In 1961, the format was changed to provide for four 18-hole foursomes the morning of the first day and four more that afternoon, then for eight 18-hole singles the morning of the second day and eight more that afternoon. As in the past, one point was at stake in each match, so the total number of points was doubled.

In 1963, for the first time, a day of four-ball matches augmented the program to add new interest to the overall competition. This brought the total number of points to 32.

In 1977, the format was altered once again. This time there were five foursomes on the opening day, five four-ball matches on the second day, and ten singles matches on the final day. This reduced the total number of points to 20.

For 1979, eligibility for the Great Britain-Ireland side was expanded to include all British PGA/European TPD members who are residents of European nations.

The 1991 Ryder Cup Matches will be played September 26-29, 1991 at Kiawah Island, SC.

THE RYDER CUP

The USA PGA squad selection is based upon an accumulation of Ryder Cup points from the beginning of the calendar year 1989 through the 1991 PGA Championship. The top ten point-getters qualify for the 12 man team. The 1991 PGA Champion, provided he meets eligibility requirements, is also an automatic team member. Then the U.S. Captain will select one additional player to complete the team. If the 1991 PGA Champion is currently among the top ten point-getters then the captain will pick another player to complete the team.

Points are awarded to the first ten positions in each PGA TOUR event on the following basis:
PGA Championship, U. S. Open, Masters and the British Open: 1st-125; 2nd-90; 3rd-80; 4th-70;
5th-60; 6th-50; 7th-40; 8th-30; 9th-20; 10th-10.

All other PGA TOUR events: 1st-75; 2nd-45; 3rd-40; 4th-35; 5th-30; 6th-25; 7th-20; 8th-15; 9th-10; 10th-5.

If a player who is ineligible finishes in one of those positions, no points are awarded for that position. In order to be eligible, a player must be a U.S. citizen and a member of the PGA of America.

MEDIA REGULATIONS

The General Regulations

The following regulations are to be followed by all members of the Media:

1. An ARMBAND is necessary to walk inside the galley ropes. Remain not more than an arm's length from the ropes, so as to blend into the gallery and appear to be a part of the gallery at all times.
2. Players are not to be distracted during play. DO NOT interview players or ask them to pose for photographs during their round.
3. DO NOT interview players or ask them to pose for photographs during their practice sessions prior to their round except by prior arrangement with the player.
4. If an interview is to be conducted in the practice areas, either the range or the putting green, it must be done by PRIOR ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PLAYER and up against the ropes and NOT in the middle of the areas where it could be distracting to other players.
5. DO NOT disturb players at their 18th green and/or scoring tent until after they have checked, signed and returned their scorecards.

Working Press Regulations

To avoid embarrassment to you and distraction to the contestants:

1. Do not walk or stand in playing areas.
2. Follow directions of marshals and other officials.
3. Do not interview during play. The leading players each day—and others requested—will be interviewed following their rounds in the Press Room interview area.

Tape Recorder Regulations

1. All tape recorder work should be done in the proximity of the Press Room and/or Clubhouse.
2. Tape recorders are NOT permitted in the locker room.
3. Tape recorders are NOT permitted within the playing area of the golf course unless written permission has been granted from the PGA TOUR and/or the tournament sponsor.

Rain Delay Guidelines

1. During rain delay situations, NO ONE other than players and essential staff will be permitted in the locker room. This means the Media is not permitted in the locker room in such situations. However, whenever possible, arrangements will be made to provide players for interviews during such situations.
2. Fully accredited members of the news media WILL BE WELCOMED into the locker room at all other times to carry out their assigned duties. (Note: Cameras and tape recorders are NOT permitted.)

PHOTOGRAPHY REGULATIONS

This Tournament is essentially for the players and spectators. Fair play requires that there be no noise or other distractions. The interests of all others must be subordinated to the players interests. The result of any one shot could decide the Tournament.

Only ACCREDITED PHOTOGRAPHERS for RECOGNIZED NEWS MEDIA will be permitted to take pictures during the Tournament. Photo assistants may be issued a credential, but not photo arm bands for access inside the ropes. Photography will be restricted to news use. Commercial and personal photography is prohibited (except that spectators may take pictures on practice days and during a Pro-Am). Free lance photographers shooting on speculation will NOT BE ACCREDITED.

The following regulations apply to accredited news and television photographers and videotape cameramen as a condition of the privilege of taking pictures:

General—All Photographers

A photographer must not ask a player to pose or in any way verbally distract a player during a round.

If a player or an official requests that no photographs be taken in a certain situation, the request must be honored immediately, without discussion.

A camera must not be pointed at a player about to make a stroke in any manner which might tend to distract him or distract his attention.

At the 9th and the 18th greens, photographers must not approach, delay or distract a player until he has checked, signed and returned his scorecard to the proper official. Under the Rules of Golf, a player turning in an incorrect scorecard in stroke play may be disqualified.

Cameras are not permitted in the locker room.

Use of golf carts or other means of transportation on the course during tournament play is prohibited.

Still Photographers

Only still photographers to whom armbands have been issued will be permitted inside gallery ropes. They must station themselves immediately inside such ropes, and not more than an ARM'S LENGTH FROM THE ROPES, so as to blend into the gallery and appear to be part of the gallery. They must not take conspicuous positions in the open. Any photographer who violates this regulation will forfeit the right to working inside the ropes and possibly to work at the tournament.

Close-up action shots are prohibited.

All pictures must be taken at appreciable distances, as far from the players as possible and from angles which are not acute to the line of play.

When working at a green, photographers must not position themselves directly in a player's putting line.

Pictures, even from a distance, may not be made until the player has completed his stroke. The photographer must not release his camera shutter until the shot is made.

Television/Videotape Cameramen

Television and videotape filming may be done from inside the gallery ropes, or from areas approved by the PGA TOUR. All camera personnel who have been issued PHOTO armbands will be permitted inside the gallery lines but this does not include other members of the crew. Camera personnel must station themselves immediately inside the gallery lines, not more than an arm's length from those lines, so as to blend into the gallery. They must not take conspicuous positions in the open.

Filming may be done from such locations during a player's stroke, provided modern equipment that produces a minimum of noise is used.

Post-round interviews must be filmed far enough away from the arena of play to eliminate the possibility of distraction to those competing.

Difficulties will be avoided if photographers are fair and will treat players as they themselves would wish to be treated in similar circumstances.

The cooperation of all photographers will be appreciated.

Official Golf Destinations

The PGA TOUR helps golfers find top golf vacation travel spots. Our "Official Golf Destination" program points up quality golf vacations for travelers at all levels of golfing skill.

British Columbia is the PGA TOUR's newest official golf destination. This lovely province in Western Canada offers fine golf in both ocean and mountain settings.

Water sports aren't the only lures in The Bahamas. Golf is an important part of a Grand Bahama Island and Nassau/Cable Beach/Paradise Island vacation. Five top golf resorts receive advice on golf course care from PGA TOUR Agronomy Service. Here, excellent courses join forces with quality resorts for a complete golf getaway.

Puerto Rico offers great golf, a great Caribbean vacation, and tournament play as well. In December 1990, Puerto Rico hosts the New York Life Champions Classic at the Hyatt Dorado Beach. This season-ending event on the Senior PGA TOUR will be televised by ABC and ESPN. The top 30 Senior money-winners for the year will vie for $1 million in prize money.

Florida's First Coast is greater Jacksonville. The area is golf-rich, including such places as Ponte Vedra and Amelia Island Resort. The First Coast is home base for PGA TOUR Headquarters and PGA TOUR Productions, which moved here from New York in late 1989. The area hosts THE PLAYERS Championship at the TPC at Sawgrass. Jacksonville is also the site of the new Golf Club of Jacksonville, the first PGA TOUR public golf facility.

Travel Partners

Delta Air Lines is the "official airline of the PGA TOUR." Delta promotes general air travel to golf destinations. TOUR members and staff receive special air fares. PGA TOUR activities appear in Delta's Sky magazine. All Delta timetables feature Regular and Senior PGA TOUR schedules. And Delta keeps its Frequent Flyers updated on a variety of PGA TOUR activities.

Golfers and fans often look for leisure and luxury in vacation travel. Royal Caribbean Cruise Line is the "official cruise line of the PGA TOUR." The "Golf Ahoy!" program is good for TOUR golfers and tourists alike. Host Golf Professionals may earn a cruise for two in exchange for teaching golf to cruise passengers. In February 1990, the company begins sponsorship of the Royal Caribbean Classic. This Senior event in Key Biscayne, FL, is televised on ESPN.

When the plane lands or the boat docks, golfers turn to National Car Rental System. The PGA TOUR's "official car rental company" offers good rental rates on cars to TOUR members and staff. National also supplies cars for THE PLAYERS Championship. The company publicizes its TOUR connection in its Emerald Club Newsletter for frequent renters.

■National Car Rental

Marriott, "official hotel and resort of the PGA TOUR," is where golfers hang their hats and lay their heads. PGA TOUR members, headquarters staff, and sponsors receive corporate hotel rates. Marriott also offers special bonus points under its "Honored Guest" program.

On-Site Marketing Partners

Along with RJR/Nabisco, a wide variety of other companies have joined forces with the PGA TOUR. These companies trade their goods and services for exposure to golf's fans and players.

Epson America, the computer company, works closely with RJR/Nabisco on the electronic scoreboards. Epson provides the computers to operate the scoreboards during TOUR events. In addition, Epson compiles the Nabisco Stats on the Regular PGA TOUR and the Vantage Stats on the Senior TOUR. These programs decide who will play in the Regular and Senior TOUR Epson Stats matches, televised at the end of each season. Epson also supplies PGA TOUR Headquarters with personal computers for daily business activities.

Merrill Lynch sponsors the popular Merrill Lynch Shoot-Outs at Regular and Senior TOUR events. This 10-man, nine-hole, elimination event culminates in a year-end Finals competition. The Shoot-Out is a real fan-pleaser wherever it appears.

Gatorade sponsors a series of Youth Clinics during Regular TOUR events. Here touring pros take time out from their competitive schedule to share their knowledge and experience (and maybe a few laughs, too) with the golfers of tomorrow.

Buick Motor Division is a long-time marketing partner and "official car of the PGA TOUR." The Buick Open celebrated its 25th year as a Regular TOUR event in 1989. In 1990, Buick adds the Buick Classic to the events it sponsors. The company also provides courtesy cars for most Regular PGA TOUR events.

Cadillac Motor Division is our new automotive partner on the Senior TOUR. The company becomes umbrella sponsor of a series of ESPN-television events on the Senior PGA TOUR known as the Cadillac Series. Also, Cadillac furnishes cars for players and staff at many Senior TOUR events.

Two other companies tend to the needs of the news people who cover PGA TOUR events. Nikon, the "official camera," operates a Camera Consultation Area at many tournaments. The company offers help to professional golf photographers, many of whom choose to use Nikon equipment.

Eastman Kodak, the "official copier and film products company," sponsors Media Rooms for photographers at many events. Kodak also furnishes TOUR Headquarters with copiers and film supplies.

Other PGA TOUR marketing partners supply special services during PGA TOUR events on the Regular and Senior TOURs.

MCI Communications sponsors the MCI Heritage Classic on the Regular PGA TOUR. At tournaments, MCI provides free long-distance telephone service to the players' locker rooms. This service has been a feature on the Regular PGA TOUR for some time. In 1990, MCI extends that service to players on the Senior TOUR. MCI also provides a discount on long-distance Calling Cards to Regular and Senior TOUR members.

United Van Lines changes its tournament activity for 1990. Last year the company sponsored Senior TOUR golf clinics. This year, it has begun a program to provide promotional golf posters to both Regular and Senior TOUR events.

Finally, two top golf magazines print special inserts in their publications to help fans keep up with PGA TOUR events. Golf Digest publishes Senior TOUR Journal in its February issue, and distributes the insert at Senior TOUR events. TV Picture also appears twice each year as a Golf Digest insert.

Golf Magazine covers Regular TOUR events in TOUR Magazine. The insert appears in the January issue, and as a handout at most Regular PGA TOUR events. This year Golf Magazine also covers the Ben Hogan Tour, and distributes its supplement at Hogan Tour tournaments.

Other Marketing Partners

The PGA TOUR's upscale golf audience attracts all kinds of businesses to its sport.

Philips Consumer Electronics is a new partner this year, the "preferred consumer electronics company." Philips offers players and staff special prices on audio and video products. It is one of the largest companies of its kind in the world. Philips' inventions include the audio cassette, compact disc player, and laser optical video disc. The company also manufactures and markets Magnavox and Sylvania brands in the U.S.

If you like computer games, you'll like Electronic Arts, another new licensee of the PGA TOUR. The company will make and sell a state-of-the-art computer golf game. The scene? TPC golf courses. The challenge? A chance to shoot it out on your own computer against top PGA TOUR players.

Doubleday has joined forces with the PGA TOUR to publish the TOUR's first hard-cover book, The History of the PGA TOUR. The book was written by Al Barkow, noted golf historian, with a foreword by Commissioner Deane Beman. Packed with information about the TOUR and its players, the book is now available at bookstores across the country.

Carrera Sunglasses, made by Optyl Eyewear Fashion International, are "the official sports glasses of the PGA TOUR." Each player on both TOURs receives a free pair of Carrera glasses every year.

Ram Golf manufacturers the PGA TOUR clothing line. This leader in the golf equipment industry distributes TOUR clothing to golf shops around the world.

MasterCard International, through MBNA America, offers a unique credit card with a photo of the 17th hole at Sawgrass. Players and fans may apply for the card. The PGA TOUR and PGA of America donate all royalties to charity. In 1989, this added up to over $100,000 in charity dollars.

Karastan Bigelow is the "official carpet of the PGA TOUR." Its floor coverings are used in the clubhouses of the Tournament Players Club network, and Karastan offers excellent discounts on carpet purchases to TOUR members and staff.

ASAHI GLASS WORLD MONEY LIST

The Asahi Glass World Money List consists of all official money won in each of the four participating golf circuits (U.S. PGA TOUR, PGA European Tour, Japan PGA, Australia/New Zealand PGA Tour).

The Asahi Glass World Money List was initially formulated as a qualification vehicle for the 1985 World Championship of Golf. It has become evident since then, however, that the list provides a standard by which world-class players could be compared, regardless of whether or not they competed regularly in head-to-head competition.

Since the initial list was compiled, many have come to believe that this list will ultimately become the world standard for judging professional golfers' performances on an international basis.

The 1990 Asahi Glass World Money List will be compiled from Sept. 1, 1989 through August 30, 1990 in order to best accommodate the various start and finish times of the four circuits involved. On the PGA TOUR, the 1990 Asahi Glass World Money List will end at the NEC World Series of Golf and the Chattanooga Classic on Aug. 26, 1990.

The 1990 Asahi Glass Four Tours World Championship of Golf will be held November 1-4, 1990 at a site to be announced.

SONY WORLD RANKINGS

Originally formulated in 1986, the Sony World Rankings received PGA TOUR Board approval for the first time this year after the Sony Advisory Committee, at the request of the TOUR, agreed to a series of modifications to the system.

The rankings are compiled each week following the conclusion of all world events. The top finishers in these events are awarded points according to their respective finish. Since the Sony World Rankings employ a rolling three-year period weighted in favor of the most recent play, points accumulated over the current 52-week period are multiplied by four, points earned over the previous 52-week period are doubled and points from the first 52-week block are simply added to the total.

Each player then is ranked according to his point average which is earned by dividing his final number of points by the number of starts he has made over that three-year period. A player must, however, play in at least 20 events per annum. Should he play in less, his divisor will still be 20.

After this process is completed, the top 100 players are listed with ratings points being assigned each position. The number one player receives 65 points, the runnerup 60 and so on down to the players from 76-100 who earn one point apiece.

One of the new changes for 1990 provides that virtually all tournaments will be weighted solely on the strength of their respective fields. Each event will total the number of ratings earned by the top 100 players from the Sony list in its field. A sliding scale has been created to reflect the number of points each tournament will award to top finishers according to the strength of its starting field. For example, a tournament winner from the strongest field possible will earn 50 points (x4) while a winner from a moderately strong field would take home something more in the line of 25-30 points (x4).

Since the 1990 season will begin with players already ranked according to the old method, the rankings will not completely reflect the changes that have been made. However, the TOUR is comfortable with the new system in that it will provide a usable method of comparison of players from around the world, and gradually reflect the TOUR's requested changes.

The rankings will be available each week at TOUR sites. The current top 25 as 1990 begins:

Position	Player	Points Average	Position	Player	Points Average
1	Greg Norman	17.78	14	Sandy Lyle	9.37
2	Nick Faldo	16.25	15	Fred Couples	8.85

4	Curtis Strange	13.79	17	Ben Crenshaw	8.31

GATORADE TO SPONSOR YOUTH CLINICS AGAIN IN 1990

One of the goals of the PGA TOUR is to foster growth in the sport of golf. One of the main ways of insuring the game's future is to develop interest in golf with the youngsters of this country.

Toward that end, Gatorade will sponsor 20 youth clinics at PGA TOUR events in 1990 designed to promote interest in the game and develop in the youngsters an appreciation of the sport that will grow into a life-long participation in golf.

At each Gatorade Youth Clinic, the youngsters in attendance will receive instruction from a PGA TOUR member who will demonstrate the basics of the game while providing an entertaining talk. In addition, clubs will be distributed to the participants, as well as a free copy of the PGA TOUR's Trading Cards and other assorted prizes.

Over the past several years, the Gatorade Youth Clinics have entertained thousands of young people and have developed in many of them the interest to become an active participant in the game.
